SEEK SURVIVORS

Meanwhile, planes from the RCAF base at Bagotville, Que., are still seeking survivors of the crash of a T-33 twin jet last Thursday night. The interceptor collided with another plane and disappeared.

The RCAF announced Saturday that one of the two airmen in the CF-100, FO William Ness of Bearden, P. E. I., is believed dead. The other airman was FO J. L. Graham, 23, of Brantford, Ont.

ALL SMILES AFTER SEEKING EISENHOWER

Von Cramm 6th Hubby For Barbara Hutton

PARIS (AP)—Dime-store heiress Barbara Hutton slipped out to sidy urban Versailles today and married her sixth husband, the one time German tennis star, Baron Gottfreid von Cramm.

They were married before only two witnesses in a simple civil ceremony at the city hall.

Miss Hutton, 42, arrived in Paris on Sept. 29. Her divorce from Formie Rubirosa became final on July 30. They were married on Dec. 30, 1953, and separated 10 weeks later.

MAKING LOANS is part of our everyday business

Lending money for many different purposes is a major function of the Royal Bank, so it is only natural to come to us when you wish to borrow. A loan from the "Royal" usually costs less . . . sometimes substantially less . . . than one from other types of lending institutions.

The maximum rate of interest on Personal Loans, for instance, is 6% on the unpaid balance. You do not have to be a depositor to borrow from the Royal Bank. We often make loans to people who have had no previous dealings with us.

Table shows how little it costs to arrange a Personal Loan from the Royal Bank:

WHEN YOU BORROW	FOR	YOU RECEIVE IN CASH	THE LOAN COSTS YOU	EACH MONTH YOU REPAY
$25	6 Months	$ 24.50	$ .50*	$ 4.17
	12 Months	24.21	.79	2.09
			*Administration Charge
$50	6 Months	$ 49.14	$ .86	$ 8.34
	12 Months	48.42	1.58	4.17
	18 Months	47.73	2.27	2.78
$100	6 Months	$ 98.28	$ 1.72	$16.67
	12 Months	96.85	3.15	8.34
	18 Months	95.46	4.54	5.56
	24 Months	94.11	5.89	4.17
$200	6 Months	$196.56	$ 3.44	$33.34
	12 Months	193.70	6.30	16.67
	18 Months	190.93	9.07	11.12
	24 Months	188.23	11.77	8.34

Monthly payments calculated to nearest cent.

Other types of loans, of particular interest to individuals, are available through the Royal Bank at very reasonable rates:

N.H.A. Mortgage Loans to finance new home construction.

Home Improvement Loans to repair, alter or extend existing homes.

BACTERIA NOW LOVE PENICILLIN?

Used to be an old song which proclaimed: "The love bug will get you if you don't watch out."

Nobody really worried much about that, because "if it gets you you will sing and shout" and singing and shouting are reasonably interesting ways of whiling away the time.

There are other bugs, though, which influence our activities in a way not so pleasant. It was a grateful world, therefore, that watched penicillin and its allies roll back the bacteria and provide protection from bugs of this nature.

Mankind settled down in the happy belief that, at worst, all the suffering the invasion of his system by a wide variety of bacteria would involve would be the prick of the penicillin needle.

Now, alas, there are signs that the bacteria are counter-attacking in earnest.

The assault is much more serious than we at first believed, if we are to accept the findings of one scientist. Quite early in the game, there was evidence that some bacteria were developing strains immune to penicillin and the sulfa drugs. Now, however, there is more than immunity involved. Not only may the day come when present-day antibiotics have no magic left, but there is some evidence to suggest that already the use of antibiotics may be increasing, rather than reducing, the ratio of disease.

This unpleasant possibility has arisen as the result of research by Dr. Louis Weinstein, professor at the Boston University Medical School. Measles is a disease caused by a virus and antibiotics have no effect on viruses. But measles make human beings susceptible to many diseases-carrying bacteria. Therefore doctors have reasoned that they can keep a simple case of measles simple by giving the patient an antibiotic now and then. Apparently this procedure works out well. Studying the records of 428 measles patients in a Boston hospital, Weinstein discovered that not only did antibiotics not prevent the appearance of complications but that bacterial disease was twice as frequent among the patients who received the antibiotics as among those who did not.

CIVILIANS AGAIN BEAR BRUNT

Announcement that the United States Army is preparing to test a vaccine against la grippe adds emphasis to the hazards of civilian life.

Behind this, we are informed, no prospect for production of the vaccine for public use in the near future.

Only servicemen are to receive this new protection from one of life's major misfortunes.

It was reported not so long ago that in the next war front-line troops would enjoy comparative immunity from the hydrogen bomb, because of the fact that friend and foe would be too close to each other to permit this new weapon to be used against them. Most civilians had reconciled themselves to the discovery that they would be the main targets for hydrogen bombs, chiefly because hydrogen bombs are not yet a recurrent problem. The grippe is different. News that here, too, the civilian will be required to bear the brunt of suffering in future is certain to be met with sniffs of displeasure and any suggestion that civilians are working themselves into a fever prematurely, and that festivities will be over before the vaccine has not yet been proven, will be cold comfort indeed.

CONSTRUCTION RECORD

According to Hugh C. MacLean Building Reports, construction contracts awarded in Canada to date this year have passed last year's mark by three-quarters of a billion dollars and now stand at $2,564,304,300, a new previous record. When statisticians start talking in billions of dollars, the ordinary man finds himself out of touch with what he recognizes as reality. When, however, we learn that the total for contract awards this year is now reaching for the unparalleled three-billion-dollar mark, it becomes plain that an increase of three-quarters of a billion dollars over last year's rate is as impressive as it sounds.

To be exact, contract awards for the first ten months this year totalled $2,541,454,300, an increase of $524,276,000 over the same period in the previous record year, 1951. The increase is thus over 20 per cent. Moreover, the total to date exceeds the total for all of 1951 by almost 10 per cent. The St. Lawrence Power and Seaway project has been a factor in the increase, but private business has played an important role, too. For instance, the largest total in a list of larger jobs let in October is shown as $13,700,000 for four housing projects totalling 1,210 units in the metropolitan Toronto area.

JUST FOLKS

NOISY BUT HEALTHY

When Terry and Marjorie scamper about
And I'm over there waiting for tea
It bothers their mother at times when they shout:
But the noise is no bother to me.

I can sit in my chair and forget what I hear
In my mind's eye that moment to tell
Though their father may think their behavior is bad,
I know those two children are well.

For a few minutes peace from the battles that rage
Their father and mother may spread,
But I welcome the noise for I've come to the age
When I get all the quiet I need.

"Oh, let them have fun," I remark with a grin,
"While they're racing there full-of-the-wind.
A child must be well to create such a din
And neither is lying in bed."

That silence is golden we're frequently told
It isn't when children are near.
It's pretty poor stuff to the fellow grown old,
And noise is much better to hear,

So, I say let them run as they wish through the place.
Their conduct don't sternly condemn;
Just as long as they're willing and able to race
You don't need a doctor for them.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 8, 1935

Mr. James McAvoy and Miss Margaret McAvoy, Octavia St., were returned home after a two weeks' motor car trip to Albany, N.Y., New York City and Princeton, New Jersey.

Mrs. William Adamson and children of Fredericksburgh are visiting relatives here.

At the regular weekly evening meeting of the Y's Men's Club, which was held at the Y.M.C.A., Seth Parker's Sunday evening prayer Jonesport atmosphere was conducted. The old fashioned hymns were sung, duets were rendered, all in the fashion of Parker himself. Norman Edwards occupied the chair in the absence of president Jack Marshall. Dawson Boyd was song leader and he ably assisted Miss McKenzie in the presentation of the program. The Seth Parker hymns were rendered by Mr. Dawson Boyd and Miss McKenzie sang a spiritual with Bert Houston as piano accompanist.

Walter J. Macdiarmid died suddenly at his home in Los Angeles, California, a week ago Saturday according to information received from his son by Mr. Hope McGinnis in this city. He was born here about sixty years ago and as a young man he was a highly capable reporter and writer on the staff of the Daily Ontario. He was gifted with a fine sense of humor and with many friends he was popular and well thought of in them as his death has brought sincere feelings of regret. Walter Macdiarmid left Belleville many years ago and settled in Los Angeles. Over the years he wrote highly interesting letters to the Daily Ontario and also to The Ontario Intelligencer. He is survived by his wife and son.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 8, 1925

Mrs. Charles McCaw of Bancroft is visiting friends here.

Mr. Bruce Wilson has come from the Royal Military College, Kingston, to spend Thanksgiving.

Mr. Ned Ridley of the Montreal Herald staff is here to spend Thanksgiving.

Miss Elizabeth Chown, a teacher of the leaving staff at the high school, will spend Thanksgiving with friends in her home at Smiths Falls.

Turkeys for Thanksgiving sold on the market at 38 cents per pound; geese $2.50 to $2.75 each; ducks $1.25 to $1.40 each; chickens $1.25 to $2.25 per pair.

From our file copy at this time in 1855: "Toll gates were abolished in Hastings County. In 1859, in Frontenac County toll gates are still in use and the City of Kingston is taking steps to have the gates removed."

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 8, 1915

The arrival of the 80th Battalion nearly an hour ahead of time today upset all calculations. The city authorities intended to give a welcome to Col. Ketcheson and officers and the men of "A" and "B" companies on their arrival here in order which quarters and officers expected to meet them at the station at one o'clock P. M. However, for some reason, the train arrived earlier than expected and by 12:30 o'clock the battalion had reached Front Street and proceeded at once to the barracks on South Pinnacle Street.

Mrs. John Ferguson left this morning for England where she will join her husband who left here with the 39th Battalion.

Capt. Percy K. Ketcheson, Capt. Wilson, Lieut. Wrightnyer, Lieut. Harper, Lieut. Nurse and Lieut. Graham, of this city, arrived here today with the 80th Battalion to go into winter quarters.

Mrs. S. G. Sills, Avondale, Front Road, has arrived home after spending seven months visiting friends in Vancouver, Seattle and other places at the Pacific coast.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: "The steamer Her was pulled off Telegraph Light last night by the steamer Petrona", (Note 1955) Old timers will remember pleasant outings on both these boats — they carried many Sunday School excursions to "Twelve O'Clock Point, Presqu'ile, Massassaga Park and also Saturday afternoon excursions down the bay.

50 YEARS AGO

Nov. 8, 1905

At a meeting of the Belleville Philharmonic Society the following officers were elected: president, Clem A. Vermilyea; vice president, F. E. O'Flynn; secretary, Price and Allan Chown; secretary, Irving Gordon; musical director, D. A. Marshall; conductor, V. P. Hunt; accompanist, Mrs. Campbell.

Mrs. C. S. Merryday sailed today from New York City for England where she will spend the winter.

Dr. Walton Ball of Toronto is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Caldwell, Bridge Street east.

Mrs. William Jones of New York City is the guest of Mrs. J. J. B. Flint, Charles Street.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE BEST THINGS IN LIFE

I came by a book recently that is a very valuable and inspiring one. It is called "The Best Things in Life" and is written by Harry Emerson, Consultant in Human Relations, and Professor of Psychology in Syracuse University.

This book tells how to live an interesting life, to be an interesting person to others, to gain the benefits of a personal philosophy, to attain "inner confidence and outer poise," and so many other topics that tell how to make your life richer, even while it is being lived simply and with a knowledge of human nature.

Thoughout the book are beautiful illustrations that are an inspiration in themselves. And there is an excellent list of 100 great books that have stood the test of time over the years. From this list can be selected books that have become classics, and which are as inspiring today as when they were written some of them many hundreds of years ago.

This book is one that can be read chapter by chapter. After reading one chapter you can take up the book later, for each chapter you will need to be read carefully and then meditated upon. It is highly instructive, and yet written in a large printing, hanging in my business office, where I often pause to read one of its uplifting phrases.

There are so many things in life that are worth while; so it is a triumph to read a book that tells about the best things in life. No one can read this book without going back to it time and time again. That's what makes a good book live!

Nature Should Retain Leaves

(New York Times)

There will be no attempt here this morning to teach nature her business. To do so would be a waste of time, for she is at set in her ways as most charming ladies. Every now and then, for example, she must send a rainy day to coincide with a big football game, or offer a melting thaw in place of white Christmas. Such things are her affair, and for them she does have a good reason. But one thing of current moment she might consider, and after considering change. This would be her current policy of casually dismissing the autumn leaves. Instead of permitting them to continue to improve the looks of the landscape as they waves them aside, and down. How much better it would be if the brilliant reds, browns, and yellows were allowed to remain where they are until spring, to be replaced with the green of new growth. This would at least eliminate the visual aspect of winter that very often is its most dismal season. At any rate, the idea is worth a gamble, one that nature, herself knows well, for she has hardly never win gambling with the ways of man.

Supposing, just for argument, that the leaves would spend this winter where they are, and stay in their present colors They are a beautiful sight on Sunday, and the Sunday highways are crowded with admirers of the fall in all them. One trip, however, does not constitute even a small fraction of the time spent on the daily, full admiration. The view from the car is less than inspiring, hedges, shifting changing, but somehow mechanical. Really to see the leaves as they should be seen, one must walk among them, to touch them, to observe the infinite degrees of light affect the colors. To understand this, one should sit and sit for several days under the same trees, noting the morning reds, the noon golds, the late afternoon picnic lunch, awakening to see the whole tree in a single color. This cannot be done all at once, and, indeed, the length of an entire winter would not be too long for beginning. There is, of course, the office to be considered, but perhaps nature would be willing to do something about that, as well as about the leaves. It is worth her second thought.

Ottawa Paper Makes Reply

(Ottawa Journal)

The Winnipeg Free Press has given its approval to the idea of setting up a Canadian international festival of music and the arts, and declares that "the only criticism the Ottawa has much to recommend it". By contrast we find the Belleville Intelligencer coolly almost that could be described as located in the Arctic Circle, and not even sympathetic to the proposal that the festival be held here.

The Intelligencer argues its position with some force. To support its contention that Belleville is definitely not in the big leagues" it points out that Belleville not mentions the difficulties of the Repertory Theatre, the problems of financing the tour of the symphony orchestra and drags in passing reference to the declining "dancing "good curlers and lawn bowlers", and asserts that the "mass bingoes" are the finest affairs of their kind to be found anywhere. But these accomplishments, the Belleville newspaper maintains, fail to be "convincing evidence of "manifest civic distinction" in the city.

We grieve to find this in a newspaper so close to us geographically and yet so far away in its understanding our point of view — could it be Lord Beaverbrook's recent criticism for itself? What the Intelligencer fails to realize is that behind the veneer of bingoism we in Ottawa wallow in culture until it runs out of our ears. Our tulips are no more than an outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual disgrace, and almost nobody in the capital would prefer the bowling alley to Rideau Green.

We modest people, in Ottawa, grow to understand and to like the concealment of our deepest thoughts, and we do not seem to be in shoulder that culturally speaking we would have little in common with the Belleville music and the arts. Actually that misconception is the very real Ottawa does its grave injustice.

It is clear that we shall have to keep ourselves more openly to other towns, and try to satisfy the intelligence of the rest of the centers that this projected dose of culture would not be wasted on us.

Down Memory Lane

(Port Arthur News-Chronicle)

As the delivery man comes to set up the hose from outside for filling the oil tank in the basement, who can remember the days of the old milkman who used to come up in the living room and the consecutive fist that was enough to deafen the night, as a last chore before bedtime?

Napanee Near Fine Record

(Napanee Post-Express)

Napanee is just hanging over the edge of one of the most remarkable accomplishments in the Dominion of Canada.

It is within an acc of owning a brand-new arena complete with artificial ice with no debt attached.

There is only $6,300 to go.

This, relative to the whole project is a slightly small amount. It may relative to the total cost of the arena.

It is incredibly low by any standards set anywhere for such a project.

By December 4, the arena will open. It will be time for the community to hand over the arena to the commission.

And it will be over debt-free.

This can be done by pledges payable to the end of 1956.

Why not make the pledge now? It would be a most amazing, triumphant achievement for Napanee to build an arena entirely free of debt by public subscription.

This would be without parallel in Ontario, probably in the Dominion of Canada.

Community spirit? Town spirit? Live spirit?

Napanee has lots of it. Napanee is more than any other municipality. It must have, or it wouldn't have done as well as it has done. And we have always thought that you would give more later.

Now is the moment. Just sign a pledge now that you'll make a donation of $1, $5, $10, $100, $1,000.

Sometime in 1356.

Then Napanee will have a debt-free community arena on the day it opens. It would be free, clear of encumbrances, for the asking.

There won't be a debenture now. The skeptics can stop being skeptics. The Napanee can pump to build the community centre.

Then will come the push between now and the opening will be the swingeon on the pie, the cream in the coffee.

To have it paid for when it opens will open the eyes of the country.

Antarctica Fight Starts

(Montreal Gazette)

The Antarctic is a very continent half again as large as Canada, an estimated total of some six million square miles. There are many enormous ice-cap, comprising the major portion of the whole world's permanently ice-covered areas. The ice-cap rises to a height of 10,000 feet. It contains nine-tenths of the water that if it were entirely melted would raise the level of the world would send levels.

The nearest point in Antarctica lies only 600 miles south of the tip of South America. Both Argentina and the Chileans consider this sea space only a strait and claim about 1,000 miles of the land behind the Andes mountain range. Russians and Americans say that they have disputing claims to first discovery of the White Continent. France, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, all are interested in its possibilities.

The possibilities are many. Its position makes Antarctica of strategic value. There are future uses in air travel and possible military use.

Another factor of immense value is the possibility that the world's largest coal supply lies in Queen Maud Land. Besides this, the South Pole was once a tropical area. Underneath the cap may lie immense treasures in minerals.

The United States for reasons a dozen nations are already engaged in a race to claim the Antarctic continent. A score of survey stations are now being set up for exploration in the International Geophysical Year of 1957-58. Similar studies are all being made by other stations at the same time and the resulting information pooled for the benefit of the world.

Another big exploration expedition will end in 1959, there are no comprehensive plans for the future of the continent. There have been suggestions by the United Nations for international use, but the claimant nations will have to be decided. This may raise great problems.

Nervous Over Personal Health Talks

More Calcium Won't Hurt You

New Jersey reader writes:

I would like to thank you for some of your recent advice. About a year ago my daughter had a great deal of trouble from weeping eczema. Two skin specialists prescribed antihistamines, which gave only temporary relief. Then she started supplementing her diet with calcium and vitamin D as you suggested. Now her skin is clear and occasionally when exposed to something to which she reacts she gets a spot the size of a dime, which disappears almost immediately. Of course she continues taking her daily ration of Calcicaps. Thank you so much.

Eczema is one of the numerous common ailments which in my opinion—and what I don't know about medical questions-kids tons and tons of tomes—are manifestations of calcium deficiency. Before you give this serious consideration it is only fair that I tell you about Brady and his teachings. He thinks that he believes is true, without first clearing it with the boys at AMA headquarters.

From what the girl's mother says it is apparent that the boy has the right idea—she continues taking calcium and D. Just as you continue taking a substantial breakfast of fruit, cereal, bacon and eggs or fish or meat and a milk every schoolday or workday morning, not just coffee and a roll, tea and toast, if you want to keep in fine fettle.

The calcium and D that cleared this girl's eczema is food, not medicine. If you continue taking it most days the year around probably the eczema will recur.

If the girl consumes enough milk, cheese, beans, peas, nuts, peanuts, greens and leafy vegetables and exposes enough of her skin to sunlight or skyline she'll get enough calcium and vitamin D to clear up or prevent refinement.

It is not my intention to say that calcium deficiency is the only cause of eczema or that eczema is more frequent than other manifestations of calcium deficiency.

I do say it can do no harm in any circumstances and may give your general health and vits an unexpected boost. If you'll supplement your regular diet with a good daily ration of calcium and D for two or three months, and at the same time revise it to include more of the high calcium foods and less chest-food. Cheatfoods are comestibles that have been robbed of their natural vitamins and/or minerals by long processing, refinement, sterilization, improper cooking, mutilation and so on.

Don't you poor geeks let some fast-talking crazy trick specialist or "clinic" cricketer scare you about "excess calcium." No recognized health authority in history has authority dares to specify how much too much calcium is or who advises, recommends or prescribes it. And don't let the fast talk medical specialists scare you that calcium deficiency is just one of my pipe dreams. I wish I could claim paternity, but I must defer to Sherman who called attention to it in his book, Chemistry of Food and Nutrition, which we might call the nutritionist's Bible.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHICH STANDARDS?

We all have a silly, superficial, and thoroughly stupid way of measuring ourselves by others. Can we hold our own socially with the people who live on our street, or with the crowd with which we work? Sometimes we feel that we are as much money as the people we know, and we feel good or bad as the people who open the church every Sunday morning and close it every Sunday night. Is my car as fine a one as my neighbor's? Are we likely or repulsive? These are important questions—some very important, some not so important—but they have a great deal to do with one's happiness. But we are always unhappy when we attempt to answer these questions by comparing ourselves or our conditions with other people and thoroughly dissatisfied.

What difference does it make what kind of car we have or how much money, provided we have enough to live without too much discomfort? Has it ever occurred to you that many of these social pressures are deeply responsible for tired and unhappy, and that a lot of mousey, inconsequential people are very snobbish and conceited in their souls?

Ask yourself. Measure yourself by your own highest aspirations, and above all try to find out what the eternal standards of measurement are and see how you stack up against them.

Forget about man-made standards; think about God's standards.

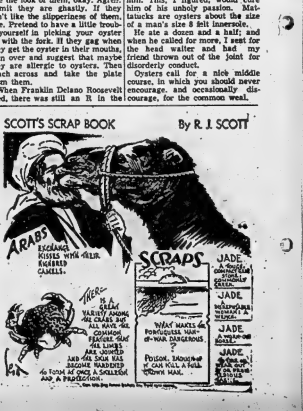
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Looking down at her plate in the small restaurant where I had taken her, Auntie Beth, of our family, who comes from Texas, said in a silly humility:

"I can't think the Lord for oysters."

So she skipped saying grace, and said it double the next morning for breakfast.



But she ate the oysters, with an expression of distaste that even the cop who was directing the horse raddish, spicy tomato chili sauce and lemon, in the process decreasing with each oyster, could not help noticing. The reason for this is that there are not enough oysters in the world to justify us in urging people to eat them. I don't like the look of them, okay. Agree. Admit they are plenty. If they don't like the slipperiness of them, fine. Pretend to have a little trouble yourself in getting your oyster up with the fork. If they gag when they get the oyster in their mouth, lean over and suggest that maybe they are allergic to oysters. Then reach across and take the plate from them.

When Franklin Delano Roosevelt died, there was still an R in the month, (as if that mattered,) and I had to work on the story of his funeral all over such epicurean regions as Washington, New York and other cities of the Atlantic seaboard. The press photographer I was then had really encountered oysters in their native habitat when I took them from fish house to fish house of great stature. I found I could down the coast, while still faithfully reporting the story of the funeral procession, that I had released an oyster glutton upon the world. And the rate at which this photographer consumed oysters, he would have left for more than kind at large. So I took him into Joe the Oysterman's place in New York and ordered a dozen for him. This, I figured, would cure him of his undue passion. Attaucks are oysters about the size of a man's size 8 felt insensole. He ate a dozen of them and when he called for more, I sent for the head waiter and had my friend thrown out of the joint for disorderly conduct.

Oysters call for a nice middle course, in which you should never encourage, and occasionally discourage, for the common weal.

Ike Goes Home On Friday, To Appear on TV

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower will address the American people briefly on television and radio when he checks out of Fitzsimons Army Hospital Friday morning and again when he arrives in Washington that afternoon.

The Denver remarks—the president's first to the country after seven weeks of hospital convalescence—will be at Lowry air force base a moment before he walks up the 17-step ramp to his private plane.

His equally informal talk in Washington will be at the military air transport terminal at National airport when he steps from the plane there.

WILL GO TO FARM

Eisenhower's doctors announced here Monday that he will leave the hospital Friday. He will spend the weekend resting up in the White House after arrival in the capital, then journey by automobile on Monday to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., for a further recovery period of perhaps six weeks.

No specific date has been announced yet for the president's departure from Denver or for arrival in Washington. The major TV and radio networks are planning "live" coverage of his remarks.

CAMPBELLFORD

Bemersyde I.O.O.F. Sponsor Bazaar

CAMPBELLFORD — Mrs. R. J. Locke, of Frank St., Campbellford, graciously opened her home on Saturday afternoon for a successful tea and sale of handicrafts under the joint auspices of the Bemersyde Chapter, IODE, and the Northumberland and Durham Tuberculosis Association.

The guests were received by Mrs. Locke and Mrs. J. O. Benor, Regent of the chapter. Tea was served in the dining room, which was decorated with mums and candles. Presiding at the tea table during the afternoon were: Mrs. F. J. DeCarrol, Miss Dorothy Kingston, Mrs. Robert Fox and Mrs. S. A. Anderson.

HANDICRAFT DISPLAY

In the living room the handicrafts were displayed under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Fewtress, of Cobourg, secretary of the Northumberland and Durham TB Association. Most of the articles in the large selection of leather goods, hand-made jewellery, sewing, stuffed animals, and novelties of all kinds, were made by patients in Ontario sanatoriums under their occupational therapy departments.

Some, too, was the work of local people who are physically handicapped. Some of the most unusual pieces were made by Esquimaux patients in the Mountain Sanatorium, Hamilton, and they depicted life in the far north. Many sales were made and in every case, the proceeds went to the person who made the article.

EFFICIENT ORGANIZATION

Much credit for the success of the sale was given to Mrs. Fewtress for her efficient organization. She was assisted by a committee of the Bemersyde Chapter, consisting of Mrs. J. O. Benor, Mrs. R. J. Locke, Mrs. D. R. Mayhee, Mrs. F. N. Brown and Miss D. Kingston.

Vaudeville Stars Perform for Royalty

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top vaudeville stars, augmented by America's Johnnie Ray, Ethel Merman and George Jessel, sang and danced for the Royal Family Monday night.

The scene was the annual royal gala for theatrical charities. It was staged before a white-tied and diamond-bedecked audience of 1,500 that paid up to $60 a seat.

Montrealer Finds Moose Not Friendly

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Charlie Charlebois of Montreal says he's not going to try talking to a Newfoundland moose any more, they're too unfriendly.

The 37-year-old floor sander said he was driving through central Newfoundland when a moose ambled across the road.

Charlie figured he was a friendly fellow, so got out to pet the moose and called "here boy."

The moost came on with a snort and, just as Charlie jumped back into the car, crashed head-on and knocked the vehicle 15 yards.

The moose took one satisfied look at the crumpled grill, shook his head and trooped back into the woods.

"I'm frightened yet," reported Charlie. "I'll never try to talk to a moose again."

Manslaughter Charge Is Laid

CORNWALL (CP) — Crown Attorney F. P. Milligan said Monday night Jean Guy Lalonde will be charged with manslaughter and will appear in court Wednesday in connection with the death of a youth after a disturbance outside a dance hall.

Police said Vincent Godard, 16, of Cornwall, died in hospital Sunday of a concussion believed suffered in the altercation late Saturday. Godard fi believed to have struck his head in a fall.

Mr. Milligan said Godard went home after the alleged fight but complained of pains and headpains.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Godard of Fournierville, Que. For the last year he had lived with a brother, Jerome Godard, here.

Stratford Plans To Build Theatre For Festival

STRATFORD (CP) — A permanent theatre building by 1957 is the aim of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival board of governors, it was announced on Monday at the annual meeting of the festival foundation. Vice-president N. E. Kaye outlined building plans for a permanent structure which will replace the present theatre-tent.

The 25-member board of governors was elected Monday night and will later name officers. The board includes: W. H. Kalbleisch, Sarnia; Walter Barlow, Woodstock; J. K. Sims and Mrs. Gordon Hensberger, Kitchener; Robertson Davies, Peterborough.

Pearson Visits Khyber Pass

By O. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PESHAWAR, Pakistan (CP) — Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson, nearing the end of his six-week global tour, Monday drove over the storied Khyber pass to the Afghan border which currently is reported bristling with warlike tension.

The Canadian minister and his party saw two uniformed border guards during their visit but this was not considered unusual. All through the pass native Pakistani go armed and armed troops are constantly on guard everywhere.

Pearson fulfilled a boyhood dream by seeing at first hand the famous trouble spot storied in adventure and history books.

Aida and Loren Are Combination With Real Appeal

(By Harry Mulhall)

Verdi's grandest of grand operas, "Aida," came to Belleville in a grand manner last night with its presentation in movie form at the Capitol Theatre.

In fact, so overpoweringly grand is its production in this medium, it makes one pause to realize the setting which inspired the drama, ancient Egypt, also gave birth to such a sweeping emotional contrast as the Sphinx.

This Italian production of the four-act opera is presented as four parts opera with the only spoken dialogue being that of the commentary for those who cannot understand Italian, or Italian operas.

However, apart from the fact that it features one of Italy's top stars, Sophia Loren, this presentation of opera as a movie is different from past attempts to film music drama for the screen.

Up to this they have mostly been filmed stage productions. "Aida" has been lifted from such cramped surroundings and approached stylishly from a film angle.

The only difficulty dogging such productions is that sure opera art may prove poor film art and its original creator isn't around anymore to adapt it for the screen.

SCOPE IS WIDE

But, happily, with "Aida" the producers have been lucky since the scope afforded them by this drama is wider than present-day cinemascope itself.

Set in the days of the Pharaohs, it tells the story of a triumphant Egyptian princess secretly in love with a captured enemy slave, Aida. The eternal triangle is present in the shape of a Pharaoh princess, while further complications build up nastily like stones on a pyramid when Aida's father has his army devastated by her lover and is taken captive. Begrudging the Egyptians the victory, the father persuades Aida to wean military secrets out of her lover and all three are caught in the act.

The story provides any cinemagoer, opera-minded or otherwise, with the gamut of enjoyment — glorious music, battles, spectacle, love, tragedy, and Sophia Loren, who as a work of construction adds the pyramids themselves in the shade.

ing star, Lois Maxwell, as Amneris, her royal rival in love. Assembled in the supporting cast are some of Italy's top actors, while selected to sing the roles for them are some of that nation's greatest singers, among them Tebaldi, Stignani and Campora. Drawn from the operatic institutions of Rome and La Scala, the true stars of the film, they reverse the accepted adage that to be good one must be seen and not heard.

Supporting the entire production is the Rome Radio Orchestra conducted by Guiseppe Morelli and the Ballet Corps of the Rome Opera.

The settings are lavish, and some of them, notably the temple scenes and the triumphal entry, would cause deville to mull. The entire production mixes beauty, good taste and fast pace in the proper proportions.

There is entertainment here for everyone.

Psychologically the Italians have eyed their less musically endowed cousins in this part of the world for such an off-beat production. If Verdi at his richest does not lay you by your musical ears, then you will find appeal in the story, the spectacles, the dancing, the action or—Sophia Loren.

Canadians Have No Fears of U.S.

NEW YORK (CP) — Canadians have no fears that the United States has designs on their national integrity, Immigration Minister Pickersgill said Monday night.

"Our greatest apprehension about the United States," he said, "is that the American people may at times act in ways that are detrimental to our national interests, not through lack of good will, but through lack of understanding of how our interests will be affected."

The statements were included in textual notes of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Earlier in his address Mr. Pickersgill spoke of Canadian experts being held back "by high tariffs and other trade barriers from entry into the United States and other countries where we could otherwise compete."

Women of Moose Celebrate Mooseheart Day

The Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 433, held an open meeting on Thursday evening to celebrate Mooseheart Day. A number of visitors, including Capt. Marks of the Salvation Army, and Governor Phil Van Dusen, from the Loyal Order of Moose 1004, helped to make the evening a success.

The meeting was called to order by Sr. Regt. Mary Van Dusen. The opening ceremony was held with Jr. Grad. Regt. Michaelene Calbury, Jr. Regt. Nora Mallett, Chaplain Grace Bartlet and the Sr. Rgt. taking part.

SIGN OF COURTESY GIVEN

The Sr. Regt. instructed the guides to bring Capt. Marks to the altar where she was given the sign of courtesy by the co-workers. The guides then escorted the captain to the seat of honor.

Balloting on two candidates was held with the ballots being favorable. They are to be initiated into the defending circle in the near future.

The initiation was held with four candidates, Grace Ryc, Mable Lucas, Catherine Robichaud and Alice Woodcock being initiated into the defending circle. The new members were given the sign of courtesy and then escorted to their seats by the guides. The sponsors of the candidates were, Grace Bartlet, Sr. Regt. Mary Van Dusen, Mary Sherry and Selina Isles.

CONGRATULATIONS TENDERED

The sponsors were brought to the altar by the guides where Grad. Regt. Ruth Mintz congratulated them for bringing their friends into the chapter.

The guides were instructed to bring Capt. Marks to the altar, where she was presented with a cheque by Grad. Regt. Ruth Mintz, to help buy toys at Christmas for the needy children. The captain thanked the chapter.

Report was given by Moose-heart chairman, Mary Sherry, for euchre held in her home earlier this week, also for the draws held on her meeting nights.

HOSPITAL LETTER READ

Protem Child Care chairman, Ruth Mintz, read a letter from the hospital in Smiths Falls thanking the chapter for the dress a little girl received for her birthday. She also told of the number of children and adults there from Belleville. Gifts are being collected to either take or mail to these people.

Ruth Mintz thanked all the co-workers who helped on the Christmas tree on Saturday.

A number of the girls in the chapter gave a most impressive escort drill with pianist Irene Reed. The escort captain was Ruth Mintz. This was the first time the drill had been done at a meeting.

The chairman's meeting is to be held next Tuesday at the home of the Sr. Regt. for library chairman, Anne St. Dennis.

Co-workers were reminded of the bake sale and rummage sale to be held a week from Saturday.

Governor Phil Van Dusen asked the members and their husbands to attend the social evening on Saturday night. He also told of the big initiation to be held in the early part of December.

The draw, a beautiful silver cheese and cracker dish, was donated by Mary Sherry and won by Maude Farnsworth and the Sunshine prize donated by Clara Lidster was won by Clara Seames.

The Sr. Regt. brought the meeting to a close, wishing everyone a fraternal goodnight, the next meeting to be held in two weeks.

SUPPER SERVED

Prior to the meeting, everyone sat down to an enjoyable supper. The tables were covered with white table cloths and flowers adorned each table. Grace was said by chaplain, Grace Bartlet.

The supper was convened by the Sr. Regt. with co-workers Edith Meeks, Nora McQuaid, Sheila McQuaid, Mary Peoples, Ruth Mintz, Helen Keller and Lena Connell, helping her.

On Tuesday evening, a euchre was held at the home of Maude Farnsworth for chairman Mary Sherry. The winners were, Lena Murray, Mary Van Dusen, Maude Farnsworth. The door prize was won by Nellie Scrymgeour.

Community Friends Honor Young Couple

A happy occasion was held recently when friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Vincent, Belleville, R.R. 5, in honor of the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Craig.

The evening was spent in dancing and cards, after which Mrs. Herbert Whitfield, on behalf of the community friends, read an address tendering congratulations and best wishes for the years ahead. They were then presented with a lovely carpet and table, for which the recipients graciously expressed their gratitude and thanks.

The hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Ronald Putnam, and Mrs. Lorne Jarrell.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United church, was held at the home of Mrs. William Ross on Thursday with 18 ladies in attendance.

After the opening hymn, Mrs. Charles Wood, president welcomed all and offered prayer.

Mrs. Sam Elliott, group leader, took charge and read the worship service from the Missionary Monthly, theme for the month being the call to fellowship. Silent prayers were offered on the subjects given and Scripture passages from Luke's Gospel were read by Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Wood.

Mrs. Elliott gave two readings "Prayer in the Morning" and "Giving Thanks".

The next chapter of the study book about the Indians of Quebec was presented by Mrs. W. D. Robertson.

Mrs. Wood thanked the group for its devotional and took charge of the business.

The correspondence included a card of thanks from Mr. and Mrs. J. F. MacFarlane expressing appreciation for the card of sympathy they received at the time of his brother's death.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey, supply secretary, read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Brown of Trenton.

It was decided to have a sale at the next meeting of home-made cooking or any useful article would be acceptable.

Mrs. Arthur Houston and Mrs. Damon Hinchey were appointed to nominate a list of officers for 1956.

Mrs. Archie Greatrix gave an interesting report of the rally held at Carmel church on October 12, for which she received thanks for acting as delegate and giving such a fine report.

Mrs. Wood thanked the hostess and closed with the benediction.

Mrs. Ross and her assistants served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Next meeting at the home of Mrs. Archie Greatrix on December 1.

Women's Activities

HARTS-RIGGS W.I.

MADOC|— Mrs. George Allore was hostess for the October meeting of the Harts-Riggs W.I. sixteen members and six children were present.

The roll call was "Discipline"—"To spank or not to spank". Various opinions were voiced with the majority feeling that disciplinary measures must suit the child; but agreed with the president's quotation—a well applied spank in the proper place at the proper time helps a great deal.

The treasurer reported that a cheque had been mailed to pay for two dozen cups purchased.

Mrs. Fred Meraw made a motion that 25 cents per member be sent to FWIO. to help send delegates to the Ceylon World Conference.

Mrs. Leonard Trotter reported on the evening session of the Area convention. She told of the honorable mention given the Harts-Riggs branch, the newest branch in the area.

Mrs. Allan Pigden commenced her "Dairy Products" program with a game.

DISCOVERY OF CHEESE

Mrs. Ernest Devolin gave a paper on "What's wrong with the cheese industry?" Mrs. Pigden told of the accidental discovery of cheese and described the many varieties available today.

Mrs. Harold Dale outlined the food value of cheese and the proper methods of cooking and storing. Two recipe booklets, one on cheddar cheese and the other on processed cheese, were given to each member.

The debate on butter versus margarine was held over to the next meeting.

The president closed the meeting with a suitable poem "On the Farm" and in keeping with Dairy Products Day, cheese and apple pie were served.

Women of the Moose

On Sunday morning 18 co-workers of the Women of the Moose left for Smiths Falls Ontario Hospital school for retarded children. The school is situated on the outskirts of the town off highway No. 15.

Upon arriving at the school, ten children were taken out to dinner. An enjoyable meal was served to the children and the co-workers.

PICTURES TAKEN

After finishing dinner, every one went for a walk. Later arriving back at the school a number of pictures were taken of the children.

The nurses for the children took them back to the various wards.

Gifts were taken to 38 children and adults from Belleville.

The buildings being new, were most modern and filled all the conveniences. The corridors were each one mile and a fifth long. They have a large recreation room with a televising built especially for the hospital.

The co-workers arrived back in Belleville at 8.30 p.m. the same evening. The trip was convened by Child Care Chairman, Ruth Mintz.

REGULAR GRIND

GOOD MANNERS

By BRS. BEECKMAN

SHE MADE NO MISTAKE

Dear Mrs Beeckman:

In the summer resort where my husband ad I spent our vacation in July thre was an especially attractive gi shop where they sold greeting ards. I had more time to choose ur Christmas cards there than I wuld have when I arrived home. So I decided to order quite a numbed a lovely card, and ordered ot name imprinted on them. Ada and George Thompson (let's say). Now that they have been delivered I think I made a mistake having our last name imprint on them, for when I think ofending these cards to relatives ad close friends, they just don't seen right. That last name seems t make them too 'formal.' I'm realy worried. Did I make a mistake (It's the first time I've ever ordered our cards with our names inprinted.) If I did make a mistak is there anything I can possibly do to use these cards?

—Worrid

You nade no mistake. The name-stem you ordered is the same s form customarily chosen for a feneral order like the one you were placing. First names with list name . . . the wife's name first when the names are imprinted. You send them with the name as it when it is appropriate to include the last name . . . ften necessary as identification to noticlose friends, perhaps to business or professional friends or professional friends or acquaintnces, possibly to some neighbors, and so forth. (It is particularly necessary to include the last name when the first names, as in the example you gave, are not unusual.)

Then, on the cards to be sent to relatives and intimate friends:

1. Dress off (in ink) your last name.

2. Above the first names write "Devotedly" or "Lovingly" or "Affectionately" or whatever is appropriate.

3. And if you wish (and I hope you will) write a personal greeting-message below the names.

No need to be "Perfect" (as Pa sign yourself) . . . for you can easily, and gracefully, adapt these urds to all your relationships.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE CHANGE MUST COME FROM TOM HIMSELF

Dar Beatrice Fairfax:

I am writing on behalf of my prents and myself to ask your advie as to what, if anything, we ca do to help my brother gain some semblance of equality with hiswife in their marriage. We arrall very upset about the way hiswife treats him, but we can't do nything to make him stand up fo his rights.

Tm and Betty have been married three years, have no children and both work, making about the sam salaries. Tom has always looked up to Betty, who is quite talented and clever, and better educated than he. He treats her like a princess, and she accepts his devotion as her due. She has even taken advantage of it to make him d all the housework, while she thaves like a lady of leisure at hom, lounging about and giving orders which he meekly obeys. She says that since she abhors housewrk, and Tom is willing to do it, she has no intention of pitching in to help.

All this work keeps Tom busy every night and most weekends, while Bety is free to go out at will. She goes to movies, ball game, bridge parties, etc., and, in general enjoys herself as she pleases. She buys clothes whenever she wants, but Tom has to account to her for whatever he wants to spend.

Whenever I visit them, I am repelled at the humility with which Tom acts toward Betty. He waits on her bed and foot, fetches and carries, jumps at her beck and call, agrees with everything she says. She, on the other hand, treats him offhandedly and nonchalantly, orderinghim about in a most complacent fashion.

We don't dare say any more to her, too, because whenever we do she sems to delight in being more bitchy toward him than ever. Tom admits frankly that Betty is the boss and doesn't seem at all disturbd at being treated like her personalservant.

Is he really so downtrodden and humbled that nothing can be done, or can you suggest some solution?

C.H.

Dear C.H.:

If thes is to be a solution to this very revertible situation, I think it can one only through Tom himself. I doubt very much if it can be brought about by either you or your parents. Certainly appealing to Betty will do more harm than good, as you already know.

To bearfectly frank, I'm afraid the trouble is largely due to something in Tom's personality pattern, at unless he sees the necessity of anging this pattern, little, if anything, can be done by any one on le outside.

It would seem to me that he has a deep yeling of inferiority in relation to Betty, believing her better- educated, cleverer and more talented than himself, and so is very fearful that he might lose her. Consequently, he knocks himself out trying to keep her convinced as his wife, it is possible that the day may come when he wearies of being his wife's slave and suddenly revolts. This might be a turning point toward better things. or it might beak up the marriage. No one can predict just what the result would be. But it's just as possible that, having established this pattern for their lives, he may continue letting himself be bossed throughout their marriage.

There's just one sugestion I can think of that might have a chance of success. That would be to drop a little word in your brother's ear, some time when you have just the right opportunity, to the effect that what really keeps a wife happy is for her husband to be the man of the house, and for their marriage to be a real partnership, with duties divided fairly and appropriately, and with each helping the other as necessary. Add that no man who meekly allows himself to be bossed as he is bossed, is respected by his wife,—and that when respect goes, love usually follows. So if would be to his own interest to adjust their relationship on a more normal basis, if he really wants his marriage to last.

Don't deliver a speech on the subject. Say no more than a sentence or two. But if it comes at the right time, and is done in the right way, it might really sink in and start him thinking.

Otherwise, I honestly believe the best thing you and your parent can do is to resolve to keep your hands off and avoid becoming involved in the situation in any way. It's perhaps sad, but there comes times in every family where parents, brothers and sisters, can only stand aside and let another member work out his or her own destiny.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

AN OFFICE KIT FOR GOOD GROOMING

A small shoe shining kit is an invaluable aid to good grooming.

The average girl who works for a living realizes that good grooming is an essential part of her job. That is, if she is conscientiously trying to climb the ladder of success. But even the best-groomed young lady can have an accident now and then—a bit of spilled paste or rubber cement, a sudden shower of dust from an ancient filing cabinet, a maddening run in her nylons, or a button pulled off through contact with an unyielding drawer handle.

But just because these accidents will do happen, there's no reason to go around all day showing their evidence. You probably have a little cosmetic kit in your desk drawer to repair beauty damages, so why not assemble another kit to repair any possible damage to your clothes? There are so many little gadgets on the market these days to help a girl with her grooming that necessary touch-ups are a matter of minutes.

A handy little shoe-shine, for instance, is hardly bigger than your compact, yet there's nothing like it to give tdd or leather shoes a quick polish if they've become rain-spattered on your lunch hour or something has spilled on them. The polish is covered with a tissue like paper and you don't have to soil your pretty hands while giving shoes the quick brush-off they need. It's not a bad idea, either, to give them a quick going over if you're leaving on an after-five date, for as the old song says, there's nothing like a shine on your shoes to give that happy-go-lucky feeling. For suede shoes put a sponge or a square of fine sandpaper in your kit.

A small clothes brush will remove surface dust in a jiffy and, for spot-cleaning there are two items which will come in very handy. One is a small bottle of liquid cleaner which will remove grease spots in a hurry. The other is a bit of French chalk for removing spots not caused by grease. This is available in soft sticks, can be applied right over the spot, left on for a few moments and then brushed off—spot and all—with your clothes brush.

A sewing kit is, of course, an absolute necessity. Get one with several shades of thread, needles, thimble and a small pair of scissors. It's also a good idea to stip in a couple of snaps and hooks-and-eyes in case one comes off during the day.

For that run in your hose, you can use either colorless nail polish or you can dab on a little wet soap to keep it from running farther. You'll find a lot of use for all these little items and save yourself many a grooming headache in the midst of a busy day.

Don't Miss These Meat Bargains

By Mary Moore

Get all set to be startled.

How do you react to a brown sugar glaze on your ham, or boiled down meat loaf with raisin sauce? Or Cheese Pies?

They are here today because they are economical, but you girls who do not have to pinch on the budget are going to miss three good tricks if you don't try them out.

GLAZED ROLLED BRISKET

Buy a rolled and tied brisket point—weight doesn't matter much but I'm thinking of one weighing about 4 or 5 lbs. Simmer it gently in water to cover with 1 bay leaf and a slice of onion and 2 each cloves and pepper berries —until tender —about 3 1-4 to 3 1-2 hours. Let this stand for an hour in the cooking water—it reabsorbs some of its own juices. Lift out to baking pan and stud it generously with whole cloves in even rows, between the tying string. Mix together 3-4 cups brown sugar and 1 1-2 teaspoons dry mustard, and pat this over the upper surfaces of the meat. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 3-4 or 1 hour. This is lovely for a company dinner if garnished with mounds of mashed squash, with little depressions in them filled with spoonful of cranberry sauce. Garnish platter generously with parsley.

UPSIDE DOWN MEAT LOAF

One pound ground smoked ham from shoulder, 1-2 lb. ground lean fresh pork, 1-2 ground sieving veal, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup breakfast bran (instead of breadcrumbs), 1-3 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper or parsley. Mix all of those ingredients together well. In bottom of loaf pan sprinkle this mixture: 1 tablespoon flour, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cloves. Over it sprinkle evenly 1 cup seedless raisins. Pack the meat mixture lightly over them. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. 1 hour. When meat time arrives turn loaf out on hot platter. Raisin sauce is on top and runs down sides. (Note— The fat in the ham and pork keep this loaf from sticking.)

HAM-CHEESE PIES

Make the pastry: 3-3 cup sifted flour, 6 tablespoons cornmeal, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup shortening, scant 1-4 cup cold water. Sift together flour, cornmeal and salt, cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle water over surface and mix in lightly. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently a few seconds. Roll out carefully and line deep pie plate with fish fluted edge of pastry. Now using 1-2 to 3-4 cup ground leftover ham (or any other meat) sprinkle this over bottom, then over it sprinkle but the one given is lovely and tender.

Swiss cheese or old cheddar. Best 5 eggs and to them add 3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon onion juice or grated onion. Pour this custard over the cheese. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 300 deg. Fahr. until custard is firm and top is golden—about 30 minutes longer. This amount serves 6 generously and this pie is lovely with chili sauce. Top it with plain pastry too, but the one given is lovely and tender.

STIRLING

Village Council Discusses Business

STIRLING. — Several items of business were discussed at the regular meeting of village council and necessary by-laws were passed.

The by-law re a vote under the Ontario Liquor Licence Act was duly passed and the questions will be "Are you in favor of establishing a government store for the sale of liquor?" "Are you in favor of the establishment of a government store for sale of beer only for resident consumption?"

Another by-law will make Monday, December 5th, the date of election in the village if one is needed and Monday, November 28th, the date of nomination.

FUEL SURVEY

Mr. J. B. Belshaw, local representative on the Centre Hastings' High School Area Board, stated he had served 32 years on educational boards at Stirling and on the area. He said a survey had been made and in view of the increase of pupils attending High School it had been found necessary to add two rooms to Stirling, Madoc and Marmora High Schools, and six rooms to Tweed High School. The approximate cost would be $140,000 and the government provides an 80 per cent grant.

Some discussion took place re drainage on Front Street, as several basements have been flooded and it is hoped to find a solution to the problem.

Douglas Patterson spoke briefly re the Lake Ontario Regional Development Association and Don Rodgers was appointed as a village representative.

SANTA CLAUS GRANT

Council also gave their usual grant of $50 to the annual Santa Claus parade.

The Stirling Branch of Canadian Legion was given permission to tag on "Poppy Day", Saturday, November 5th.

ACCOUNTS PAYABLE

A number of accounts were ordered paid which included Thomson Brothers $892.50;County of Hastings $331.05; Hatton Hardware $3,395 and other smaller bills.

Reeve Russel West presided with Councillors Bradshaw, Ray, Philp, and Wells in attendance.

Roslin

ROSLIN — A large number of friends, relatives, neighbors gathered in St. Paul's Parish Hall to honor Mr. and Mrs. Don Wright, (nee Jean Poole) who were married recently and to present them with a floor lamp and a chair.

Hallowe'en was observed at the Roslin school with a party being held in the afternoon, at which the parents and friends attended.

A number from here attended the chicken supper in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Thomasburg, on Wednesday evening.

Several Women's Institute members from here attended the Moira W. I. meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Thompson, Moira.

A number frm hre attended the bazaar and euchre in the L. O. L. Hall Moorytown, on Friday evening, under the auspices of the St. John's Guild.

A successful Hallowe'en masquerade party and euchre was held in the Roslin Hall sponsored by the Women's Institute, on Monday evening.

Mrs. A. Bates has been teaching at the seventh line school, Tyendinaga, during the last week while the teacher, Miss Moore, has been absent due to illness.

MADOC

50th Wedding Anniversary Marked by W.I.

MADOC — Several members of Madoc Women's Institute visited Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Herrington, at their tastefully decorated home, to pay their respects to Mr. and Mrs. Herrington on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Surrounded by their sons and daughters, and most of their grandchildren, it was a happy day for the active couple whose anniversary will be joyfully remembered by the joyful wishes of everyone.

Flowers of many colors with the golden ribbon bows in profusion once, were in profusion. The dainty refreshments, including wedding cake, were served by the daughters and granddaughters of the couple.

As a small but sincere token of Good-Will and years of happiness, Madoc W.I. members presented Mr. and Mrs. Herrington with a service tray accompanied by a card of golden anniversary happiness to which all the members had signed their names, a token to be kept for perusal when many have moved elsewhere.

MADOC

W.I. Hears Talk On 'Bird Watching'

MADOC—Madoc W.I. held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. G. C. Moon in the absence of Mrs. Herrington, the 1st vice-president, Mrs. R. T. Nayler, presided over the meeting.

After the opening exercises, minutes and business were conducted and several items tabled until return of the president.

The topic of the meeting was "Citizenship and Education", taken by Mrs. P. H. Nayler and Mrs McCrimmon. Some songs were enjoyed.

Mrs. McCrimmon gave an interesting discourse on "Art" and its meaning. The speaker emphasized ser points with the aid of pictures, objects and prints, explaining by the coloring and setting the meaning of each. Mrs. McCrimmon spoke of the numerous pictures in the window of Hickin's Gift Shop, on exhibit.

SPEAKER

Mrs. P. H. Nayler introduced the speaker, Mrs. R. N. Broad, who chose as her subject "Bird Watching". At the beginning the speaker stressed the hobby as possibly silly to some, boring to others, plain amusing to many, confusing to a few, but downright educational to a great many folks, besides being relaxing and interesting. An amateur, Mrs. Broad has seen and named 94 different species of birds, many of them on or near their own farm. A book instructing beginners is entitled "Field Guide to the Birds", and "Birds of America". She also recommended an important instrument a pair of binoculars. Mrs. Broad's story of her experiences and pleasure of the hobby were enjoyed by the members.

Concluding her address, she read two poems "Time Lost" and "A Day Off".

Mrs. Wilfrid Forestell gave a concise report on the Area convention held in Bellevile.

Thanks were tendered to all who had contributed to the interesting meeting after which refreshments were served.

TUGBOAT SWAMPED

NEW YORK (AP)—A tugboat was swamped during a storm and sank without loss of life in the Hudson river Friday, its owners claimed the vessel was submerged by waves 10 feet high. The Cornell, owned by the Cornell Steamship Co., went down, but its crew of eight was picked up quickly by two other tugs owned by the same firm.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates slipped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not let this happen to you. Simply sprinkle a little FIXODENT, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour, which means it checks more sourness. Get FIXODENT at any drug counter.

Russia Displays Bomber, Cannon With Atom Punch

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia Mon. flashed a huge bomber and gigantic cannons, both believed capable of delivering an atomic punch, in a military display over Red Square.

The bomber, thought to have enough power to deliver atomic bombs on intercontinental flights as far as the United States, headed a flypast over Red Square. The fourengine jet plane with sweptback wings dwarfed its escort of four fighters.

A Moscow radio announcer described the plane as "of a new type" and referred to mighty "airborne battleships" as it whooshed overhead.

The bomber startled Western observers when first shown in May last year.

Soviet Prime Minister Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, Communist party other Russian leaders stood on the reviewing stand as Soviet troops marched past in their new dress grey dress uniforms with goldbraided belts.

Huge guns with bright silver barrels brought up the rear of the 25 minute military parade. Military observers believed they were of 280-millimetre calibre and capable of firing atomic shells.

The observers, who first spotted the huge bomber during a parade in May, 1954, and the giant guns durin a parade in May, 1955, said they had not seen any new Soviet equipment today.

Americans here have nicknamed the jet bomber "Bison." It is believed to be the most powerful Soviet bomber and has been observed in speed and range to the American eight-engine jet B-52.

STIRLING

P.S. Board To Purchase Set of Books

STIRLING — Stirling public school Board convened with Chairman Hamilton Dopman in charge and the other members were Messrs. Ketcheson, Warren, Mallory, Earl Forder and Claire West.

The next meeting will be held earlier owing to nominations and will come November 21st.

It was decided to purchase "Book of Knowledge", "Land and People", "Child's World", and "Living Together" from the Grolier Society at a cost of $314 payable one-third yearly.

The Cubs were given permission to erect a portable bulletin board in the school.

The following bills were paid:— Moyers School Supplies $304.28; Jack Hood Supply Co. 478.84; Centre Hastings Teachers' Institute 10.; Frankford Fuels 60.55; Mrs. A. O. Dairymple 318; Mrs. Robert Hulin $85.; Mrs. Betty McConnell $48.; Bell Telephone $13.37; Public Utilities $5.34; Rose Hermiston $3.82; Express $1.90; Teachers Magazine $4.00; K. P. Mayhew $5.50; Hatton Hardware 24.93; J. C. McGee 3.75; Standard Tube Co. 41.15.

The property committee convened by Ray Mallory gave a resume of all the needed repairs to the school.

The settlement, reached Saturday, will boost the basic raid at the three Ontario plants—in Brantford, Woodstock and Toronto—to $1.46 an hour. It must still be ratified by the employees at meetings in Toronto Nov. 13, Brantford Nov. 14 and Woodstock Nov. 15.

Massey-Harris Guarantees Annual Wage

TORONTO (CP) — Massey-Harris-Ferguson Ltd. has announced the terms of the contract settlement with its 8,000 employees and disclosed it has granted a union demand for a guaranteed annual wage.

C. B. C. Scott, the company's director of industrial relations, said the big farm implement maker agreed to pay a supplementary unemployment insurance benefit similar to the Detroit Ford plan starting Sept. 1, 1957. The company will start paying into a guaranteed wage fund next September.

The plan guarantees employees $65 a week for four weeks and $60 a week for a further 22 weeks. Payments and eligibility are based on length of service.

The company also granted its day workers a five-cent hourly wage increase and added an additional two cents for skilled workers. It agreed to pay the full cost of the insurance and welfare plan. The contract is retroactive to Sept. 15.

Mr. Scott would not estimate how much the settlement amounted to in terms of an hourly increase. The United Automobile Workers Union (UAW-CCL) had asked for a 10-cent hourly increase for all employees and the company had offered six.

SCHOOL FOR RETARDED

GALT (CP)—The first Canadian school devoted solely for the education of retarded children is to be built here, it was announced Saturday. The building, to be located on the grounds of the Ontario training school for girls, will cost $20,000. The Ontario government will make a grant of $10,000 and the balance has been pledged by Galt citizens.

Experts Forecast Tightest Race In History Of National Hockey League

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

INTERMEDIATES ORGANIZE

The ground work of intermediate hockey under the aegis of the Ontario Hockey Association was laid in Campbellford on Sunday when some seven teams indicated their willingness to organize.

This sounds like the temporary death-knell of the Trent Valley Hockey League albeit the year's demise will, according to reports, meet with the sanction of the majority of the club members of a year ago.

Under the supervision of Lorne Cook, OHA vice-president of Kingston, representatives from Bancroft, Marmora, Madoc, Campbellford and Frankford stated they would be willing to enter such a set-up. Brighton and Stirling, while not represented at the meeting sent word they would fall in line with the proposed suggestion.

It looks as though the new policy of the OHA that it would endeavor to incorporate every community of 1,000 population and upward under its administrative wing has met with inaugural success in the district for it was the strong feeling at the meeting that at least five teams would lay the foundation of the first intermediate "C" grouping.

Finalizing of plans will take place at another meeting scheduled for Marmora, November 22, when all entries will be accepted and the pre-opening wrinkles ironed out.

In the meantime vice-president Cook will concentrate on the possible organization of another intermediate "C" group in the district which could take in Picton, Wellington, Tamworth, Napanee and possibly Point Anne. If such a move is successful, the district would be fairly well covered.

The groups would be in a better position for ice facilities than most rural organizations since both Marmora and Napanee will have artificial ice plants in operation. At least it is hoped the new Napanee plant will be functioning this season. The rest of the centres have natural ice arenas.

There has been no action nor indication of it on the part of the Trent Valley Hockey League executive as to next season's activities. Some time ago President Arthur Duncan of Batawa stated that he was in favor of this honored loop taking a year's respite from puck activities, and since the majority of the clubs present at the Sunday meeting were TVL organizations, it is fairly safe to assume the loop will not function this year.

MINOR HOCKEY

Minor hockey, thanks to the Ontario Minor Hockey Associations, its executive officials and the various organizations' officials under its aegis, is away to another fine start according to happenings of the past few days.

Both the Belleville Minor Hockey Association and a large number of district clubs under the supervision of OMHA executive member Doug Patterson of Stirling, held highly successful get-togethers and plans were laid for what appears to be the best season in the history of moppet puck-chasing.

Juvenile hockey with both the city and district clubs interested got a good shot in the arm—and don't be surprised to see two fine loops in operation this season.

President Bill Gastle's city organization expects to take some 600 youngsters under its wing ranging from eight to 18 years, with registrations beginning Thursday night. The squirts, midgets and juvenile will register at the arena at 6.00, 7.30 and 8.30 in the order named. Peewees will register on Saturday, November 19 at 8 a.m. and the bantams at 10. The squirts, midgets and juveniles will start play Thursday, November 17, with the peewees and bantams beginning November 19.

Doug Patterson's group meeting in Stirling last week attracted reprerentatives of 12 teams, with five others indicating entry of one or more teams. This is a great step forward and the groups may have to be split in sections.

The southern group consists of Trenton, Picton, Napanee, Wellington and Belleville, while the northerners include: Marmora, Havelock, Norwood, Hastings, Halloway, Stirling, Madoc, Frankford, Cooper, Coe Hill and Campbellford. Brighton may be included in the southern group.

Northern groups seeking entry may do so at a meeting slated for Marmora post office, November 22. The southern group will draw up its schedule at a meeting set for the Queen's Hotel, Belleville, Wednesday, November 30. All interested should attend.

Any clubs desiring information or assistance in organization or any other matter should contact Doug Patterson, Stirling. You will get everything you need—at no cost. He's that kind of a guy.

Picton, Trenton, Havelock, Norwood, Stirling, Madoc and Marmora have indicated interest in a pre-reason loop. Other teams interested should contact Charles Clemens at Marmora.

Heavy Scramble for Points Results in Big Traffic Jam; Habs Dominate Scoring Race

MONTREAL (CP) — With one-seventh of the National Hockey League season now completed, those who forecast the tightest kind of race can take a bow.

Aside from the present traffic jam in a scramble for points, a comparison of the league's new batch of statistics for 10 games with the same number last season sheds new light on the razzle dazzle race.

There have been 10 tie games—five in the last nine—compared with six in 40 games last season. The point difference between the leaders and tail-enders is seven. Last year it was 16. The clubs which finished in the last three positions when the season ended have accumulated more points than they had at this stage a year ago. The other three clubs have lost ground.

BELIVEAU IS TOPS

The individual scoring records are also revealing. Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens, with five goals and one assist last week, has taken over top spot. He has 19 points. Teammate Bert Olmstead, with seven assists, moved into record place with 18 points. Dave Creighton of New York Rangers, leader a week ago, collected a goal and three assists but dropped into third place, with 17 points.

A year ago the leader was Montreal's Maurice Richard, in only four games so far this season because of injuries. Geoffrion had 18 points, a five-point bulge over the field compared with Beliveau's one-point margin.

Montreal Canadiens are the current league leaders with 18 points in 11 games. In the same number of games last season they were also on top with 21 points.

New York Rangers made the best showing last week of any team, with two wins and a tie in three games, collecting five of a possible six points. They are three points behind the leading Canadiens, who had one win and two ties.

BIGGEST GUN

Beliveau was the man firing the biggest gun last week with his five goals, four of them in one game, but Olmstead gathered in more points than anybody with his seven assists. He now has 14, tops in the league.

Ron Murphy of Rangers had one goal and two assists and is in fourth place with 15 points, two behind teammate Dave Creighton and tied with Gordie Howe of Detroit. Howe also had one goal and two assists and is a point above teammate Alex Delvecchio who picked up one goal and three assists.

Maurice Richard of Montreal follows with 13 points. The Rocket had a goal and two assists.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit collected two goals and has 12 points. He is tied for goal leadership at nine with the Rangers' Murphy and Tod Sloan of Toronto. Sloan has had only one assist along with his nine goals.

BOB WILSON

OHA Suspends Bob Wilson For Three Games

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Monday night suspended Harry Chalk, with the Seaforth junior B hockey team last season for two years.

Chalk allegedly punched referee Hugh McLean during a Seaforth-Woodstock playoff game last April 9. Under the suspension, Chalk may not play organized hockey again until Nov. 1, 1957.

The OHA executive meeting also suspended defenceman Bob Wilson of Belleville's senior B team for three games as a result of an altercation with a referee in a game at Belleville Nov. 2. Wilson has already served one game of his suspension.

Evidence was that Chalk raced up to McLean following the game, tapped him on the shoulder and punched him in the eye. McLean suffered a gash over his left eye as a result of the attack.

Chalk insisted he did not punch the referee but approached him "merely to tell him what I thought of him."

ORIOLES' HEAD RESIGNS

BALTIMORE (AP)—Clarence W. Miles, 58, who recently said he would rather be president of the Baltimore Orioles than be U.S. senator—a post to which he is believed to aspire—resigned Monday as Orioles president.

Miles denied that his political future had anything to do with his resignation and said the "impelling reason" in his decision to quit "is my deep rooted conviction that the services of an experienced baseball executive brought to Baltimore at this time would greatly improve the chances of the Orioles for rapid advancement."

He played the major role in bringing major league baseball back to Baltimore in 1953 after a 5-year absence.

Pfeifer Wins Big Four Scoring Crown

TORONTO (CP)—End Al Pfeifer, of Toronto Argonaut eastoff who caught on when club officials changed their minds, is the 1955 Big Four scoring champion with 98 points.

The big import from Fordham University came up with a nine-point last-game performance to take the honors over Montreal's Pat Abbruzzi. Abbruzzi was held off the scoresheet as the Als bowed 25-6 to Tiger-Cats at Hamilton last Saturday and finished his first year of Canadian football with 93 points.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show Pfeifer with 15 touchdowns and 23 concerts against Abbruzzi's Canadian record of 19 touchdowns over the 12 games. Ed Korchak and Joey Pal of Montreal and Ottawa's Bobby Simpson ended in a third-place tie, each with 80 points.

Pfeifer's championship - winning total was 10 points off the record 108 set by Sugar (Special Delivery) Jones in 1950.

Johnny Bennett of McGill Redmen was blanked in Saturday's game against Queen's Golden Gaels but he managed to finish the six-game Senior Intercollegiate schedule at the top of the list with 31 points, one more than ast" Ron Stewart. Peter Maik of Toronto Varsity picked up 30 points on a touchdown and five converts to finish the schedule in third place with 29 points.

Abruzzi, Dublinski Top Men In Big Four Football Season

TORONTO (CP)—Halfback Pat Abruzzi of Montreal Alouettes topped the ground gainers and quarterback Tony Dublinski emerged as the leading passer in the 1955 Big Four football season.

The official league statistics released today also showed two other Montreal players in first place in the other individual laurels. End Red O'Quinn was the leading pass receiver and defensive halfback Hal Patterson had the highest number of pass interceptions and the best kickoff return average.

Abruzzi edged out of the scoring championship by Al Pinatzo of Toronto Argonauts, 98 points to 95, in the last day of the schedule. He led the rushing department with a total of 1,042 yards in 192 carries, an average gain of 5.09 yards each time.

Corky Tharp of Toronto Argonauts was second with 798 yards in 130 ball-carrying sorties for an average of 6.3 yards. Lou Kusserow of Hamilton Tiger-Cats took third place on 782 yards in 127 attempts, averaging 5.9 yards.

Tom (Tiger-Cat) Tracy of Ottawa Rough Riders came up with the best average gain with a mark of 7.1 yards on 129 yards in 18 carries.

Dublinski edged all-star quarterback Sam Etcheverry for the passing honors. Dublinski, Alouette flinger completed 225 passes in 385 attempts for 3,547 yards and a completion percentage of .580. He had an average gain figure of 9.1 yards compared with Etcheverry's even nine yards.

Etcheverry had a percentage completion mark of .566, considering on 227 passes in 400 attempts for 3,638 yards. Tiger-Cat Dickenson and Dublinski threw 30 touchdown passes but Dublinski had the lowest interception mark of all the league quarterbacks—34 compared with 23 for Etcheverry.

Don Bailey, dropped as Ottawa's quarterback in mid-season, was third in passing on the basis of average gain with a mark of 8.4 yards. His completion percentage of .368 was the lowest in the league. He completed only 74 passes in 71 attempts for 615 yards and seven touchdowns.

Nobby Wirkowski of Hamilton, who handled the major share of the first quarter duties, was fourth. Halfback Pat Abruzzi had the highest number of pass interceptions and the best kickoff return average.

Abruzzi, edged out of the scoring championship by Al Pinatzo of Toronto Argonauts, 98 points to 95, in the last day of the schedule,

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Eagles, hawks and owls are fearless, audacious, swift and graceful. By some they are revered and respected, and in some countries have become national emblems. Yet by others they are vilified, persecuted and slaughtered.

"By what logic is it 'virtuous' for a horned owl to kill a rabbit, but an act of rugged sportsmanship when the need is done for a man who has never been very satisfactorily explained," says Alexander Sprunt Jr., in a preface to his "North American Birds of Prey," just published by Harper and Brothers under sponsorship of the Audubon Society.

The book, illustrated by 46 color plates, is based upon an enlargement of the work of "North America," by John B. May, published 20 years ago. The new work meets the times by presenting birds of prey in a new light shed by recent ecological research.

Sprunt credits English gamekeepers with the concept that anything which competed with game should be liquidated. The idea spread to North America. The author says it should be remembered that game farms produced abnormal concentrations of birds in open pens lacking an escape cover such as briar patches and shrubbery. And how even the slowest of hawks to dine on birds that are usually too swift to be captured, in natural environment.

CONTROL RODENTS

Now wildlife research has shown the key to wildlife abundance is food and cover, and that hawks and owls exert a negligible influence. In some instances, they actually help by controlling rodents which prey on the eggs and young of game birds. They are also responsible for developing alertness and speed in game species.

"Sportsmen's organizations which not long ago found it impossible to say anything good about the birds of prey now are speaking up in defence of the predators and urging their members not to kill these birds indiscriminately," Sprunt writes.

It is estimated there may be fewer than 1,000 pairs of the bald eagle, the United States emblem, remaining due to real estate development in Florida, where the winter, and illegal shooting. The birds have been protected since 1940 but ornithologists say many still are thoughtlessly destroyed.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wed., Nov. 9th, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Use the day with the will and the right kind of ambition to do well, and you will. Don't mind others' criticism; keep smiling and go forward.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Nervous energy should be properly controlled. Some of our bright-est people have it but many born under this Sign forget that it can be put to work in very useful channels instead of wasted.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — If you tie up with the anxious type of associates you may find your-self worrying around too much for your own good. Use your fine intuition and judgment. Heed wise counsel, also, but don't be hasty.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A much better day than you may suppose at first. Give credit where ever you can; others will coopera-te more willingly.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Your Sun's configurations today must be used to great advantage — spending upon how promptly you take care of matters, how agree-ably you go about duties.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — The planet Mercury in your Sign advises two things now: Know facts before you begin new ventures and give wholehearted support to worthwhile causes. You can achieve.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Don't seek to do more than is reasonable, and do not waste valuable time or assets on unworthy people or affairs . Re-member the high aims of your true nature; seek top goals.

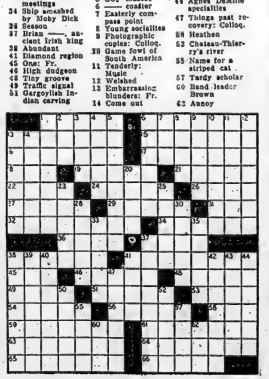
October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Many people may of-fer suggestions. It doesn't hurt to listen. Up to a certain point. One can become unduly confused, too. Reach your conclusions through unbiased reasoning.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Avoid a tendency to irritation. Look the other way, with nothing to say. Do not waste time thinking of past errors and don't renew old dissensions.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — You may find competitors, associates on edge; be yourself, smile and don't let them get you down. Use your innate practicality; it will carry you over hurdles.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — It is better to take your time and do things right than to be hasty and feel fatigued as a result. Don't let anger drive you against your better judgment. Be calm within.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — You may be able to ac-complish even more than you your-self anticipate, but to do well at all, you must put misgivings and doubt aside.



You born today: Your planet Mars indicates strong successful-making tendencies: inventiveness, ambition to achieve the worth-while, and the know-how to cut red tape and accomplish quickly. Mars also warns against over-ambition, which so often is a characteristic of the determined, ener-getic, bright individual. You re-quire plenty of fresh air, rest, sleep and abstinence from worry. Man-agement, investigation, co-ordina-tion suit your talents. Music can lift you out of the humdrum and relieve anxiety. You enjoy child-ren, can get along admirably with them and elderly folks. Birthdate of Mark Akenside, English poet.

Admissibility Of Statements Is Being Argued

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A legal argument over the admission of statements made by three Quebec youths arrested following the slaying of a Roman Catholic priest last Jan. 9 arose at their murder trial in Court of Queen's Bench Monday.

The 12-man jury was dismissed while Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman presided over a trial within a trial. It continues today.

The matter came up when crown attorney F. G. Meighen began to lay the basis for the introduction of a statement taken by police from one of the youths, 18-year-old Gerard de Tonnancourt of Montreal.

COUNSEL'S STAND

Prior to adjournment for the day defence counsel Harry Walsh indicated he would object to the crown argument against admission of the statement. It is expected the crown will seek to enter statements made by the other two accused, Claude Paquin, 18, of Montreal and Guy Ferragne, 18, of Riviere des Prairies, Que.

The youths were arrested in Brandon following the discovery of the body of Rev. Alfred Leblanc, 51, Edouard, Alta., with two bullet wounds, in his car on the highway east of here.

GANGSTER DIES GANGSTER STYLE

The body of Willie Bioff, 55, former filmland labor racketeer, lies under a blanket before the wreckage of Mr. Bioff's car after the garage of his $40,000 home in Phoenix, Ariz. Bioff (inset) was killed by a dynamite blast as he started the engine of the vehicle. His body was hurled 25 feet and the wreckage was strewn 300 yards around. Investigators believe that the thoroughness of the "job" done on Bioff was evidence his killing had a gangland revenge motive. (Central Press Canadian).

Stirling

STIRLING, — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irish, District Scout leaders, attended a meeting in Belleville of the District Scout Association with Mr. O. C. Evans, president, in charge. A number of pictures of the recent Scout Jamboree were shown.

Considerable business was discussed. Mr. R. D. Arnott is the newly-elected president.

The local cubs entertained their parents to a delightful Hallowe-en party on Monday evening. Mr. J. L. Good showed several films. Prizes were awarded for costumes to Murray Rodgers, Billy Bell and Gerald Mallory.

Games and refreshments brought to a close the happy evening.

Miss Huffman and Miss Rush, Belleville, visited the local Guides for their meeting Tuesday evening. The Robin Patrol won the honors of the evening.

Mrs. Hugh Morton is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mrs. Hopper, Wilma and Mrs. holidaying in Western Ontario and in Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Philp recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Stevens and Linda.

The 4-H Society Gals of River Valley met recently at the school house with an attendance of 12.

Diana Richardson read the minutes and roll call was "One thing I would appreciate in a quiet room and why?"

Mrs. George Heasman led a discussion on various points of entertaining and the girls wrote both formal and informal invitations.

Miss Faye Irvine, home economist, attended the third meeting of River Valley 4-H Club Society Gals. The president of River Valley W.I. Mrs. Roy Bush, also attended. During the evening, the girls served afternoon tea in the latest approved styles.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop was waiting for me to tell him it was time to go out somewheres to play bridge, and she looked in the living room, saying, well, the 7 wonders of the world will never cease. You are ready before I am, she did.

And she went to finish getting ready herself, and I said, What are the 7 wonders of the world, pop?

Well, one of them is the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River, pop said. It's the world's longest deepest and most huge hole in the ground. It's aitch a collossal hole that they've never been able to beet it even, in the movies. A million beautiful women could throw roses down into it for a million years, and before they could get it filled to the top, the bottom layer of roses would of turned to coal, by then.

G, what a hole, I said. What's another wonder of the world? I said, and he said, Well, to name a wonder bill by man, we'll take the grate stone pyramids in the boundless waists of the Egptian deserts, erected thousands of years before the creation of the steem shovel.

I saw a funny thing today, pop, I said. A little baby berd was trying to flap his wings to its nest up the trunk of a tree, but it was too weak it couldn't flap another inch, and just then its mother flew down and stuck a worm down its throat, and that was exactly what the baby berd needed for enough strength to flap back the rest of the way. Tell me another Wonder of the World, pop, I said.

I dont know of anything half as wonderful as the baby berd's mother, so just keep thinking of her, pop.

Which I did for a while, and then I went back to my new Atomic Comics book.

W. A.

The Johnstown W.A. held its missionary meeting last Thursday in Grace Church parlors with Mrs. G. A. Puttenham as hostess. Mrs. Jack Ferguson welcomed the many ladies present and opened the service. The Scripture reading was found in John 14: 1-15, read by Mrs. Alva Meyers with the Lesson Thoughts given by Mrs. Smith. Mrs. E. Sickle read "A Prayer in the Morning."

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush. It was agreed that the W.A. exchange gifts this year the same as last year. An invitation was received from Frankford W.A. to attend its tea and sale on November 16th and from White's W.A. to attend its tea and sale on November 17th.

A lovely duet was rendered by Mrs. E. Bush and Mrs. Clayton Curtis, "Open My Eyes That I May See." A couple of poems were read, "Find the Time," by Mrs. Brush, and "Chalice," by Mrs. Mallory.

Mrs. Ferguson presented the speaker, Mrs. Davidson, of Mountain View, who is a life member of the Women's Association and the Women's Missionary Society and Christian Citizenship secretary of the Belleville Presbytery.

Mrs. Davidson said: "We, as members of the church, seem to think nothing should be done about temperance but shouldn't we? What are we doing to our children? Young people are wide awake today. We cannot yap, yap to our young people about drinking when their own fathers, leaders in the church at the same time are drinking. Let us take heed how we build. Man builds churches, schools, but the greatest building is his own life and character. One has to look well to the foundation. A boy cannot inherit his father's character. One has to work at this himself. In the centre of every life must be an altar to develop Christian character. Worship is the offering of ourselves to God in prayer. How many of us have Bible reading and prayer together at home?

"Prayer is the soul of religion. Pray for guidance, wisdom, understanding. We need this quiet time more now in these busy days than ever before. Everyone has the tools to fashion his own destiny. Jesus teaches us faith in ourselves and in others, and the strangers in our borders. It is from this altar we can look up and say 'Our Father.'

"The greatest need today is faith, so let us take heed how we build. Are we seeing that strangers are welcomed in our church? Are we asking the new Canadians to join us at our meetings?"

Mrs. E. Bush thanked Mrs. Davidson for her talk and how much all appreciated her coming, as she is such a busy person.

A Bible quiz was held by the program conveners, Mrs. C. Curtis and Mrs. Alva Meyers, with Mrs. Louis Wilson winning the prize.

Meanwhile the hostess and conveners had set a long table with good things to eat and after singing grace all sat down to partake of the repast.

Germ-Gas Expert Gets Defence Post

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Hugh M. Barrett, an international authority on defence against germ and gas warfare, yesterday was named chief of establishments for the Defence Research Board.

The 42-year-old chief superintendent of the Canadian Armament Research and Development Establishment at Valcartier, Que., will be responsible for management of the board's 10 research establishments in the newly-created post. He will assume his duties early this month.

Col. Donald A. G. Waldock, 46, director of armament development at army headquarters, will succeed Dr. Barrett at Valcartier. He will be promoted to the acting rank of brigadier and will be loaned to the board for three years.

Col. Waldock also will command the Canadian Armament Design and Experimental Establishment, the army unit integrated with CADDE.

Col. Carl R. Boehm, 50, of Toronto, will leave command of CADEE to come to board headquarters for 2½ years. He will coordinate scientific liaison between army headquarters and board members on the Canadian Joint staffs in London and Washington.

Pearson Will Not Visit Israel On His Way Home

Hopes to Meet Sharett Later in Canada or U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government today officially announced that External Affairs Minister Pearson will not visit Israel on his current world tour but hopes to meet later with Moshe Sharett, Israel's foreign secretary, either in Canada or the United States.

A statement issued by the external affairs department said Mr. Pearson will, however, stop in Tel Aviv on originally planned.

There has been some speculation that Mr. Pearson may use the occasion of the Cairo visit to discuss Arab-Jewish tensions with those who seek means of avoiding another war.

The department said in a statement that just before leaving Ottawa on his world tour, Mr. Pearson received an invitation to visit Israel from the host country's prime minister but had to decline "because of a lack of time."

SHARETT CONTACT

"In view of recent developments this decision was reconsidered," the department said. "As the only time available, Nov. 12, is the Jewish Sabbath, this date did not prove suitable for a visit to Tel Aviv.

Mr. Sharett will travel to the U.S. this week for speaking engagements and it appeared likely that he and Mr. Pearson may meet either in New York or Ottawa. The Canadian government may issue an official invitation to Mr. Sharett to come to Canada.

Canadian Zionists requested that Mr. Pearson visit Tel Aviv at a Montreal meeting with Prime Minister St. Laurent last Friday. Mr. St. Laurent agreed to pass along the request to Mr. Pearson.

It was considered doubtful that Mr. Pearson would participate much as a mediator between the Arabs, who are getting arms from Communist Czechoslovakia, and the Jews who are reported to be receiving more arms from Western nations, particularly the United States.

Nevertheless, a Montreal dispatch Tuesday quoted an informant as saying the Canadian Zionist movement has been assured by Prime Minister St. Laurent that overselling is being done to use the good offices of Canada to prevent an Israeli-Egyptian war.

WAS CRITICIZED

Mr. Pearson was strongly criticized by Canadian Zionist Council men, he said, were "babes in the woods" in trying to assess the Russian situation.

'Hey, Boss We All Need One of These

TORONTO (CP)—Sit down and type yourself a drink.

There's a typewriter on display here that sets them up.

Whenever somebody peeks out the word "Cypak" a large control panel goes into operation and a silver cocktail shaker tips over, pours a two-ounce drink and then rights itself.

The typewriter was built by Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd. and is on display at the Canadian Industrial Management Association conference here.

Cypak is the trade name for the machine. Company officials say, however, it's only a gimmick to attract attention to their more complicated electronically-controlled machines for the automation era.

'Geneva Fever' Is Grave Danger To Western World

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, president of Acadia University, Wolfville, N. S., says the Western world is in grave danger of surrendering its moral principles to appease Soviet Russia.

The West has succumbed to what he calls "Geneva fever" and its current "soft policy" towards Russia could be partly attributed to the impending presidential election in the United States, Dr. Kirkconnell told a "Ukrainian Evening" at McGill University Tuesday night.

He termed the recent visit to Canada of Russian agricultural experts "a goodwill visit at its worst" and said Ukrainian citizens here could not be blamed for staging demonstrations.

Dr. Kirkconnell also criticized news reports issued by Canadian newspaper men accompanying External Affairs Minister Pearson on his visit to Moscow. The newspapermen, he said, were "babes in the woods" in trying to assess the Russian situation.

'Copter Service Five Years Away

QUEBEC (CP) —Helicopter service, the dream of urban commuters, is still at least five years away, it was learned at a current debate at the annual convention of the Air Industries and Transport Association.

The problem of helicopters today was discussed among air executives in the final day of a three-day meeting, after a final anniversary birthday cake was delivered by helicopter Tuesday on the boardwalk overlooking the St. Lawrence river here.

The subject of "air elevators" held the spotlight briefly while the segment spent much of their time discussing North America's radar defence lines. Much of that was in committee behind closed doors.

SAYS PROVINCE PLANS OVERHAUL OF SPEED LIMITS

Toronto Paper States Drastic Changes Coming

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says the Ontario department of highways plans a drastic overhaul of the province's system of speed limits to bring it more into line with modern conditions.

"One result of the overhaul likely will be elimination of the abrupt drop in speed now required of motorists when they enter built-up areas from an open highway," the story says. It adds:

"It was learned last night that the department plans to submit legislation at next February's session of the Ontario legislature which will not only end the province's crazy quilt pattern of limits but give the highways minister complete control over the setting of limits.

"The new legislation will be based on the results of a survey now being made by the department's planning director, W. J. Palmer.

The newspaper says the inconsistency of speed limits as they now are set out is illustrated in the Windsor area where the limit on the district is 30 miles an hour on one side of the street and 30 miles on the other.

Must Provide Cheap Transport For Maritimes

HALIFAX (CP) — The federal government has a "fundamental obligation" to provide the Maritime provinces with cheap transportation for east - west trade, Premier Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia's Conservative leader, told his party's provincial convention here Tuesday.

"Terms of confederation made it clear that there was a basic obligation of the necessity of providing cheap transportation east and west and this obligation . . . should be remembered and honored," he said.

Ottawa had the powers and finances to do this, he added, develop Maritime industries and provide cheaper transportation.

He said the Conservative party initiated the policy of east-west trade and was pledged to it still.

Fireman Injured In $100,000 Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — A $100,000 fire destroyed a building supply plant here overnight. One fireman suffered slight damage to other building in a few feet away.

One fireman was injured when a burning roof fell on him.

Destroyed was the plant of B. C. Sash and Door Co. Ltd. Owner Ross Thatcher said the 40-by-100-foot building contained about $50,000 worth of stock. He valued the building at $25,000. He said the plant was insured.

Cause of the fire was not known.

WANTS CONCRETE BLOCKS

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Edward Schultz sued for divorce Tuesday and asked custody of 2,000 concrete blocks. The petition failed to set out where the blocks came from and what she intends to do with them. She also asked for furniture and household effects from her husband.

STOCK SOLD, FAMILY STILL IN CONTROL

Though relinquishing control of 60 per cent of the stock of the Ford company, the Ford family will still remain in effect the major voices in the policy of the company. With stock about to be put up for public sale at an unspecified price, the 40 per cent that remains with the Ford family will assure them a monopoly of the directorate. Present members of the family here pose in Detroit beneath portraits of Henry Ford, 1903, and Edsel, his son, father of the present heads of the company. Left to right: Benson Ford, vice-president; President Henry Ford 2nd, and William Clay Ford, vice-president.

Toronto Seizes 5 Properties In Slum Empire for Taxes

TORONTO (CP) — Municipal authorities today started to break up a large slum empire in Toronto's downtown Jarvis street area.

They announced that five properties of the 50 reported owned by Johanna Demeth of New York have been seized for sale to cover $1,762 in unpaid taxes.

Four of the properties are houses and lots on Jarvis street. The fifth is a lot on the east side of the street adjoining the houses.

All are registered in the name of Johanna Nemeth, care of Manchester Realty Co.

Ross Gillespie, city treasurer, said taxes for 1954 and 1955 were owing. The properties will be auctioned next Feb. 15. They would be sold by the city if the owner does not yield enough to cover the tax owing.

It was usual for such properties to be sold for considerably more than the taxes due.

The successful bidder on a property does not receive clear title until a year after the sale, he said. During that time the properties may be redeemed by the original owner by paying the auctioned price plus 10 per cent to the city treasurer.

In court today Stephen Fenn, one of four alleged kingpins of the slum empire, was served with papers ordering him to fix up or tear down eight of the slum houses.

The papers, served jointly by the fire and city building departments said the houses are in acute disrepair and are single dwellings used as rooming houses and as such do not have adequate exits.

Fenn was given two weeks to make the requirements.

Fenn, Linus Coghlan, Charles and William Inger were arrested on more than a month ago on 22 joint charges of keeping common bawdy houses. With the exception of Charles Inger all were released on bail. Ingwer was unable to meet the $25,000 bail set for him.

Wants TCA Polymer Sold, Industry Can Do Better Job

TORONTO (CP) — A Socialist, who turned Independent says the federal government should consider selling several crown corporations because private interest "could be better performed by private initiative."

Hosea Thatcher, Independent member of the Commons for Moose Jaw who resigned from the CCF party this year, said yesterday crown corporations have become big business, much of it monopoly business.

In an address to the annual conference of the Canadian Tax Foundation, Mr. Thatcher said that when the corporations had "finished their immediate initial tasks, no wonder it turned a shock, the value of the building at $25,000. He said the plant was insured.

Cause of the fire was not known.

WANTS CONCRETE BLOCKS

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Mrs. Edward Schultz sued for divorce Tuesday and asked custody of 2,000 concrete blocks. The petition failed to set out where the blocks came from and what she intends to do with them. She also asked for furniture and household effects from her husband.

"I think many of these functions could be better performed by private initiative than by the government."

He said people know less about the crown companies than do shareholders of private firms.

The Canadian Tax Foundation is a non-profit organization established by the Canadian Tax Association and the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants. Supported by private donations, it has a membership of 1,850 individuals and companies.

In another address, Provincial Treasurer Leslie Porter of Ontario said that unless the provinces are given an adequate revenue from major tax fields, the future income of the federal government will be in danger.

Mr. Porter delivered his speech at the closing dinner of the conference and said it is necessary in a time of expansion such as this for the provinces to maintain an environment of expansion.

Mr. Thatcher told a session on "control of government expenditures" that it is not Parliament which is the effective watch-dog on government spending, but "rather a small group of civil servants."

"This, he said, "is not a healthy situation, despite the very high calibre of our civil service."

The foundation said Tuesday night it will "extend its same methods and standards of research to the expenditure of government" which up to now it has applied to taxation matters.

Falls' Fiscal Now Completed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A project to ensure an even and continuous flow of water has been made for hydro-electric power stations on both sides of the international border was completed Tuesday.

Ontario Hydro crews removed coffer dams from the bed of the river above Niagara falls. They have been used to dry-up sections while work was being done. Work on the United States side was completed last summer.

The flow over the falls was lowered during the work but a more even flow now has increased the beauty of the falls.

Contracts Awarded By Public Works Dept.

OTTAWA (CP)—Contracts worth $7,138,800, including $4,384,313 for 17 new works, were awarded by the public works department during October, it was announced Tuesday.

A total of $2,093,632 was for repair and maintenance of existing structures and $61,054 for dredging.

The largest contract was for one at $1,636,107 which went to Mathews Conveyor Company, Ltd., of Port Hope, Ont., for supply and installation of new mail handling equipment in the Vancouver post office building.

DEMOCRATS SCORE UPSET VICTORIES IN TUESDAY VOTES

Municipal and State Elections Bring Gains

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats have invested the foundation or a 1956 challenge to the Republican hold in midwest and Atlantic coast areas in the United States with some upset victories in Tuesday's municipal and state elections.

In Indiana, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and New York the Democrats rolled to telling victories, too, giving them organization strongholds, or next year's congressional and presidential elections.

They placed A. B. (Happy) Chandler back in the governor's chair in Kentucky by a surprisingly Republican margin in a state that President Eisenhower lost by 100,000 votes in 1952 gave Republicans there little comfort.

FARM DISCONTENT?

The landslide piled up rolled on Republican mayoralty strongholds in Indiana seemed to substantiate to some extent the Democrats' contention that there is discontent in the farm belt, even in predominantly Republican states. Democrats contend that the small-town—and even big-town—people in the farming farm prices contributed to their woes.

In Pennsylvania, the Democrats swept Philadelphia mayor's office, electing Richardson Dilworth by a wide margin. Dilworth announced in September that he who didn't seek re-election but is now in the race against Republican Senator James H. Duff.

Their failure to beat their way back into Philadelphia, Philadelphia, where they held sway for 67 years before Clark ousted on the scene, disappointed Republicans who hoped to make the city a rallying point of support in next year's campaigns.

TOOK TERRIBLE

In New York, a potential 1956 battleground, the Democrats took a set of three mayoral posts away from the Republicans, though they failed to unseat Republican Governor Averell Harriman. Democratic national committee members predict that the trend spells victory for a Democratic presidential next year.

In Connecticut, the trend which elected Democratic Governor Abraham A. Ribicoff in 1954 after Eisenhower carried the state by 130,000 in 1952 continued in Tuesday's local elections.

Many of the contests in Massachusetts, Maine, New York and Connecticut were considered the most important of the year.

Democrats in Massachusetts retained control of New Jersey's state legislature. But they lost three state Senate seats—one of them, in Essex county (Newark), for the first time since 1908.

Pinay, Adenauer Plan to Confer

PARIS (Reuters)—Foreign Minister Pinay will meet Chancellor Adenauer in Bonn on Thursday, it was officially announced here today.

Informed sources said the meeting probably will cover, Franco-German relations, the situation in the Saar border territory and European integration.

MYSTERY ANT PROJECT

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—An army of ants began a construction job in the police headquarters building Tuesday. They came through a crack in the concrete floor of the drill room, each carrying a tiny piece of cement. Purpose of the project could not be ascertained.

Israel Ready to Observe Armistice But 'Our Aim Is Peace, Not Suicide'

JERUSALEM (AP)—Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion today said Israel is prepared to observe an armistice on the Negev-Sinai frontier but "our aim is peace—not suicide."

Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief United Nations truce supervisor, called on Ben-Gurion to receive Israel's reply to the UN proposal for a lasting cease-fire along the touchy demarcation line.

An Israeli foreign ministry spokesman said Tuesday Israel "accepts the principle" of a new cease-fire proposal made to Egypt and Israel by Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Burns is expected to fly to Cairo tomorrow for Egypt's answer.

The Israeli prime minister outlined his country's position in a statement to parliament with the Jordan UN mediator. He said bluntly:

"If the armistice lines are opened to saboteurs and murderers from either side of the border, they cannot be closed again for the defenders.

"If our rights are violated by acts of violence on land or sea, we shall reserve our freedom of action to defend them in the most effective manner."

Molotov Chills Hopes For Accord With Tough Stand

Western Ministers Amazed, Had Expected Concessions

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers accused Russia today of seeking the "sovietization" of all Germany.

Foreign Secretary Macmillan of Britain, U. S. State Secretary Dulles and French Foreign Minister Pinay denounced the stand Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov took against German reunification Tuesday on his return here from Moscow.

They appealed for the Soviet government eventually to reconsider its position.

Macmillan called the Big Four conference efforts on Germany "a failure" and declared that the Soviet Union was using "the happiness, unity and independence of the German people as pawns in its game" to break up the Atlantic alliance and the Western European Union.

Dulles told today's Big Four session the Soviet position, if persisted in, will "perpetuate conditions which put in jeopardy the peace of Europe," and said Molotov's speech Tuesday "strikes a crippling blow" at the developments of relations of confidence between the West and Russia.

FINAL COMMENT

Pinay said Molotov had made it clear that he would oppose the reunification of Germany "until assured of conditions for the sovietization of all Germany."

Speaking with the obvious authority of his government behind him he had just come from Moscow—Pinay indicated he will urge Molotov to accept the Big Four conference Tuesday that there are only two kinds of Germany that make it possible to get two or three courses: Formally accepting Molotov's plan as final, or trying to devise some formula to keep the talks here going.

A French spokesman said the whole conference might as well be broken off.

West Germany's Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano said he was unwilling to tell the Western ministers that as far as the Bonn government is concerned "the Geneva talks could end now."

The Western diplomats did not support this view. They pointed out that disarmament and other points on the agenda have not yet been dealt with on the ministerial level.

SOME CONCLUSIONS

Barring some conciliatory gesture by Molotov today or by the tough declaration—something not impossible in view of the Soviet tactics—the conclusions seem inescapable:

1. The Cold War is still on in a big way. The Soviet Union not only has thrown its full support behind Communist East Germany but has made a bid for worker support in West Germany. The new accord with Russia's bid for power in the Middle East, the arming of Communist arms to Egypt, indicates that her expansionist policies are still operative.

2. The "spirit of Geneva," born at the Geneva summit conference in July, has collapsed like a balloon.

3. The Soviet stand may strengthen the Atlantic alliance—and speed up the defence effort—of the Geneva spirit. One Western diplomat said: "We are not afraid of Soviet policy we are up against, it is a good thing to know it."

4. The Russian bid to proposed East-West policies on public opinion inside Germany is a critical consideration.

WILL NOT YIELD

Western diplomats were struck hard by the implication that Russia does not intend to yield a position of "positive strength" would not work "as regards the German question or any other question."

Pearson Ducks Queries About Kashmir Dispute

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KARACHI, Pakistan (CP)—Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson today warded off a barrage of questions about his country's attitude as mediator in the India-Pakistan dispute over Kashmir, pointing out that "we have not been asked to mediate."

But the Canadian minister answered persistent questioners at a press conference of about a dozen local and foreign correspondents. One of them asked: "What would you do if personally asked to act as mediator?"

It would call in the expert to advise me," Pearson replied.

Canada was friendly with both Pakistan and India and he was unwilling to express any opinion about the difference between the two countries over the rich Kashmir territory.

FRIENDLY VISIT

Pearson came here Tuesday from Peshawar to finish a three-day visit to Pakistan's state. Near Peshawar he touched off a blast by flying to Jesse Warsak dam project which will cost Canada about $20,000,000 under the Colombo Plan. He also received the ceremonial treatment from the hill tribes, including the traditional gift of seven sheep. The sheep were not used as the main course of a feast.

In a broadcast the minister said the Colombo Plan for aiding underdeveloped Asian areas is one of the greatest ventures in international co-operation for mutual welfare Canada successfully continue with increased contributions.

Asked at the press conference about his recent visit to Russia, Pearson said it had left him no at the extent of persecution of practicing communism for Canada. But he was convinced that all decently minded people in the world work cut a system of peaceful, friendly co-operation with the Soviet Union.

He leaves Karachi tomorrow for Ankara and Athens on Saturday.

urday. His present schedule calls for him to be back in Ottawa next Wednesday after a one-night stops in Paris and London.

Today's Chuckle

The government has perfected a simplified tax form for next year. Here it is:

2—What were your expenses?

3—How much have you left?

4—Send it in.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Skies are expected to clear today over all but the north-western sections of the province and temperatures will begin rising. Although the warming trend will continue Thursday, a disturbance developing in North Dakota this morning will bring cloud and showers to all of Ontario by Thursday evening.

Toronto Boy Discovers Color TV With Glass Chandelier Prism

TORONTO (CP)—Bobby Dawson 13, has invented his own system of converting television into color.

An official of Canadian Electric Company looked at the invention Tuesday night and took it to the company laboratory for study.

Bobby's mother, Mrs. George Dawson, said her son took a three-inch prism-shaped ornament from a chandelier, held it up to the TV screen and got a blaze of color.

However, it was not the true color as transmitted, she said.

This was determined when the family and the company official watched the first Skelton show, which is broadcast in color.

Mrs. Dawson said "the company official was non-committal about the prism."

"But he readily admitted it merited some study in the laboratory. Images in color are brought in nicely from a distance of 10 feet," she said.

Bobby's father called General Electric after the discovery was made Sunday night.

Sale of the wreaths closes at 12 noon Thursday, but there are only a few more wreaths left for sale by the local Canadian Legion branch, Mr. Liddle said.

National Ballet Goes Into Red Kiwanians Told

No one can assess the money value of culture, but when it comes to the cost of entertaining the National Ballet Company of Canada are experts by experience.

Now setting out on its fifth season of bringing the art of the dance to Canadian centres, the Company will arrive in Belleville next Monday. Yesterday an advance breath of the appealing and artistic air the company carries with it was inhaled by Belleville Kiwanis Club. A National ballet, staffer Miss Lillian McLure, was guest speaker at the club's weekly meetings

Miss McLure's address in the main concerned the history and organization of the company but what probably emerged as the most interesting part of her talk was the financial coat and loss incurred by these achievements.

BAD SEVERAL DEFICITS

On its last tour in 1951-52 of 20 local Canatio centres the company lost $24. However, the following season came the first big loss with the company going $120,000 in the red. Since then the attempt to make the sun rise on appreciation of the dance has kept the company inked in a red glow. In 1953-54 it lost $84,000 and last year it incurred a $10,000 deficit on its tour of Ontario, Quebec and United States centres.

The company has been kept afloat through the red. Since then businessmen and various persons and organizations expressing their interest in the ballet in monetary fashion.

Despite this, the company, with an age group ranging from 14 to 28 years, has been able to achieve something in the line of triumphs both inside and without Canada.

In New York last year, the company was applauded through 17 curtain calls, something unheard of in that metropolis, Miss McLure said. In Washington, it was literally mentioned in dispatches when the Canadian Embassy there sent a special report on its reception to Ottawa.

Now the company sets out on its fifth season, and the likelihood is it will incure another loss.

MUCH YOUTHFUL ENERGY

Probably the secret of National Ballet's survival and ability to keep afloat despite advsese winds, lies in the age, already mentioned of its members. Youthful energy and optimism aside, they also have a greater interest in their company, under its director Celia Franca, than older, established artists. Their future depends on the survival of their company, the only classical training ground in Canada for dancers.

When Miss McLure introduced her company, pointed out Miss McLure, "she was not looking for great dancers. She was looking for Canadians who could be great dancers."

He is, this year, treasurer of the Hastings County Junior Farmer Association.

Charge 3 Youths Raped Girl, 17

Three Belleville teen-age youths have been arrested by provincial police and charged with rape following an alleged assault on a 17-year-old local girl Monday night.

Arrested are Rodney Sharpe, of St. Paul street, Gary Stanley and Geddes street, and Giuseppe Ferraro. All three youths are about 18 years of age.

Acting Crown Attorney Ralph Graham said the three youths would appear in county magistrate's court on Thursday. It is expected they would be remanded for trial at a later date.

The girl's complaint was originally lodged with city police, but from it was learned the alleged offense took place outside the city limits, the investigation was turned over to the provincial police. The three youths were arrested on Tuesday and lodged in the county jail.

Christmas Mail For Overseas Should Go Soon

Now is the time to mail Christmas parcels for overseas delivery.

Christmas mails can be the occasion for wails.

Few of the wails come from postal workers despite the sweltering, back-breaking load during the season of gift-giving.

Most of them come from the general public because of the late delivery of gift-parcels, greeting cards and occasional letters of felicitation.

Despite the wholesale employment of extra labor by postal authorities to deal with the glut of mail, much of the trouble is caused by the general public itself by late mailing.

With Christmas a little over a month away, it might be a good time to start thinking right now of taking those wails out of the mails.

The December deliverer's a number of mail steamers leaving on schedule for all parts of the world. However, it might be as well to bear in mind that making the overseas run in winter is only half the battle.

Christmas goes on all over the world at the same time and the same problems face postal workers everywhere. Mail must arrive in time to ensure early sorting and dispatching from these points.

As for the U.S., a notice from the Post Office Department in Ottawa points out that parcels for south of the border should be mailed not later than December 8th.

Only 150 Tickets Left for Ballet

Only 150 tickets remain for the appearance of Belleville audience of the National Ballet Company in the Belleville Collegiate auditorium. Sales have been steady since the box office opened at 10 Bridge St. East, Monday morning, and ticket manager Don Thomas is confident of a sellout.

Mr. Thomas said this morning that those who purchased tickets by mail order, but who did not enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with their order, may pick up their reserved seat tickets at 10 Bridge St. E.

Some good seats remain on the main floor of the auditorium. The ballet has been sold out for a week.

The National Ballet Company will perform the classic "Les Sylphides," the romantic comedy "Pas de Quatre" and Offenbach's rousing ballet "Offenbach in the Underworld."

The company's Belleville appearance will open its North American tour that will include performances in Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Charleston, Knoxville, St. Louis and Milwaukee.

Police Blotter

Pigeon Lofts Raided Again

Raiding of pigeon lofts in the city and district has reached a definite epidemic it is revealed by complaints reaching city and provincial police.

Monday night a city resident reported that his pigeon coops had been raided, while again last night pigeon thieves were active in the Hillcrest area.

Thomas Woodcock, West street, reported five pigeons missing, while a Mrs. Jones on Bryon street complained that six of her pigeons had been taken overpens.

Provincial police are investigating the thefts in the Hillcrest area.

Otherwise police had a comparatively quiet night.

In the city a party of boys riding bicycles had sport with garbage cans in the East Hill district. Garbage cans on several streets were reported knocked over and contents strewn. When police went to investigate the parties responsible had disappeared.

Prowlers were reported in the George street area, while George DeYurst complained that a gallon can of fuel oil had disappeared from his home on Highland Ave. He said the door had been left unlocked.

OPP Check Shows Local Vehicles In Good Condition

Autos stopped by provincial police in the Belleville area during the current checkover program of the highways department, have been found in good mechanical condition, Inspector A. McDougall stated today.

"Our spot checks have shown that cars in the Belleville area are in good mechanical shape," the inspector noted. "Our only complaint is that many pickup trucks fail to have the required red rear reflectors in addition to tail lights.

The inspector went on to note that the highway act calls for all commercial vehicles and trailers to carry red rear reflectors whether in the lights of the left side of the body and placed in such a way as to reflect the headlights of vehicles approaching from the rear.

Many drivers of small pick-up trucks, failing to comply with the regulations, had apparently been unaware that reflectors were necessary.

"On the whole, however, we are pleased with the mechanical condition of cars in the Belleville area as shown by our spot checks," said Inspector McDougall, "and we thank the public for their co-operation."

Father of Nurse Sues Car Driver And Policeman

TORONTO (CP)—The father of a student nurse, killed when a stolen car mounted a sidewalk and struck her as she waited for a bus, is suing the driver and a policeman who shot at him.

Anthony Colangelo, a Toronto shoemaker, charges in his writ that constable Bruce Priestman fired in a careless, reckless and grossly negligent manner.

Priestman was acquitted of criminal negligence at a recent trial.

Civil Servants Urged to Study Union Benefits

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario government employes should become a new association president. Their choice may hinge on how they feel about their alliance with the trade union movement.

Harold Bowen, in a bid Tuesday for re-election as president of the Ontario Civil Servants Association, urged delegates to a study the benefits of affiliation with a labor body. He was speaking at the association's annual convention.

David Farmer, Mr. Bowen's opponent for the presidency, said the Public Service Act prohibits government servants from forming a union or carrying on collective bargaining.

Montreal Expecting Less Unemployment

MONTREAL (CP) — Officials of the unemployment insurance commission predicted Tuesday there will be less unemployment in the Montreal area during the coming winter than there was last year.

The prediction was made at a meeting of commission officials to discuss possible means of easing the annual winter unemployment problem, which is particularly acute in the Montreal district.

The prediction was based on the fact that there was a one-third drop in the number of unemployed in September, 1955.

11,200 Voters In City Eligible To Go to Polls

Approximately 11,200 voters will be eligible to go to the polls during the municipal election to be held December 5th.

This is roughly the number of names contained in the 1955 voters' list which has been out now for some days, with advance copies placed at designated points throughout the city. These copies are placed to allow residents to check to see if their names are properly listed.

Saturday Judge J. C. Anderson will sit at the city hall to swear in voters whose names have been omitted and to delete others which should not appear on the lists. Approximately 80 names will be considered by Judge Anderson on Saturday.

Early next week the accepted names will be typed out and placed in an appended list at the back of the voters' lists.

NEW! DIFFERENT TREATMENT FOR MASTITIS
"NEW" GARGETEX
with "penetrating" Nixine Base
STOPS MASTITIS OR YOUR MONEY BACK!
"NEW" GARGETEX contains combined antibiotics with the anti-bacterial chemical "Hexylresorcinol" to give the Canadian farmer the most effective medication yet developed for the treatment of Mastitis.
An important feature of "NEW" GARGETEX is "Nixine Base", a penetrating water soluble vehicle that carries the medication into the smallest crevices of the udder. This action assures complete internal udder medication that will not leave pockets of mastitis germs to re-infect the udder as ordinary mastitis ointment bases do.
Supplied in single tubes at $1.00 each or in the economical HERD-PAK of 6 tubes. Also supplied as "NEW" GARGETEX INFUSION in 10 dose bottles for large dairy operators.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices drifted forward in the first hour of business on the Toronto stock exchange today and the trading pace quickened after Tuesday's slow session.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 1,132,000 shares compared with 797,000.

Industrials moved slowly with only two issues gaining a point or more—Aluminium, up $2 to 107 and Ford A, $1.75 higher at 183¾. Trace ground gains moved steels to firmer ground. Financial institutions, papers, foods, liquor, tobacco and refining oils also recorded a majority of gains over losses.

Most of the senior base metals advanced fractionally, though light profit-taking sent International Nickel back ½. A few coppers and uraniums were active.

McIntyre led improved golds with a $1.75 advance but other changes were confined to a few pennies.

In an irregular western oil section, Central Explorers moved up 20 to $6.70.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Trade was at a near standstill on all classes in the medium quality offering at the Ontario public stockyards today. Sales were confined to good and choice slaughter steers and heifers, lower grade cows and bulls.

Sales on heavy offerings of common and medium killers were too few to establish prices. Good cows continued in narrow demand with the few bids offered on a lower basis.

Receipts: cattle 327; calves 196; hogs 317; sheep and lambs 373; carryover from Tuesday 3,600 common and medium killers and stockers.

Prices: choice 20-21; good steers 19-20; a few common and medium steers 12-18; some good heifers 17-17.50; boner steers and heifers 8-12; a few medium fed yearlings 17-20; good cows 10.50-11; canners and cutters down to 6; good heavy bologna bulls up to 13; common and medium light bulls down to 9.

Replacement inquiry in dairy class was slow with some medium stockers and stock calves at 16-17.50.

Calves were strong with mediums closing 1 a hundredweight. Good and choice vealers were 24-26, with sales to 26.75; mediums 17-23; commons 10-16; grass calves sold for slaughter 9-12.

Hog prices: grade A 22.50; sows 16 dressed; stags 13 dressed.

Lambs were steady at 19.50 for good handyweight ewes and wethers; bucks discounted 1 a hundredweight while heavy lambs discounted 2. Common and medium lambs were 13-17. Good light sheep were 8 and common and heavy sheep down to 2.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 3-32 per cent, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Tuesday's noon rate was 99 29-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.80 1-16, against $2.80.

STOLE COLLECTION, JAILED

TORONTO (CP) — Alfred W. Findlay, 35, was convicted Monday of stealing $6.50 from a Sunday school collection at St. Paul's Anglican church. He was sentenced to six months in jail.

Waited 3 Years For U.S. Arms Egypt Declares

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt has charged that "postponement and promises" on requests to the United States forced her to buy weapons from the Communists.

The government statement Tuesday night was Egypt's explanation of a move which suddenly spotlighted a growing struggle between the West and the Communist bloc for influence in the restless Middle East. Egypt's declaration was an effort to refute a report that Cairo suddenly turned to the Communists for arms while negotiating with Washington.

(In a dispatch from Washington, the New York Herald Tribune says the U.S. is giving top-level consideration to asking the United Nations Security Council to put an embargo on all arms shipments to the Middle East. It says this is one reason why Washington is reluctant to sell arms quickly to Israel to match Egyptian purchases from Czechoslovakia.

SEE EGYPT RUPTO

(The embargo plan was said to have been worked out in consultation with Britain and France in Geneva and in the three Western capitals. The Herald Tribune says the United Nation body would vote the embargo proposal in the Security Council if no other action would "expose Russia to the world as a munitions merchant bent on grabbing off the Middle East security of millions of people.")

In Geneva the U.S. and Britain today were reported arranging high-level talks within 48 hours to check their next moves against Russia's diplomatic offensive in the Middle East.

Diplomatic officials in the Swiss city said high priority is being given to a suggestion that either President Eisenhower or Prime Minister Eden—or both—speak directly to Premier Bulganin for Russian co-operation in maintaining peace in the Middle East. State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Secretary Pineau, Canadian, in Geneva for the Big Four foreign ministers' meeting, would draft the U.S.-British plan.

EGYPTIAN STORY

The Egyptian statement gave this account of Cairo's arms negotiations:

Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser first asked for American arms in 1952 but by October, 1955, "not a single piece of military equipment" had been received from the U.S.

On Sept. 27 Egypt announced a cotton-for-arms deal with Communist-governed Czechoslovakia. Egypt is reported to be receiving submarines and shiploads of fighter planes, tanks, and heavy guns under this deal.

The Egyptian salvo in the diplomatic battle between Russia and the West came shortly after renewed gunfire crackled on the tense Egyptian-Israeli border. As usual, the two sides gave different versions of the clash.

An Egyptian spokesman said Israeli troops, led by four armored cars, crossed Egypt's frontier at the southern tip of the Negev desert border and were driven back by Egyptian forces.

Casualties were listed as four Israelis killed and eight wounded.

In Jerusalem, an Israeli military spokesman claimed the Egyptians had crossed Israel's border near Eilat and opened fire from ambush but were driven back after 45 minutes. Casualties were not listed by Israel.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Marooned Six Hours on Island After Boat Capsizes in Lake, Hunters Treated for Exposure

TRENTON (Special) — Two of the shift's motor.

Twenty-four hunting cutbers- Finally, near midnight, the ably today in Trenton Memorial shouts of Swenner were heard by Hospital after treatment for exposure when they were marooned on a tiny Lake Ontario island Tuesday night.

In hospital recuperating from the ordeal are Clifford Squier, 29, 191 Dundas Street East, and George Swenner, 25, 81 Bay St.

Both men were shooting ducks early in the afternoon about a mile off shore near Brighton, when their boat tipped over, pitching them into the lake. They were stranded on a tiny island until midnight when they were rescued by a search party.

Unwittingly, the searchers passed them several times while the shouts of the marooned men were drowned out by the wind and the engine noise on the searching boat.

Both men left Trenton about 2 p.m., Tuesday, with Swenner's 18-year-old brother, Eugene, and Donald Squier, 18. They set out in a V-bottomed boat powered by a homebrewer motor, for Stoney Point, near Brighton, to shoot ducks.

LOST OAR FOR ISLAND

The two younger men were put ashore near Stoney Point while Squier and Swenner put out for a big island about a mile out in the lake near Weller's Bay.

They were about 50 yards out from the island when the boat tipped and the occupants fell into the lake. Apparently the motor was accurred on the side of the island away from the mainland and went unnoticed by the younger men waiting for the others to return.

Swenner and Squier pushed the boat and its motor onto the island. A string of smaller islands, flood and bars, stretched from their landing place to the mainland and the men decided to try to reach shore by wading from island to island.

PASSAGE BLOCKED

However, part way to shore they found their passage blocked by deep channels. Darkness set in and both men were too exhausted to attempt to go forward or back. Because of this they also found it too risky to attempt the journey back to the bigger island.

Cold and tired, they dug themselves into the sand to keep warm.

Meanwhile, Eugene Swenner phoned Squier's mother and inquired if he was home.

Discovery that both men were still missing resulted in the Trenton police and Brighton O.P.P. search party was formed by Floyd, Harry and Wilfred Ellis, Ray Hamilton and Sam Ellis, of Trenton, and Arthur Bruyea of Belleville.

At Barrowsea Beach, near Stoney Point, Howard Cooper put out in his fishing skiff to search the lake, with Charlie Buckstuh and Harry Allard. Equipped with flashlights they combed the surrounding water for several hours without result.

WATCHED LIGHTS PASS

Meanwhile, on their tiny island, Swenner and Squier watched the lights of the search party pass them, by several times. Their desperate shouting went unheard because of the wind and the noise

Find Live Virus In Six Samples

WASHINGTON (AP)—The public health service announced today that "live" virus now has been found in all six originally suspect lots of Cutter polio vaccine. An earlier study had indicated live virus was present in only three of the lots.

The announcement said that type 1 virus—the most virulent kind—was found in all six lots.

The health service gave these new details in saying that official laboratory tests of Salk polio vaccine produced by the Cutter laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., prior to adoption of new government standards, have been concluded.

FBI Wants Man Held at Rouyn

ROUYN, Que. (CP)—A United States citizen, arrested here following a minor traffic accident, will be held for deportation to the U.S. where he is wanted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on unspecified charges.

William Cody Poole, 28, of Mobile, Ala., said he accidentally drove his car into a house at Arntfield near here while he was en route home from Kirkland Lake.

Police said Cody went to Kirkland Lake to visit a girl friend. The girl, Jacqueline Chien, was in jail on a theft charge and Poole started home.

Provincial police arrested him after he drove into Ontario following the accident. A check showed the car had been stolen in Detroit, police said.

VILLAGE WIPED OUT

KOBE, Japan (AP)—An early morning fire wiped out a village of a tiny island in the picturesque Inland sea area. All 200 houses in Minamiku community on Nu Island were destroyed, reports said.

Tried to Start Auto With Heater Button

NEWMARKET (CP)—A policeman who testified in a drunk case Tuesday said he found the accused in the middle of a highway trying to start his stalled car by pushing the heater button.

Furthermore, said constable Ronald Aillase, the motorist "fell flat on his face" when he got out of the car to produce his driver's licence.

At one point, the constable added, the motorist said: "The two of you come over here."

James Davis, 54, of Sutton, Ont., was convicted of drunk driving and given seven days in jail. He was also fined $10 for having liquor in an illegal place.

Girl Drowned, Man Fined $25 For Poor Brakes

SARNIA (CP)—Noah Adam Shipman, owner of a car which carried an 18-year-old Indian girl to her death at the Sayre channel ferry dock last month, was convicted Tuesday on charges of having inadequate brakes on the car, and permitting the girl to drive his car without a license.

Shipman was fined $10 and $2.50 costs on each charge.

Janet White, of Walpole island Indian reserve, was at the wheel of the car when it plunged off the ferry dock into 20 feet of water.

Arrest Mother For Abduction

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A police escort left here today for Halifax to arrest Mrs. Gladys Mabel McElrea and Elma Melba back to Owen Sound. Melba is a member of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps. The two are charged with abduction in the disappearance of David McElrea, 10, and his sister Linda, 8, of Owen Sound.

RCMP in Halifax, who arrested Mrs. McElrea and Melba, placed the children in the custody of Halifax police. The children will return with the police escort to Owen Sound where they live with their father, Herb McElrea, and their paternal grandmother.

Aviation Writers Receive Awards

QUEBEC (CP) — Writers from across Canada Tuesday were given awards at the annual meeting of the Air Industries and Transport Association.

Leslie Roberts of Montreal won first prize in the class for non-technical publications and also won the new international award for the best article with a Canadian aviation theme published in Canada, the United States or Britain. His story first appeared in Harper's magazine.

James Hornick of the Toronto Globe and Mail won three prizes, two in different classes of newspaper stories, and the other for a series of stories. Ro Kervin of the Montreal Gazette was given top prize for editorial writing.

WINTER WORLD

"Many birds migrate, spending the winter in Florida, Southern Carolina and other warm places; and they don't wait until retirement age to do it," grumbles the Frederiction Gleaner. "Could New Brunswick possibly acquire part of Florida and move its entire population there for the winter months? Impractical, of course, but how nice it would be. Galling to think that the birds manage it so easily, and humans can't."

The distribe against the Canadian winter will strike a responsive chord in the minds of many. But there will be others who will find this attitude as incomprehensible as the southward flight of the ducks must appear to the moose. And which is the typical Canadian, the fleeing duck or the enduring moose?

There is a type of person found in the Canadian winter which those whose hearts retreat southward with the sun every fall must be missing.

Do they know the crisp frosty kiss of the north wind on some sunlit hill, lying warm and snug beneath a flashy blanket of snow? Have they not listened to the song of the sunset wind through the creaking arms of gaunt elms? Has the swamp never whispered to them of mysteries in the still of an afternoon, when even a light-footed fox makes the frozen tufts speak to passers-by? Has the wind-whipped white face of the lake ever such a speedy highway as the shining ice which has pinioned the water until spring shall kiss it into life again?

And if the Canadian will visit the sun in the city, is there no solace to be found in a season which paints his smoke-blackened garage with frosty tracings, which covers that compost heap at the back of the yard, which hides the leaves that were not raked during the duck season, which smothers the persistent grass and lets both mower and mower-pusher learn a little rest from their respective toils? Is there nought to be said for a season when picnics are not a compulsory activity on a Sunday afternoon, when it is permissible to lie abed until the sun has passed its zenith, when it is not too slippery to visit mothers-in-law, when the lady of the house is ready to admit that cleaning chores must wait for better weather?

Yes to all of you who, to whom, sweet and sweat, to flower and gardening, lawn and mowing, warmth and work.

But leave the rest of us to wonder at the beneficence of nature which can produce a season in which any type of activity is an impossibility or a joy, depending upon whether we wish to settle falling flakes to be a barrier across our front door or an invitation into wonderland.

LITTLE OLD LADY WAS LOADED

A little old lady walked into the Meadowbrook Hospital in East Meadow, N.Y., recently and was treated for a sore leg. When asked if she could pay the $1.50 fee she drew a $63,000 bankroll from her suitcase, peeled of a $2 bill, accepted the fifty cents in change and departed.

Every so often stories like this leaven the news. If it isn't a little old lady with $63,000 to pay a $1.50 medical bill it is a pig found to have dies unstitched gut and who is later discovered to own the biggest building in town along with healthy balances in several banks. Or someone discovers that a penniless drunk by the river bequeathed a fortune in old tin cans; eccentric brothers who lived for years amidst a mounting squalor of old papers are found to be millionaires, and so on.

Where do little old ladies get $63,000? Any number of intriguing possibilities leap to mind—It could be a legacy from a wealthy uncle whose cat hospital failed, breaking the heart of the uncle, the remains of which were staketo victory; the last of a million-dollar fortune dissipated by weak will and strong drink.

It is not unreasonable that little old ladies, per se, could accumulate anything as impressive as $63,000 while tolling as washerwomen.

Why do stories like this are apparently destitute and to whom any sum greater than 27 cents should look like a bonanza treat fabulous sums like $63,000 with the informality of a dirty shirt?

One could say a little old lady with a sore leg and $63,000 to be moaning in secluded and padded comfort while orthopedic specialists hastened from the four corners of the medical world to dance attendance at her bedside.

It is not to be supposed that the little old lady in East Meadow, N.Y., amassed her $63,000 by following the conditions of her own medical plan although it seems eccentric in this day and age to imagine anyone with that amount of money and a sore leg hiking to the hospital for treatment but paying the bill in cash without resort to health insurance.

It is incongruities such as this that make news.

MAN GOING THE WAY OF HORSES

In Ottawa, Mayor Charlotte Whitton's car developed carburetor trouble. She fixed it with a bobby pin.

Then she drove to a service station to have a broken carburetor spring repaired.

Asked the service station man: "You do this yourself?"

"Yes, sir," replied Her Honor, politely.

"If this goes on men'll soon be as extinct as horses," observed the service station man, sadly.

Who will miss a horse or a man if there is a good mare or mayor around?

SILLY

"You silly old fool," they often say,
And I guess they're right. In my foolish way
I do many things as the days go by
That I never would do if wise were I.

"You silly old fool" and it must be so,
For I stay as broke when I ought to grow
And I keep among a toy or a sweet I buy
Even if I know better, I should
I choose to remain just a "silly old fool"

"You silly old fool" and their words are plain
That I ought to be grave, but the wise men keep what they ought to save.
Let the wise men teach and the wise men rule.
"You silly old fool" and I cheerfully plead
Let the wise get rich and the wise be grave.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

The many friends in Belleville of Mr. Harry J. Coon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Coon, George Street, this city, will be pleased to learn of his promotion to the position of Supervisor of Branches of the Bank of Nova Scotia, in the service of which he entered in 1914. For some time Mr. Coon has been the manager of the bank's investment department at Toronto. He graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, in 1906 and won a gold medal in mathematics.

At a meeting of the Gunners' Club the present officers were reelected for the ensuing year. The governing body is composed of the following: president, F. Wiggins; vice president, W. Hall; A. Payne; second vice president, W. Finlay; secretary - treasurer, R. J. E. Graham; sergeant-at-arms, W. Service. The executive committee is composed of W. Black, W. Green and C. Kiser.

Years ago there was not a public library in this city and what was called the Mechanics Institute was the leading library and many citizens obtained books from it. Besides the library there was a reading room with papers and magazines and also a billiard room with two tables. The Institute was located on the second floor in the West Robertson block on Front Street for some years and later in part of the ground floor in a building at the south east corner of Front street and Victoria Avenue. The Institute was governed by a board of directors. Below following fact is from our file copy at this time in 1935: "The Mechanics Institute will issue tickets from the 1st to the 21st inst. until January 1937, for $1. This is a saving worth while and no doubt many citizens will take advantage of it."

Stratford was one of those Ontario cities which did not quite get on the map of Canada immediately after the war. Its population was not increased by one seventh in the last fifteen years. Then the Shakespearean Festival was founded by Dr. Stratford's business men, who had the courage to back up Dr. Tyrone Guthrie's convictions, and to give him a chance to make his dream a reality.

This attitude on the part of Stratford business men paid off. A great many people go to Stratford every summer who never went there before. The merchants and operators of gas stations, hotels, restaurants, and so on have netted a good deal more than their original investment in the Festival.

Now we read that in the last few months, seven new industries have been established with a total number of 200 employees in the new jobs. In other words, in the past year, Stratford has created the need for something like 2,000 more people—an increase in its population which is almost as much in one year as it previously had been in fifteen.

Courage and foresight will always be rewarded, and we think that there are many passages in Shakespeare's plays which could be applied to Stratford's advance. We will merely content ourselves with rewording a piece from Hamlet and say "Blessing came not single spies but often in battalions." The only thing that other cities might bear in mind is that they will come only if you want them badly enough to do something positive about it.

City Clerk Wilfred Holmes and city assessor John A. Kerr have about completed the scrutiny of the local option petition which was presented to the city council on Oct. 30. They are reported to have found that 950 of the names are those of properly qualified voters. Of the 280 names remaining, the majority are new residents, who will be qualified to vote at the municipal elections in January but who are not required in the same manner by the petition, which has last year's lists for its basis. Total number of names appearing on the voters' list is 5,735; of these 514 have been found to be duplicates, leaving a balance of 5,220 to be considered in the petition. The petition, therefore, to compel action on the part of the city council requires a total of 810 names. The petition will be taken up at the next meeting of the city council and if found satisfactory the local option bylaw will be given its first and second reading.

Same Speed Limit For All Roads Odd

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

RE TRAFFIC CONTROL

The Attorney General has rightly decided to crack down on motorists who wantonly disregard the 80 m.p.h. limitation. We have been specifically drawn up for the safety and for the protection of the public. These regulations apply to careless driving, reckless driving, driving on the side, making turns—particularly left turns, following too closely, tailing, pulling out from parking space without regard to traffic and failing to signal properly.

Hitherto the police have been chiefly concerned with speeding, even when there are no obstacles and the driver has a perfectly clear road ahead. It is also odd that the speed limit on the four lane highway is 80 m.p.h. and on our dangerous, corkscrew coppath known as Highway 2 we generally there to check careless or dangerous drivers then we are all for them. If, however, they are simply there as a public nuisance with the likely intention of trying to enrich the city treasury, like so many unnecessary parking meters, then we are opposed to this further type of persecution.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There may still be cities, or at any rate, large towns in Canada where you can keep a cow in a stable at the back yard, or a chicken run full of fowl. But sometimes within the last generation the principles of public health plus the virtue of civic pride put an end to cows and rellies in towns and cities.

In my boyhood in Toronto, which is a city big with cows, you knew there were four cows within visiting distance of your house, that is within the four blocks contiguous to my home. And as for chickens and ducks, half a dozen of the neighbors kept themselves supplied with eggs and fowl. There was a pound with a chicken run in the back yard.

Horses, of course, were commonplace. Bisecting every city block was a lane, and corresponding to a stable in the back yard, or a garage today, there was a barn. In these lanes were faced with stables of all sorts, as common as garages are today. Red everybody kept a horse, of course. The lanes were always full of horses being shoed in the back of everybody's property, and you could see your neighbor's ashes not to the front of your house, but back to the lane, at the foot of the yard, where the garbage collectors came and picked up. If you didn't own a horse, you could at least rent your stable to a local horse trader or keep by shopping streets.

Who could keep a horse, why not a cow? And chickens and ducks, or occasionally a goose furkeys? The rooster's crow was a familiar city sound in my childhood. The moo of a cow not at all unfamiliar. The whinny of the horse was common place is the horn of cars today.

Miss McNabbe was a neighbor of childhood. What her true name was has vanished, but Miss McNabbe she was to me. Because to memory, She was an elderly spinster who lived by herself and kept in her cosgaard garden, and everybody around took their table scraps over to Miss McNabbe's to return she would sell us fresh eggs at the prevailing market price. In time, she got a cow for her stable, and chosen neighbors were elected to receive milk daily, at the going price. She was taking orders for fresh milk and cream enough to keep a few hogs to her garden when she died at the age of 90, and ended the interesting chapter of an era.

Now, dogs are having a tough time keeping a toe-hold in cities.

Wolves, Bears Annoy Farmers

(Sudbury Star)

There is a distinctive northern flavor about the brief of evidence for presentation to the next general meeting of the Sudbury and District Municipal Association .It will deal with the "wolf and bear problem".

Farmers around the Massey district have been losing by livestock losses and molestation by wolves and bears. The department of lands and forests is opposed to bounties because the bait is willing to assist in wolf hunts.

We have never seen a wolf hunt yet that produced much more than a dead dog or two. Wolfs. The wolf is much too wily to fall for the bait or the ambush tactics. And experienced trappers will tell you that the best way to get away a good shot at a wolf.

As to an increase in bounties that is another matter. If they are booted around for many, many years. Bounties have been increased and they have been decreased, but without any appreciable change in the number of wolf pelts turned in for bounty collection.

There was the suggestion at one time that there should be some "bootlegged" into Ontario from Manitoba to secure the higher bounty there.

Discussion before the Sudbury and District Municipal Association might bring out the official attitude at Queen's Park in connection with the wolf and bear problem in Northern Ontario.

In The Comfort Zone

I have scanty gray hair.

I have received scores of similar reports and I can only repeat what I have said here before—I don't know whether the iodin ration or anything else actually restores the natural color to hair that has turned gray. I'm inclined to think that improved nutrition makes the individual look better in every way—skin, nails, eyes, hair, and feel better too, and in such circumstances one is easily persuaded that his or her hair has resumed natural color. I do not mean to question anybody's veracity, but on the other hand nobody can show me his or her hair to prove anything. In order to reach a positive conclusion about it I'd have to observe the individual or individuals closely both before and after the correction of nutritional deficiencies.

As for the individual's comfort there's no question about the importance of an adequate daily intake of iodine.

Lacking a suitable daily ration of iodine can do no harm in any conceivable circumstances. I urge everyone who feels cold or chilly when normal persons round about him or her are comfortable, supplement his or her regular diet with a daily wee bit of iodine or iodide, far less than a medicinal dose, daily. Especially if his or her hair is becoming prematurely gray.

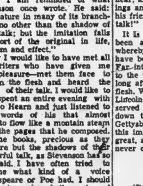
QUESTION THOSE CONVICTIONS

No doubt you have some very strong convictions about certain matters—politics, religion, and economic. Have you ever tried questioning your strong convictions from the very point of view you are conscious and laying them out, as it were, on the table before you and then asking yourself if you will be willing to believe precisely the opposite of this if the opposite could be proved true?"

Try this as an exercise in cultivate broad-mindedness. Take some conviction about which you feel absolutely sure, then write a opposite, and then ask if perchance that thing might be true. Some would say that an exercise like this sort would weaken one's convictions. But if we have to keep our convictions under lock and key all the time, then they are worthless, and we do not have much of a hold on them, anyhow, do we? Especially if his or her hair is becoming prematurely gray.

TODAY'S TALK



By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOOD TALK

Time and again, as I have looked upon the books in my library that I have gathered over the years, I am reminded of what Robert Stevenson once wrote. He said: "Literature in many of its principles is no other than the shadow of good talk; but the imitation falls far short of the original in life, freedom and effect."

Every time I like to have met all the writers who have given me such pleasure—to have sat face to face in the flesh and heard the music of their talk. I would like to have spent an entire evening with Lafacio Hearn and just listened to the words of his tales as they seem to flow like a montain steam from the pages that he composed. In the books, precious as they are, are but the shadows of their originals. Of the originals, as I well said, I have often tried to imagine what it would be like with Shakespeare or Poe had. I should like to have heard the voice of Winston Churchill as he addressed "Parliament Assembled in Council" at Westminster Village." I shall always be happy over the fact that I have, many times, talked with Robert Frost, whose poems I so much love. I can hear him in his pasture now, as I read them!

Lady Trainmen's Christmas Bazaar, Tea Most Successful

Christmas is just around the corner; stores are adding the yule-tide touch to their displays in red and green ribbons and colorful cards.

Nothing could again that note was emphasized in the beaming face of Santa Claus as he looked down upon the eager shoppers at the Lady Trainmen's bazaar and tea in the IOOF hall, and in the garlands of red, silver bells, and glistening colored globes which adorned the various booths. Those who came to shop for Christmas gifts did not go away disappointed - for there were many from which to choose, as well as a few items to be had by lucky tickets.

Receiving were the president, Mrs. L. Reynolds, Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. A. Alexander, while Mrs. I. Willerton graciously invited to the tea room, with its little guest tables, each one arranged with a white cloth, lace-edged or prettily embroidered and centred with a further Christmas note, a little silver candle rising from a cluster of silver leaves and the berries of gold, green, blue and rose. The little serviettes also bore the holly touch.

PRETTY TEA TABLE

Presiding at the prettily appointed tea table with its rose-colored hand-crocheted medallion cloth, lit lovely centrepiece of tall red candles guarded by shorter white ones rising from a mound of frost-topped evergreens adorned with red satin ribbon bows, and here and there tiny, metallic grapes, were, Miss Dorothy Brown and Mrs. Berry; Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Buck; Mrs. Quinney and Mrs. S. Morgan.

Serving the daintily arranged plates of sandwiches and little one-bite cakes, were, Mesdames B. Simmons, D. Dimmet, L. Addy, B. Buskard, E. Buskard, B. Arthurs, E. Rose, A. Pfunder, H. Robb, I. Smith, C. Brethour, M. Haslip and R. Noyes.

ATTRACTIVE BOOTHS

The five attractive booths were pleasingly arranged around the assembly room. The children's booth, was centred by a little Christmas tree bearing on the tips of its branches little colored globes, and round about its base and scattered over the counter were numerous little packages, each wrapped in colorful paper, and containing either a toy book, or toy. Mrs. F. Scott had charge of this.

Next in order came the booth of novelties and fancy work, with Mrs. A. Hawley, Mrs. A. Burrows, Mrs. G. Diment and Mrs. C. Coleman convening. At either end was a Nativity scene with sleeping sheep and cattle, and in between a whole medley of articles, little salts and peppers in little human figure style; a fancy dish mop; a grazing horse; amber colored candy jars; Christmas ribbons and cards; embroidered luncheon clothes; stencilled pinafore bag with little cottage and wire handle to slide along the curtain rod—a new gift for every busy housewife—embroidered tea towels; doll dresses and baby slips; fancy serviette holders; baby kimonas in shell pink; all kinds of crocheted pot holders and hot plate mats; embroidered table runners; baby socks, an ecru dolley with fan corner; tiny little booties in white crochet with green pompons and green edges, and many little mitts.

SHREDDED COCOANUT CAKE

The homecooking was next with Mrs. J. Ross, Mrs. Kitchen and Mrs. R. Ferguson in charge of the date loaves, pumpkin, apple and lemon pies, bread buns, jelly rolls, jam tarts, chocolate cakes, drenched in minced cocoanuts, and many others including a mouth-watering cake, white as snow, and covered with tempting shredded cocoanut; along with this assortment were the candies: bags of chocolate fudge, cups of maple creams, and chocolate dipped pickles, the jellies, and the jams, and the banana and nut loaves and date squares.

Behind the parcel post with its black grill was a little archway, was the genial postmistress, Mrs. M. Stearns whose parcel post packages were gradually being called for and delivered.

MANY PATRONS

The apron booth, again drew a goodly crowd with its nice variety both in materials and in colors and styles. There were half aprons, and a few of the all-over type made from print; ginghams, in red and white check; a pretty yellow apron was most attractive with its pink and green checks outlined in ric-rac braid; a butterfly apron in blue was literally covered with little butterflies while big fellows soared across its border; a dark apron was highlighted by a crezionne pocket of appliqued oranges with bright green leaves; there was also the patchwork apron having each of the days of long ago when aprons were made from grandmother's left-over quilt pieces; and lots and lots of others with floral backgrounds, each one pretty and worthy of a place on some Christmas gift. Mrs. J. Addy, Mrs. M. Clapper and Mrs. F. Beaudry were the conveners.

Among the various items that would go to the lucky ticket holders were a beautiful, all wool satin-bound blanket of a well-known make convened by Mrs. N. Robb; a tea cosy in rainbow colors; and a door prize of electric blankets. These were won by the following, the blanket by Mrs. E. Cornell; door prize, Mrs. W. Shane; tea cosey, Mrs. Burley.

The treasurers for the afternoon were Mrs. M. Morgan and Mrs. L. Willerton.

Appreciative thanks go to the conveners of the bazaar and tea, Mrs. H. Smith and Mrs. R. Noyes for a fine bazaar and dainty tea, and to all those behind the scenes who assisted in its successful culmination.

To Stay Young, Look Better Keep Busy

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—The way to stay young, look your best is to keep busy, says Margaret Rudkin, a grandmother, retired grandmother whose latest honor is the award of the Medallion of Honor from the Women's International Exposition.

Mrs. Rudkin, who started with a loaf of home-baked bread and built an international business, says:

"My own grandmother had retired to her shawl and her rocking chair at my age, and wore her bonnet and best black silk dress only on Sundays."

Mrs. Rudkin, on the other hand, is given to frivolous Paris hats and spike heels, keeps up with the latest in art and literature and manages a far-flung business empire with accomplished ease.

KNOWS EMPLOYEES

Deftie her fantastic success, however, she knows every employee at her Pepperidge Farms in Norwalk, Conn., and personally supervises the old-fashioned ingredients and hand processes that go into her bread.

Mrs. Rudkin has a granddaughter Margaret Hudkin, aged 10 months, daughter of her son Henry J.

Says grandma: "She's simply wonderful, has red hair just like me, and I'm going to see to it that she has a career. I'd like to see her go to Harvard business school."

Mrs. Rudkin feels that the world's happiest women as well as some of the most glamorous get that way from keeping busy, not sewing bored, having more than they can do most of the time.

Says she:

"When you're in business you have to be on your toes, look your best and spend less time at it. When you have to do these things, you do them, and manage to be efficient about it.

"I think women's worst enemy is boredom, which comes of not having enough to do. I might add that I never have had that trouble."

Y.F.C. Rally Held In Alliance Church

Mr. James Blackwood, of Bowmanville, director of Y.F.C., gave a special welcome to all of the visitors, including many teenagers at the Youth For Christ rally held at the Alliance Church, Belleville, Saturday evening.

The song service was conducted by Mr. Mac Belch, who led in many familiar hymns and choruses and was accompanied by Mrs. Beverley Cochrane at the piano.

After the fine sing-song, Mr. Glenn Brooks led in prayer.

The music of the evening was supplied by a teenage trio from Bethel Baptist Church.

The boys gave their testimony as to what the Lord Jesus Christ meant to them, personally, after which they played various musical numbers on the accordion, trumpet and clarinet.

TESTIMONIES

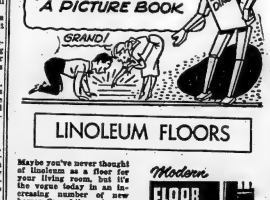
Following this Raymond Masse, 17, gave his testimony, basing his thoughts upon Romans 10: 9 and 10: "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with heart man believeth unto Righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

Raymond challenged all teenagers to witness for Christ and said "that one man with God is a majority."

Robert Anderson, of Quinte High School, chose as his Scripture Hebrews 13: 5, "Let your conversation be without covetousness, and be content with such things as ye have: for He hath said 'I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee'."

USHERETTES

Four teenage girls also played an important part in the rally. The girls acted as usherettes for the evening and were as follows: Misses Lois Wright, Carol Rowland, Monica Gay and Marjorie Bronson.



Mr. Tindale, of Toronto, soloist, rendered two songs entitled "I've Found a Friend" and "What Shall I Give Thee, Master?"

SPEAKER

The speaker of the evening was Mr. Fred Hale, a Christian business man of Toronto. In the course of conversation he outlined the plan of salvation under three headings: "The Universal Gift," "Laws Unavoidable," and "God's Plan and Purpose." He said, only the Lord Jesus Christ could cleanse the heart of sin, rebellion, unbelief and pride. Christ's main purpose in coming into the world was to save lost mankind. Mr. Hale used such familiar Scripture verses as Rom. 6: 23, "for all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God," and Isaiah 53: 6, "all we like sheep have gone astray."

He challenged each one to examine his or her heart before God and said that if they had not made that all important decision of taking Christ as Savior to do so now.

The service closed with the singing of "Just As I Am Without One Plea."

LINOLEUM FLOORS

Maybe you've never thought of linoleum as a floor for your living room, but it's the vogue today in an increasing number of new homes. Club Activities

ST. ANDREW'S CLUB

St. Andrew's Presbyterian club, Ivanhoe, held its annual turkey supper in the church parlors on Thursday evening. The entire congregation was invited for this occasion.

Following the delicious repast served by the club members, the gathering was called to order by the president, Mrs. Harold Thompson, who expressed pleasure at the large number present.

Following the singing of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," the Rev. W. H. V. Walker led in prayer.

The Scripture lesson was read by Mr. A. Hassall.

A reading, "Autumn Scene" was given by Miss Margaret Wright. Mrs. John McInroy and Miss Beverly McInroy sang "The Humming Bird Song."

The report of the nominating committee was read by Mrs. L. Sills.

Lambda Beta Sigma Phi Formulates Plan

Jean Miller was hostess on Monday evening, to a well attended meeting of Alpha Lambda Chapter Beta Sigma Phi.

The meeting began by the members repeating the opening ritual in unison after which Jane Sheppard introduced the speakers for the cultural program. Jean Kuntze presented "The Enjoyment of People" and Flora Carr gave a pleasing address on "Your Day Socially."

Sheila Pink, who transferred here from Portage La Prairie, was fittingly introduced by the president, Merle Ray and welcomed by the members.

Plans were completed for a dinner to be held at the New Queens Hotel on November 28, with Gamma Mu Sorority as guests.

Several beautiful items for the Christmas doll layette were made by the members in charge of convener Gerry Read.

Jean Smith distributed the tickets on the doll which will be displayed in the Singer Sewing Machine window next week.

A card table is to be purchased and presented to the Christian Women's Association Home by Mavis McLean and Jean Kuntze on behalf of the chapter.

The closing ritual ended the meeting after which a pleasant social time was enjoyed with tasty refreshments being served by the hostess and co-hostess, Helen Joblin.

The next meeting is November 21, at the home of Eileen Smith, 215 Victoria Avenue.

Purpose of Juvenile, Family Court Explained at H-S Assoc.

The November meeting of the B.C.I.V.S. Home-School Association was held on Monday evening with president, Mrs. R. G. Williams, presiding. Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. D. I. MacKinnon, probation officer for Belleville and the County of Hastings.

Mr. MacKinnon explained the purpose of the Juvenile and Family Court which originated in 1950. A juvenile is a child under the age of 16, and offences committed by these children are known as delinquencies rather than crimes. All cases are held in camera in the judge's chambers with no publicity permitted. The only record of the case is a file in the Family Court and one with the RCMP in Ottawa.

PRIOR TO FAMILY COURT

Previous to the instigation of the Family Court, children were charged under the criminal code with choice of trial by a magistrate or trial by judge and jury and held in jail or under bail. Law now forbids incarceration of juveniles. They may be sent to training schools, to foster homes, placed on probation or the case may be adjourned indefinitely. Sometimes a child is sent to a training school because its home environment is understandable, or the parents refuse or neglect to insist that the child attend school.

The religious rights of the young offender are considered and Roman Catholic boys are sent to St. Joseph's Training School at Alfred, and the girls to St. Mary's, Toronto. Protestant boys go to Bowmanville with the younger ones being transferred to Cobourg. The training school for Protestant girls is in Galt, where an honor system is used with considerable success.

The probation officer represents the juvenile in court and is the child's legal adviser. A juvenile is rarely represented by a lawyer.

Some of the more common causes of juvenile delinquency are: lack of parental control, or influence; broken homes; lack of outside interests or money to buy them; poor reading habits; poor movies and mental dullness. Most predominant offences are theft and forgery; the Family Allowance cheque being a favorite target for the forgers.

TO BRING HARMONY

The Family Court endeavors to bring harmony to upset homes; keep the family together and keep down delinquency. The County of Hastings has the comparatively low delinquency rate of one per cent, whereas in other parts of the province the rate is as high as nine percent. The Family Court also trys to keep the members of a family from becoming public charges.

Fathers who are not supporting their families are contacted and made to assume their respective abilities. Often the wife is not interested in support of herself, but will seek help for her children. Twenty-two thousand dollars pass through the Family Court's books yearly for this purpose alone.

Some of the causes of family strife and broken homes are: lack of funds or jobs; in-law trouble; mental cruelty; other men and women; incompatibility; excessive drinking; lack of respect; foolish spending; poor housing and husbands doing the family shopping.

Mr. MacKinnon pointed out that the probation officer is sworn to secrecy; that he had great respect for his and thinks of the men, women and children who come to him as people with hearts and feelings rather than simply as cases.

Miss Beverly Fox, B.C.I. student, outlined the activities of the H-I-Y club to the parents. This organization welcomes all students regardless of race, creed or economic level, provided they are willing to accept the H-I-Y purpose and responsibilities. The principle underlying H-I-Y activities is service. Some of the club's projects have been: aid to the Hospital Auxiliary; Red Feather campaign; tagging for various organizations; Christmas baskets; carol singing at Christmas carols in the hospital; party for students of the Ontario School for the Deaf; salad of School Christmas cards; operation of the Lost and Found Department at B.C.I.; and the remodelling of a room at the YMCA.

At the H-I-Y weekly meetings devotional periods are held and guest speakers are enjoyed. The pool and gymnasium at the YMCA are available to members. The B.C.I. club took part in the regional conference at Coaticking, Ontario, and Sherbrooke, Quebec, and also sent a delegate to the centennial in Paris, France.

HI-Y CREED

Miss Fox closed by reciting the HI-Y Creed and Purpose: clean speech, clean sport, clean scholarship and clean living, and to create "I," which was, and is, the open air, maintain and extend in the home, the school and throughout the community high standards of Christian character.

Mr. E. A. Orr, principal, brought the parents up to date on the school news. He thanked the Home-School Association for the service of refreshments at the recent commencement exercises and outlined the progress being made in the building of the school's new cafeteria. It is hoped that this modern addition will be in operation early in the new year.

The wreath purchased by students' contributions was on display and Mr. Orr stated that at Remembrance Day service held in the school every student would wear a poppy as his contribution to the Poppy Day fund.

Quebec Women Are Not Bound By Tradition

TORONTO (CP) — The buying habits of French-Canadian women, says a Quebec authority, explode the myth that Quebec is bound by tradition.

Valmore Gratton said at the Advertising and Sales Club's French market conference:

"The average Frenchwoman will replace her furniture more often, purchase more clothes, and throw them out quicker."

He said French-Canadian women are so changeable in their styles and tastes that they make the women of English Canada look like rock-bound traditionalists.

UP-TO-DATE

Among the younger people of Quebec today, quality and permanence matter far less than being up-to-date, Mr. Gratton said. French - Canadian women were a more style conscious in clothes, too.

"Where an English - Canadian woman might buy one costume for $150, a French-Canadian would be more likely to buy three for $50 each and have been up-to-date while perhaps sacrificing some quality."

Mr. Gratton also found a difference in food buying. He said French cuisine is more tasty and diversified and the average French-Canadian family consumes more food.

"How well I know what I mean to do
When the long dark autumn evenings come."

Robert Browning was fortunate wasn't he? If he lived today, he might find that there are so many things to do, it would not be so simple as all that. Autumn is here with so much to do and so many worthwhile activities to choose from. Some say we are over-organized but on the other hand since even the hairs on our heads are each different, maybe, it is a fine thing for society that our interests, need be without an outlet for his or her interests. Like our hairs, we are each different, and a myriad of different choices offer themselves to us.

Belleville and district women are proud of one of their number; Mrs. John E. Buchan who is the newly-elected president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries of Ontario. Mrs. Buchan and children moved to Belleville in September, 1949, with her husband who is an executive officer of the Bakelite Company. Before coming to Belleville, Mrs. Buchan had been a lifelong resident of Toronto.

There she has been actively interested in welfare work as a member of the Neighborhood Workers. In 1951 she was elected vice-president of our local auxiliary and after six months became president. Before her recent election to the provincial presidency, Mrs. Buchan was editor of the Volunteer, a newsletter from the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries of Ontario.

The position of provincial president is one of great responsibility and great challenge, and is a full-time endeavour. It will entail extensive travelling into every part of the province. It will require, too, many absences from her home and family but the sacrifice is cheerfully and willingly accepted. Mr. and Mrs. Buchan have both contributed generously with their time and talent to the reality of the new wing being built at the Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Buchan is grateful to have Mrs. H. J. Pike of Belleville as her corresponding secretary and Mrs. H. Ramsay Park, Trenton, as one of her executive.

Another woman in our district has been singularly honored. For the second time in all Ontario and for the first time in Eastern Ontario, a woman has been elected president of a branch of the Civil Service Association which represents all civil service employees of the government of Ontario. Miss Dorothy Dowdell, secretary to the district inspector at No. 9 district headquarters of the OPP, is the new president of the Belleville branch. Miss Dowdell is also vice-president of the Belleville Club of Business and Professional Women. She was born at Perth, attended Napanee High School, coming to Belleville four-teen years ago for her business course at O.B.C. Her mother and father live in retirement at Shannonville.

Shoppers may be startled to see Christmas decorations and displays in the stores already, with the Hallowe'en masks scarcely out of sight, but they will be elected to the forgiving fact that it is only six and one-half weeks away—Christmas, that is. There are substantial markdowns in hosiery this week at several places and early Christmas shoppers will likely stock up on this stand-by gift. The plaid look is everywhere, skirts, jackets, housecoats, and of course, umbrellas. The very useful and popular plaid suits with comfortable pleated skirts are probably at the lowest price now that they have ever been. They come in a variety of tartans and other designed plaids.

The shelves in food stores, allotted to materials for fruit cake and Christmas baking are at their orderly best and freshest.

Don't wait too long.

For present use, lamb seems to be about the most advantageous buy, since it is in November that Ontario spring lamb comes to its peak. Freezer owners are making the most of the low price on legs of lamb to stock up when their dollar goes farthest. Whole eviscerated small chickens, averaging 2½ lbs., are in very good supply at a most attractive low price.

Our own district apples are by far the best buy in the fruit line —best for the pocketbook and best for you. Stores especially are offered at their top quality and at the lowest current prices. They are good for all purposes—pie, sauce, steamed and eating out-of-hand.

Good shopping!

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THREE STEPS TO TAKE TOWARD SOLVING YOUR PROBLEM

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am the mother of six children, three in high school, two in grade school and one at home. My problem is with my husband and his everlasting drinking and running around with other women. He has a good job, makes good wages, is a good worker, but doesn't know how to look after his money. He gives me money for food on weekends, but otherwise I scarcely have a penny.

Our bills are never paid when due. Sometimes I am given money to pay a bill; then the real estate until he decides to pay again. He drives an old car, and we do not own the house we live in.

He gets paid every weekend. Then he comes in drunk, and spends, dresses and goes out, sometimes staying until the next morning he gets up and starts drinking. Saturday morning he gets up and starts drinking again, is out all Saturday afternoon and night until early Sunday morning, running around with women.

Before the babies were born, he always had other women, so he would even leave me home sick and go to do things for one woman who was supposed to be a great friend of mine. Once he went to live with a soldier's wife who had four children. I went and applied for support for my children and myself, which I got until my husband settled in the army, when I got an army allotment. He served overseas two years and a half, and when he came home and I took him in again he was worse than ever.

He treats the children like dogs, even though the oldest one's work helps to buy their clothes and keeps food on the table. The only thing he does for them is to feed them, and he never says a word to me.

I get so discouraged I don't know where to turn or what to do, and I do need your help, so I can.

Dear L.M.:

It seems to me you need advice of more than one kind in this complicated problem of yours.

First, there is the matter of your husband's drinking, and to find out what would be the best way to handle this, you should get in touch with the local Alcoholics Anonymous group. I know there is one in your town, and any church, or your local newspaper, should be able to tell you how to contact it. The members of this group make it their business to advise wives and other relatives of men with the drinking habit, and I am sure you will get many useful suggestions from them.

Again, there is the problem of your husband's association with other women. Here, I would suggest that you confer with your priest or pastor. I realize that you would probably prefer not to have your husband know that you had discussed his behavior with anyone, and perhaps you can get sufficient practical advice from whomever you talk with so that you can make some progress toward solving the problem on your own. If however, the priest, or pastor, feels he should talk with your husband, then he should be wise enough, and experienced enough, to know how to approach him so that he would not be angry with you.

Third, you have a money problem, and I think this should be discussed with your local family welfare agency. These people are accustomed to problems of this type, and will help you find the wise way to deal with it. Tell them all the details of your situation freely, and they will know what you should do about these financial worries.

"Here, then, are three steps you can take to get-to-person advice on all your difficulties. Will you take them, and let me know in a little while how you are making out? If the situation does not grow better, there may be further steps you should take, and I will be glad to try and point them out to you.

THE AGE DIFFERENCE MATTERS HERE, RITA

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am a girl of 15, and I am in love with a boy only 12. He feels the same way about me. I met him last summer, and we have written to each other since then.

He isn't like ordinary twelve-year-olds. He is mature mentally and acts like a boy of 16 or 17.

Should I keep writing to this boy, or should I go with older boys and forget about him? Do ages really matter? — Rita F.

Dear Rita:

The answer to your question about age differences is that sometimes they matter and sometimes they don't. It all depends upon personalities, maturity, standards, attitudes and viewpoints.

In regard to this twelve-year-old boy and yourself, though, I think it does matter, and I strongly advise you not to send mail or give special friend of him. However, mature you may consider him, if the boys around you, your own age should get the idea that you prefer this younger boy, they would undoubtedly look upon you as a girl who is very immature for her own age. Then, later on, when you stop thinking about him—as I'm quite sure you will, very soon—and would like to go out with boys you know in school and in your town, you may find they aren't interested in asking you out on dates. And that, I think, is sad.

So build up your friendships among the boys around you, and with whom you share activities in school, and you'll have a far better time. And by the way—if I were you, I wouldn't be in too much of a hurry to talk about being "in love" with any boy. Save that for the future, when you're several years older.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CONTRIBUTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have had made printed sheets of letter-paper, my formal name (for example, Mrs. Alexander Brown) and address on top of each sheet. I have just been asked to be "collector" of contributions for a national charity organization from all the houses in this large section of our community. I am typing the letters I'm to send out with the explanatory leaflet and addressed envelope.

1. Is this the correct form for my signature to these letters:

Very sincerely yours,
Anne S. Brown

2. Should I also write my formal name (Mrs. Alexander Brown) under my signature? — A.

1. Yes . . . this is the correct form for your signature to these letters.

2. No . . . because your formal name is printed at the top of the sheet.

CORRECT FORM FOR WIDOW'S NAME ON ENGRAVED INFORMALS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister, who is a widow, has several times expressed the wish to have informals with her name and address engraved on them. Now I would like to give her supply of these for one of my Christmas presents, but her will you please tell me the correct form I should order for her name on these? — Sister

The correct form for her name as a widow is the form of name she used when her husband was living . . . Mrs. John Paul Miller.

DIFFICULT COMPLICATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married soon, and I need your advice about the proper procedure for my wedding invitations and the write-up in the newspaper. I am living with my married sister and her husband. My mother passed away several years ago. My father has re-married and, due to family disagreements and such, we are no longer in contact with him.

1. Under these circumstances is this a proper form for the newspaper announcement of the engagement: "Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Sonia Smith, of 36 Main Street, Mr. Alan Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jones," etc.? (All names are fictitious, of course.)

2. I would like to have my brother-in-law give me in marriage, as he has been very kind to me. In the newspaper write-up of my wedding, I should like to say that I am the daughter of Mr. Thomas Smith and the late Mrs. Jane Smith. Is it in the second paragraph I will state I will be given away by my brother-in-law. As my father lives in the city where we live, is this proper?

3. Would it be proper to have my wedding invitations worded in this form:

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown . . . request the honour of your presence . . . at the marriage of her sister etc.

1. Yes.

2. This should read: "daughter of Mr. Thomas Smith and the late Mrs. Smith," thus avoiding, as you should, the use of the first name after "Mrs." And even though it is your plan to have your brother-in-law give you in marriage, it is not necessary or appropriate to include this information in the newspaper announcement.

3. Yes. Or the third line may read:

at the marriage of Mrs. Brown's sister

ABOUT SENDING BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm in a quandary about sending birth announcements. I have chosen ones that I think are especially good-looking, and I would like to send them to my friends and relatives, on both sides and to all our friends. I think there will be many relatives and friends who would like to see the cards ready to send out, will know about the baby's arrival. My question is: If we send announcements to them would they think this is a marked lack of etiquette in us that we don't send them announcements, would they feel hurt that we didn't? Thank you. — Mother-to-be

I think you should send these good-looking cards with the happy news of the baby's arrival to the entire list of your relatives and friends. . . then there would be no chance of any of them feeling disappointed. Even those who know about the baby's arrival may not know about the baby's name, and this you of course include in the announcements. Relatives a n d friends like to see these joyous announcements and may keep them for the birth-date. Don't worry about them as bids for gifts . . . think of them simply as announcements, and let nature take its course as to the gift-giving inclination of those who receive the announcements. That's their privilege.

Glaze for Fruit Cakes And Answers to Readers

By Mary Moore

As I promised last week tomorrow I am giving you the fruit cake recipe I have chosen for your Christmas 1955 baking.

In today's mail a letter arrived asking for "a good shiny glaze to put on the top of fruit cake." Since I know how the mail is going to increase when the Christmas baking urge seizes you I am going to give that glaze recipe now. Would you serious Christmas bakers please clip it and put it somewhere you can find it when you want it?

GLAZE FOR FRUIT CAKES

This is shiny but not sticky.

Stir together 1-3 cup light corn syrup and 1-4 cup water. Brush this just to a rolling boil and immediately remove from heat. Cool to lukewarm. The cake must be cold before glaze is poured over and it may be applied before or after storing.

Fruit cakes are usually decorated after they are stored. Cut candied cherries and citron peel into interesting petal and stem shapes and arrange them in flower shapes with leaves, etc. If you glaze the cake after it is stored, while glaze is still moist press decorations into it so they will cling and dry with it. Cakes glazed and decorated in this way would not have almond paste or frosting on of course.

Mrs. Howard H., the reader who asked for the glaze, asked also for "a recipe for a good refrigerator cake suitable for an evening lunch dessert." Here is a recipe I have never given you before.

VANILLA REFRIGERATOR CAKE

One-half cup butter, 1 cup powdered sugar, 3 eggs, 1-3 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup fresh walnuts or pecans, coarsely broken, 2 1-4 cup vanilla wafers, rolled (measured after rolling of course). Cream the butter and sugar together until they are very light and airy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add vanilla, nut meats and 3-4 cup of wafer crumbs and beat together well. Butter an 8-inch square pan, spread 3-4 cup of the crumbs over the bottom, spread the creamed mixture evenly over these crumbs, sprinkle all remaining crumbs over the top and pat gently. Let stand overnight in refrigerator, covered with waxed paper. Serve with or without whipped cream, cut into squares or oblongs.

My dear Mrs. Moore: A thousand thanks for the pickle recipes and the brownie recipes . . . when Hubert sampled the sandwich relish he said "That's it!" and my heart swelled with thanks to you and me for having pleased him. I've not tasted the mustard and onion ones yet except in the making . . . I just know they will be perfect too . . . I passed along the relish to a friend who gets her eggs from me. Mother used to make a rather sweet tomato sauce which she called Bob Sauce. You might like to try it. It is 7 lbs. washed and peeled tomatoes. Pour 1 1-2 cups vinegar over them and let stand overnight. In the morning add 6 cups granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon ground cloves, 1 tablespoon salt (or to taste) and boil slowly until thick (4 or 5 hours). It is dark and sweet and lovely with cold meats.

Again my sincere thanks for your assistance and may you be spared for many years to enjoy the very full and useful life you have. — Faithfully, ANSWER:

Thank you Elisabeth. It sure is full—and I hope it's useful.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR BEAUTY ASSETS

A good hand mirror will help to analyze features, the first step necessary in a beauty-building program.

Not every girl is endowed with classic features, of course, but every girl has one good feature which, properly played up, can give others the illusion that she is beautiful.

There's no particular trick to this. It's just a matter of self-discipline. Study yourself carefully. And do it with mirrors—a good hand mirror in which to study your facial features and a full length mirror in which to study your figure. Face yourself fairly and squarely and try to see, as others see, what are your good qualities and which are the bad ones; which are your best features, and which the least attractive.

If you find it difficult to be objective about self-criticism, seek out someone who will honestly give you constructive help on how to improve in both appearance and personality. It isn't necessary to spend a lot of money in beauty salons, either. The most important thing is to learn what, in way of cosmetics, clothes and hairdos best brings out your personality and not try to adapt yourself to any particular pattern, design or new fad. The short haircut, for instance, is extremely attractive on some girls, but does nothing at all for others. Clothes that look lovely on a tall girl may make a short girl look actually dumpy. Instead of trying to force yourself into a style pattern, adopt a style trend to suit your individual personality.

And, if up until now you feel you haven't made the very most of your assets and are suddenly decide to try, don't expect a metamorphosis overnight. It takes time. If you have been applying make-up in the wrong way, or have never taken the time to learn how to fix your hair attractively, it is something you will have to achieve with practice. Try your hair in different ways before making a final decision. Try different shades of make-up and consider the color of your clothes and your hair. Experiment with cosmetic counters can be extremely helpful in this regard.

If you've never achieved good posture, it may take some time for you to learn to walk, sit and stand without slumping, but it can be done if you set your mind to it and practice—not now and then, but Exciting things are happening to leather which make for fascinating new clothes for town, country or travel wear. Samuel Robert has used soft, lovely Cabretta kid leather for an exceedingly attractive and interesting three-quarter sleeve jacket which swings to the back to give the hips a slim look. The high flap pockets and the low placed self-band that simulates a belt make for the last word in fashion. How smart over a beige dress, a slim tweed skirt or with riding clothes!

New Leader of Hart House Orchestra Has Had Varied Career

BOYD NEEL

Canada, and indeed North America as a whole, won a valuable addition to its musical life when Boyd Neel, who will appear here on November 12, at B.C.I.V.S. auditorium with the Hart House Orchestra, was made dean of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto two seasons ago. Founder and conductor of England's famous Boyd Neel Orchestra, he was well known to audiences on this side of the Atlantic via his London recordings even before his succesful tour here with that ensemble during season 1953-53, on the occasion of the Boyd Neel Orchestra's 20th anniversary. In appreciation of his services to music, Queen Elizabeth II made him a Commander of the British Empire on the 1953 New Year's honors list.

A Cambridge graduate, Boyd Neel was a promising young physician when he founded the chamber orchestra which subsequently reflected so much credit on his name. Their first concert in London's Aeolian Hall was a great success, launching the orchestra on a career which soon caused Dr. Neel to give up his medical practice to devote his entire time to music. In the following twenty years they performed in almost every corner of the globe, including the Edinburgh and Salzburg Festivals (they were the first foreign orchestra invited to appear at Salzburg), recorded extensively and broadcast countless times on the BBC.

In those years Mr. Neel also appeared as guest conductor with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, the London Philharmonic Orchestra, the London Symphony Orchestra, the BBC Symphony Orchestra, the Sadler's Wells Opera Company and the D'Oyly Carte Company, and with nearly all of the first rank orchestras in Western Europe. Nowadays he is heard regularly on Canadian Broadcasting Corporation radio and TV Trans-Canada networks as guest conductor of the CBC Symphony and, as commentator, his weekly program, "Open With Boyd Neel," is a popular radio feature. He was guest conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra in a subscription pair last February.

It wasn't long after moving the centre of his activities to Toronto that Boyd Neel, whom a London paper recently rated "the Toscanini of the chamber orchestra," furnished an answer to the prevalent $64 question: Would he form a Canadian Boyd Neel Orchestra? Under his direction, and with the patronage of the Right Hon. Vincent Massey, C. H., Governor-General of Canada, a group of Canada's most outstanding instrumentalists was formed into the Hart House Orchestra. The ensemble, which consists of 18 strings (violins, violas, 'cellos and double bass) for this initial tour, perpetuates the name of the famous Hart House Quartet which performed throughout North America and Europe in the 1920's and 30's. Hart House is the name of the community cultural centre of the University of Toronto. The orchestra's pre-tour engagements include many appearances in Toronto, the 1955 Stratford (Ont.) Festival and frequent Canadian Broadcasting Corporation performances.

Argyll Chapter Welcomes New Members

The November meeting of the Argyll Chapter IODE was held in the Officers' Mess, Belleville Armouries, last Monday evening with 22 members present.

The meeting was opened by the Regent Mrs. Everett Fairman, with the prayer of the Order.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

Two new members Mrs. Robt Laughlin and Mrs. Fred Burtt, were welcomed into the chapter by the Regent. The members were glad to have Mrs. Fred Sprague back after her extended visit to England and the continent.

Mrs. Fred Sprague read the treasurer's report and Mrs. Fred Symons the minutes of the former meeting.

The regent thanked the members for their donation and work at the jummage sale held in October. A letter was read from Quinte Secondary school thanking the Argyll Chapter for the beautiful portraits of Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. These are hung on the wall of the main entrance to the school, and are greatly appreciated by the teaching staff and pupils.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE

The members agreed to place IODE calendars in the public school rooms as had been done in previous years. Mrs. P. H. Willis and Mrs. Angus Duffy were chosen to represent the Argyll Chapter IODE, and will place a wreath on the cenotaph at the Memorial Day service.

The next meeting will be held on December 5, at 8 p.m. in the officers' mess, Belleville Armouries. Members were asked to bring a donation of canned goods, clothing and toys, to be used in the Christmas boxes for needy veterans' families. These boxes will be packed at this meeting.

The meeting was closed by the regent, Mrs. Everett Fairman, and the members enjoyed a delightful evening of court whist, high score going to Mrs. Gavin Scott, and consolation prize to Mrs. Harold Keller.

Refreshments were served by hostesses, Mrs. Angus Duffy, and Mrs. Jack Cousins.

ROBBED 2,000 CHURCHES

FAIRMONT, Minn. (AP)—Police chief George Cavers said Monday a man, held here admitted robbing about 2,000 churches in the United States, Canada and Mexico of about $25,000 during the last 18 months. The man gave his name as Glenn Smith, 32, of Toledo, Ohio. He was quoted as saying he had a "grudge against churches" because "those same people who turned me down for jobs go to church."

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Ross Lee (Mother of 3)

A column-reading mother writes: "I was surprised to find that I learned more about what was best for baby through the little mistakes I made. After all, I didn't really know she would prefer being bathed, fed or dried another way until I did it the wrong way." Interesting! The "trial and error" system obviously has real educational value.

Protective shaving plan. So many hints, anecdotes and short-cuts in this column are suggested by mothers I bet half you. Why not your ideas other mothers? Just send them to me. Gerber-Daystar Baby Foods Ltd., Box 68, Toronto 14, Ontario.

Vitamin C, so necessary for sound gums and body tissues, cannot be stored in the body, so baby should have a good supply every day. Gerber Strained Orange Juice, processed but for babies, has a consistently high vitamin C content. Made from tree-ripened oranges, mellowed by the sun and selected for mild natural flavor, appealing golden color. Naturally it's pasteurized for baby's protection and specially strained so it can easily be fed from spoon, bottle or cup.

Picks pull. Skip the frills and fancy trimmings when you take baby to the doctor for check-up visits. Diaper, shirt, wrapper, receiving blanket—pick for quick and simplified stripping.

Roll-neck. When buying sweaters for baby, choose tight weaves. They're less apt to snag, won't catch on baby's fingers.

* * *

"Solid" start. When baby's ready for his first solid food, get him off to a good start with Gerber's Cereals. When mixed with milk, formula or other liquids, they have a creamy texture that feels extra-nice. Gerber's Cereals are enriched with calcium, B-1 Vitamins and the iron babies need shortly after birth. For variety, rotate all four: Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal.

THOMASBURG

Wayne Carter Wins Soap Box Derby

THOMASBURG.— The soap box derby under the auspices of the Sigma C Boys' club on Saturday at 1.30 p.m., drew spectators from all the surrounding district.

The winner of the race, which took place on the hill from the United church to the corner at Mrs. Richardson's, was Wayne Carter with Glenn Bowan, second and Richard Morton, third.

All entrants, about 15 in number, received a prize in recognition of their efforts, the prizes being donated by Mr. C. Adams.

The club, consisting of boys from Thomasburg and Moira neighborhoods, is undenominational and is under the leadership of Rev. C. R. Chapman with Donald Kennedy as assistant.

In the evening the boys and their fathers were guests at a delightful "Father and Son" banquet in the vestry of the United church, catered to by the mothers.

Honors System Is Called Farce

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Mirror says the system for awarding peerages and royal honors has become a national farce run by and for "the Right People."

The article by columnist "Cassandra," whose real name is William N. Connor, says the "whole concept of what deserves national recognition from the Crown should be revised." The Mirror officially is independent but actually pro-Labor. It claims a daily circulation of more than 4,500,000, Britain's largest.

The article suggests that the number of awards be drastically cut and that recommendations be made only by an advisory committee of "outstanding men and women." It concludes: "What could be a matter of real prestige and pride is degenerating into a national fancy dress parade that does no credit to those who plan it and those who play it."

WON'T SEEK OFFICE

BRANTFORD (CP)—Mayor Reg Cooper, nearing the end of his second term in office, said Monday night he will not seek re-election for 1956. To date only one man has declared himself a candidate for the mayoralty. He is alderman Richard B. Beckett.

Magnetic Ink Will Eliminate Store Cashiers

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian housewife soon may find automation replacing her stove and even the familiar supermarket cashier.

The prediction—that automation will be the first big industrial change—was made Tuesday at the Canadian National Packaging exposition.

Jack Gensen, sales manager for Steinberg's, a Quebec firm of chain stores, told 5,000 persons attending opening day sessions that magnetic ink on the bottom of purchases will automatically ring the cash-register as milady pushes her groceries through a monitor. The system will operate faster than human hands can do the job.

An electric plug built right in frozen food boxes will eliminate the need for stoves.

Conservation Not Keeping Pace With Growing Demands of Public

Written For The Canadian Press
By WILLIAM KILFOIL

FREDERICTON (CP) — Bruce Wright is a burly 200-pounder who thinks game conservation policies may not be keeping paces with the demands made by a constantly increasing human population.

Wright is director of the northeastern wildlife station on the campus of the University of New Brunswick here. He's author of "High Tide and West Wind," the story of the black duck, and an upcoming book titled "The Ghost of North America," dealing with panthers.

Into his 43 years he's crammed a lot of adventure, including more than three years service with British's first frogmen unit which fought the Japanese in their own element, the beaches and jungles Burma.

INCREASED INTEREST

Since the war, he says, there has been an aroused interest in game management work. Half a dozen UNB graduates have gone on to take a master's degree in this field. At least one of them plans to study for a doctorate.

"The value of our wildlife is increasing each year, and up to now this important forest resource has not received its fair share of attention," he contends. "The emphasis has been too much on production of wood from our forests and the value of fur and feathers has tended to be overlooked. I hope we will learn before it is too late."

Wright's career in game management began before the Second World War when he was a forester with the federal forest service stationed at Fredericton. He had heard many stories of panthers in eastern Canada, although long believed to be extinct. Through the years, he's been able to collect plaster casts of panthers' feet, albums of track pictures, photos of deer kills by panthers, a photograph of a panther killed in eastern New Brunswick several years ago and countless stories of their appearance. During recent years signs of the animal have been reported in most northeastern states of the U.S. and in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Ontario.

Bruce Wright was the first Canadian in the game management course at the University of Wisconsin, and the first Canadian to win a master's degree in game management.

WORKED ON DUCKS

His first post-graduate job was with Ducks Unlimited, where he was commissioned to survey duck breeding in the Maritime provinces. Outcome of this was establishment of the northeastern wildlife station at Fredericton, operated by the Wildlife Management Institute of Washington, a non-profit organization sponsored by industry.

The only other such station in Canada is at Delta, Man., where studies are confined to ducks only. At Fredericton, Wright and his staff—a station biologist and two student assistants during summer months—study all game birds and animal. Their present work is confined to the ecology of woodcock, moose, beaver, waterfowl and the elusive panther.

The overall objective is "to provide information on which actual management of the country's wildlife resources can be based."

"Our work is a long-haul proposition," he says. "It will never be completed in my lifetime but I hope to make a contribution."

Wright inaugurated the first waterfowl banding stations in Newfoundland, Labrador and on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River. The stations in Quebec have since been taken over by the Canadian Wildlife Service and those in Newfoundland and Labrador by the provincial government. He also initiated banding of woodcock some of which have turned up in every state and province from New Brunswick to Louisiana.

Strangely enough, his hobby is hunting. He combines much of his fall field work with hunting trips. "But don't overestimate me," he says. "I'm no better hunter than the next fellow."

ESCAPEES ARRIVE

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Three refugees from Soviet Estonia arrived at Faresund on the Swedish island of Gotland Monday night after a gruelling 32-hour voyage across the stormy Baltic in a stolen motorboat. The refugees, whose names were not given, were described as a married couple and the wife's 63-year-old mother. They asked for political asylum.

DESERONTO

Canadian Legion W.A. Holds Bazaar

DESERONTO — A successful bazaar and tea was held recently in Legion Hall under the auspices of Ladies' Auxiliary Canadian Legion, Branch 280, Deseronto.

The Hall was most colorful and delightfully arranged in gold and black for Hallowe'en.

The tea table was lovely with its white damask cloth and Hallowe'en colors, presided over by the president, Mabel Moon, assisted by the social committee.

Many useful and fancy articles were displayed on tables, for sale, crochet work and aprons of various descriptions.

The white elephant table was attractively arranged to attract purchasers with many useful articles.

The home cooking table was briskly engaged in selling cakes, pies, homemade bread and candy.

To all the workers goes credit for a most successful affair ably convened and capably managed by the members of the auxiliary.

Eva Peron Foundation Poses 178 Million Dollar Question For Argentina's New Leaders

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's new leaders face a $178,000,000 question: what to do with the huge foundation through which Juan and Eva Peron funnelled well-publicised help to the poor.

The Eva Peron Foundation grew to vast proportions. The provisional government quickly gave the foundation a new name, the National Institute of Social Action, and put it under the direction of a retired vice-admiral, Walter von Rentzell.

Beyond that, the foundation's future—and it's still the Eva Peron Foundation to thousands—is a question mark.

FORCED CONTRIBUTIONS

Senora Peron created it in 1948. Fed by forced contributions from every worker, the organization flourished. Right now, says von Rentzell, its assets total 2½ billion pesos ($178,571,428) and it has 15,000 employees.

Argentina's "descamisados" (shirtless ones) worshipped Eva Peron, and one reason was that she doled out millions of pesos through her foundation. Congress gave her power to handle its activities without having to account for income or expenses.

The agency did not confine itself to helping the destitute who came asking succor. It acquired and began operating hotels, hospitals, grocery stores and even summer resorts.

The foundation set up nurseries for working mothers. It turned a downtown Buenos Aires building into a swanky furnished home for working girls.

The idea was to offer these services at cut-rate prices to people who otherwise could not afford them. Although millions of pesos poured in by citizens financed these services, propaganda made it appear the Peron dut of the goodness of their hearts were doing all these things for the people.

TORRID MILLIONS

Every worker had to give two days' pay a year to the foundation. In addition, it received untold millions in contributions from labor unions and business firms. Government taxes on race tracks and Mar del Plata's gambling casino also fed its coffers.

The foundation attained semi-official status. In 1951, for example, the finance ministry called for bids on 2,112,000 pounds of Christmas cakes to be given out by the foundation.

After Eva Peron died in 1952 her husband, aided by an eight-member board representing the General Confederation of Labor and labor ministry, took over the agency.

Today von Rentzell, from his desk on the sixth floor of the foundation headquarters building, says its traditional activities are going right on—such as helping out in the port town of Ensenada, damaged by fighting in September's revolt.

"But at the present time we cannot talk of the future," the admiral said.

The Lonardi government has ended the required workers' contributions.

Wheat Surplus Starts Farmers Thinking of Beans

BOW ISLAND, Alta. (CP)—The Western wheat surplus has started many farmers in this area thinking about beans.

William Hay, overalsit in charge of special crops at the Canada experimental farm at Lethbridge, said that with the slow wheat market resulting in less ready cash, farmers will have a rockier road unless they turn to other crops.

He spoke at a meeting of about 200 farmers held here to discuss bean growing as a substitute for grain production.

GROW DRY BEANS

Robert Faris and Dick Butler, former potato and bean growers in Idaho, planted 600 acres of beans this year. They admitted they "hit off more than we could chew," but still felt the district was ideally suited for growing dry beans.

Mr. Faris said about 85 per cent of the beans used in Western Canada are imported from Ontario and the United States. He read letters from brokers and canning companies interested in purchasing beans grown in the area.

Mr. Hay said 1,000 pounds of beans per acre would probably be a good first-year crop and this could be increased to an average of 1,500 pounds with experience in handling the crop.

A farmer would need about $1,000 for equipment to start work on a 25-acre crop, Mr. Faris said. Estimated that seed would cost about $8 for dry land and $12 for irrigated land.

Eight farmers signed for approximately 30 acres of beans next year. The current market price was said to be about 10 cents a pound for cleaned beans.

EMPEROR HONORED

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—More than 20,000 Ethiopian troops marched past Emperor Haile Selassi Monday in a colorful review held in connection with the monarch's silver jubilee celebrations. Thousands of mounted tribesmen carrying spears and shields and wearing lion-mane headpieces led the parade. In sharp contrast, Swedish-built fighter planes cavorted overhead.

Highest Quality Canadian Rags Bring Riches from West Germany

OTTAWA (CP)—When you come right down to it, a country's wealth might sometimes be as truly entertained from its rags as from its riches.

At least that's the conclusion that can be drawn from an article by J. V. Macdonald, assistant Canadian commercial secretary at magazine "Foreign Trade."

Bonn, in the trade department's

He was writing about the way rags are bringing Canadian exporters big returns from West Germany.

The whole rag business — for those who may have thought of rags as something to be discarded — brought Canada $3,300,000 last year, and $2,000,000 in the first six months of this year, the Bureau of Statistics estimates. West Germany bought about $200,000 worth in the latter period.

And, said Mr. Macdonald, the excellent quality of Canadian rags has created a steadily rising demand for them in West Germany. Experts in the trade, he said, consider Canada's rags are among the highest quality they have seen.

Wool rags are first sorted—linings, zippers, buttons and so on are removed and then run through the "carbonization" process, which eliminates foreign materials. Then they are worked with machines until something like the original raw material is ready to be spun and woven into cloth.

It is in the carbonization process that a rag's true worth becomes apparent. The difference in quality of rags can be measured partly through the loss in weight through this process. The loss in Canadian rags runs around 15 per cent whereas the domestic German product, for example, loses 35 per cent.

The rags eventually find their way back into low-price clothes.

But the significant observation in Mr. Macdonald's account of the rag business is his belief that the reputation of Canada's rags should be assured indefinitely "since it is generally believed that the quality of rags available from a country reflects the level of living standards."

Footnote: Of all the rags processed in Germany, those from the Canadian army have proved consistently to be 100 per cent pure wool.

Montreal Traffic Congestion Poses Billion Dollar Headache

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—This island city of narrow, old streets and traffic jams is aiming to handle 300,000 cars a day within the next 10 years, says traffic director Jean Lacoste.

"There are many 'ifs' but if the present trend continues we'll have that many cars, counting tourists and transients, in 10 years and we'll have to be ready for them,' the cheerful, energetic engineer said in an interview.

Mr. Lacoste, 48, veteran of 13 years in the Montreal traffic department, was appointed chief of the newly-formed traffic department, separate from the police, and went into action last June.

PLANS QUICK START

Driving to make good the promise of reform Mayor Jean Drapeau to remedy the many traffic ills, Mr. Lacoste now has drawn up a six-point master plan. The administration currently is marking its first anniversary in power and the traffic director estimates the first five points of his plan will be in force "one year from now." His staff of 40, including six engineers, has an annual budget of $200,000.

Cost of an over-all cure of Montreal's traffic headache has been estimated unofficially at $1,000,000,000. Mr. Lacoste described the estimate as "fair."

At present, as many as 300,000 cars move on Montreal streets daily, he said. Plans call for building seven parking garages between St. Lawrence and Guy streets, the heart of the city, at an estimated cost of $5,285,000. These would be capable of holding 1,800 automobiles. In addition, the city plans 12 new parking lots, with a capacity of 950 cars in the east section of the city and an as yet undetermined number in the residential western section between Guy and Atwater streets.

Sixth item on the master project calls for construction of a network of elevated highways—but this is for the future. Less spectacular plans call for one-way traffic and alternate parking in residential districts, special routes for transient and local trucks, separate study for each main artery, and one-way traffic for such thoroughfares as St. Catherine, Ontario, Craig, Notre Dame and Burnside streets.

HIGH DEATH TOLL

Mr. Lacoste said traffic safety is one of his main concerns. The Quebec Safety Council reports 79 persons were killed and 5,586 injured in Montreal city alone this year until Oct. 15. Last year the death toll was 104. In Montreal and surrounding districts, more than 200 persons have died on streets and highways this year.

Administration members — including Mayor Drapeau—have repeatedly stated their faith in expressways, despite a report of the Montreal transportation commission advocating a seven-mile, $117,000,000 subway, with a 22-mile comprehensive system to follow.

Mr. Lacoste, pointing to reports of a monthly MTC deficit of $100,000, said this shows clearly a trend away from public transport to private cars. MTC now is in the midst of a changeover from streetcars to buses, expecting to complete the transition in five to eight years.

Opponents of subways say the day of the tube is passed—the automobile, key problem, remains after the subway is built unless private cars are banned altogether from the downtown area.

Candian Air Lines Pilots Say Firms Bought Old Planes To Get on DEW Gravy Train

TORONO (CP) — Charges that the DEW airlift is retarding instead of advancing Canadian aviation are being heard at the annual convention of the Canadian Air Lines Pilots Association.

The head of the association's policy committee said, Tuesday the airlines claim the airlift to Arctic radar sites is providing Canada with a large air transport reserve.

"Instead," he said, "we have 10 new millionaires and the biggest collection of junk ever assembled on a Canadian airfield."

Convention sessions are open to the press but speakers are not named for publication.

The speaker said the Air Industries and Transport Association, the organization of Canadian airlines which now is in annual convention in Quebec City, choose the "gravy train" over the future good of Canadian aviation.

HIGHER RATES

He said the AITA lines were offered a rate of 30 cents a ton mile for flying supplies to distant early warning radar sites on the rim of the Arctic mainland compared to the air freight rate in the U. S. of 18 cents a ton mile.

"It was obvious the U. S. was willing to bank roll a laboratory," he said, ". . . a laboratory to determine and solve the problems of air freight in the north."

He said Canadians could have had the laboratory but AITA "spotted the gravy train" and spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on a hodge-podge of obsolescent York transports and C-46s.

He said that two months after the airlift was started, the U. S. air force brought in two squadrons of mammoth C-124s to move freight that should have been moved before that should have been moved be-

Had the Canadian government come to the association and asked for 20 trained crews "we could have given them 20 crews" and with 50 DC-4s "we could have handled all the freight thrown at us."

MIRED IN MUD

"Instead, we end up mired in the mud . . . while the C-124s fly back and forth. Instead of using our know-how, we have a bunch of U. S. pilots taking up residence in Edmonton and the 'reserve' air craft are American no matter how they are camouflaged. Canadian aviation has been retarded instead of advanced.

Criticizes Plan To Move Company

HAMILTON (CP) — The treatment of Canadian workers by United States investors was criticized Tuesday by a Hamilton union leader.

George Watson, spokesman for, the Textile Workers Union (CIO-CCL) said he was "shocked" at the way the Kayser Company had decided to transplant half of its Canadian operations from London, Ont., to Sherbrooke, Que. Almost 200 people were thrown out of work by the move, he said.

"That," said Watson, "is typical of the ruthless manner in which U.S. investors deal with their Canadian holdings.

"When the almighty dollar is at stake the American companies do not worry about the feelings of a few hundred workers. Their only concern is for economy of operation."

PLAN GIANT CENTRE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Chase Manhattan Bank plans a downtown Rockefeller Centre-type development to cover two square blocks just north of Wall street. It still must get the city's consent for some of the details, but the project will have a plaza, similar to the one in Rockefeller Centre in mid-Manhattan.

Voting Changes May Delay French Election

PARIS (Reuters) — A move to change the French voting system threatened today to delay general elections until well into 1958 despite a drive by Premier Faure to hold them next month.

The Council of the Republic, France's upper chamber, Tuesday night rejected a government plan for "snap" elections next month except under a system of single-member constituencies.

The senate's move encouraged supporters of ex-premier Pierre Mendes-France, who strongly opposed the December election plan.

The council vote was a severe blow to Faure, who six days ago won a confidence vote in the National Assembly on a bill to hold elections next month — seven months ahead of schedule — under the current electoral system of proportional representation.

The bill now goes back to the assembly for a second reading, and if the assembly again votes against single-member constituencies, the bill will go back to the senate unamended.

Radar Braking System Planned For 1957 Autos

NEW YORK (CP)—A U.S. auto manufacturer has revealed he introduced next year in 1957 models a startling system of braking which requires no mechanical work by the driver, Time magazine says in its issue out Tuesday.

"Operated by a radar screen built throughout only into the radiator grill, the brake mechanism automatically will stop or slow the car as it approaches any object ahead, e.g. another car or a garage door," the magazine says.

"The radar-controlled mechanism will be geared to take into account the speed of the cars as well as the distance to approaching objects. For example, the radar car would be halted with a jolt if a car a short distance ahead stopped suddenly. But if the car were a few hundred feet ahead, the radar car would be braked slowly and easily."

No One Blamed For Suicide Of Shoplifter

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury says no blame can be placed against any of the people Mrs. Gerarda Trillo met on her shoplifting trip to death.

The Italian immigrant woman, mother of three small children, hanged herself in a jail cell last Oct. 17 under the shadow of a petty shop-lifting offence.

The coroner's jury ruled Tuesday night:

"We, the jury, find Mrs. Gerarda Tyllo's death was due to asphyxiation caused by hanging herself. We find that no blame can be attached to anyone concerned."

The jury made no recommendations. The 35-year-old woman was charged with shoplifting after a department store official said he caught her leaving the store with $23 worth of merchandise—mostly wearing apparel—she had not paid for.

FOUND DEAD

Her husband, Benvenuto, was accompanying her and was booked as an accomplice. The were released in separate cells. Mrs. Tyrllo was found dead 15 hours later, hanging by a bedsheet in her cell.

The charge against Mr. Tyllo was later withdrawn. The store manager, A. H. Reid said he had been charged by mistake.

EMPEROR IS HOST

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito held his annual garden party in brilliant autumn sunshine today. A top-hatted, morning-coated crowd of Japanese government leaders and the foreign diplomatic corps trooped through the imperial Palace grounds and sipped tea.

Three Former U.S. Soldiers Are Released

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —Three former United States soldiers who once renounced "the land of McCarthyism" for life with their Communist Chinese captors are free today—but their future is uncertain.

The army, acting on orders of a federal judge, released Otho G. Bell, William A. Cowart and Lewis W. Griggs from Fort Baker stockade Tuesday.

Cowart, 22, of Dalton, Ga., said as spokesman for the three:

"We feel now about American justice the same as always. We're in the great democratic country in the world."

How long they will remain free is a question.

WERE DISCHARGED

The U. S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that civilians cannot be tried in military courts for offences allegedly committed while they were in service. And the three are civilians, dishonorably discharged after they refused repatriation at Pannunjom, Korea, in January, 1954.

They were awaiting court-martial on charges of betraying their government when a federal judge ordered them freed Tuesday on the grounds that they were held illegally.

The federal government may still enter the case and try them for treason.

HUNTERS DROWNED

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP)—Two hunters were drowned Sunday in Rose-mond lake, near this northwestern Ontario town. The victims were Irador Kaschubowski and Joseph Widerski. Details of the accident were not immediately available.

Wants Insurance For Negligent Plane Pilots

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian airline pilots Tuesday called for adequate insurance to protect them against lawsuits should they be found guilty of negligence in air crashes.

A delegate to the eighth annual convention of the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association said pilots should be protected against the findings of aircraft crash inquiries.

The same delegate, whose name was not disclosed at the convention's request, also rapped the crash-laquiry boards set up by the department of transport as "incompetent."

"You never know what these boards will find," he said.

"Whether it's gross negligence, criminal negligence or just plain negligence on the part of the pilot that is found, we should be adequately covered by insurance against any lawsuits that might be brought against us."

A conference committee will study the matter.

Rented Chicken Coop

TORONTO (CP)—Peter Dabrowski o North York township was ordered Monday to tear down a chicken coop he rented to immigrants at $25 a month.

Garth Moore, township counsel, told Mr. Justice F. H., Barlow Dabrowski rented it to immigrants who stayed there until they found better accommodation.

He said Dabrowski kept renting the coop despite four convictions on building by-laws and complaints by neighbors. The coop was behind Dabrowski's house.

Four Ontario Magistrates Sent to Study U.S. Courts' Methods in Traffic Cases

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Roberts, in a move to bring traffic courts of Ontario to maximum efficiency in the highway safety drive, has sent four provincial magistrates to the United States to learn latest traffic court techniques.

The magistrates left Monday for Montpelier, state capital of Vermont, with A. A. Russell, assistant inspector of legal offices, and Joseph Greer, magistrates' courts accounting expert.

They will be away most of the week at a special course called by the governor and arranged for traffic court judges in Vermont.

The Ontario magistrates are G.E. Strike of Ottawa, G. R. Forier of Barrie, W. O. Langdon of Sault Ste. Marie and J. R. H. Kirkpatrick of Kitchener. The course is being conducted by James P. Economos, traffic court expert of the American Bar Association's traffic court study division.

Meanwhile, provincial police have spread their crackdown on highway law offenders to southwestern Ontario districts—particularly the London and Chatham areas. Cars and trucks were stopped and checked. Radar units clocked speed.

No violation has come in for special attention by Mr. Roberts. He said he will ask for a magistrate's report in the case of a driver reported by police to have been chased on the Barrie highway at speeds up to 108 miles an hour.

"That's a terrific speed," the attorney-general said, commenting on a penalty of 30 days or $100 and suspension of the driving permit imposed on Leopold Loodus, 43, of Lakeview.

Beavers Are Trying to Dam 180-Foot Ft. William River

KAMINISTIKWIA, Ont. (CP)—Let the engineers scoff. Beavers are going ahead with their dam across the 180-foot-wide Kam river.

Settlers in this area, 20 miles north of Fort William, said Tuesday the animals have completed 75 feet of the task and still are building.

Working from the west bank of the stream, just across the river from a main highway, the beavers already have felled 80 trees for the mammoth project.

Engineers, deriding the attempt as "rodent's folly", say no number-trick or two," one said.

"If won't be the first time the beaver has shown engineers a

$Billion Aluminum Giant Bossed by Crew-Cut Bostonian His Watchword 'Teamwork'

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Teamwork is the watchword of Nathaniel Vining Davis, a crew-cut Bostonian of 51 who has played a big step who has been Canada's most far-flung industrial emp.ire.

Davis, only 40, is president of Aluminium Limited, a $1,000,000,000 holding company with interests in more than 30 countries from Japan to Jamaica. It is engaged in the sale, fabrication and manufacture of aluminium.

Aluminium Ltd.—spelled with the extra "I" in deference to traditional British connection—is the disowned child of Aluminum Company of America, (Alcoa), their links having been cut by ordre of United States courts.

BIG SUBSIDIARIES

Its strong right arm is Aluminum Company of Canada (Alcan) and there are some 50 other subsidiaries, operating a shipping company, Saguenay terminals; several railways, power companies and port facilities; bauxite and fluorspar mines, trading companies and a company business school at Geneva.

Montreal headquarters of Aluminium Ltd., are spread over seven floors of the Sun Life building, with many wall pictures of Kitimat, Alcan's fabulous development in the mountainous wilds of northern British Columbia.

The man at the top of the company is the opposite of the popular conception of the high-powered tycoon. Davis was only 32 when voted company president in succession to his father, Edward K. Davis. The latter died last year.

"I've become accustomed to comments about my age," Davis says with a grin. "I have the greatest respect for my colleagues and they have always been courteous to me. We work as a team."

EXPANSION PLANS

Expressing confidence in the future, Davis noted that his interests had earmarked a total of $125,000,000 for expansion in Kitimat, Jamaica and Quebec province in the years 1950-60. He appeared unimpressed by an announcement that British Aluminium Company Limited will establish facilities to tap the big new Bersimis power project in Quebec, where his uncle, Arthur Vining Davis, and his father were prominent in starting aluminium production 50 years ago.

"It is axiomatic that new facilities have a difficult time competing with existing facilities," he said. "We believe Canada is a good place to produce aluminium. If British or American interests want to come here it is all right with us."

Asked if this meant that there are ample markets, he said "yes." Policy of Aluminium Limited was to head into bush and remote districts where the immense quantities of hydro power needed for production could be kept to minimum cost, thus lowering the price of the metal.

The metal, little known until this century, now is used in thousands of ways—even Davis doesn't know just how many. It goes into the nose rings of African tribesmen and into the construction of skyscrapers, not to mention pots and pans and planes.

"Our eyes now are on the construction, automotive and electrical fields," says Davis, an internationalist by training and preference. "There are tremendous opportunities for expansion there."

ECONOMICS STUDENT

Born in Pittsburgh of New England stock, Davis was graduated cum laude from Harvard and then spent a year at the London School of Economics, studying business administration. Between school terms he worked and visited in company plants in Europe.

In 1936 he was "hired" by the Aluminium financial division, but left in 1942 to serve for three years in the U.S. navy air force, including a tour in the Pacific.

"Back to work in 1946, I was sent to England to be managing director of the London promotional centre, what we call our embassy, with responsibility in the British Commonwealth and Scandinavia," says Davis, who became president of Aluminium when his father retired in 1947. His salary now is $10,000 a year.

Davis and his Jamaica-born wife, daughter of American parents, and their two children, James, 12, and Katharine, 7, now divide their time between their Boston home and a Cape Cod summer residence. His main recreations are fishing—"just small saltwater fish, no big game stuff for me"—and sailing.

As for other sports, a schoolboys' love of baseball and football persists, but he says "I find hockey too fast to follow."

VAST OUTPUT

Alcan's first shipment of metal was in 1901 from Shawinigan Falls, Que., a 200-pound order to the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company at New Glasgow, N.S. Last year Alcan produced 345,000 tons and when Kitimat reaches full production in 1960 a total annual output of 877,000 tons is expected—surpassing that of the parent Alcoa.

Davis and other Aluminium Limited officials bristle at any suggestion of a lingering tie-in between Alcoa and Alcan, a theory hit on the head by U.S. courts in 1950.

Some confusion has existed in that Alcoa formed Alcan in 1908 as a wholly-owned Canadian subsidiary and formed Aluminium Limited in 1928, as an over-all holding company for foreign operations.

Until 1950 many of the shares of Aluminium Ltd., had been held by Alcoa shareholders. The courts, although finding no evidence of law infractions in the past, ordered the Alcoa shareholders to dispose of one 3rd of shares or the other. Some 50 per cent of the 10,000,000 shares outstanding were involved.

These were placed in the hands of three trustees for voting and deadline for the change was set at 1960.

Officials say Canadians, owning 25 per cent of Aluminum's shares, have a stake of $250,000,000 in the company. Canadian ownership had been "practically nil" in 1928. However, 75 per cent of Aluminium Ltd., is owned by Americans.

Records show that Nat Davis owns 1,057 shares of the company, far less than some other directors.

Referring to the court order of 1950, a reporter asked Davis: "which stock did you dispose of—Alcoa or Aluminium?" He replied:

"I have only Aluminium Limited stock. Does that answer your question? Does that tell you where my loyalties are?"

Asked whether Aluminium Ltd. competes with Alcoa in the same sense as it will compete with British aluminium, he said:

"I certainly don't know why not."

Residents Build 75-Mile Road Over Trail Used by Gold Seekers

BELLA COOLA, B.C. (CP)—The 75-mile road is full of potholes and rocks, limiting speed to about five miles an hour, but residents of this area are proud of it for they built it themselves.

It was officially opened recently by Phillip Gaglardi, British Columbia minister of highways, and most of those attending the affair were blue jeans, plaid shirts and gumboots.

Determination and hard work provided Bella Coola, the world's northwest of Vancouver, with a highway link of sorts with the outside world.

RUGGED COUNTRY

It winds in an easterly direction through tangled slash and jackpine, across creek overflows and corduroy from Bella Coola to Anahem lake where there is access to other highways.

There had always been a trail. In 1793 a young Scot drove his discouraged exhausted men until they crossed the last mountain barrier and floated down the Bella Coola river to the sea.

In the 1870's thousands of gold-seekers surged into the Cariboo country. Some took ship up the coast, for by then Bella Coola, a 60-mile gash in the coastal jungle, had become known.

Boats anchored off the river mouth and prospectors went by dug-out canoe up the river and by packhorse across the plateau.

In 1894 Rev. Christian Saugstad, with 81 settlers from Minnesota, moved in and laid foundations for a permanent settlement. Petitions for a road to the interior were rejected by the provincial government and the settlers took on the job themselves.

SLOW PROGRESS

In the early 30s the provincial government made a survey for a highway, but the route led through a rocky canyon and official talk backed off.

But the settlers continued to push through the road inch by inch until 44 miles had been completed.

Then a 1952 Clifford Kopas, energetic former Alberta school teacher, arrived and persuaded Bella Coollans to form a board of trade which informed the government they were going to finish the road. The board hired a tractor and pitted it against the wilderness. After a new route down a 3,000-foot decline had been discovered, the government was impressed to the extent of contributing $10,000.

Engineer Elijah Gurr got another bulldozer and added a powder man to the crew. Then came snow.

Despite heavy snow, the work continued all winter. Impressed by the bulldog tenacity of the settlers, the government put up another $20,000 and finally had given $50,000 to the project.

Now the 75-mile road remained to be gouged out of a mountainside, Bella Coola once more was ahead on its own.

At the official opening, citizens of Bella Coola unveiled a plaque to the original trail blazer, Alexander MacKenzie.

RAWDON

Mount Pleasant United Church Observes 84th Anniversary

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — On Sunday, Mount Pleasant United Church on Rawdon Gravel held its 84th anniversary. The edifice was resplendent with baskets of chrysanthesmums in varied hues. The weather, in the chill of autumn, was ideal with bright sunshine.

A large number of worshippers were in attendance. The visitors were from Belleville, Frankford, Campbellford, Peterborough, Oshawa, Trenton, Springbrook, Malden, Bethel, Myersburg, Wellman's, Carmel, Stirling, Trenton, Burnbrae, Hoard's, West Huntingdon, Madoc Junction, and other points.

The Rev. C. Robert Chapman, of Thomasburg circuit, was in charge of the morning service. He based his message on the theme: "Even Judas," using Matthew 26: 50, "and Jesus said unto him, Friend, wherefore art thou come?"

The speaker pictured Judas "through the eyes of Christ and emphasized His great capacity for forgiveness even at such a crucial time.

FRICELESS FRIENDSHIP

Friendship is a precious thing and cannot be bought. He quoted an appropriate verse, "Jesus is a Friend Indeed," which stressed that though for good we render ill. Jesus accounts us brethren still. The depth of Christ's love cannot be measured and was the supreme example of forgiveness.

Mr. Chapman suggested that this should be a special lesson to church folk who are so sensitive to petty hurts.

In closing he told of the Apostle John and his admonition, "Little Children, Love One Another."

The Rawdon Pleasant choir sang "Galilee," with Mrs. Marguerite McMullen taking the solo part.

The Fetherston George St. church double trio sang two selections, "My Jesus, I Love Thee" and "The Lord is My Shepherd." The members of this group are: Mrs. R. Mitchell, Mrs. M. Manley, Miss M. Brown, Miss H. Mutton, Miss Mc.,Dalnard and Miss W. Telford.

Mrs. Kenneth Weever presided at the piano and rendered as a prelude "Near the Cross" by James B. Porter and during the offertory, "Calm," by A. L. Scarmolin, and Wilson's "Recessional".

The congregational hymns were "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," "Jesus is Calling" and "Take Time to be Holy."

The offering was gathered by Messrs Raymond McConnell, Bert Sharp, Harry McAdam and Burton Sharpe.

The choir members were: Marguerite McMullen, Cora Jeffs, Francis Merrick, Ruth Linn, Eleanor Smith, Lola McConnell, Doris Sine, Marion Sharpe, Betty McConnell, Marilyn McConnell, Muriel Sharp, Irene Foits, Doris McAdam, Ralph Johnson and Eric Summers.

EVENING SERVICE

The church was comfortably filled for the evening service, which was in charge of the Rev. William E. Pew, B.A., of Trenton.

As this was "Remembrance Sunday," he chose Psalm 46: God is our refuge and strength." A period of silence was observed for those who had paid the supreme sacrifice, followed by a poem "In Flanders' Fields" and "The Queen".

The Rawdon male quartet, Messrs. Ralph Johnson, Mount Pleasant and Glenn Watson, Lorne Watson and Orala Watson, Wellman's, with Miss Betty McConnell as accompanist, sang two selections "The Two Paths" and "The World Not My Home."

The local choir rendered "Story Most Precious." The pianist used "Jubilate" by R. C. Wilson as prelude and Stult's composition "That Sweet Story of Old," during the offertory and "Recessional" as postlude.

The congregational hymns were "How Thank We All Our God", "Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove," by Watts and "Jesus the Very Thought of Thee," sung as a closing prayer.

DESTROYERS OF THE EARTH

Mr. Pew chose as his theme for this combined Remembrance Day and anniversary service "The time has come for destroying the destroyers of the earth," as written in Revelation, when John made that important announcement. A noted author has said, "This universe is like a silken glove with the hand of God inside. The speaker quoted Bible passages to prove the familiar quotations, "Beware your sins will find you out," "What a man soweth that shall he also reap," and "with what measure ye meet, it will be measured back to you."

Through a series of illustration found from cover to cover in God's Book, the point was clearly brought out that the destroyers eventually destroy themselves.

Mr. Pace appealed to young people to observe the moral law and enlarged on the sins of vice, immorality, drunkenness and slovenly habits.

CONSTRUCTIVE MESSAGE

His closing message was constructive when he urged his audience to be builders, not leaners, and left a challenging thought that each individual use his time, talents and money to carry on God's work in the new year ahead.

STIRLING

Across Canada Trip Told At W.I. Meeting

STIRLING — On Thursday evening, Mrs. Thomas Hanna was hostess for the regular meeting of River Valley Women's Institute at the school house.

Lovely bouquets of autumn blooms added beauty to the room. There were 21 members and several visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Roy Bush opened the meeting and Mrs. Ralph Usman presided at the piano.

The secretary Mrs. Hanna, gave a full report of the recent pie social, the catering for the dance, the fruit boxes to sick folks, and read several thank-you notes. A letter to the January short course at Guelph was read and it was hoped some could attend.

ARTICLE READ

Mrs. Don Donohoe read an article from the "The Countrywoman." It was entitled "Family Resources," and had been published in the Kansas Home Demonstration News." It said in part: "A wise farm family uses its resources to get what it wants, do what it wants to do, and go where it wants to go."

At this particular farm home they have certain goals that take time, such as a delightful trip, dreams that take energy, such as better health, good gardens, and dreams that take money, such as television sets. Mrs. Ross Hume discussed material resources, land, livestock, machinery and home.

They are firm believers in a saving fund, farm record books, and the whole family sharing together in both work and hobbies. They consider the children the most important and the writer of this article says: "A versatile farm family is the mainstay of its own situation."

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, "Friendship Link" secretary, read a letter from the F.L.S. at Abbot's Leigh W.I. in England. This was written September 22nd and the writer said in part: "We have had a wonderful summer. I could hardly stand the heat, as we are not used to it here. Our summers are usually mild, but in 1955 it was desperately hot.

"There is a plentiful supply of blackberries on the hedgerows so I have made quite a lot of bramble jelly. They do say that many berries make a hard winter, so we shall see. As November is the end of our Institute year, we will soon be electing our new officers and committees."

The members of River Valley W.I. are sending two Canadian magazine subscriptions to their link Institute in England as their Christmas gift and the money will be taken from the treasury to pay for same.

The president hoped that a scrap book on Ceylon could be made by R.V.W.I.

Plans were made for five card parties this year, November 11, 18, 25, December 2, 9 at the school house with Mrs. Ed. Heasman as convener. The admission is 25 cents. There are good prizes and the Institute ladies furnish refreshments and all are welcome to attend and enjoy a fine social evening.

GIFT EXCHANGE

At the Christmas meeting held on December 1st, the usual gift exchange for adults and children will be staged. The program will be in charge of Mrs. Allan McDonald and Miss Marion Carlisle.

The delegates' expenses and transportation of the group to Belleville was authorized paid by treasury.

Mrs. George Heasman, 4-H Club leader, reported three meetings to date and 18 girls enrolled. The Institute voted to purchase reference books for each girl at an approximate cost of $20 complete.

A white field with a cross of red poppies was displayed and the roll call brought out several thoughts and poems on "Armistice." A period of silence followed by a piano selection paid tribute to those who had paid the supreme sacrifice.

Mrs. J. L. Donohoe presided over the program and the group sang "My Old Kentucky Home," and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

Mrs. Ed. Heasman, delegate to the area, gave a comprehensive account of the three sessions held on the first day of the convention in Belleville on October 13th.

Miss Grace Heasman contributed a piano solo.

The president introduced Miss Alice Heasman, Belleville, a former pupil of River Valley School, who gave an interesting account of their trip across Canada this summer. Using a map, she told of their experiences as they travelled by car and ferry and took time off for a delightful boat trip at Port McNicol.

While at Winnipeg Manitoba, they visited the Hudson Bay Co. store and museum and took in the Calgary Stampede. She displayed colored photos of lovely Lake Louise, the beauties of Banff, the Columbia ice fields, Fraser Valley, the lovely flowers in Stanley Park and the beauties of Victoria and Vancouver, B.C. The girls returned home via Yellowstone Park.

Mrs. Don Donohoe introduced Mrs. Cleo Bedell of Stirling, another pupil of River Valley School and she demonstrated "How to Decorate a Special Birthday Cake." She used a scroll edge, several roses and other flowers and then covered it with R.V.W.I. This cake was later cut and served during the refreshment hour.

Mrs. Ed. Heasman voiced thanks to the guests from Belleville and Stirling for their assistance on the program and the president expressed thanks to all who had assisted with various duties during the past month, to the delegate for her report and to the hostess and lunch committee.

The hostess and lunch conveners served fruit bread, jellos, angel cake and the special cake provously mentioned topped off with coffee.

Propose Exchange of Journalists To Improve Can.-Aussie Relations

SYDNEY (CP)—Floyd S. Chalmers, Canadian magazine publisher, says "all we hear about Australia is when some Russian spy or Dr. David Oop is in the news."

"That's not good enough. Canadians know little or nothing about Australia."

Chalmers is a charter member of the Australia-Canada committee, recently organized to help Australians and Canadians know more about each other.

He suggested exchanges between Australia and Canada of theatrical companies, painting exhibitions, scholarships and professorships, writers, scientists and musicians.

A proposal had also been made, he said, for the exchange of six to 10 journalists from daily and weekly newspapers and magazines in each country.

Chalmers, as president of the Maclean Hunter Publishing Company of Toronto, is in Australia for the Commonwealth Press Union conference.

"Closer relations with Australia are very important to Canada," he said in an interview. "Canada is next door to the giant United States, with its 162,000,000 people. Australia, with over 16,000,000 people, tend to be overshadowed by her.

"Canadians do not want to be swallowed up psychologically by the U.S. Canada therefore wants close links with the British Commonwealth and is looking to Australia as the next biggest senior Commonwealth nation.

"We in turn want to have a feeling of belonging to this world-encircling group of nations."

Dublinski's Aerial Artistry Gets Big Test on Saturday

HAMILTON (CP) — The top passer in the Big Four Football Union runs up against the best pass defence Saturday. The stakes: A crack at Montreal Alouettes for the league title and a trip to the Grey Cup.

Quarterback Tom Dublinski of Toronto Argonauts will do his tossing against Hamilton Tiger-Cats here in a sudden-death semi-final engagement.

The fact that Dublinski emerged as the outstanding passer during the regular 12 - game schedule doesn't worry TiCat coach Carl Voyles. Dublinski also had the worst pass-interception record—24. And TiCats ended up with the best interception mark—30.

The way Voyles figures it every interrupted pass is worth 20 yards to a defending team. On Voyles' theory, Argonauts have given up 1,720 yards, or the length of nearly 25 football fields. He would be happy with a bit of that yardage Saturday.

ON PASS DEFENCE

"We can expect Toronto to use about 40 pass plays," Voyles said Tuesday night. "We're working on pass defence. Argos have a ground offence that can hurt, but their pass attack is their best point."

TiCats gave Dublinski a rough time during the season. Of their 30 interceptions, they grabbed 11 from the Argo signal-caller.

Meanwhile, in Toronto there were reports of dissension in the Argo camp. But they were quickly denied by Argo team manager Harry Sosnbine. He said:

"We don't have dissension. The best way to prove it is to see us on the field Saturday."

Argonauts, who dropped a 36-24 decision to Ottawa Rough Riders last Saturday, will be nearly at full strength against Hamilton. Half Royal Copeland will sit out with a shoulder injury but halfbacks Dick Shatto and Henry Ford and guard Bill Albright will play. They missed the Toronto-Ottawa game.

Ken Foster, young Canadian lineman who left a practice last week has not returned, Sosnbine said. It reports that Foster had been fired after a disagreement with coach Bill Swiacki, Sosnbine commented:

"He walked off the practice field. In pro football that means he has quit. He's a fine boy and I have no doubt he'll be back to try out with us next year."

NEEDS ADJUSTMENT

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Donald Campbell let his jet speedboat in a trial run Tuesday and the Bluebird averaged an unofficial 198 miles an hour for a mile run on Lake Mead.

But on the return leg, the hydroplane averaged only 170 m.p.h., and Campbell said further carburetor adjustment would be necessary before he would attempt to better his world speed record of 202.32 m.p.h., set last July at Lake Ullswater, England.

Biltmores Bow To Flyers; Canucks Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Biltmores find Barrie Flyers are no pushovers in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

Flyers started the 1955-56 season off with a 3-1 win over Biltmores at Barrie Oct. 26. Then they lost four straight. Last night Flyers recorded their second victory—a 4-2 win over Biltmores. It was Guelph's first loss at home.

Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks moved into second place with a 6-3 win over league-leading Hamilton Cubs at Kitchener in the other OHA Junior A game Tuesday night.

The Barrie win moved Flyers into a tie with St. Catharines Teepees for sixth place, one point behind Toronto Marlboros, Toronto St. Michael's Majors and the Biltmores, all deadlocked with five points in third place.

BARRIE SCORERS

John Chaschewski, DickCherry, Bob Beckett and George Raselri scored the Barrie goals. Bob Forhan, Bryan Webber and Ed Shack were Biltmore scorers.

Barrie scored the only goal of the first period and each team counted three times in the middle frame.

Right winger Walt Bradley led the Canucks with a pair of goals and two assists. Willie O'Ree, Al Martin, Ken Gribbons and Ted McCaskill each scored a Canuck goal.

Hamilton marksmen were Jerry Sullivan, Gary Sharp and John Itoe.

The Cubs took a 3-2 lead in the second period after a scoreless first frame but Canucks bounced back with four goals in the last stanza to win the game.

Boxing Guild Ordered to Turn Over Books

NEW YORK (AP) — Charley Johnston, president of the International Boxing Guild, said Tuesday he has ordered the New York Boxing Guild to turn over its books and records to the New York state athletic commission.

Johnston said he took the action at a meeting Monday night of the New York guild's executive board. The local guild comes under the jurisdiction of the International guild.

At a press conference Tuesday Johnston said he also directed the local guild to have its members, if properly served, testify at the general inquiry the state athletic commission is conducting now.

Britain's Soccer Fare Crams Menu, Moscow Dynamos Meet the 'Wolves'

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A busy week is under way on England's football front.

Moscow Dynamos arrived Saturday to play Wolverhampton Wanderers at home tonight under lights. The Football League's 46 third-division teams have been assigned opponents for their first action in the Football Association Cup draw.

There have been some major player deals—and some more hanging fire, including Cardiff City's second offer of £40,000 for big John Charles of Leeds United. Leeds hasn't even bothered to reply to the record bid for the Welsh international centre half-centre forward.

At Wolverhampton, the Wolves will be hard pressed on their present form to repel the Moscow invasion. They lost 5-1 Saturday against Luton and are well down in the standing. There is also a strong possibility that a 19-year-old newcomer to the first team, Jimmy Murray, will make his debut at centre forward to replace injured Roy Swinbourne.

Wolves lost earlier this year to Dynamos in Moscow, but are still the only English team to have defeated one from Russia. They'll be trounced Moscow Spartak 4-0 last year.

At Tottenham Hotspur's London headquarters, the directors made the first move last weekend to get the club out of last place in the first division.

It cost money, bringing Maurice Norman as fullback from Norwich City at about £18,000. Spurs also returned forward Johnny Gavin, acquired last year from the same club. But they are still hanging on to forward Eddie Bailey, who wants to move, and goalkeeper Ron Reynolds, who has asked nine times for a transfer.

Gaels May Go Without Lewis

KINGSTON (CP) — Queen's Golden Gaels may have to go without captain Gary Lewis, brilliant centre, for this Saturday's senior Intercollegiate football final with University of Toronto Blues.

Lewis aggravated an old injury in a game Oct. 29 in Kingston with Blues and may be on the bench for the game here Saturday.

Otherwise, Gaels will be at full strength. Coach Frank Tindall said Tuesday Al Kocman, shifty run sing half, likely will be in uniform. Kocman was injured in the Toronto game and sat out last week with Lewis.

The Gaels, going for their first Intercollegiate senior championship since 1937, will have the advantage of their home field this time.

TRADED WINS

They defeated the Blues 11-10 and were beaten in Toronto 17-6 in season play. But the Gaels wound up the season with only one loss as against two for the Blues.

Blues, last year's intercollegiate champions, will be missing fullback Don Cheeseman and wingback Gerry Lansky.

Signs point to a sell-out crowd for the match.

Ty Cobb Faces Assault Charge

OROVILLE, Calif. (AP)—Tyrus Raymond Cobb, 68, one of baseball's immortals, was called into court here Tuesday as the defendant in a $100,000 damage suit.

Ty, the old "Georgia Peach," who has lived at Atherton, Calif., and at Glenbrook, Nev., near Reno was accused by another old-time baseballer, Elbert D. Felts, of beating him a year ago in a "violent assault."

Felts, who once played for San Francisco in the Pacific Coast League, now is a rice grower at Gridley, Calif. He complained that at a party last year, at which old-time players were reminiscing, Cobb started a fight which resulted in Felts receiving severe bodily injuries, lacerations and contusions.

'Canadiens Team Of Super Stars—But We Can Beat 'Em'---Ranger Brass

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HOT IS RIGHT!

The Whitby Dunlops, fairly reeking with power immediately on senior "B" hockey sticks go, are riding high on the crest of a wave of early season victories. The Gagnon-Atersley combination headed by the ebullient and versatile "Conny Smythe of Whitby" and points thereabouts, Wren Blair, have sweat everything before them on their first trip around the circuit and right now they are hotter than the south end of a firefly.

All of which sends the said Mr. Blair into spasms of pride and whoops in his signed column in the Whitby News—and gadrooks, to digress for the moment—the news of the Dunnies' success has even seeped through to Oshawa where it rated three lines in the column of George "Soup to Nuts" Campbell, who took time out to take a sly crack at this corner.

However, M'sieu Blair should not take the success of his squad with so much clan. Pride has ridden before a fall on many other occasions—and the Dunnies, while their power cannot be denied, are not yet rated in the class of supermen. After the Blairmen had tacked that humiliating 19-1 defeat on our side last week, Mr. Blair waxed enthusiastic or was it sarcastic. He immediately wired all teams in the circuit: "Whitby 19, Belleville 1—Is this hockey?"

The TPT's, anxious to wipe out the Whitby shellacking and under strict orders of Coach Danny Cox, have been toiling faithfully all week grinding out tough practice tits preparatory to meeting the Brockville Magedomas in Memorial Arena Friday night. The Brockville crew did not produce the power that they showed on paper, but reports have it that they, like the other squads, are rounding into stride and shape and they will be a tough nut to crack come fishday evening.

The Magedomas will trot out a pair of faces familiar to Belleville fans in the Duncan twins, Erwin and Edwin. In addition they have a galaxy of Ottawa Valley stars along with veterans of last year's squad. The Maggies have won one and lost two games to date and they'll be going all out for their second victory come Friday night.

• • • •

NOT KIDDING

Ontario Hockey Association referee-in-chief Pat Patterson apparently wasn't fooling when he said the OHA would solidly behind his stringent-greater-and-shields corps. The brass handed out a two-year suspension to a junior "B" player the other night for smacking down an official while in the same breath it tacked a three-game suspension on our side's Bobby Wilcox. Penalties have been thicker than the hide of the officials all over the circuit. Whitby grabbed off 14 at Brockville the other night while the Maggies racked up eleven just to keep in the swim, with Ed Duncan drawing a miscondect.

There's nothing much can be done about it. "Orders is orders" and the striped-shirts of officialdom apparently are obeying the orders of Boss Patterson to the letter. Referees, like customers, are always right—and all the chin-wagging in the world won't do any thing except accrue more sentences to the players concerned. At the same time some of the decisions handed out, heresbouts at least, smell to high heaven. And that goes for both participating squads.

BOXING

Boxing, a sport which never did take this particular city by storm due to various reasons, is being brought back after an absence of several years. However, this time it appears to be in the hands of scrupulous and responsible parties—with the proceeds going to one of the best causes we know—the hospital building fund.

Bill Eustace, the new district manager, it says here, comes to Belleville with a wide connection in boxing and is going all out to bring fans the best boxing show seen here in many years. The card will be presented by the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Headlining the card and featured in the main bout is popular Eddie Schamerhorn, well-known Belleville middleweight, one of the hardest punchers to come out of this city, and who has been making a name for himself in Toronto and other large centres as a fighter of repute. Eddie was last seen in action in this district at the Trenton Station RCAF a few seasons ago when he easily disposed of his Trenton adversary in what was widely advertised as a grudge fight.

Eddie has gone a long way since that time and has built up quite a reputation for himself. He will meet Les Blair, rugged Toronto middle, who eked out a hairline decision over Eddie at the last time out. The boys are slam-bang fighters and this battle promises to be a real knock-'em-down, drag-'em-out affair.

Other fighters featured on the card include Eddie Beatty of Hamilton, one of country's better lightweights who will square off against Don Miller of the Royal School of Artillery, Picton. Miller before joining the army, was reputed to be one of the best lightweights to come out of Western Canada.

According to Mr. Eustace there will be eight outstanding bouts, with classes ranging from lightweights to the heavies of the 205-pound category.

Another feature of the card, if it can be arranged, will be the presence here as guest referee of Gordie Wallace, Brantford's gift to the light heavyweight division. Wallace, it will be recalled, was the Canadian fighter who scored a stunning upset in London, England, a short time back when he whipped Randy Turpin, and caused that gentleman to retire from the ring. If arrangements are completed satisfactorily to bring Wallace here, it will be his first public appearance since hanging the collar on Turpin.

SIGNS HARTWIG

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Rex Hartwig, ranked No. 7 among Australia's amateur tennis stars, Tuesday accepted a $30,000 contract to join Jack Kramer's professional troupe for a 13-month tour.

Kramer plans to have Hartwig meet Pancho Segura in singles in their appearances, while Jack will meet Tony Trabert, American champion who recently turned pro.

BOTH SIGNED

MONTREAL (CP) — Whatever happens to Montreal Alouettes from here on, two of their Big Four all-star players are already under contract for next season—quarterback Sam Etcheverry and tackle Tex Coulter.

General manager Vic Obeck said Tuesday night that both players signed two-year contracts before the current season.

Blues' Coach, Manager Predict 'Might Be on Top Thursday'; Play Host to Habs Tonight

BOB TAYLOR

TPT's forward who will see action Friday night, Manager "Red" Doran announced last night Taylor's release has been secured from the Clinton, N.Y. club.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers have a healthy respect for Montreal Canadiens but figure they can take over the National Hockey League lead in a couple of days.

In the words of Ranger general manager Muzz Patrick: "Canadiens are the best team of super stars in many years, the most colorful and best club in hockey today. But we think we can beat them."

Patrick and coach Phil Watson made their forecast—a rash one to many experts—Tuesday.

Said Watson: "We respect Rocket Richard, Jean Beliveau and other Montreal aces, of course, but we're not discouraged, we're not downhearted and we're not afraid.

"If we get bot we might be in first place Thursday."

ONLY GAME

Rangers, in second place, three points behind Canadiens, play host to the Habs in the only game tonight. Wednesday they travel to Boston for a battle with the Bruins. Chicago Black Hawks are in Detroit against the Red Wings in the other game Wednesday.

Two wins would send the Blueshirts into first place. They are three points ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs. Bruins and Black Hawks, all bunched together in third spot with nine points, and Wings are in the cellar with 11 points.

Patrick figures this year's edition of the Rangers is the best New York team in several seasons. Similar things were being said of Rangers at the start of last year before they nose-dived to fifth place but Muzz doesn't expect them to go sour again.

"There won't be any big let down this season. We're better balanced throughout and have the men who can take the 70-game grind. Of course, injuries can ruin any team."

WORSLEY BIG HELP

Watson credits goaltender Lorne Worsley with much of the team's success.

"That little guy soon proved to us he belongs in the big league. I threatened to send him down to the minors last month if his play didn't improve. It's improved all right. He's only allowed six goals in six games. You can't beat that.

"I'd like to see the boys give Canadiens a licking similar to the one the Habs gave us at Montreal Oct. 15. That 4-1 trimming really hurt, but we'll make up for it."

Canadiens and Bruins are the two teams Rangers have failed to beat this season. They have played Montreal once and Bruins twice. Boston won 4-1 at home and shut out Rangers 1-0 at New York.

"Boston and Montreal are two tough teams," Watson said. "But we aren't any pushovers either."

Indians Tumble Mercurys 4-1; Stretch Margin

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Owen Sound Mercurys are finding out that it doesn't pay to be last Stratford Indians.

The Indians, who have suffered two losses—one to Windsor Bulldogs and the other to Owen Sound—three points ahead of Mercurys in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League Tuesday night with a 4-1 win in Owen Sound.

It was Stratford's fifth win in seven games and kept them in close range of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen who were forced to a 6-6 tie at Windsor in the other OHA senior game.

Second-place Indians are two points behind the Dutchmen, Owen Sound and Windsor are tied for third place with seven points, three less than Indians and one more than last-place Chatham Maroons.

COUNTED A PAIR

Tommy Walker scored a pair of goals for Indians, Mickey Roth, and George Aitken added goals. Tommy Jamieson saved Mercurys from a shutout with a second-period goal. Three of Stratford's goals came in the last period.

Dutchmen rallied for four goals in the last frame of regulation time to earn the tie at Windsor before 2,586 fans.

Ken Laufman counted two Dutchmen goals with Joe Schertzl, Jim Logan, Jerry Theberge and Bud Kemp getting the others. Gerry Haidy scored two for Windsor, John Slevyer, Jim Peters, Bob Brown and Walt Pawlyshyn were the other Bulldog marksmen.

Bulldogs were ahead 3-2 at the end of the first frame and led 5-2

Cloud Hangs Over Braccia Says Scribe

LONDON (CP) — Sports editor Jack Park of the London Free Press says in his column that quarterback Gus Braccia of Queen's University Golden Gaels is registered in another college, as well as at Queen's.

He says the Senior Intercollegiate Football League star is registered in a physical education and health course at Temple, University teachers' college, Philadelphia.

Park says his information on Braccia's registration is from Temple and "elsewhere we learned that he completed 3½ years of his course and plans to return there to graduate."

Other Canadian college teams asked questions about Braccia the first week of the Intercollegiate schedule, a month ago, not long after he went to Kingston and registered in first year arts at Queen's following an unsuccessful tryout with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four.

NONE PROTESTED

None of the other three teams in the league—McGill, University of Toronto and Western—protested. Toronto asked Queen's officials whether Braccia was eligible and was told that he was.

"Incidentally, he cannot graduate in his Temple course at Queen's," Park wrote. "All of this could be proved by a legitimate switch. Perhaps the player has given up ideas of continuing in his Temple course and plans to work toward some kind of a degree at Queen's . . . he may run out of going around are even partially true and Gus leaves Queen's after football season is over, the sport would get a black eye it would have difficulty recovering from."

MADE TIGERS' COACH

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Gordon, former second baseman for the New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians, Tuesday was appointed first base coach of the Detroit Tigers. Gordon, 40, has been Detroit's supervisor of scouts on the west coast since 1952.

He succeeds Schoolboy Rowe on the coaching staff. Rowe is due for a baseball job in the Detroit farm system.

after two periods. Early in the third stanza, Dutchmen scored three goals in 72 seconds before Bulldogs struck in front again 5-5. Laufman tied the score at 16:10. There was no scoring in the 10-minute overtime session.

NAMED ROYALS HEAD

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Lemyre, 35-year-old general manager of the Quebec Braves of the Provincial Baseball League, was named Tuesday as the new general manager of the International League Montreal Royals.

He succeeds Guy Moreau of Montreal. Moreau took over in 1951 from E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi, now vice-president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and recently resigned to go into the brokerage business.

Lemyre's appointment was announced by Hector Racine, Royals president, at a press conference called by the club.

In coming from the class C league to the triple-A International, Lemyre brings eight years' baseball experience in Quebec. He was born in Montreal.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

You don't look for a great deal of that commodity known as sportsmanship in rite-fighting circles because there isn't as a rule, much of it to be looked for. Usually, there are plaintive cries from the loser, that he was robbed, or out-lucked, or the victim of circumstances.

So it was a refreshing change, as we sat in the dressing-room of veteran Archie Moore, after he had been hammered into defeat by the iron fists of Rocky Marciano at New York's Yankee Stadium, to hear him say: "I have no excuses. You're better man won. If everybody enjoyed the fight, then I'm very happy."

This must be a record of sorts, certainly a precedent. Old Archie, hero of more than 100 fights, as he talked, was alternately pressing an ice bag to a swollen right eye and rubbing the lumps on his head and neck where the savage downward smashes of the champion had landed.

Moore lost like a rentleman. Manager Charlie Johnson had complained that Marciano had butted Moore, which is possible, and had hit him low twice in the ninth round. "Archie screamed out in pain" said Johnson, drawing liberally on his imagination.

We asked Moore if low blows had bothered him. "I guess he hit me once or twice, but not hard blows and they didn't make the slightest difference to the result," said Moore.

Moore was hammered so badly in the eighth that Dr. Nardiello of the Athletic Commission entered the ring and asked him if he wished to quit. I asked Moore if the doctor spoke afterwards what his answer to this had been. "Why" said Archie quietly, "I told him that championships are won and lost out there in the centre of the ring."

Someone in the crowd enquired: "Is Marciano the hardest hitter you ever fought?" "I wouldn't say he's the hardest hitter I ever fought. But", Moore added with a chuckle, "he hits plenty hard enough for me."

Braccia Withdrew From Temple In Good Standing

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Temple University said Tuesday that Gus Braccia, who played three years on its football team, withdrew as a student before the fall semester began and registered at Queen's University in Kingston, Ont.

Josh Cody, Temple's athletic director and football coach, said Braccia withdrew "in good standing" and can return to the Philadelphia institution to complete his physical education course.

Cody said Braccia could complete his studies at Temple but could not play football or other sports because his eligibility has run out.

The background on Braccia was disclosed after sports editor Jack Park of the London Free Press said in a column that Braccia, quarterback on the Queen's Golden Gaels team, is registered at Temple.

Park wrote that he understood that Braccia "plans to return there (Temple) to graduate."

Shawinigan Trips Quebec Aces; Royals Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts moved into a precarious tie for first place in the Quebec Hockey League Tuesday by tripping Quebec Aces 3-2 while Montreal Royals and Trois-Rivieres Lions were playing to a 2-2 tie.

Montreal and the Cataracts now share the lead of the five-team loop with 19 points each, but the Royals have three games in hand Sguenesta were 1de but still hold down third place with 15 points.

Pictured here are three of the outstanding stars on the St. Catharines Teepees, top OHA Junior "A" club, which will do battle with Belleville TPT's in an exhibition tilt here on Wednesday, November 16th. Big Elmer Vasko is captain of the St. Kitts crew. A rushing defenceman, he turned down a pro contract with the Chicago Black Hawks this year to play his final year of junior hockey. Art Stratton is a smart centreman who paced the Manitoba Junior "A" league in scoring last season. Ab McDonald is a second year man with the Teepees. He patrols left wing and is also tagged for a spot on the NHL Chicago Hawks.

Betting Record Set By Ontario Racing

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario racing fans, following what is becoming an annual pattern, set another betting record this year.

In the 165-day running race season which ended Tuesday they poured $57,273,791 into the pari-mutuel betting machines, an increase of $141,641 over the previous high of $57,132,150 in 186 days of racing in 1954.

Woodbine track in Toronto, home of the Ontario Jockey Club due to shift its main base to nearby Malton next year, more than accounted for the increase with a mutuel handle of $20,785,205 compared with $19,781,592 a year ago.

Long Branch and Dufferin tracks in Toronto reported an aggregate mutuel handle of $23,006,825, against $23,813,378 in 1954, as they wound up operations for good.

Fort Erie had a mutuel handle of the last half of one day's racing of $13,481,761 this year against $13,-$36,980. Officials attribute the decrease to a rainstorm which cut off power and led to cancellation of the last half of one day's racing program.

LEAGUE WITHDRAWS

CALGARY (CP) — Ed Corbett, president of the Western Canada Softball Association, Tuesday announced withdrawal of the WCSA from the Canadian Softball Association.

In announcing the withdrawal, Mr. Corbett charged the CSA showed "inactivity and a general lack of interest in the promotion of softball in the West."

All Hands Vote 'Yes'

Predicts Lew Hayman Will Be First Big Four Commissioner

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Toronto Telegram prediction of a spanking new look in Canadian football for '56 has set sporting circles throughout the country buzzing with speculation.

Sports reporter Bob Frewin flatly forecast Tuesday that Lew Hayman, former part-owner of Montreal Alouettes and a major figure in Canadian football for the last 22 years, will be offered this winter the post of Big Four commissioner.

And, he said, East and West will join in an expanded 16-game schedule next season.

Reaction was immediate. From the East, Harry Sonshine, team manager of Toronto Argonauts, praised both ideas:

"Hayman is the best man to be the first commissioner. The 16-game schedule is absolutely necessary."

WESTERN COMMENT

From the West, Don Mackenzie, president of British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, commented:

"Better still would be an overall commissioner for the two leagues. We haven't given the interlocking schedule much thought, and it would have to be given a great deal of thought."

In Montreal general manager Vic Obeck of the Alouettes commented: "We are definitely in favor of a commissioner and an interlocking schedule."

Frewin said the new schedule scheme—under unofficial consideration throughout Canada for some years—would involve teams from the East and the West playing home-to-five games against opponents from the opposite region.

The groundwork for such a schedule has been laid in the practice of eastern and western teams playing pre - season exhibition games in the East and West.

STILL YEARS AWAY

Earlier this year, however, a Canadian Press survey of club executives found most in agreement that such a scheme was still some years away because of financial and transportation problems.

Wes Brown, secretary-treasurer of the Big Four, said Tuesday the question of an interlocking schedule had not been put on the agenda for the league's January meeting but it could still be raised.

Ralph Cooper of Hamilton, president of the Big Four, said the scheme sounded good but he foresaw difficulties.

"The idea of an interlocking schedule with the West would be fine if it could be worked out. It would be difficult to schedule but it would be great for the game."

Cooper said he had heard nothing of Hayman's appointment as commissioner of the Big Four.

NEWS TO HAYMAN

Hayman, who was out of football this season, said it was news to him, too. Asked if he would accept the commissioner's job if offered, he replied:

"I couldn't very well say that now—and I'm sure all the Big Four clubs would have to approve a commissioner. And besides it's like any other job. I'd have to see what the work entailed."

Most other Big Four club executives appeared to favor such a move. "I'd be in favor of Hayman as commissioner," said Bill Ross, Argonaut president.

'Little Saratoga' Closed Tuesday

TORONTO (CP)—"Little Saratoga" closed Tuesday.

The doors swung shut on Toronto's Dufferin race track to mark the end of an era in Canadian racing. The track is being sold to make way for a shopping centre in a now thickly-populated residential area.

A crowd of 8,600 fans was present to see Dufferin's final card and the windup of the Canadian flat-racing season.

Dufferin, known as "Little Saratoga" to racing fans, was opened in 1908 by the late Abram (Abe) M. Orpen. His son, Fred, later operated the track until its recent sale.

Dufferin's half-mile track made it unusual among courses in North America.

WINS 3 MORE

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Youthful Willie Hartack continued his monopoly on the winner's circle at Laurel Tuesday, bringing home three winners to boost his total for the year to 273.

That's only 24 away from a glittering 400, a goal attained only by one other jockey in the United States, Willie Shoemaker.

Harry Walker Houston Boss

HOUSTON (AP)—Harry Walker, baseball veteran who managed the St. Louis Cardinals most of last season, Tuesday became one of the highest-paid managers in Texas League history.

Art Routzong, general manager of Houston Buffs, a Cardinal farm club, said the 37-year-old Walker has signed a one-year contract as playing manager.

No salary terms were announced but Routzong said Walker probably will receive a higher salary than any manager in the class AA league's history with the exception of the $30,000 Charlie Grimm, now manager at Milwaukee, drew in Dallas in 1950.

TV Audience Will Be Doubled For Next Presidential Vote

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—By a year from now we'll know the results of another United States national election. How large looms the new factor of television in the workings of the old American election system in 1956?

The television audience in next year's campaign will be almost twice what it was in 1952. As a result, industry sources expect the major parties to spend almost twice what they did on television and radio in the last race.

No accurate figures are available on what the major parties spent on broadcasting and telecasting in 1952. The law puts a ceiling on a political party's campaign expenditures, but there is no limit on the amount of money various interested voters' groups may raise and spend in promoting a favored candidate.

Paul Butler, national Democratic chairman, says his party will allocate about $5,000,000 to radio and television. Political observers believe it will amount to a good deal more when all interested voters' groups have passed the hat.

Leonard W. Hall, national Republican chairman, has mentioned a radio-TV budget of $2,000,000. But before the campaign is over it's expected the Republican's will be spending at least as much as the Democrats.

What can politically-interested TV viewers expect in 1956?

First of all, complete and unbiased coverage of the national political conventions in Chicago and San Francisco next August on the three major networks—ABC, CBS, and NBC. Radio coverage by these three and Mutual also is certain.

Once the conventions are over and the campaigns begin:

The Republican national committee already has set most of the time periods it will use in TV and radio, choosing prime periods where top-rated network programs now appear.

USE SALES TECHNIQUES

The Democrats also seek prime time segments, using whatever time they consider feasible and selling the balance to commercial advertisers. Some 30-minute spots will be used, but emphasis will be on five-minute periods. Other Democratic plans: stress on daytime radio and TV; use of short TV spots; animated cartoons; cut-ins on national programs to present congressional candidates at local levels.

In short, both major parties show great awareness of the sales techniques developed by the advertising agencies as the best way to sell a product. In their plans it appears that the long-winded political orator reading a speech by teleprompter to the voters will simply have no place.

Bogart No Publicity Hound But Look at Things He Says!

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Humphrey Bogart growled at his wife, took a sip of scotch and muttered, "I never sought publicity in my life."

Yet in the next few minutes, he uttered such things as:

1. Directors don't mean a thing at the box office;

2. Young stars are a drab lot;

3. New York ain't what it used to be;

4. A man has a right to get loaded and (or) raise a little Cain.

That shows you how agile his mind can be.

The scene was the Bogarts' hotel suite. He was entertaining some old friends at cocktails. Mrs. Bogart, an actress named Bacall, was in and out in various stages of dress, preparing for dinner. They occasionally hurled insults at each other.

Bogart, the press agent would like you to know, is here for location of "The Harder They Fall." Seeing a reporter and being prodded, he discoursed on various subjects.

Publicity: "I never sought it in my life. Sure, it's important. I think 50 per cent of a movie star's career is based on publicity. But I hate the crummy press releases and phony stunts. That stuff stinks.

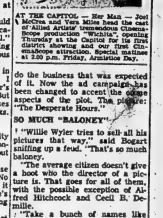
BE "EXCITING"

"The only way to get publicity is to be an exciting enough personality. Then people will write about you.

"That's the trouble with these young male stars in Hollywood. No color. No imagination. It makes it tough on columnists. But there's good news. Errol Flynn is coming back."

Proceeding clinically, Bogart analyzed how he became a character:

"By doing as I damn well pleased. I defend my right to cut a caper if I feel like it. I see nothing wrong in taking a pandy to a night club, along with another friend and his panda."



The panda referred, of course, to Bogart's last great expedition into New York night life. He confessed he sees little of the gay spots these days.

"This town ain't what it used to be," he commented sourly. "You used to be able to have fun, now there are too many creeps who want to make trouble for you."

The question of one of his recent pictures came up. It was sold on a prestige campaign but failed to tour Nov. 14 at the Royal Alexandra in Toronto. She will perform there for a week, then she will spend another week in one-night stands at Kingston, Ont., St. Catharines, Peterborough, Guelph, London and Brantford.

AT THE BELLE — Love on a Hilltop—Jennifer Jones and William Holden have their own mountain-top trysting place overlooking Hong Kong in the true-life, true-love drama, "Love is a Many-Splendored Thing," CinemaScope picture opening today at the Belle Theatre. The 20th Century-Fox production, actually filmed in the Orient, is in color by DeLuxe.

AT THE CAPITOL — Bar Man — Joel McCrea and Vera Miles head the cast of Allied Artists' tremendous CinemaScope production "Wichita," opening today at the Capitol for the first district showing and our first Cinemascope attraction. Matinee matinee at 2:00 p.m. Friday, Armistice Day.

SO MUCH "BALONEY"

"Willie Wyler tries to sell-all his pictures that way," said Bogart sniffing up a feud. "That's so much baloney.

"The average citizen doesn't give a hoot who the director of a picture is. That goes for all of them, with the possible exception of Alfred Hitchcock and Cecil B. DeMille.

"Take a bunch of names like DeMille, George Stevens, Wyler, Billy Wilder and John Huston. Then stack them up against Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Jean Simmons, Lauren Bacall and Frank Sinatra (all friends of Bogart's, of course.) See which list the public will go for. The stars, naturally."

Bogart did allow that the director is an important man in filmmaking. "I'd never want to be one," he said. "They work too hard."

Ruth Draper to Begin Tour Of Ontario Cities Shortly

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Ruth Draper, 72-year old stager, sat on a well-worn chesterfield in her New York apartment and pondered the prospect of retirement.

"I don't expect I'll retire until people get bored listening to me," answered the 71-year-old actress. "As long as anyone likes to hear me I'll go on, I suppose."

Miss Draper, who begins a Canadian tour Nov. 14, found out last season that the public still hasn't had enough of her solo performances. An appearance at New York's Vanderbilt Theatre, billed as her "farewell" to the stage, was so successful that friends persuaded her to continue.

She has been called variously a monologist, reciter, diseuse, impersonator and elocutionist—but says she is none of these: "I am a character actress. There is no mimicry at all, only straight acting as one would act a character in a play."

GOLD-STAR MAN

A grey-haired woman of medium height, with expressive eyes is the granddaughter of Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun in that now-defunct newspaper's heyday.

She lives in a Victorian-appointed suite on east 79th street, only about 30 blocks from where she was born. On the wall is a map of the world with at least 100 gold stars to indicate the cities in numerous countries where she has appeared.

Since the day in 1920 when the curtain went up on her character acting career at London's Aeolian Hall, she has built up a repertory of 35 sketches—some of them based on incidents she has witnessed, most of them the product of her own fertile imagination.

"I portray the rich and the poor, the humble and the socially prominent," she said. "I seem to be able to project and sustain a natural gift for story-telling which a great many people have. The character becomes a complete person, not just a part of one. In a way, my pieces are like small plays."

An example of a sketch based on true happenings is "a Scottish immigrant at Ellis Island," which she will perform in Peterborough, Ont. Ellis Island is the former clearing depot in New York harbor for immigrants entering the United States.

"I had been to Ellis Island and seen friends meet after long separations," she recalled. "This gave me an idea for a sketch. But most of my pieces are pure fabrication.

"I sometimes use a language which is really just syllables thrown together to give the impression of speech. So often you can create an effect without actually making sentences . . . you can indicate anger, pleasure or pain. Though the words are not real, there is a line of thought."

Miss Draper begins her Canadian

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, Nov. 10, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Venus, Moon and Uranus in excellent aspects particularly favorable the artistic professions, home and family interests, also unusual endeavors if social and personal. Care in finances!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Favorable for your personal affairs, for family happiness and benefits, for monetary gains through your own smart business management and general know - how.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Don't look at any sudden disappointment as final. You have opportunities galore today but it may take extra patience to find them and work with them. Don't fret if all ideas don't click immediately.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Tops for good effort. Your innately kind and charitable nature will be rewarded by benefits from unexpected places. Strengthen business and personal ties.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Delicate matters, home and private affairs have fine Moon and Venus rays. "A highly successful day! Maybe not, maybe yes. It's mostly up to you."

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Although you may not be as keen and mentally alert as usual now, the day holds advantages and beneficial returns for all good efforts and sound ideas.

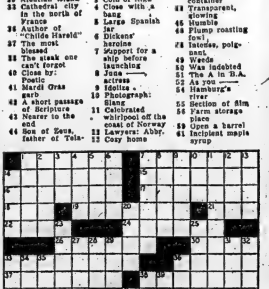
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — You have very helpful Venus and Moon aspects to aid you in worthwhile undertakings, especially if they are generous in scope, unselfish in motive. A good day for clever and artistic folks.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Not especially inspiring rays for vigorous and laborious work but any worthwhile activity in which cleverness and skill are required can move ahead satisfactorily.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Not wholly encouraging for quick gains but this is a day for sound attainment through constant effort and sensible management. Keep striving.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Similar indications to Sagittarius now. Be smart in planning procedure. Don't make unwise investments but do take reasonable, progressive measures to advance. Know your facts, Have faith.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Enlivening, benefic Uranus rays here spell unusual achievement if you handle day's busts as well as you know how. And don't waste valuable time on unessentials or unproductive people.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) Please heed Gemini. Be mindful of your many talents and capabilities, then, with faith, step into things with the best competitors. Your interests favored anew.

You born today are artistic, suited to a scientific or other professional career. If living true to your finer nature, you are steadfast, dependable, capable. It is well that you like to gather knowledge; keep on doing so for you can always make worthwhile knowledge pay. Control your temper and curb a tendency to domineer. Vive others their innings, too. Develop your talents and put them to daily practical use. Procrastination can be an expensive failing with Scorpio. Birthdate: Wm. Hogarth, noted painter, pictorial satirist; Oliver Goldsmith, famed writer.

Says Crockford Spending More Than He Makes

TORONTO (CP)—James Van der Meulen, one-time vandals reeve of suburban Scarborough, said Tuesday at an inquiry investigating bribery charges that Reeve Crockford spends more money than he makes.

Mr. Van der Meulen, with the Highview Construction Ltd., told Judge Robert Forsyth he could supply figures to prove the reeve consistently overspent his income.

His statement came at the close of the second sitting of the one-man commission, investigating Scarborough's zoning and development.

The investigation so far has centred on four personal cheques of $500 each made out to members of the planning board. A construction company claims the cheques were tendered for payment for sewerage services in a new subdivision.

CLAIMS EXPENSES HIGH

Mr. Van der Meulen, who last year was defeated in an election race against Mr. Crockford, said that Mr. Crockford's election expenses alone are $10,000.

He added that "Mr. Crockford's known salary" as reeve is $10,000 a year. But he drives around in a $6,000 car and spends more than he makes.

Judge Forsyth said to Mr. Van der Meulen:

"But you can't come here and make accusations against a man just because he drives around in a big car. You must lay a charge."

Stanley Lockwood, Scarborough councillor said he felt someone had tried to make him "fall guy".

Donald Horton, one of four men who received the cash cheque from Gramarcy Building and Development Ltd., said he was convinced the cheque was given him in an attempt to "set me up."

He had dropped a housing plan [illegible] by Gramarcy for the township planning board. The board rejected the plan.

Gramarcy told the inquiry Monday the cheques were not payments but payments for its share of the cost of a pumping station in the township.

Eden Rejects Suggestion To End Titles

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden, who as a knight is entitled to call himself Sir Anthony, Tuesday smilingly rejected a suggestion the government abolish the use of titles.

Emrys Hughes, 61 - year - old Welshman, made the suggestion in the House of Commons, drawing a quick "No sir" at first from Eden.

Hughes refused to be satisfied with this answer and argued, "is the prime minister aware that we are about the only country in the world who now confers titles as a term of titles?"

Several members tried to shout Hughes down with cries "what about Marshal Bulganin?"

Eden smiled, then rose again to restore order by telling Hughes:

"As the honorable member—if he may use that title—may be aware, there are a number of differing views and tastes in this matter (of titles)."

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was watching pop eat his soft boi egg this morning, saying, My, William, it's odd that you should just happen to want an egg this morning. I mean, do you should happen to find a wishbone in it. It would be exactly like a theenie to put a wishbone in it. It didn't quite really is Thursday and I have a million things to do, and you really do have an egg in front of you, although I don't suppose it would be humanly possible to find a wishbone in it, she said.

It wouldn't even be chickenly possible, pop said. Just the same, nobody can accuse you of not having a dream husband, he said, and may said, Why William, do you actually mean you'd like to eat out tonight? Why, this is even stranger than my dream. I mean it's actually an unexpected coincidents, she said.

So are you, my dear, pop said. And he kissed her goodbye and left for his office.

Doctor, Lawyer Telling Lies Mother Sobs

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mast—Tuesday evidence given by a doctor and a lawyer in the Mast family custody hearing was "all lies."

Trudy Mast, mother of the 18-months-old twins who were taken away at Mirth, said she did not go to obtain an abortion. Dr. Ian Smith of Cookville, Ont., testified Monday that she did.

Her husband, Herman Mast, said Leslie Pallett, the lawyer who arranged adoption of the twins by Mr. and Mrs. Austin Hepton of Whitby, Ont., told him on Oct. 20 when he said Mr. Mast asked for money for the babies.

Mr. and Mrs. Mast, a Dutch immigrant couple, are suing for the return of the twins, claiming they gave "divine action" for giving them up.

ASSISI RE REMARK

Recalled t. the stand, Mrs. Mast, 22, was asked by her lawyer, William Young, whether she had told Dr. Smith she was pregnant when born she wanted to rid herself of the children.

Mr. Young asked whether she told Dr. Smith she took 30 strong headache pills.

She replied that she had not.

"You heard Dr. Smith tell what happened the day you visited him. What was the real issue you remember?" asked Charles Dubin, lawyer for Mr. and Mrs. Hepton, the foster parents.

"That's all a lie," said Mrs. Mast, breaking into tears.

Pro Football 'Not Dirty' Claims B...

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell Tuesday denied statements by Cleveland quarterback Otto Graham that professional football is dirty.

Graham said at Atlanta Monday night that pro football is "rough, tough and dirty." The Browns' star passer said that sometimes a player is done things will get out of hand.

Graham added that officials are allowing the players to get away with too much rough stuff and that Bell and the league office should do something about it if they wanted to.

Bell said that "Graham is entitled to his opinion, but I'm also entitled to mine and mine is that the game is not the way Graham describes it."

"Pro football today is a highly aggressive game," Bell continued. "The teams are so evenly balanced and so closely bunched that competition is found in every alley. Under the present rule that forces fumbles and passes are unbound to occur. But I've had no reports from officials or club owners that the game is dirty."

Hockey Starting To Thrive In Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—Mr. Al Leader has dreamed of smiles these days.

A year ago Mr. Leader was a senile orphan. He maintained the Western Hockey League headquarters in Seattle and all its teams were in Canada. No professional hockey was played in the U.S. west of Chicago but president Al sat tight, confident that the Fastest Game of All—ask any hockey buff—would come back to the American Northwest.

FINAL STRAW

It seemed the final straw when Seattle dropped out after the 1953 season. The league had extended at one time all the way to southern California.

Two years ago a local syndicate took over the Seattle franchise and made a valiant effort to win back fans and the press. But it couldn't be done in one season and there was no pro hocker in Seattle the next year.

But a new management moved in to start 1955 with hope and good hockey and they are playing to improving crowds. Proceeds are running $1,000 a night better than they were two years ago. And although the league, which stretches from Seattle to Winnipeg, attendance is up.

Portland expects to return to the circuit as soon as it has an arena, which Leader anticipates for 1957. He would like to see Spokane in the loop, too.

MEXICANS WIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Mexico's equestrian team won the Perpetual Challenge Trophy Tuesday night as it took the international championship in international competition at the National Horse Show.

Tuesday night's victory in a jump-off with the Irish team gave the Mexicans six of the 13 international events. The United States won five with Ireland and Britain taking one each.

Tied with 12 faults apiece for three rides in the competition proper, in which the United States and Canada also participated, the Mexican and Irish teams tied it a second time with Mexico again completing the course with 12 faults. The first two Irish riders accumulated 16 faults between them, giving Mexico the victory.

OVERTIME

VANCOUVER (CP) — City bus drivers have agreed to skip overtime claims as a gesture towards the success of Grey Cup Day here Nov. 26.

A release from the Street Railmen's Union (AFL-TLC) said the operators of 426 buses have agreed to work longer hours without benefit of overtime pay Grey Cup Day.

The union said the operators will be working longer so that "Vancouver may stage the greatest Grey Cup Day that Canada has yet seen."

Red Sox Get Bob Porterfield, Vernon In Five-Player Deal With Senators

By DAVE O'HARA

BOSTON (AP)—An all-out bid for the 1956 American League pennant was signalled by the Boston Red Sox today as a four-year youth movement ended with acquisition of veteran Bob Porterfield and Mickey Ver... Red Sox [illegible] in a five-player [illegible]-most Tuesday obtaining Porterfield, ... and two others for five young players in a big trade with the Washington Senators.

"We didn't miss the 1955 flag by much and I think Porterfield and Vernon could provide us what we need to win the '56 race," said Boston general manager Joe Cronin.

In addition to Porterfield, a 31-year-old right-handed hurler, and Vernon, a top first baseman despite his 37 years, the Red Sox also received southpaw Johnny Schmitz, a 33-year-old veteran, and outfielder Tommy Umphlett, traded to Washington two years ago after a fine rookie season with Boston.

To swing the deal, the Red Sox gave up three pitchers and two outfielders, all out of the Boston farm system. They were right-handers Dick Brodowski, 23, Al Curtis, 25, and Truman Clevenger, 23, and outfielders Karl Olson, 25, and Neil Chrisley, 22.

The Red Sox obviously were prompted in making a bid for the 1956 pennant by the strong showing of this year's team, which after a slow start climbed into contention and remained there until fading in the closing weeks. The team ... and up fourth, 12 games ... first-place New York ... snkees.

"One more experienced pitcher of talent and an additional sound hitter and we might have won it," Cronin said.

Manager Mike Higgins, at his home in Dallas, Texas, said he was very pleased by the trade.

Vernon is obviously the biggest name in the deal. One of the American League's all-time stars at first base, Vernon twice won the league batting championship and wound up last year at .301.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We've been trying to get some young fellows on our club," said manager Chuck Dressen of the Washington Senators about Tuesday's trade with the Boston Red Sox.

"I think it is a good trade for both clubs," said Dressen. "Boston gave up three pitchers and two outfielders, all out of the Boston farm system. They were right-handers Dick Brodowski, 23, Al Curtis, 25, and Truman Clevenger, 23, and outfielders Karl Olson, 25, and Neil Chrisley, 22.

British Medical Journal Says Virgin Births Not Ruled Out

By JOHN DUDMAN

LONDON (Reuters)—The Lancet, leading British medical journal, says the possibility of virgin births cannot be scientifically ruled out. Fatherless rabbits had already been reared, so medical science might have to re-examine its beliefs about spontaneous parthenogenesis (virgin birth).

The Lancet was discussing a recent talk by Dr. Helen Spurway, lecturer in biometry and eugenics (the statistical study of organisms and the science of breeding) at University College, London.

The Lancet said that if virgin births occurred they were extremely rare but most cases would not be recognized because it might happen in women living with their husbands.

CAUTIOUS ESTIMATE

The chances of it happening? The Lancet was cautious in trying to give an estimate, but mentioned one possibility of its frequency being only one half that for the birth of sextuplets—"another rare event which undoubtedly does occur."

This would mean that the chances of virgin birth would be about one in 131,072,000,000.

The Lancet said: "In the few (cases) which might remain, the chance of any woman successfully asserting the facts in face of an evident pregnancy would be small enough to make her keep her own counsel.

"Perhaps, as Dr. Spurway remarked, claims might be entered with more confidence if the women concerned knew that today these could be vindicated beyond any reasonable doubt."

The offspring of virgin birth would be female—or, less probably, an abnormal male. Scientific tests on the infant's physical makeup could make its virgin birth recognizable with absolute certainty.

ABSOLUTE PROOF

Absolute proof would be the "ability of the mother to take a skin graft derived from the child without breakdown and with indefinite persistence of the graft." Such evidence to biologists would be conclusive, the Lancet said.

The Lancet declared: "Whether it is worth doing more in this matter than keeping our eyes open when we conduct a research that might reveal such a case, and awaiting claimants, is doubtful.

"But if such a claim was now made it could be proved. Possibly some of the unmarried mothers whose obstinacy is condemned in old books on forensic medicine, or cited as a curiosity by their contemporaries, may have been telling the truth."

Dr. Spurway collected evidence from warm - blooded creatures showing that the ova of cats and ferrets and turkey eggs had been found to divide as though fertilized by a male, though this had not happened.

MOTHER IS SENTENCED

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Anne Laurie Williams was sentenced Monday to life for killing her sons, Conrad, 8, and Calvin, 9, and dismembering their bodies last Feb. 16. The 32-year-old former dime-store clerk told officers of strangling the boys and helping bury the dismembered bodies. They were found in four paper-wrapped packages after a friend, who helped her bury them, became suspicious. She had told him the packages contained spoiled venison.

Entering Bulgaria Bad Enough Travelling There Even Worse

By JOHN EARLE

SOFIA (Reuters)—Getting to Bulgaria at all is a problem, and once in this Iron Curtain country a Western traveller runs into numerous restrictions and discomforts.

There are no direct air services from Western Europe and only one daily train from Yugoslavia. Even this is a combined passenger-freight train that makes every local stop.

During a two-hour stop at the Yugoslav - Bulgarian frontier for customs inspection, Bulgarian authorities post soldiers around the train and look under the seats in each compartment.

But this procedure is an improvement on several months ago, when travellers used to report that the Bulgarian frontier officials would examine all reading matter and often confiscate newspapers or books printed in non-Communist countries. They no longer do that.

In addition to needing a visa, a foreigner has to register with the police on arrival and obtain from them an exit visa before departure.

Hotels are often so full that it is difficult to find a bed. But, once found, it is unusually clean. Toilet paper is provided now in hotels—for the first time, residents report, since the war.

Most of the main restrictions is on a foreigner's movements. He needs special police permission to travel to parts of Bulgaria other than where he is registered.

Sinclair Tried to Avoid China But Reds Closed Russian Exit

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Sinclair said today he tried to avoid going to Communist China on his way back from Russia.

In his first press conference since his return to Canada more than a month ago, he said the Russians declined to permit a Canadian plane to pick him up in Vladivostok or to land him in Japan from a Russian vessel.

Mr. Sinclair, who spent a month in a Siberian hospital after a fall, said the cat and dove game" being played by the Chinese "makes my feet itch but are not quite ready for recognition." He referred specifically to Western prisoners held by the Chinese.

He said that while in Peiping the subject of Canadian recognition of China was immediately brought up by the Chinese. But he said he only repeated what External Affairs Minister Pearson said previously on the question in a Vancouver speech.

Mr. Pearson had said in Vancouver that the time was approaching when a new approach would have to be taken at recognition.

Mr. Sinclair said that there is apparently a more personal freedom in Russia since the execution of former police chief Lavrenti Beria. However, he added, personal freedom is "not the approach that of the Western world.

Mr. Sinclair said he hopes that next year an exchange of scientists will be possible between the fisheries research station on the British Columbia coast and the Russian counterpart at Vladivostok.

Mr. Sinclair suffered leg and spinal injuries in a fall early in August at the Siberian fishing village of Petropavlovsk. On his return by air from Russia he said he entered hospital for treatment of sciatica. He returned to Ottawa on Vancouver Oct 30.

Faure Again Seeking Vote Of Confidence

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — Premier Edgar Faure today staked the life of his government on a revision of the system for electing deputies to the National Assembly.

The vote, which will come Saturday, will be the fourth demand Faure has made on the assembly in less than four weeks to show its confidence in his government.

If the assembly backs the premier Saturday, the government's plan for parliamentary elections in December—six months ahead of schedule—will still be alive. But its future by no means will be certain.

If Faure loses, he will have to resign.

WOULD CHANGE SYSTEM

Faure's confidence motion asks the assembly to approve a voting system like that used in the 1951 elections, except that it would not permit inter-party alliances.

Under the 1951 vote, the French constituencies would vote by party lists, and any list that polled more than half the votes would take all the seats. If no list got 50 per cent, the assembly seats would be divided according to proportional representation.

Faure decided to put the confidence motion came after the Socialists proposed a system of proportional representation. Reliable sources said Conservative, minister in Faure's cabinet, threatened to walk out of the government unless Faure blocked this proposal by demanding a confidence vote.

SCOTLAND YARD FILES STOLEN, SPARKING PROBE

Top-Secret Records Found in Apartment

By ADRIAN BALL

LONDON (Reuters) — Scotland Yard chiefs are engaged in a one of the most serious investigations to British criminal history—into the organization of Scotland Yard itself.

The British police headquarters has been shaken to its foundations by the discovery that top-secret criminal records—worth a fortune to blackmailers—have passed into outside hands.

Six or seven confidential files relating to the movements of women were found Tuesday in a woman's apartment in a London suburb.

RAIDED APARTMENT

Police raided the apartment after being told by a woman informant that she had seen papers in the apartment relating to prison offences and sentences.

A 43-year-old police sergeant, with 20 years experience in the Scotland Yard records office, was suspended from duty during the investigation.

Scotland Yard's best detectives were assigned to the case by Commissioner Sir John Nott-Bower.

Their secret investigation of felow officers may lead to one of the biggest administrative shakeups in British police history.

As an immediate step, a drastic tightening up in the security and the procedure under which police officers borrow files from the office.

The Yard's biggest concern is whether other files have been removed in the past and whether any are still missing.

The files include secret information given to Scotland Yard by the police of all countries which have links with the international criminal police commission.

Newspapers describe the affair today as a "Yard scandal." One describes the fact that thousands of purloined files is "the biggest shock the Yard has faced in 20 years."

Use Radar Traps On Highways Without Warning

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Kelso Roberts will inspect highways and Ontario Provincial Police detachments in western Ontario it was announced today.

Mr. Roberts said in a statement speeding motorists no longer can be confident the magic eye of radar will save them. The radar-warning signs may or may not be put up cautioning drivers, he said.

That radar-warning signs were used by the United States and Britain and Russia voted in favor.

Before the vote was taken, Canada's permanent UN representative R. A. MacKay told the committee his delegation feels that the three-man commission is clearly necessary to achieve concrete results and should be discontinued.

W. C. Du Plessis, chairman of the South African delegation and permanent U.N. representative, announced that his country will immediately after the vote was taken, fix terms of reference for "permanent intervention" in South Africa's domestic affairs.

Mr. Du Plessis said African High Commissioner to Canada, will return to Ottawa shortly.

The South African delegation had boycotted all meetings on the race conflict question and returned only yesterday for the voting.

The commission, the fourth such commission for its work, asks that it be continued to observe South Africa to lend its to-operation. The commission, headed by Herman Santa Cruz, Chile, has been barred from South Africa even since the establishment in 1952.

Some weeks ago it submitted a report saying that despite a change in the head of government, South Africa continues to pursue a policy of race separation.

MacKay told the commission that the government of Canada had "all but admitted its inability to come to grips with the main problem."

Grand Jury Closes Till Case Declines to Indict Two Whites

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP)—Two white men have been freed of all charges in the celebrated case of Emmett Till, the 14-year-old Chicago Negro boy who disappeared while visiting his uncle's farm in Mississippi.

A county grand jury Wednesday declined to indict half-brothers Roy Bryant, 24, and J. W. Milam, 36, on charges of kidnapping Till from the cabin of his sharecropper uncle.

Less than a month before a trial jury in a neighboring county found the two half-brothers innocent of murdering Till on the grounds that there was reasonable doubt about identification of a battered body pulled from the Tallahatchie river.

Jury Recommends Bank Clerks Be Trained to Use Firearms

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury, investigating the May 19 fatal shooting of a Toronto bank clerk, has recommended that all senior bank male employees in the city be armed and trained in the use of firearms.

The jury Wednesday night found that Allan Hannan, 24, died from a bullet wound from his employer's gun during the $2,500 holdup of a branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank here.

Evidence was that William Davidson, the bank manager, had fired five shots from a .38-calibre pistol during the holdup.

Lloyd Simpson, 32, and Arthur Hannah, 36, were charged in the robbery and were sentenced to 20 years each in prison.

The jury, under Coroner Smirle Lawson, supervising coroner for Ontario, recommended that bank employees should be given two days' training by police in the proper handling of firearms. Cost, it was recommended, would be borne by the banks.

Ronald Rodgers, an RCMP ballistics expert, testified three gunsagger," the witness said.

South Africa Has Recalled Delegates to UN Assembly

By JACK BEST

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Angered by a committee decision to continue studying race conflict within its borders, South Africa yesterday withdrew its delegation from the UN assembly.

It was the second walkout of the current session. France withdrew September 30 because the Assembly voted to debate Algeria, and has not returned.

The walkout came after the Assembly's special political committee approved a 7-power resolution calling for continuance of the commission which has been investigating the question of race conflict resulting from South Africa's race separation policy.

The vote was 42 to 7, with 11 abstentions. Canada voted against the measure, most of whose sponsors, including the Arab-Asian bloc. Britain also opposed it. Only the United States abstained and Russia voted in favor.

Before the vote was taken, Canada's permanent UN representative R. A. MacKay told the committee his delegation feels that the three-man commission is clearly necessary to achieve concrete results and should be discontinued.

W. C. Du Plessis, chairman of the South African delegation and permanent U.N. representative, announced that his country will immediately after the vote was taken, fix terms of reference for "permanent intervention" in South Africa's domestic affairs.

Molotov Rejects Eisenhower's Inspection Plan

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov today rejected President Eisenhower's proposal for American-Russian aerial inspection in offering to the foreign ministers conference a global disarmament program.

Two issues being taken up today are disarmament and Germany, both to lift some from Curtain barriers that have blocked information.

But Western diplomats said only a radical twist in Soviet policy would bring friendly stewardship of last July's "summit" conference and brighten prospects of accomplishing anything on these issues.

In words that sometimes crackled with anger, and at other times seemed resigned, the Western ministers Wednesday told Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov the cross of confidence was one of the most serious results of the Soviet Union's policies.

QUESTIONS WORTH

U.S. State Secretary Dulles said: "I am wondering if we could weather an agreement with the Soviet Union is worth much.

Then came the British Foreign Secretary Macmillan charged that Russia had "torpedoed" the "summit" conference agreement to negotiate reunification of Germany through a free vote.

"With one blow he struck down all high hopes that had been formed," Macmillan said, adding that Molotov's action showed the deep effect of his German declaration on world opinion.

In his declaration, Molotov made it clear Russia will never agree to unification of Germany unless it is by means which would make sure the communization of the whole country.

NIEMOELLER ARRIVES

NEW YOR K(AP)—Pastor Martin Niemoller arrived Wednesday from Germany for a month-long lecture tour and said that united Germany is reunited soon a military dictator may rise again. The survivor of Nazi concentration camps said excessive delay in German unification would make it easy for a general to take over Europe's "richest land West," and gain control of Germany.

BURNS IN CAIRO TO MEET NASSER ON TRUCE PLAN

Have Lost Faith in UN Declares Cairo Radio

CAIRO (Reuters) — Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief United Nations truce observer in Palestine, flew here today for talks with Egyptian leaders on easing tension along the Egyptian-Israeli border.

The Canadian truce chief, who flew from his Jerusalem headquarters, will see Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser to discuss a "pacification plan."

His proposals are reported to include simultaneous withdrawal of Israeli and Egyptian forces from the demilitarized El Auja border zone following a series of bloody clashes which have threatened to erupt into a full-scale war.

He will also pass on the views of Israeli Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion with whom he discussed the plan Wednesday.

Ben-Gurion said Israel would observe all the armistice conditions if the other side did the same, but otherwise would stage further retaliatory attacks if necessary.

NO FAITH IN UN

Egypt's radio Wednesday night that Egypt no longer has any faith in UN decisions and appeals, and would "stop at nothing" to end the bravery of her soldiers."

Egyptian, Israeli and East Germany have signed a new trade payments agreement, described Wednesday by Dr. Gottfried Lessing, president of the East German Chamber of Foreign trade, as an extension of a 1953 trade pact.

The 1953 agreement provided for exchanges of Egyptian cotton, rice and industrial and agricultural products, against East German machinery, electrical equipment, precision instruments, fertilizers and chemical products.

Canadian Legion Urges Govt. Build National Conetaph

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Legion today urged the government to erect a national memorial in memory of the dead of all Canada's wars. It would carry no date.

In its annual brief to the cabinet, the 220,000-member legion suggested the government consider erection of a "national cenotaph" in the centre of Parliament Hills and in the shadow of the Peace Tower.

The National War Memorial in the centre of Confederation square, completed in 1939, is inscribed "1914-1918."

Commission Hits High-Pressure Stock Promoters

Blacklists Men, Companies Selling Worthless Shares

TORONTO (CP) — High-pressure stock selling was dealt a new blow Wednesday in a series of orders by the Ontario Securities Commission. They withdraw various rights from a number of companies and individuals.

Special object of the present drive, started last spring, is a group which, says the commission, "is busily engaged in obtaining control of dormant companies by purchasing large blocks of vendor's shares which have little, if any, actual value, and then inducing shareholders to make additional purchases through high-pressure methods."

Nub of the matter is that companies, while they are permitted, under Section 34 of the Securities Act, to offer shares to existing shareholders without qualification and registration, may not, in doing so, evade the spirit of the law as interpreted by the commission.

COMPANIES NAMED

In the current action the rights of Section 34 were withdrawn from Roundabout Oils and Mines Ltd., while rights had already been withdrawn from Metro Minerals Ltd., Brae-Brecst Uranium Mines and Metals Ltd., Atlantic Nickel Mines Ltd., Monogram Petroleums Ltd., Uxbridge Mining Corporation Ltd., and Regal Kirkland Gold Mines Ltd.

Rights are similarly withdrawn from Harry Spillman, Joseph Harris, Mark Stein, Jack Cohen, Joseph R. Fleming, John Thomas Chrystal and John C. Wylie.

In the case of Louis Sherman the commission said that "despite his previous extensive evidence," it would give him the benefit of the doubt for the time being, but if it again applies for registration under the commission his application will be refused in the first instance in order that the evidence may be reviewed.

The orders withdrawing rights from individuals also withdraw rights from any company which they serve as directors or officers.

Discussing the Roundabout Oils case, the commission's bulletin said Spillman, who had been unsuccessful in obtaining registration as a salesman in Ontario, had a telephone listing in his name in a Toronto apartment which was the address of Harris, a director of Roundabout. Harris had also been refused registration as a salesman.

CHECK PHONE BILLS

Between Aug. 16 and Sept. 10 the only changes in Roundabout's telephone calls to shareholders in the United States amounted to $1.20, the commission said. A cheque issued by the company over the name of Harris was traced.

The commission commented that use of the long distance telephone as a means of selling securities under Section 19 may be reduced "if the telephone company bills the offering is illegal, as expenses are incurred which are not permitted under conditions as imposed."

Referring to the order against Marian Mackenzie, Toronto; Ralph Fleming, Shawn, Chrystal, Sherbrooke, Que., the bulletin identified with the illegal operation."

In the Metro review the bulletin said with further share financing transactions affecting Brae Brecst, Oakridge and Regal Kirkland.

Young Canadians Have Lost Interest In Flying for Living Says Expert

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Young Canadians have lost interest in flying as a career, says a starting director of aviation executives here.

The Air Industries and Transport Association—ending its annual convention Wednesday night—said in official reports that one of the chief problems today is to attract young men to the flying game.

T. P. (Tommy) Fox, retiring president of the organization, said that although pay for airmen is considered good there is a scarcity today of Canadian flying candidates.

Mr. Fox said in an interview that youths are being taken away from the flying business by prosperity and better careers in such enterprises as oil companies.

President of Associated Airways, with headquarters in Edmonton, Mr. Fox stressed that the opportunity is available although "young men no longer take the adventurous view."

Gil Robb Wilson, publisher of Flying Magazine, said in a speech that the average age of pilots in combat Korea, for instance, was well over 30 years of age.

"There are no kids on the airports any more," he said, comparing conditions to a generation ago when flying was considered the great dream and adventure of North American youth.

Wife Will Join Dead Husband In Bed in Vault

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)— The body of Mrs. Benjamin Freeze of Unity township will rest as it did along beside the body of her husband, in night clothes on a double bed in the family vault at the Unity Presbyterian church cemetery.

Mrs. Freeze, 93, died Tuesday night at a nursing home. Her husband died 24 years ago. Before his death, Freeze asked that his body be laid out on the bed, complete with mattress and springs, and specified that room be left on the bed for the body of his wife.

His remains were placed on the mattress and springs and covered with bedclothes for his funeral. The huge vault, which Freeze had built himself, was then sealed.

Mrs. Freeze, who prepared the nightgown in which she is to be buried, will be covered with a white blanket.

Second Fatality Of Hunting Season

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Frederick Little, 52, of Troy, N. Y., died today in a Toronto hospital, it has been reported here. He is this district's second 1955 deerhunting season victim.

He had shot a deer Monday and while hanging it in a tree in his camp Mr. Little fell 12 feet to the ground, suffering an injured vertebra.

He was paralyzed and could attract hunting companions only by whistling.

He was taken by camp leep to Apley Red Cross outpost hospital, later to a Peterborough hospital for observation and to the Wellesley and Toronto General Hospital.

Survivors include three sisters in Lakefield, Peterborough and Toronto.

Author Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Eleanor Mildred McMechan, author, poet and former Toronto newspaper woman, will be buried here tod ay. She died Tuesday after a cerebral hemorrhage.

Miss McNaught was the wife of W. Carleton McNaught, writer and former business manager of the Canadian Forum. She had been a reporter for The Telegram and The Daily Star. Several novels and books wrote book reviews for The Globe and Mail.

THREE INJURED IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Three persons were injured in a motor accident on a Sidney township road north of Trenton Wednesday night.

Details of the accident were not available but it is reported that only one car driven by William Sweet, R.R. 3, Carrying Place, was involved. A passenger in the car, Cecil Pulter, Smithfield, was admitted to Trenton memorial hospital with a lacerated eye and head injuries.

Provincial police from Belleville investigated.

FALLS OVER ROPE PLACED ON SIDEWALK

Tripping over a rope which had been placed as a sidewalk barricade while repairs were being carried on, Mrs. Audrey Muir, 161 Dundas Street East, sustained injury to her left leg and shoulder.

Mrs. Muir was emerging from a store on Bridge Street and failed to see the rope which stretched across about a foot off the sidewalk. She had X-rays taken at Belleville General Hospital.

BCI Students Win Scholarships

Robert Phillips, 18-year-old BCIVS student, who received a $200 scholarship recently for outstanding matriculation standing, today is the possessor of yet another award of outstanding promise.

Robert, who lives on RR 3, Belleville, has been awarded the first Carter scholarship for Hastings County, which carries with it a bursary of $100.

There are three Carter scholarships awarded in each of Ontario's 25 counties each year under the will of the late J. L. Carter, of Sarnia.

Second and third awards of the scholarship are $75 and $50 each.

In this instance, however, second place is shared by Annette Kaplick, 19, Rm. 1, Quinte, BCIVS student, and Betty McKenzie, of Bancroft, North Hastings High School.

To receive the scholarship, pupils have to write nine Grade 13 papers, one on English composition, English literature, and a number of them on algebra, geometry, trigonometry and statics.

Annette Gaylor also received a $200 Donaldson-Hyndman bursary for study at a teachers' college at the recent commencement exercises.

Bail of $5,000 Set for Youths

Bail of $5,000 each has been set for three Belleville youths charged with rape of a 17-year-old local girl earlier this week.

Appearing in county magistrate's court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills, Ronald Sharpe, 17, Quinte Park Terrace, 22, and Gary Marriott, 19, were remanded for court appearance with Thos. J. Kelly, BCIVS student, and Betty McKenzie, of Bancroft, North Hastings High School.

To receive the scholarship, pupils have to write nine Grade 13 papers, one on English composition, English literature, and a number of them on algebra, geometry, trigonometry and statics.

Annette Gaylor also received a $200 Donaldson-Hyndman bursary for study at a teachers' college at the recent commencement exercises.

Bishop of Ontario Inducts Canon A.S. McConnell As Rector St. Thomas' Parish

With beautiful ceremonial rites, the Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell, M.BE., L.Th., was formally inducted as rector of St. Thomas' Parish on Wednesday evening.

The impressive service and ritual of induction and admonition was conducted by the Rt. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, M.A., D.D., D.C.L., lord bishop of Ontario assisted by the Ven. F. B. Creegan archdeacon of Ontario., the Rev. C. P. Heaven, rural dean of Prince Edward and visiting clergy.

St. Thomas Church was filled with members of the parish and by several guests from various parts of Ontario including Toronto, Peterborough, Trenton, Kingston and Ottawa.

The sermon was preached by the Very Rev. J. O. Anderson, M.C., M.A., dean of Ottawa, who is the Dominion president of the Canadian Legion and a wartime friend of the new rector.

Following the induction a reception was held in the Parish House where Bishop Evans and Mrs. Evans, Dean Anderson and Mrs. Anderson, Canon McConnell and Mrs. McConnell; Rector's Warden Dr. Donald Anderson and Miss Miller, and People's Warden L. A. Mair, and Mrs. Kelly greeted the large number present.

Refreshments were served by the Ladies' Auxiliary Guild of the church.

During the ritual of induction and service the Rev. Allan Anderson, secretary of the synod, Kingston, acted as chaplain to Bishop Evans.

VISITING CLERGY

Among the visiting clergy were the Very Rev. Brierley Browne, Dean of Ontario, Rev. Percy Catchedral, Kingston; Rural Dean J. Stokes, Rev. Canon W. H. Page, St. Margaret's on-the-Hill; the Rev. Everett Smith, Christ Church; the Rev. Jeffrey Reddon, Carrying Place; the Rev. Canon Reid, Bath; the Rev. Hope Swayne, Barrfield; the Rev. R.E. Lemon, Brighton; the Revs. Frank Hall, Wm. Hall and Stanley Thomworth; the Rev. Fred Payne, Presqu'ile Rev. Beauchamp Tremeer, Port Hope; the Rev. D. McCuller; Canon Miele Swan and the Rev. Harvey Good, all of Kingston.

Among those in the congregation were Lieut.-Colonel E. R. Fairman, commanding officer Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of which Canon McConnell is the chaplain, and Mrs. Fairman, Major and Mrs. Angus Duffy and Major and Mrs. William Grayton. Also present were ranking officials of the Canadian Legion from various parts of the district.

The induction ritual was preceded by the choral procession which was followed by Bishop Evans, his assistants and the incumbent and the visiting clergy, who occupied special pews at the front of the church.

Bishop Evans read the mandate of induction Canon McConnell read and the declaration and oaths previously made and signed.

Archdeacon Creegan then read the letters of institution. Reference which later were delivered to the incumbent by the bishop. Bishop Evans then presented Canon McConnell with the Bible and Book of Common Prayer and gave him his blessing.

He then declared "I do now induct you into the real, actual and corporal possession of this church with all the rights, privileges and emoluments thereto belonging."

PRESENT KEYS

Rector's Warden Gordon Miller and People's Warden Lawrence Mair then presented Canon McConnell and presented him with the keys of the church. Warden Kells said, "On behalf of this parish and in obedience to the mandate of the Bishop of this Diocese, I present to you the keys of this church."

To this the incumbent replied, "I receive these keys at your hands as the pledge of your recognition of me as your appointed rector."

The church wardens and several clergy then escorted the incumbent to the executive seat. Then followed a procession of clergy and rector, led by the cross-cruciter, to the various stations where duties are performed in the service of the ordination.

At each station he was admonished as to his duties pertaining thereto by various members of the clergy.

Bishop Evans then admonished the congregation regarding their duty toward the rector. "He has taken a great responsibility as rector of this church. I ask you to answer to your responsibility as he has to you. Bring you will form a great partnership. It is the duty of the people to give of their substance and support all the times. Pray continually for him and help him forward in his holy cause."

FELT HONORED

Canon McConnell in a brief address said he was singularly honored by the great attendance from the parish and a large number of those from his former parish in Belleville and Trenton. He felt happily for ten years. He felt honored, he said, in the presence of Dean Anderson, president of the Canadian Legion, and the many members present. He was also honored by the presence of the colonel and officers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

"This is a great evening for me," Canon McConnell said. "I hope it means as much to you as it does to me. I know I am going to be very happy here."

Dean Anderson in his sermon urged all to pray for the clergy and especially for the new rector. "It is not as easy task to be what we are expected to be," he said. "We are all of us somewhat lack of sympathy or for other reasons detract from the glory of truth. Conditions call for responsibilities, the call of office and remember why we respect with such earnestness 'Pray for us.'

"Pray for the new rector, for all of us that all times, under circumstances. Pray for us, above all, that we may be filled with you a common brotherhood with the same weaknesses and temptations.

"I ask you to realize our need. Think of the trials and temptations, the same temptations, differences, weaknesses, the same responsibilities, the call of office and remember why we respect with such earnestness 'Pray for us.'

"Pray for the new rector, for all of us at

Lighting Program To Be Extended Say Directors

TRENTON (Special) — Public utilities directors agree that the street lighting program started this year has to be extended.

Conditions are not favorable for installing new lights on the east side of Main Street before this year ends although Clare Campbell, utilities manager, reports that the project has been definitely included in expansion plans for 1956.

New fluorescent lights from Division street to the town bridge made the west side business district comparable with the best illuminated in the country.

A. E. Atkinson, local utilities commissioner, has been appointed acting chairman and the commission until chairman S. O. Graham has recovered from his recent illness.

HOCKEY

Trenton Golden Hawks will play their first home game in the Quinte Intermediate A hockey league tonight when they meet Brockville Braves at the Memorial Centre. Game time is 8.30 p.m.

GIFT CROSSES

Three scouts will receive Gilt Crosses for rescuing possible drowning victims:

Scout Jack Bretton Gorman, 12, North Bay, rescued Michael Vezina from Lake Nipissing, in 1953, when a cramp seized Vezina's left leg and he was in danger of drowning;

Scout John Kenneth Ray, 15, Stirling, Ont., for rescuing Michael Joseph Long last year from Oak Lake after his boat broke loose and drifted away;

Scout Robert Rees, 13, Niagara Falls, Ont., for rescuing Leslie Marazza from the Valley Way sand and gravel pit, in 1954.

Thos. L. Seymour Heads List Of Scout Awards

OTTAWA (CP) —Silver Crosses for showing "presence of mind" in saving possible drowning victims in 1954 have been awarded to five Canadian scouts, the Boy Scouts Association announced today.

The crosses will be presented by Governor-General Vincent Massey, chief scout for Canada at a special Government House investiture, Dec. 1.

Thomas Lyons Seymour, 11-year-old Cub from Belleville, leads the list of winners for rescuing Freddie and Harry Spice, both non-swimmers, from the Bay of Quinte on Lake Ontario. The Spice brothers attempted to swim from a dock to a raft.

Other Silver Cross winners include Scout Michael Maloney, 13, Port Colborne, who rescued Michael Beach from Lake Erie after he fell through thin ice while skating.

BOY ESCAPED INJURY

TRENTON (Special) — A small boy just missed serious injury this week when he darted into the path of a car driven by Cecil R. Clover, 31, James street, Trenton. Clover said he applied the brakes when he noticed the youth. He reported that the front fender of his car brushed the boy who made off before he could be questioned.

10-DAY SENTENCE

TRENTON (Special) — John T. Doyle, R.R. 4, Trenton, was sentenced to 10 days in jail when he appeared in court Tuesday charged with drunk driving.

The charge was laid by police following a level crossing accident in North Trenton last week. At that time Doyle told police he did not pay the fine and almost completely demolished his car.

EXTRA TREATMENT

TRENTON (Special) — Dr. B. Campbell, attending Crown Sweenor and Clifford Squier, Trenton duck hunters who were marooned on a tiny island in Lake Ontario Tuesday night, has ordered both men to remain in hospital for further treatment.

Both men, being treated for exposure and exhaustion, suffered swollen and cut feet in their twohour ordeal before they got to wade to the mainland. Both men have been ordered to remain in Trenton Memorial Hospital for at least another day.

Flood Threat Eases in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The threat of further floods in southwestern British Columbia appeared to have eased today as rain ceased, giving way to a mass of cooler air. But damage estimates were still climbing with a report that the province's fishing industry has suffered a $3,000,000 loss due to the flooding of spawning streams.

Chum salmon suffered the most damage with loss running up to 90 per cent in the Chehalis river and up to 30 per cent in the Vedder and Chilliwack rivers, all tributaries of the Fraser.

In North Vancouver, where $1,000,000 in estimated property damage was reported, after the two-day downpour last week, giant bulldozers were cutting down the Seymour river to enable river beds to avert further floods.

Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said heavy machinery will channel streams back to normal courses and lower the stream beds built up with rocks and gravel.

Lost Hunters In Parry Sound District Found

PARRY SOUND (CP)—Two lost hunters, hungry but apparently unconcerned about their plight, Wednesday were found by a hunting party searching after being missing in the bush 40 miles north of here since Monday.

John Pastor, 53, and Martin Nadacsi, 48, Tillsonburg district tobacco farmers, were found on the shore of Big lake, by George Smith, who operates a lodge on the lake. The men said they were heading in the direction of train whistles they had heard. Police had asked train engineers to blow their whistles frequently when passing through the area.

70 Guests Flee Hotel Blaze

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP) —More than 70 guests fled from the Premier Hotel late Wednesday night as fire roared through the five-storey building, causing damage estimated at up to $200,000.

Three firemen suffered minor injuries when a wall inside the 20-year-old hotel collapsed. Several persons were trapped behind a wall of dense smoke on the top floor and had to be removed down aerial ladders.

The fire followed a $100,000 blaze in Vancouver Tuesday night that destroyed a lumber factory. Police said there was a possibility of arson in the Vancouver blaze.

$6,000 Shortage Found in Fines RCMP Collected

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—City commissioner J. A. Beveridge told a city council meeting the shortage of funds collected by RCMP for traffic fines "appeared to be about $6,000" and that the irregularities apparently had been going on since 1951.

The commissioner made the statement to a city council meeting Monday when he presented a report on the recent investigation by RCMP into the alleged shortage of traffic fine funds here.

He said a full report on the shortage will be made to the city "in the near future" by RCMP. Mr. Beveridge said there had been no system of positive checks on the amount of money RCMP turned over to the city.

A monthly statement was filed with RCMP headquarters by the Red Deer detachment, but the statements and payments of money to the city were "not tied together," he said. He added the money was paid over at irregular intervals.

The city expects to obtain full restitution from RCMP, Mr. Beveridge said.

HAS NIGHT OUT

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret Tuesday night had her first private "night out" since her renunciation last week 'of Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Brigadier Filed Unwanted Papers Beneath Carpet

LONDON (AP)—Once there was a brigadier in the administrative section of the British war office who found the answer for what to do with official papers that baffled him.

He hid them under the carpet in his office.

Lord Windlesham, a former Grenadier Guards officer, told the story Wednesday during a debate in the House of Lords.

Without naming the brigadier, Lord Windlesham told what happened after the officer left the army (before the last war):

"The war office decided the office should be spring cleaned and what was more—and something which probably had not happened before at the war office—they took up the carpet.

"Underneath the carpet they found dozens of files. The brigadier had been in the habit of putting them there. Whenever an issue came to him he would not answer, did not want to answer, or could not find anyone to pass it on to, he put the file under the carpet and sailed it down.

"He went through his career full of years and honors."

Jamieson Bone Urges Municipal Taxpayers' Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Jamieson Bone, president of the Ontario Property Owners' Association, called Wednesday for revision of municipal taxation legislation to avoid the "almost certain collapse" of some underprivileged communities.

He termed existing laws on municipal tax, "ridiculous and absurd." Mr. Bone, a 68-year-old insurance broker from Belleville, wis addressing the annual OPOA convention dinner.

Each municipality, he said, should have powers of taxation to meet its legitimate expenditures, but a positive limit should be placed on education costs. Many insolvent communities were forced to go "hat in hand" to the provincial government for handouts, which in some cases amounted to half their budgets.

"Should we not at long last put on a real campaign for a tax-payers' strike?" Personally, I think there is no alternative but to force the municipalities into default for lack of funds and so bring matters to a head."

THE COKEBOTTLE AND MONROE

"There comes a tide in the affairs of men," quoth Shakespeare, "which taken at the flood leads on to fortune . . ."

And these comes a tide in the affairs of editorial writers not frequently too—which, taken at the ebb, leads to the empty pay envelope and the nearest office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

This is understandable. Like a rat at such tide-times, a drowning man will clutch at every straw which shows which way the wind is blowing, knowing that it is an ill wind that blows no good, and striving to separate some wheat from the chaff of the day's news in the hope that it may become grist for the editorial mill.

Mixing metaphors in this frantic fashion, we all here gazing raptly at a coke bottle, but no matter how hard we try to get air-borne on the wings of inspiration the darned thing simply will not float like Marilyn Monroe.

That valuable expert could, in major miracle in these twentieth century days would almost certainly earn us a quick trip to the nearest booby-hatch, were it not for the wonderful modern communications by which we by now made all the world aware that Canadair Ltd. is producing a F-86 jet fighter with a nipped in waist which has been nicknamed "Cokebottle" or "more enthusiastically Marilyn Monroe."

Those words "more enthusiastically" are a masterpiece of understatement which even The Enquirer would admire. The difference in enthusiasm generated by a coke bottle, even if full, and Marilyn Monroe are considerable amongst the young in heart and this, we suspect, is one instance where age cannot wither the gap.

We are, though, a little dismayed to discover that the younger men who man our jets consider a nipped-in waist the most distinctive feature of Miss Monroe. This, we suggest, is a sad case of setting one's sights too low—so early in life, too. A little attention to the coke bottle will convince the careful observer that a nipped-in waist is not a distinctive feature it is, either, but here any similarity between the two objects under discussion vanishes. There seems no inspiration to be derived from the coke bottle and this brings us to the material for an editorial at all, beyond the hope that the more enthusiastic description of the new aircraft may be the more accurate, in which case we confidently predict a rapid climb in the popularity of future air shows.

DIOR AND THE ESKIMOS

Vanity of vanities, and all is vanity.

Perhaps nudists have something after all.

Clothes are really superfluous. Evidence has just been found by the Eskimos.

A statement by John M. Piercey, chief engineer of the Hudson Bay supply ship Fort Hearne is the basis for the above supposition. He has just returned from an eight-month cruise to Arctic trading posts delivering refrigerators to the Eskimos. Eskimos in Coppermine bought refrigerators because last summer temperatures soared to 70 degrees for 24 straight days.

But we digress. The subject under discussion is clothes and specifically stylish clothes for women.

"What the local native needs most is a parka," said engineer Piercey. "The women wanted the latest styles regardless of the fact that a fur parka covered everything."

The gentleman, should anybody any hope that may be lingering that your women folk will forget about a new ensemble when you drape new mink about their shoulders, is referring to anything new such as blouses, skirts and accessories follow the purchase of a new coat.

Nothing could be more completely concealing than a parka. Parka styles are somewhat limited and the opportunity to show off a parka to the best advantage is good years, to an hour before and after lunch for about three weeks in the summer. Economy-minded Eskimos, accustomed to austerity, may be expected to forego the latest whims of M. Dior. Apparently Eskimo men do. But Eskimo women? Like women everywhere they want new duds, in style pleasé, and no quibbling about exterior camouflage.

It just goes to prove that style is a state of mind and being stylish is a matter of morale. A new swatch of calico will scarcely raise the efficiency co-efficient of an Eskimo parka. What it does, apparently, is raise the efficiency co-efficient of a female Eskimo.

Possibly this explains why auditorium has never been popular—there is not enough variation in style.

SLICING A LEMON IN MID AIR

How high is up?

Somebody had better answer that question—fast.

Most Toronto citizens may not believe in pie in the sky but an entertaining entrepreneur has come over the prospect of cutting a lemon in mid air. This, even Blackstone would admit, is a tidy trick if anyone could do it, and this Toronto lemon squeezer thinks it can. It has blocked off large chunks of air over two subway entrances, a terminal and a streetcar loop and proposes to sell them to the highest bidder. The buyer would have to erect the foundation of his building around the air atmosphere he had purchased, but could then proceed to fill the air above TTC property with his new structure.

It might be noted in passing that the TTC is publicly owned, which should give Chambers of Commerce throughout the land a busy hour or so explaining how a profit-making service of this nature chanced to be hatched in the slothful atmosphere of bureaucratic bungling supposed to be associated with such organizations.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 10, 1935

Mr. Clifford Sargent's automobile, which was stolen a few days ago from in front of his residence on Dundas street, has been found abandoned in Kingston. He went to Kingston today to claim the car.

The newly elected officers of the Belleville Lyceum Club are as follows: president, Frank Domenico; vice president, Cliff Savage; secretary, George Griffin; executive committee, Messrs. Lester Boynton, Gordon Bray, Herb. Fox, George Forhan, Joseph Imlah, Ed. Hogan, P. C. McKenzie and Mrs. Ed. Meagher.

Mr. Ed. Logan, manager of the McFee jewellery store in Ottawa today where he will preside at a meeting of the executives of the Canadian Jewellers' Association of which he is the president.

Mr. Desmond Beamish has returned to Detroit after spending a few days in town.

Sergeant Harman and Constable Ernest were suddenly startled at the police station Wednesday night by the wailing of drunk or transients in the cell block; they pounded upon the door and demanded to be set free as the room was on fire. Upon opening the door the officers saw a fire of considerable size burning in the centre of the cell block. A couple of pails of water soon extinguished the blaze and eventually the inmates decided they would continue to spend the night where it was comfortably warm, without the open fire. Investigation revealed that an intoxicated man had secured some wood from a basement and started the fire while the officers slept. One of the drunkards woke up and immediately called fire in which the others joined. The fireman will appear before the magistrate today.

Mrs. Cinderella Haggerty will celebrate the 50th anniversary of her birth on Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. F. F. Wellman, in the second concession of Sidney township. A reception will be held in the afternoon to which all friends and acquaintances are invited. Mrs. Haggerty is enjoying good health and many friends will be pleased to extend congratulations and express good wishes.

Mrs. Frederick Ann Street, spent Thanksgiving Day with friends in Marmora.

Mrs. and Mrs. H. H. Middleton of this city are visiting friends in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cross are visiting the latter's brother, Mr. A. W. Reid in St. Catharines.

Miss Mary Blakely, George Street, entertained a number of friends at her home last evening.

Mrs. H. G. Pauley and Miss Dorothy Pauley spent Thanksgiving with friends in Madoc.

From our file copy at this time in 1925 "John Lewis and Company have purchased the block next door south of their hardware store formerly occupied by Stroud's Tea and China Store and will use the store for their stoves and tinware department. The Stroud store is now located in the premises lately vacated by The Canadian Bank of Commerce, which has moved to the north east corner of Front and Campbell Streets, where it occupied by the Dominion Bank, which is now located at the north west corner of Front and West Bridge streets.

Population Rises in U.S.

(Edmonton Journal)

We hear a great deal about the rapid increase in population in some Asiatic countries and the problems it raises. Less publicized, but still significant, is the fact that another "population explosion" seems to be taking place in the United States.

In 1850, just under a century ago, the population of the United States was 31,443,321. In 1900, it was 76,303,387. By 1910, 92,409,375; by 1920, 150,697,361. The latest official estimate for 1955 places it at around 165,000,000—a rise of nearly 15,000,000 in five years. The Canadian experience of earlier periods were partly due to large-scale immigration, but this has been a negligible factor since the end of the First World War. The steady rise in both decades has been due to natural increase, and particularly to high birth rates since 1941.

The U.S. census bureau predicts that if present birth rates continue the population will reach 228,000,000 by 1975. But if birth rates drop to the relatively low level of the "depression" era, the figure for that year will be 207,000,000. No one has yet prepared an estimate of what the population will be at the end of the century; conservatively it might approaching 300,000,000, if present trends continue.

It is interesting to speculate what effect this may have on our big neighbor. The resources of the United States are enormous, but will they be equal to the demands of a population multiplying on such a scale? Already, water supplies are proving inadequate in many areas for the requirements of fast-growing cities and suburbs, and there is much worry as to how long minerals and oil will hold out. One wonders, too, whether the United States will be bothered with agricultural surpluses much longer.

Modern Exploring

(BBC Bulletin)

"When the conquest of Everest captured the world's imagination the emphasis this time was not on achievement or even on danger, but on all the careful thought that went into reducing both. What we had from start to finish was a decision job based on detailed planning and sound equipment and less than on the competence and courage of all its members," said Dr. W. Kevin Walton, in a BBC talk. When Antarctica was mentioned in conversation he was frightened to find that names and ideas of Polar explorers of to-day, of date, to him. At that time Sir Ernest Shackleton wrote in his diary that his men, forced to camp early on a hillside, spent all day lying in their sleeping bags, trying to keep warm in a tent through which the wind whistled. Eight years ago Walton spent four days in an Antarctic tent for the same reason, and wrote in his diary that he had been very comfortable in their windproof tent with the sun overhead so that they could doze peacefully all day or listen to their radio. Equipment had become so much stronger as ever and temperatures were not as low as formerly, and man has improved beyond belief and the courageous experiments of our predecessors are left to us to do it properly," he said.

Exploration in Antarctica was very different nowadays, he said. It was the modern role of the husky for haulage was a good, reliable, friendly beast, and he had spent two years South of the Antarctic Circle and took dog-relives huskies from Labrador with them; they spent six months training the dogs and the engineers before the expedition's leader let them out. Sled and dogs were the only South as ordinary Englishmen with the ordinary Englishman's attitude to dogs. He emphasized, however, that the only real dog is a husky and all others are mongrel excuses: for they represented the humanizing influence and the expedition life so eminently worthwhile," he said. Insistence on the best of everything, from the new forms of Polar equipment, particularly tents, which were pyramid-shaped with four corner poles meeting at the top, made of thick, closely woven almost windproof cotton, in a design evolved over the course of half a century. If properly erected these tents could withstand winds of over one hundred and twenty miles per hour for weeks on end. Modern exploration now involved a method of life which became automatic and left mentality free to get on with the scientific work in hand. A typical evening in Antarctica had a temperature of minus 70 degrees Fahrenheit with gusts of wind up to 100 miles per hour, and the thistled thirties of snow.

When the sledges stopped the men made camp; one man went inside each and the necessary equipment was passed to him and arranged it and then took off his clothes down to his underwear and slid into his sleeping bag. Outside his tent-mate tethered and fed the dogs, collected the day's ice-block and stuck them in the snow between the tent doors. Twenty minutes after stopping he too slid into the tent and climbed into his sleeping bag. The two had arranged beforehand correctly who would not need to get out from his bag for anything they wanted was at hand, clothes for next day were drying in the tent, food and fuel could read, write or listen to their radio-telephone to headquarters throughout the night.

"The modern explorer had to know the precise limit of both endurance and never exceed it. Life in the tent leading to unveil the Pole he found the hidden things of life. Each night he looked out of my tent door on to the Peace that was the universe and could have watched the power behind masses of Polar ice, with the same sort of feeling. Here, then, is a chance for a man to sort out the true relationship between himself and his God."

Misguided Instruction

(Detroit Free Press)

Misguided Bryn Mawr College girls are not interested in the intricacies and technicalities of football so they won't be embarrassed by "ignorance when their dates take them to games.

We don't know a better way to spoil spectator fun and romance.

Think girls will be interested or lost in batting beautifully long lashes over beautiful big eyes while distracting the big log from a ball sixty odd yards in a contest him to pay attention to you.

Not to mention the fellow's loss of the superior satisfaction he gets in explaining the difference between a buck lateral and a crashing end, words up which are more susceptible to feminine charms.

Which brings us to the real reason for admonishing girls to be wise and spry about such things as football. Some of the questions girls ask and the replies given by their dates are more interesting than most games to eavesdroppers. Would hate to lose this source of fine anecdotes.

But It's a Miracle

(Hamilton Spectator)

The American Society of Civil Engineers has prepared a list of the seven engineering wonders of this continent, ranging from the Empire State Building to Hoover Dam but, for some reason, omitting the strapless evening gown.

Finds Ball 9 Miles Away

(New Republic)

The air force has just released the following statistics: In the field of nine miles, or 47,000 feet, in which Belgium was located a golf course, and on one green picked out two golf balls.

One of the nation's top photo interpreters, Donald Belcher of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory research centre, makes these observations on his experience with aerial detection:

"Photographs from high flying planes have been taken of every inch in Egypt, old fortifications covered with drift sand, and even the ancient walls buried beneath the soil and actually covered with wheat fields in Egypt's Nile Valley. Almost only a few inches in diameter cannot be identified. Even the Normandy Land mines buried in Egypt by Rommel's men 15 years ago are now being located by air photo."

Brockville's Historic Tree

(Thousand Islands Sun, Alexandria Bay)

A little known, historical spot along the St. Lawrence River, near Brockville, Ontario, is called "The Willows." The tree, the history reveals was brought to Brockville from Napoleon's grave on St. Helena and planted there.

The history of the trge was contained in an issue of Canadian magazine in June of 1903 and reads as follows: "The Willows, Brockville, the present owner of the site called "The Willows."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. W.M. BRADY

According To Doctor Sokolsky

In his syndicated column recently George E. Sokolsky, old china hand and former editor of various Russian, Chinese, English and other newspapers, did a Birthane. In view of the way the piece stopped over, using space that might otherwise have permitted more of my column to be printed, I feel I ought to comment on Doctor Sokolsky's essay.

Most of it concerned the President's health. There George was succeeding upon territory pre-emptied by an old Massachusetts hand. If anything is to be said in the newspapers about the President's illness or health the voluble Dr. Paul D. White will probably say it, if he has not already said it. Dr. White made the ordinary newspaper men seem asleep on the job—remember how he gave out his first interview on his way from office to airport, before he had even seen the patient? That's fast work—and I doubt if any doctor but Brady has had or will have the nerve to raise an eyebrow about medical ethics.

There comes a time in each man's life, sings the poet Sokolsky, when he must learn that a

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

GOD AND THE STATE

Christianity stands for law and order. It has thus stood from the days of the apostles. So long as Christian teaching is sound, we can expect it to be on the side of law and order and against chaos and anarchy.

This does not mean that Christian teaching sanctions the status quo or that they are by nature the supporter of whatever there is in nonintervering order of things. Sometimes a branch of the Christian church has allowed itself to be the tool of tyrants, but when this has happened, it was because such Christian teachings were disregarded or violated, or both. The brightest spots in history have been those periods when men have demanded that the teachings of Christ be applied to the conduct of Christian nations. Nothing is more important to the Christian teachings. The state is under law and control of God but only Almighty God Himself has control of our souls. Religion must never interfere with the state unless the state interferes with religion. The state is man's servant; God is man's King.

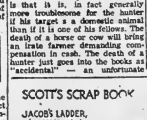
TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DIGNITY

You can't succeed in insulting a great American. Take Lincoln. The fortress of such a one is too heavily entrenched. The late William Allen White was a great character. Many years ago, in his Emporia office, he wrote a piece about his wife that the man that White had written about her, and that he had sent after him on the street one day and horse-whipped him! White published the piece in his column. He contended that she was in her rights, and besides he had no right to insult or abuse a woman.

Did you ever notice a big dog going down a street with a lot of little dogs barking at his heels? The dignity of that big dog is superior to the bear in mind. He pays no attention to his little barkers. Many years ago Senator Charles Sumner was brutally assaulted in the Senate of the United States. He was a big, powerful man who could easily have broken the assailant in two. He had too much dignity to do so, even though the attack hastened his death!



President Woodrow Wilson once referred to a man who was too proud to fight." I have always felt that this famous statement was never accurately interpreted. What I felt he meant was that a nation could be too right and dignified to engage in a brawl war without just cause. Even Winston Churchill once said that last World War could have been prevented. There is nothing dignified about war. It is simply the very Christian law of life.

Nature is full of dignity. You think of this as you view those mammoth Redwoods in California, or the great pine trees of any of these towering, dignified kings of the forest. You feel a reverence and awe as you contemplate them. They have nobility and grandeur. The highest tribute to Nature's dignity is noted the tiniest flower to the highest mountain peak. Not a squirrel is so aroused as we think upon that never interfere with the state unless the state interferes with religion. The state is man's servant; God is man's King.

Shooting Man Costs Little

(Hamilton Spectator)

The horrid irony of the situation is that it is, in fact, generally more troublesome for the hunter to shoot a domestic animal than if it is one of his fellows. The death of a cow or calf will bring an irate farmer demanding compensation in cash. The death of a hunter just goes into the books as "accidental" — an unfortunate risk of the game.

For years now, the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters has been pressing for a revision of law which would make a charge of manslaughter of unnecessarily careless shoots in such cases. It has had no success.

Until killing humans through gross negligence with a sporting rifle takes on the same negligence to shoot at an unidentified object simply because it moves) becomes as unrewarding as killing them through gross negligence with an automobile, deaths will continue.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We have the saying that some people appear to "love the sound of their own voice." I have just experienced in the past week or two, in a bus, human chatter. I have the impression that some people would love the feel of their own voices!

They appear to derive a physical thrill or satisfaction from the mere vibration of their vocal cords. Their tongues and lips tremble dreamily, or cackling or twittering, you would think that there was no connection between their minds and their voices. There couldn't be. They chatter as they might drum their fingers, hum, twiddle their thumbs, or whistle at any time. The other unconscious little fics, like crossing knees and keeping one foot restlessly bouncing. That's it. Their chatter is unconscious.

In the bus, it was a man, not even middle-aged, maybe thirty-eight or so. He sat behind me, and it was apparent from the conversation that the person seated beside him was a stranger to him. The mutter, if a low, tuneless voice, kept going for hour after hour, unless discourse. It was like a tap dripping. The seat - mate never spoke at all. It could well be the chatterer was unaware of the fact that he was talking. It was an unconscious tic, the result of some nervous disorder, perhaps. I heard his voice vibrating. Maybe it soothed him. Or maybe it was a message.

In the restaurant and the doctor's waiting room, the specimens were both women. The first was a young woman with a child in arms. It would be impossible that she could be aware that she was not. But it is perfectly credible that the feel of it gave her some queer comfort. Her companion was another girl who hardly uttered a word, but with a steady monotonous persistence, sat through the lunch as one marrying herself with a child. In the doctor's waiting room a lady, talking, she prevented herself from thinking.

Trials of Radio Broadcast Told To Kinette Club

The November meeting of the Belleville Kinette Club was held Monday evening at St. Thomas' parish house with president Jean Smith, presiding. The sergeant-at-arms was Marg Colebrone and the song leader was Hazel Hunter.

Guests for the evening were members of the Trenton Kinette Club with president Ruth Goldberg and members of the Tweed Kinette Club with president Fran Rupert.

After a delicious meal served by the ladies of St. Thomas' Church the business meeting was conducted. The Ways and Means Committee thanked those who assisted at the recent rummage sale and those who also made the trinkets and favors of felt which were offered for sale before the meeting. A letter of appreciation was read from Mrs. Kay McCutcheon for the donations of home cooking to the Hospital Coffee Snack.

GUEST SPEAKER

Ruth Follwell introduced the guest speaker for the evening Mrs. Jack Haig, "the Harriett Stevens" of radio station CJBQ, who gave an enjoyable talk. She began by telling of the problems of a local and independently-owned radio station; the close contact it has with the local district; the large staff required to keep it running efficiently; also of the letters and phone calls she has received from the public which has been encouraging and which prove that people are interested in her program.

At the conclusion of this delightful talk Edne Brenot thanked Mrs. Haig on behalf of the Belleville Kinette and presented to her with an appropriate gift.

The evening ended by a contest with many useful gifts being awarded to the winners.

Training School Described To Nurses' Alumnae

The monthly meeting of the Belleville General Hospital Nurses' Alumnae was held at the Ritchie Memorial Lounge on Tuesday evening. The guest speaker was Miss M. L. Peart, Director of the School of Nursing who told about the Training School.

The meeting closed with delicious refreshments.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The November meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society, of Tabernacle United church, was held in the church parlors with the president, Mrs. W. May, presiding. There were 15 members and three visitors present. Mrs. May opened the meeting by reading an article "A Prayer for Remembrance Day."

Reports were given by recording secretary and treasurer. Mrs. Fisher read an article on membership. Mrs. Paul reported sending cards to sick.

Mrs. May reported on articles sent in for bales for overseas. Mrs. Robb, supply secretary, and Mrs. May had packed three bales and still more had come in. There was a fine lot of lovely clothing, some new, some had been worn, but all in good condition and Mrs. May was so grateful to all who had donated things to be sent. The bales are to be sent today.

A meeting is to be held in Plainfield United church on Wednesday, November 23. A pot-luck luncheon at 12 noon followed by an afternoon meeting.

Mrs. T. Rowley conducted the devotional. The theme "High Ceiling." "Calling to Commitment," and Mrs. Skeggs, Mrs. Fisher, Miss Johns, Mrs. Lent assisted in reading of passages from the Bible.

"Complete Commitment. True discipleship is hearing and doing, when even some of the disciples turned back from following Christ. "He said to them, 'Would ye also go back?' So much depended on the answer." Mrs. Rowley ended her devotional by reading the hymn, "Take My Life and Let It be Consecrated Lord to Thee."

MISSION WORK

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Archibald. Mrs. May traced the field of mission work on the map.

Mrs. Archibald spoke of mission work among new Canadians Coming to this country were people of so many races and how they are contributing so much to the country. How hard it is for them to learn the language and adjust themselves to a new way of living. Even to go to a shopping centre and try and buy food with so many names different to theirs. It is not easy to leave your land and go to one where everything is so different. Employment is also hard to get sometimes language being a barrier.

Mrs. Archibald was assisted by Mrs. G. Brickman, Mrs. McKinnon and Mrs. Frost reading articles on different phases of missionary work among the newcomers.

'Difficulties' Of Ballet' Topic At Contact Club

Monday evening members of Christ church Contact club were pleased to have as their guest speaker, Miss McLare of the National Ballet Company.

Miss McLare began her talk by relating some of her own experiences which led up to the beginning of the National Ballet. She told of the many difficulties the company encountered on its climb to success and gave a wonderful picture of the Ballet Company as it is today.

The story she told was both interesting and informative and members and their guests enjoyed it immensely.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses for the evening, Joan Ford, Phyllis Hume, Marguerite Cooke, Florence Lennox and Mickey Lake.

Next Monday the club will hold a work meeting.

VISITING RELATIVES

Mrs. Albert Hasenaur of Rochester, N.Y., and Mr. and Mrs. William McInnis of Buffalo, N.Y., nee Ella and Frances Wilder, spent the weekend visiting their uncle and aunt, George and Phoebe Wilder, on Front Street, and other relatives. After an absence of 17 years they found Belleville much improved and said the stores were beautiful.

Weddings

BROWN — LLOYD

Evergreens, chrysanthemums and ferns adorned the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lloyd, Point Anne, on Saturday, November 5, at 3.30 p.m. for a pretty autumn wedding, when their daughter, Hazel Marlene Lloyd, was united in marriage to Lawrence James Brown, of Kingston, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, President E. Lewis, of the Church of Jesus Christ, officiated.

Mrs. James Scott, of Picton, provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her ankle-length bridal gown of nylon lace over taffeta with fitted bodice having a Peter Pan collar embroidered with seed pearls and long sheath-like sleeves ending in wrist points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of embroidered nylon net was held by a wreath of white roses, and she carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. J. R. Brady, of Harrington, Ontario, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, was attired in sky blue nylon net over taffeta with matching lace bolero and matching mitts. Her headdress was matching pleated nylon tricot interlaced with blue flowers. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and yellow mums.

Miss Vivian Lloyd, Point Anne, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore an ankle-length gown of rose, nylon net, featuring a fitted bodice with nylon lace bolero and long sleeves. Her headdress was similar to that of the matron of honor, with matching flowers, and she carried a nosegay of pale pink roses, and white mums.

Mr. C. Sheppard of Point Anne, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. J. R. Brady, brother-in-law of the bride, of Harrington, and Mr. E. H. Lloyd, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Point Anne parish hall, where the bride's mother, attired in mauve rayon tweed shantung, with corsage of yellow roses and white mums, received. The bridegroom's mother, wearing a two-piece teal-blue gown with corsage of pink roses, assisted.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a dark grey suit with navy and pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside in Kingston.

Guests were present from Napanee, Sudbury, Kingston, Belleville, Picton and Toronto.

TRIM TWOSOME

By VERA WINSTON

Separates that are made for each other add up to wonderful outfits, easy to wear and easy to buy, since they do away with much of the costly alteration that is part of a dress purchase for all but the perfect figure type. Cashmere with wool tweed trimming is used for the neat top of this twosome. The skirt is of the same wool tweed and is a wrap-around job with one flap pocket at the hip. A leather belt slips through self loops.

St. Michael's Sodality Fashion Show Attractively Presented

Charm of color, grace of style, richness of fabric, and practicality combined to create a fascinating display of fashions last evening in the auditorium of St. Michael's Academy under the sponsorship of the Sodality of Our Lady. For the third year in succession this annual fashion show has been outstanding with its fine suits, lovely gowns and luxurious furs, something to look back upon for suggestions for every occasion, demanding appropriate apparel.

Miss Joan Shannon, president of the Sodality, graciously welcomed the many guests, and introduced the commentator, Miss Edna Lalonde, whose delightful and pleasing commentary on the various displays did so much to enhance an arresting event.

ATTRACTIVE STAGE SETTING

Tall, white standards of bronze, yellow and white chrysanthemums and potted ferns, together with the lovely, shimmering, beige colored stage curtains, and the attractive furnishings which simulated a modern living room, formed an excellent foil for the sprightly models in the showing of the adorable ensembles.

Among those modelling were: Margaret Whelan, Theresa Anton, Marney Black, Jacqueline Murphy, Barbara Chapelle, Mrs. R. J. Rashotte, Barbara Bunton, and tiny Cathy Trusisch, Ann Rashotte and Master John Doran, who, as last year, again 'stole the show' bringing forth continued rounds of applause for their superb mannequin work, and demure courtsies.

RED—SPOTLIGHT

Red, in all its manifold gradations of color held the spotlight as it highlighted the 'all-purpose' coats; emerged in the varied miniature tartans which are becoming such a favorite this season, and flowed in handbags, hats and gloves.

Emphasis was placed on the jumper dress, which was both acceptable for business, school and afternoon wear. These were shown in the soft, wearable corduroy velvets, tweeds, and other materials. The blouses worn with these dresses were mostly in white, with short, puff sleeves, while some were of the three-quarter length. A pleasing contrast showed a gold colored jumper with green blouse, fashioned with slim waist and full skirt. Most of the models shown were noted for their swaying, full skirts, some flowing from the regulation, princess style waist line, and some from the Dior influence with long torso effect. They ranged in color from navy blue, steel grey, browns, red to beige.

The tiny tot's clothes included little jumper dresses in navy blue with white brocaded blouse, and the little boy's showed navy blue jersey, navy blue trousers and bow tie, as well as others.

LUXURIOUS FURS

Furs were most luxurious and included the ever-popular shortie coats, grey kidskin, muskrat, black Persian lamb, grey lamb, mouton, silver muskrat, and Chinese mink stole. Fur trimmed coats modelled were in hip length, three-quarter length, and full length, with large, shawl collars, some divided collars, melon sleeves, and deep voluminous cuffs, and nearly all had full, rippling backs, though a few showed the plain back. One mouton coat in shortie length was enhanced by jewelled pockets, and a few were slit at the sides. There were also mink stoles, and capes, lovely as evening wraps.

Tartans and tweeds were shown in suits and skirts, and were finely pleated and of regulation length, and of pleasing colors, with the red tings showing as in the red Robertson tartan of miniature design. Tweeds came in charcoal shade, and heather mixtures, with plain front panels, and pleats which extended around the back from side to side.

Children's clothes also included all purpose coats, and winter duds, as Hudson Bay blanket cloth and others with matching leggings and hoods and caps. These were fully lined and cold resisting.

For the rainy day several lovely outfits were modelled in winter whites with red accessories, giving a gay effect, as well as safety in traffic. White bengaline was most effective.

BUSINESS-DATE DRESSES

Business and late date dresses were shown in bottle green with white collar and in long torso effect, and in brown wool jersey with red collar, and imitation pleats in skirt extending from side to side.

Housecoats included heavenly blue nylon with French lace collars and cuffs; quilted nylons; children's blue cotton; and housecoats of embossed in blue satin with black, quilted nylon trimmed in pink and pink lined with large pink ties, and a gorgeous pink nylon, suitable for a bride.

OUTSTANDING DRESS

One of the outstanding dresses shown was that made by 12-year-old Maria Naruszewicz, in light pink check material similar to organdy, who won the Singer Sewing contest held recently for 12-year-olds and under. The skirt was full, checked with plain pink waist and could be worn with either a pink or black belt.

TROUSSEAU TEA

An interesting feature of the fashion show was the "Trousseau Tea" in which the bride-to-be, in green-blue taffeta; her mother in silver rose with deep V neckline, empire waist and full skirt; little Beauty Shop for their fine assistance in making this fashion show a success, and to all those who helped in the preparation of outstanding merit.

Miss Joan Lloyd was mistress of ceremonies and Miss Mary Carmichael, directress.

BEAUTY

MAKE - UP FOUNDATIONS A NECESSITY IN WINTER

A make-up foundation not only guarantees a good make-up job but protects skin in wintry weather.

To do a proper make-up job, a good foundation is imperative, but during the winter months it is more than imperative. It is the skin's best protection against the ravages of rain, sleet, snow and harsh winds. It's also a great protection against the skin damage wrought by overheated apartments and sudden changes in temperature.

There are so many good foundations on the market and so many varieties that the choice is up to you. And you can find which one does the most for you by experimenting a little. Creamy bases are extremely popular right now since they're usually tinted and give the complexion a pleasing glow. Usually they contain oil, too, so they're especially good for dry skin. Applying them is a simple job, but remember that a little goes a long way. The best technique is to dab a drop of lotion on the forehead, nose, each cheek and the chin. Put some on your throat, too, and then blend smoothly with your finger tips. Be niggardly with the application though since, if you use too much, your face will have a opaque appearance once make-up has been applied.

Some women prefer cake foundations. A moist sponge smoothes them on and can be used for blending purposes as well. With some of the new cake foundations, powder isn't necessary since the foundation provides a matte finish.

If you have oily skin, don't think that you can skip the foundation, for in harsh winter weather, this type of skin can dry out, too. But you probably won't need to use the types which are best of the gal who's plagued with dry skin. In fact, a good vanishing cream is a good choice for oily skin. It leaves a thin, non-greasy film to which make-up adheres yet gives the necessary protection. S o m e of these creams are white, others are tinted.

No matter which type of foundation you decide on however, bear in mind that, generally speaking, one which is a shade darker than your complexion will prove more becoming.

And, as a final tip in choosing a color, consider your age. Young girls and older women usually look best if they use the lighter tinted ones since they play up the beauty of youth and don't call attention to the lines and wrinkles of age. Between the years of 28 and 40 a woman's foundation, like the rest of her make-up, can be heavier and more colorful.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THANK-YOU NOTES AFTER SHOWER, BOON AFFTALING GRACE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Five other girls and I have been close and devoted friends all during our school days and now too when we all have positions. We all have a real interest in business, and often, when we are together, discuss various questions. (And we are all enthusiastic readers of your column.) Marie is the first member of our group to become engaged, and last Saturday we gave her a rather large shower; inviting her friends and several relatives. We all had a wonderful time, and she received many fine presents. She thinks, and we do too, that although she of course thanked each guest personally as the gifts were handed to her, she should write a thank-you note now to each donor. But her family, and especially her sister, maintain that it would be "over-doing" the thanks. What do you advise her? — E.M.

Most heartily I advise her to "follow the start of her gracious expression of appreciation. I suppose one has to grant . . . although I grant it cost grudgingly . . . that it isn't "strictly necessary" for the bride-to-be to write a thank you note a day or so after the shower, for each present given her at the shower. But your friend and your group know that this graceful gesture is necessary if the bride-to-be wishes to reveal the good manners in which she and your group are so interested. A note of thanks is one of the most charming items in the world . . . and it warms our heart to receive these thoughtful words of appreciation. The guest of honor at a shower usually hasn't too much time to express her thanks . . . but the thank-you note later can say to the donor the things that will make her thrilled and proud that she chose just that gift for the shower gift.

GUEST SHOULD NOT STAY BEYOND TIME SPECIFIED IN INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a junior in a high school in this city, and have a new friend who is also a junior in this school, but she commutes from a town. I have never met her family until last week when I went to spend the weekend with them. In her note of invitation to me, her mother suggested when I was to arrive on Friday afternoon (train-time and so forth), and also wrote me that there was a good train for me to come to the city at 5:10 on Sunday afternoon. When my friend and I returned from playing tennis about four o'clock, she suggested that I stay until the next morning. So I stayed. My mother was furious that I stayed (even though I had phoned her), and insisted that I phone Mother and tell her my friend's say-so, particularly since her mother made it so clear about the returning train. Was what I did so wrong? — Sue

Yes, you definitely were wrong in staying. First, you shouldn't have accepted your friend's invitation, for she was not the hostess. And, as I judge from what you yourself say, her mother, she hostess, wasn't too enthusiastic, if enthusiastic at all, about your staying. When the hostess specifies the time of your departure . . . and today this is the wise and practical custom . . . you should not stay beyond that time, even when pressed to do so. These are busy times for all members of a family, and we must realize that there are important plans for the household with which we should cooperate. You've learned a very good lesson . . . I hope.

HOW SHE SHOULD WRITE NAMES ON PLACE CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband was transferred to this city about seven months ago. My college roommate, who always lived here until her marriage several years ago, gave me a letter of introduction to her closest friend here, and through this friend I have met about fifteen women who have been wonderful to me. Now I am planning to give a luncheon in the very attractive dining room that can be reserved for special occasions in a hotel here, and invite these women. I would like to attach each place card to a small corsage of Talisman rosebuds. But how should I write the place cards: "Mrs. John Robinson" or "Mrs. Mary Robinson"? Some of the women I call by their first names, but not all. So should I perhaps write their place cards "Mary" or "Mary Robinson," for example? This is rather a formal place, and I don't want to make a mistake. — L.D.

Under these circumstances I think it would be best for you to write all the cards in "Mrs. John Robinson" form. That's the correct formal way to do, and it couldn't be criticized. Don't write some cards with the first names, others with the formal name . . . that would be entirely out-of-order, unfortunately for you. And it is the worst possible taste to write "Mrs. Mary Robinson" on a place card . . . that would certainly be a social "Mmistep."

BRIDE AND GROOM CALL ON THE CLERGYMAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My bride-to-be has told me that it is customary for the prospective bride and groom to go together to call on the clergyman who is to perform the marriage ceremony. Is this customary? — Groom-to-be

Yes, this call is customary. In many churches it is imperative and the clergyman makes the arrangements for this important call, to discuss plans for the wedding.

Christmas 1955 Moist Light Fruit Cake

By Mary Moore

It is my fond hope that Mrs. Hunter will see this fruit cake column.

When she was in our city on vacation last July she looked me up and called on me on a Sunday evening and we had a delightful visit.

My third test on this fruit cake has just been taken from the oven so even though it was warm we cut it and Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and her sister tasted it. It is the recipe we used for Marianne's wedding cake in April so we had hopes of tasters this year—plus the old dependable Pete.

I have looked forward to giving this to you for ten months. It makes about 10 lbs. of cake and the recipe is labelled in my hand-writing "Tops". I hope my reader friends and their loved ones pronounce the same verdict all through the Christmas 1955 eating festivities.

1955 MOIST LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

One lb. blanched chopped almonds, 4 oz. shredded cocoanut, 2 oz. cut citron peel, 8 oz. cut lemon peel, 12 oz. golden seedless raisins, 4 oz. red glace cherries, 4 oz. green glace cherries, 4 oz. candied pineapple cut very small, 1 20 oz. tin best quality crushed pineapple, 1 lb. 2 oz. butter, 2 cups white sugar, 9 eggs—yolks and whites separated— 1½ teaspoons almond extract, 6 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1-2 teaspoon salt. (Clipped to this recipe is my grocery cashier bill and the total is $2.83, and if memory serves me correctly that is for the fruit and nuts. Butter and eggs were extra. This will give you a rough idea of the cost of the cake.)

Cream the butter until it is light and pale and fluffy (under electric beater if you have one), then gradually cream the sugar into it until both are light and creamy—do not cut this creaming short. Then add the egg yolks and beat until the 3 ingredients are all well blended and light. Add the almond extract.

In a bowl (or very clean dishpan) that is large enough to hold all of the batter and leave room for mixing, put all of the prepared fruits, except the pineapple. We cut our red and green cherries in quarters this time. Sift the flour and measure it and sift it again with the cream of tartar and salt. Sift it over the creamed butter-sugar-egg mixture and stir it in. Note below re flouring fruits. Call on one of your strong-armed men and mix the batter into the fruits and add the can of crushed pineapple. Whip the egg whites until stiff enough to peak and fold them in. Have your pans ready—preferably new or shiny ones—lined with 2 or 4 thicknesses of wax or greaseproof paper or brown paper—and butter this paper when it is smoothed into the pan. Fill to the batter having pans not more than ¾ full.

NOTE:

If desired half of the flour mixture may be sifted into the fruits before they are mixed with the batter.

Bake cakes at 275 deg. Fahr. with water-pan in bottom of oven throughout entire time. Our cakes required 2 hours and 15 minutes, but you must decide the time yourselves depending on size of pans you use.

I wish you could be very best with your cakes this year. I am making extra copies of this for anyone who cares to send for it, sending stamped self-addressed envelope.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

KEEP ACCOUNTS AND SHOW YOUR FATHER

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am only 14 years old, so I cannot get a job to buy myself things. My problem is that while my father makes good money to support my mother, sister and myself, I am supposed to buy everything I need with a $3 a week allowance. That includes any starters to school, things for school, and all my clothing. I've tried making my own clothes out of sheets and then dyeing them. That works in the summer, but what about the winter?

Can you give me any suggestions to help me with this problem? — B.R.

Dear B.F.:

I wonder if your father ever stopped to think just how much—or, rather, how little—dollars actually buys these days? Surely he can't expect you to buy clothes with it. I suggest that you keep an account of every penny you spend to help you with this and then see where the money goes. It may be that you can look at things differently.

Then, too, would it be possible for you to make extra money by baby-sitting after school occasionally or running errands for young mothers in the neighborhood? You have shown so much initiative and willingness to do what you can to help yourself that I feel you might be able to think of a few things you might do to earn some money, even though you are only 14. Perhaps, at the time you show your father your accounts, it would be a good idea for you to ask him if he would mind your trying to earn a little extra money outside.

I'd like to hear what you do. If you'd care to write again and tell me.

YOU GO RIGHT AHEAD AND WRITE TO BOB

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am going with a boy who is now attending military school. We write to each other regularly. I wrote to him as a pen pal mostly, before I started going with another boy.

Now since Tom and I are going together, people think I should stop writing to Bob. But even though I like To y, I have grown to look forward to Bob's letters. I am 17, most 18, and both Tom and Bob are 17.

What do you think I should do? — W.C.E.

Dear W.C.E.:

Of course you should keep on writing to Bob, if you care to. You should have just as many friends among the boys as you can.

Who are these "people" who think you should stop writing to Bob? Your parents? Your girl friends? Tom? If it's your parents who object, perhaps they have some special reason for not wanting you to write to Bob. If they're the ones, ask them why they object, and be sensible enough to give real thought to anything they say.

If it's your girl friends, it's none of their business, and you should tell them so, politely, but plainly.

If it's Tom, then tell him in a nice way that you believe a girl of your age should have more than one friend among the boys; that you enjoy writing friendly letters to Bob, and getting the same kind from him, and that you don't think of breaking off your correspondence with him.

Be grown-up enough to make your own decisions about things like this, and show a little quiet independence about letting it be known that you intend to stick to what you yourself believe is right and best. I think the boys, as well as everybody else, admire a girl who knows her own mind.

Army Air Force Seen as Possible By Gen. Graham

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian army airforce may be developed to meet demands of possible atomic warfare, Canada's top military leader said Wednesday.

Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, chief of staff, Canadian army, mentioned the possibility in an address to the Men's Canadian Club.

"Just as the air force has ground vehicles for transportation of its personnel, so the army of the future may have to have air vehicles for transportation of the infantry."

Swift air transport could halt small infantry forces into fast-moving, hard-hitting army units, he said.

Released on Bail

CORNWALL (CP) — Jean-Guy Lalonde 17 was released on a $1,000 cash bail Wednesday following his arraignment on a manslaughter charge. He was remanded a week.

The charge was laid after the death Sunday of 16-year-old Vincent Godard of Cornwall. Police said Godard died of injuries suffered in a fight outside a dance hall.

PICTON

Fall Trapping Of Muskrats In Prince Edward

PICTON — A special fall trapping season has been authorized in Prince Edward County with the exception of Sophiasburgh township, conservation officer Claude Winters announced yesterday. This is in addition to the usual spring season. Dates are from November 21 to December 11.

The special season is part of a game management plan. It is stated that the muskrat population is at its peak in the fall. During the winter months there is considerable mortality due to overcrowding and lack of food, and it is felt by trapping some of the rates now that the remaining ones have a better chance to survive. The experiment was carried out in East and West Lakes last year.

PLAYED ST. NICK

TORONTO (CP)—Joe Carr, a singer and showman who played Santa Claus on Ontario radio stations for 25 years, died Wednesday. His radio broadcasts were carried west to Port Arthur, east to Cornwall and through the U.S.

"How To Have Hair For A Lifetime" Famous Trichologist To Give Demonstration Here

Offers Written Guarantee

An Exclusive Interview by Wm. Neal

TORONTO, ONT. (Special)—M. Lewis, Director of Lewis Hair Experts of Canada exploded the "myth of baldness" today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly, and a plague to mankind," says Lewis. "No man need be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age that is forced upon him because he is losing his hair. The Lewis method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness —can turn colorless fuzz into healthy into growing hair — can make you look youthful again.

DEMONSTRATION TO BE HELD IN BELLEVILLE, ONT.

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Belleville at the Quinte Hotel on Saturday, Nov. 12 ONLY.

Trichologist M. Lewis will conduct the private individual interviews from 12 noon until 9.00 p.m. on Nov. 12 only. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

REASON FOR BALDNESS

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is infected with dandruff, excessive oiliness, or excessive dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes women too, walk the streets today, completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament — hair. Simply because they were not taught the basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer", emphasized this expert, "is that children should be taught the same simple rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today."

HEREDITY NOT INVOLVED

Trichologist Lewis dodged no issues. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness — heredity. "Man-kind's unrealistic belief that baldness is hereditary stems from a misinterpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families a tendency exists towards an undernourished scalp." The purpose of Lewis Hair and Scalp experts is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition." A healthy scalp will grow hair, if it is not already completely bald", assures Lewis.

IS THERE HOPE FOR THE COMPLETELY BALD?

In his travels throughout the United States and Canada Lewis has collected hundreds of testimonies of his ability to develop weak fuzz into healthy mature hair. All of his clients had started with a private examination, hair and scalp analysis and a diagnosis of the disorder. Lewis is quick—however to tell a hopeless case that he cannot be helped. "We strongly advise," says Lewis, "that no person who is completely bald hold any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there is any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

OFFERS A GUARANTEE

"Lewis Hair Experts of Canada, offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted with results at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," pledge Lewis. "We must have satisfied clients. We must regrow hair. After all, it is our best advertisement."

IS YOUR HAIR HEALTHY?

If you have a scalp disorder or if you are worried about your hair, call at the Quinte Hotel from 12 noon to 9 p.m. The public is invited. The examinations are private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

GAP BED LATHE

This four speed lathe, with precision ground, heavy cast-iron bed, is the idol of the craftsman's workshop. It has the professional construction desired by all who take pleasure in accurate design and finish.

"12L" LATHE $99.50

The dream of many a man — to have a fully equipped work shop — can now come true.

Whether he is a master craftsman — or "discovered" the joys of personal craftsmanship or just a putterer from way back, power tools will broaden the scope of his projects and multiply his skill in making useful articles for commerce, home or business.

You don't have to spend a fortune for such a shop. Power tools can provide a full range of tools within the price formerly required for but three or four major pieces of equipment. Henry Power Tools are designed for men who get a sincere joy in having a power work shop and who are practical about it, too.

"HENRY CRAFTSMASTER" 12JB 12" BAND SAW SPECIAL $71.95

Large capacity "Craftmaster" Band Saw, precision engineered to give you accuracy and efficiency in every Band Saw operation. Cuts to centre of 24" circle. Makes curved or irregular cuts in wood up to 5" thick. Built-in belt tension device. Fully guarded 78" blade. This Band Saw will handle up to a ¾" blade. Ball bearing blade supports with hardened steel guides above and below table. Exceptionally strong cast aluminum frame. Table is close grained cast iron and from 5 degrees through 0 degrees to 45 degrees. Rubber tired wheels balanced to insure minimum vibration.

BENCH SAW

Every feature to help you handle all kinds of straight and angular sawing faster and better is included in this Craftmaster Power Saw. Depth of cut 2¾". Blade tilts to 45 degrees. Complete with extensions. $84.50

4" JOINTER

A key tool for any man who prides himself on smooth, accurate workmanship is the Henry Power Jointer-Planer. Handles all kinds of edging and surfacing operations, straight or angular, plus rabbeting.

C. W. L. PARTY

MARYSVILLE — Another successful euchre party was sponsored by the C. W. L. in Marysville parish hall on Sunday evening with 37 tables in play. Ladies' high score, Mrs. Joe McGuinness; Mrs. Don McLaren and Mrs. Jim Brennan. Men, Morgan Shaughnessy, Peter Whalen and Dick Kennedy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Fahey and family, Toronto, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Fahey.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Doyle, spent Sunday in Brooklyn.

Many from the community attended the 100th anniversary of the Tyendinaga township hall at Melrose on Thursday evening. A turkey banquet was served by the Women's Institute, which deserves high praise.

A farmers' union meeting held in Roslin hall on Monday evening was attended by many of the local farmers.

The local hunters started north on Saturday to try their luck for a deer.

Russians Like Their Vodka But Not from The Bar

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP)—The barman at the Hotel Metropole, headquarters of the Soviet delegation, confesses he stocked no vodka for the Geneva conference.

"Before I've filled my shelves with it," said barman Claude, "and twice it's sat there, as unwanted as another cold wave in Siberia. I've learned my lesson."

The Russians drink plenty of their national firewater at Geneva conferences—but they don't drink vodka supplied by Swiss bartenders at Swiss prices.

"They bring their own," he said, "by airplanes and by the crate load."

"Do the Russians visit the bar?" "Oh, yes, but not to drink vodka. They do that in their rooms."

"What do Russians drink at the bar?"

"Scotch and soda. They call it shotlandsky visit. Shotlandsky for Scotch, and visit for whiskey. Get it?"

As this is Claude's third Geneva conference, he considers himself one of the West's outstanding authorities on Russian drinking habits.

"They are strange," he said "they'll start out with a cognac, order two or three shotlandsky visits and then finish off the evening with a dry martini."

"Do any of the Russian young women consorted with the conference come to the bar?"

"Very, very seldom. At the last Geneva conference a pretty girl wandered in one evening and started singing 'Dark Eyes.'

"She was glared at. She turned out to be a girl from Stockholm on vacation."

"Do the Russians ever sing at the bar?"

"Very, very seldom, but I remember once when one did sing. He wanted to buy a record, but only knew the tune. It was 'I Love Paris.'"

Centenary

CENTENARY — Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hart spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Taylor, Brighton.

Friends are sorry to hear of the illness of Mr. N. Percival. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillis Sills spent Sunday with relatives in Marmora.

Mr. E. McConnel, Brighton, was the temperance speaker at the Sunday morning service at Centenary United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McMullen and Peter, Toronto, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hancock and family.

Mr. W. M. Hitchon is spending a few days hunting in the north woods.

The Bayside Y. P. U. attended a skating party sponsored by the South Hastings Union in the arena on Monday night.

The W. M. S. and W. A. meetings are being held at the home of Mrs. Byron Hardor, on Thursday.

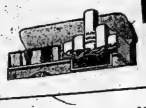
SHOWER

Friends and neighbors gathered at Centenary school on Friday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sickels who were recently married.

Danny Smith and daughter entertained with instrumental guitar selections, and songs which were much enjoyed.

Mr. Fred Edmondson and Mr. Elwin Hart gave readings.

Mrs. Mac Nobes read an address on behalf of the community, while Mr. Bruce Holton and Mr. Keith Sills presented them with two occasional chairs.



Mr. and Mrs. Sickels thanked their friends for their thoughtful gifts.

Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed by all.

Here's How to Win!

Get Free Check List at any Dominion Store.

Find the "Phantom Famous Brand" listed on the check sheet but not illustrated in this advertisement. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO, or you will be automatically disqualified from as opportunity to win $2,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Brand". If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT callboy, you will win the Grand Prize of $1,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" or a reasonable facsimile PLUS a Dominion Store cash register slip dated this week totalling $5.50 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand", you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary, until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

Mr. W. E. Shaver, 2 Noel Avenue, Toronto, was the lucky winner of $1,000 in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE HUNT last Saturday night. Unfortunately Mr. Shaver did not qualify for an additional bonus prize of $1,000 because he did not have a Dominion Store cash register receipt in his possession. However he did have a bag of Monarch Flour. Altogether, 31 phone calls were made throughout Ontario last Saturday night before the winner was found.

MELROSE

W.M. Society Presents Slate Of Officers

The regular meeting of the Melrose Woman's Missionary Society met on Wednesday last at the home of Mrs. R. M. Badgley with an attendance of 15.

The president, Mrs. George Morgan, welcomed all and opened the meeting. Mrs. S. Demille presided at the piano and Mrs. Charles Bates, Sr., read the Scripture lessons.

A short business period was conducted. The treasurer gave a gratifying report.

1956 OFFICERS

Mrs. Roy Badgley presented the slate of officers for 1956, which is as follows: president, Mrs. George Morgan; 1st vice-president, Miss M. Bellery; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Charles Bates, Sr.; secretary, Miss Beatrice MacFarlane; assistant secretary, Mrs. Fred Jeffrey; treasurer, Miss Mary McLaren.

Literature secretary asked for all report at the next meeting on their "Reading Course" for this year.

The group leader, Mrs. John Milligan, assisted by Mrs. C. Osborn told how the United church greets the newcomer and how it tries to make them feel that they are not strangers but fellow citizens.

The Rev. T. Hogerward gave a most interesting talk on the colorful island of Bali, an island of the East Indies group.

Mrs. Morgan thanked all who had assisted in the program, and Mr. Hogerward closed the meeting with prayer.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Bates Sr.

The hostess served refreshments and a social hour was spent.

Immunized Cows Can Produce Protective Milk

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Two university of Minnesota scientists say they have found a way to make cows give milk that can provide protection against disease.

They report they had discovered that cows vaccinated for a certain disease—or several diseases—will produce milk that has the power to protect against those diseases.

Immunity already has been built up in animals by feeding them milk from vaccinated cows. Twenty human guinea pigs have shown that protective qualities in milk are absorbed into the blood stream. Researchers say they are confident further experiments will show human beings can achieve immunity through drinking "protective milk."

The immunity continues only as long as "protective milk" is consumed regularly.

The discovery was made by Dr. William E. Peterson, professor of animal husbandry and authority on milk, and Dr. Berry Campbell, associate professor of anatomy who has done considerable work in the field of immunology.

STILL MUCH WORK

They reported their findings in the journal Lancet, a Minneapolis medical publication, and at press conference. They cautioned that much work remains to be done.

They say they are sure that "protective milk" can be used to immunize human beings against such diseases as streptococcal infections, such as sore throat, measles, smallpox, diphtheria, and tuberculosis.

They also believe it will be effective against polio.

One of the questions remaining to be answered is how much "protective milk" would have to be consumed to build up continuing immunity.

The two men said their plan could also be used for immunization of livestock and poultry against diseases which cause loss of millions of dollars every year.

Missing Launch Found Abandoned In South Pacific

SUVA, Fiji Islands (Reuters)—A grim new chapter was written (Thurs. in the biggest south Pacific maritime mystery in decades.

A steamer captain radioed here that he had found the 70-ton Honolulu-registered launch, Joyita, which vanished more than five weeks ago with 25 persons aboard.

But there was no sign of life aboard the ship as she drifted, waterlogged and forlorn, off the Fijian island of Vanau Levu.

The launch, which catches tuna for the Hawaii trade, was found by the skipper of the steamer Tavalu, about 800 miles west of her starting point in the Samoan Islands.

SHIP'S LOG MISSING

There was no hint aboard as to the fate of the 25 persons who set out on the voyage. They were presumed not to have survived, since the launch's Welsh captain, T. H. (Dusty) Miller, had taken only two days' supply of food and water with him.

The Joyita's funnel and much of her superstructure had either been washed away or blown away. An awning had been rigged over part of her deck and flapped gently in the breeze—indicating that someone had lived on board after whatever disaster had occurred.

The ship's log was missing. Some of the compartments were flooded, so it was impossible to search them.

B.C. Prisoners Must Now Work

VICTORIA (CP) — New rules, approved by the British Columbia cabinet provide that all prisoners in provincial jails and prisons must work.

And if there isn't enough work to go around the prisoners will get their exercise by marching.

Under the new rules, prisoners "must labor diligently during working hours and the employment of duties assigned to them."

Work is compulsory for all prisoners unless excused for medical reasons.

Private Capital Available To Build Toll Highway From Windsor to Niagara Falls

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Preliminary engineering surveys have been made for a 220-mile $132,000,000 toll highway across southwestern Ontario frm Windsor to Niagara Falls and private capital stands ready to finance construction, it was learned here Wednesday.

A four-lane, limited access expressway, designed on similar lines to turnpikes of the United States, it would provide a direct link between the big border cities of Detroit and Buffalo.

Joseph Jeffery, president of London Life Insurance Company, said the proposal has been made informally to the Ontario government. It will be presented officially to the legislature's toll roads committee at a forthcoming hearing in London.

It is learned that more than one financial group, including capital in the United States, is interested in backing a Windsor-Niagara Falls tollway.

NEED ASSISTANCE

While private interests are prepared to undertake the financing, the Ontario government, if it approved the scheme, would be asked to assist by using its powers of land expropriation.

Mr. Jeffery said a group of Londoners which is spearheading the scheme already has spent a considerable amount of money on preliminary engineering surveys. The surveys were carried out by a leading United States firm which laid out plans for turnpikes and thruways in half a dozen states.

It is estimated the Windsor-Niagara Falls toll highway would take about three years to build. It would cut about one day's travelling time off the Detroit-Buffalo trip for long distance transports.

The suggested route would skirt the cities of London, Brantford and Hamilton and then run parallel to the Queen Elizabeth way from Hamilton to Niagara Falls.

MAP ANOTHER ROUTE

However, a secondary alternate route has been mapped. It would be farther south, closer to the Lake Ontario shoreline and more direct.

Mr. Jeffery said the London-Brantford-Hamilton route was considered preferable for Canadian traffic. He did not wish to disclose the proposed routes in further detail.

It is proposed to levy toll rates in line with tolls in force on United States turnpikes. The amount of Canadian and U.S. traffic expected to use such a Canadian tollway would assure a return of the total capital outlay in 20 years or less, Mr. Jeffery said.

The toll road, when paid for, would be turned over to the province debt-free.

Judge Reserves His Decision In Custody Case

TORONTO (CP)—The future of two happy 16-month-old boys depends on a decision which a justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario says he will make "just as soon as possible.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven said Wednesday the decision he must make would tax a Solomon and cause heartbreak whichever way it ruled.

He must decide who should have the twin boys—Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mast of west Toronto, their natural parents, or Mr. and Mrs. Austin Hepton of nearby Cookville who adopted them a month after the babies were born.

The Masts, immigrants from Holland who married in Canada, want the babies back.

Mr. Justice Treleaven said he will speak personally with the two couples. He heard five days of evidence on the case.

"Jest a Second"

"He said he's never known a girl like me — all that money he's got proves it, too."

Eden Promises To Seek Peace In Middle East

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Eden has pledged himself and his government to do all they can to bring peace to the troubled Middle East.

In a speech to the annual banquet given by the Lord Mayor of London, the prime minister expressed concern at the mounting tension between Israel and her Arab neighbors.

"Her Majesty's government and I personally are available to render any service in this cause," he said. "If there is anything we can do, we will gladly do it for the sake of peace."

Eden was sharply critical of the Soviet Union which he accused of delivering arms to Arab countries to make it easier for communists to penetrate the Arab world.

"It is fantastic to pretend that this deliberate act of policy was an innocent commercial transaction," he said. "When nations face each other in hostility it is not much use just blaming them for getting arms where they can. It is not with the recipients but with the suppliers that the main responsibility must be."

Eden praised Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, the Canadian chief of the United Nations truce commission in Palestine, for his efforts to keep the two sides apart.

"He and his staff have shown patience and courage in this hazardous work and we are most grateful to them. . . We are giving him full diplomatic support."

Eden said Britain's only desire is "to help find a means of living which will enable the peoples concerned to dwell side by side in peace."

Preston Plant Razed by Fire

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) —Owner Donald Pitcher and four employees of his Preston Industries plant fled the building Wednesday afternoon when it burned to the ground with a loss estimated at $90,000.

With the aid of passersby the five were able to save office files and some equipment. The fire, of unknown origin, started in a 15-ton cotton duck processing machine imported from England at a cost of $40,000. The machine was destroyed.

The two-storey, one-floor, cement block building was also destroyed when its timber roof collapsed along with the south wall.

Wants Ottawa's Share of Highway Costs Increased

KINGSTON (CP)—If there is to be a trans-Canada highway in the foreseeable future, the federal government must contribute "a far greater proportion of the cost than the present 30 per cent," George Hees said Wednesday night.

The president of the National Progressive Conservative Association, Commons member for Toronto Broadview, said the federal share must be enough to enable the participating provinces to meet their part out of current revenues.

The provinces, Mr. Hees told the Kingston Conservative association, "simply do not have the funds to meet their 30-per-cent share of the trans-Canada road."

"To spend more on this highway and its feeder roads means just that much less money to spend on highways which are their primary concern."

The remarks were included in a text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Part of Youths' Statements Ruled Admissible

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—One of three Quebec youths charged with murdering a Roman Catholic priest dozed off to sleep in the prisoner's box Monday during proceedings in which his two companions testified.

After hearing the testimony in connection with five statements they gave police following their arrest, Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman ruled portions of the statements admissible as evidence.

The testimony was given during a trial within a trial while the jury was excluded from the courtroom. Today, as the trial continues, the cut-down statements will be read to the jury.

The decision of the Court of Queen's Bench judge came after the pale-faced Claude Parquin, 18, of Montreal, one of the accused left the witness stand. Also charged with the Jan. 9 highway shooting of Rev. Alfred Quirion, 44, of St. Edouard, Alta., are Gerard de Tonnancourt, 18, of Montreal and Guy Ferragne, 18, of Riviere des Parquin had taken the stand after de Tonnancourt, who spent four hours and 10 minutes Tuesday and Wednesday reviewing his own statement and pointing out his objections to defence counsel Harry Walsh of Winnipeg.

Parquin was on the stand 30 minutes. Ferragne, who was not called, fell asleep in the prisoner's box at one stage of proceedings.

Martin Deplores Divisive Tendency Of UN Actions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Health Minister Paul Martin, Canada's chief delegate to the United Nations, said Wednesday night that too many of the General Assembly's actions tend to increase divisiveness among UN members.

Commenting on Wednesday's withdrawal of the South African delegation from the assembly after the body voted to continue a study of racial problems in South Africa, Martin expressed regret over the incident and added:

"In recent years we have become increasingly concerned about trends in the proceedings of the General Assembly which have tended to divide rather than unite the member states."

Martin cited the South African vote, which Canada opposed, as a case in point. Canada had based its opposition on the belief that the study could produce no workable results and that such actions tend to undermine the principle of the UN charter concerning sovereign equality of UN members.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mr. and Mrs. William Stobie, of Burr's, were Tuesday supper guests of Mrs. S. J. Munro.

Mrs. D. B. Munro spent Thursday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vangeesen, at Glenora.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The Ladies' Aid met at the church on Wednesday afternoon with a fair attendance. As it was the annual meeting, election of officers was as follows: Mrs. W. J. Gray, president; Mrs. S. Worden, past president; Mrs. Clare McFaul, treasurer and Mrs. E. Caughey, secretary.

The next meeting will again be at the church with Mrs. Keith Foster as hostess.

The Rev. J. G. Hornsby, of Picton, called on Mr. and Mrs. M. Allan and on Mr. and Mrs. R. Crook, on Wednesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese, of Albury, were callers at the same home on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Ross Fairman, of Huff's Island, spent Thursday with Mrs. E. Crook.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Salisbury and Mrs. Charles Haight of Belleville, were supper guests of Mrs. E. Crook, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Burr and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Burr and Carrie Ann, of Burr's, were supper guests of Mrs. S. J. Munro, on Monday.

Mrs. William Ainsworth, of Toronto, spent a few days last week with Mrs. S. J. Munro.

Mr. Theran Allan, of Peterborough, was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Allan, on Thursday.

Mr. George Hutson spent Sunday with his son, Mr. Ted Hutson and Mrs. Hutson at Roslin.

CHICAGO (AP)—A doorman at a men's club for 45 years, who is believed to have benefited from stock market tips from members, left an estate of some $185,000, it was disclosed Tuesday. The fortune in securities was discovered in a safe deposit box held by the late Thomas W. Burns, who had been a doorman at the Chicago Athletic Association from 1901 to his retirement in 1946.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was reeding her Fastidious Feminine magazine, saying to pop, They run some very high class poetry in this magazine. William.

Let's hope they have some high class reeders, pop said, and ma said, Now listen to this one. It's called Dawn on the Lake. I'll reed it to you, she said.

Which she did, being:

The jaggid eddies flee
beneeth the orb
Like hordes of scudding lepreceans in flite,
And in my fragile shallop
I absorb
The splintered silver lining of the night.

Very high class, pop said, and ma said, Yes, it's bewtiful, but just what does it meen?

Let's have a look at it and I'll explain it in detale, pop said.

And he took the magazine, saying, Well, obviously the poet has 2 active little twins, both named Eddies, who are always making plans. That explains "plangent eddies." The 2nd line speeks for itself to anyone who has ever seen scudding legreceans with a cop after them, he said.

Dont be so far feetched, ma said. Anyway, the part about being in a fragile shallop baffles me. I always thought a shallop was something to drink out of, she said, and pop said, So it is my dear. A fragile shallop is a paper cup. The poet is sitting on the bank drinking black coffee left over from last night. He has a terrible head ake from trying to think as erly in the morning, and his silvery thoughts come out all splintery, pop said.

Oh, give me back my magazine, I'll try to study it out myself, ma said.

When she did for a while, shaking her head to herself, and then she terned to the back of the magazine and looked at the awvertizements for ladies inside clothes.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE— Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson and Mrs. Lizzie Thomson were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKeown at Springbrook.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Ray have moved into the home of Mrs. Albert Reid on the 10th Line, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Doug Brunton.

Ritchie Meiklejohn and Dick Morton have both installed television sets.

Paul McKeown was an overnight guest of his cousin, Don Spencer, at Mount Pleasant, one night last week.

Elmer McInroy of Des Moines, Iowa, was a weekend visitor with his sister, Mrs. Glen Morton, Mr. Morton and Alan. On Saturday they visited their mother, Mrs. Gladys McInroy in Kingston hospital.

HAPPY HOSTESSES

The Happy Hostesses held their meeting last week at the home of Mrs. Don Kerr with 14 young ladies present. The secretary and treasurer each gave their report. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Don Kerr, leader. The roll call for next week will be "Why I Like to Entertain."

Mrs. Kerr gave a reading entitled "Making Sandwiches" and the girls were shown how to make fancy sandwiches.

ASKS FOR RESTRAINT

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's new citizens have been asked not to stage demonstrations against a delegation of Russian church officials soon expected here as guests of the United Church of Canada. They will visit Niagara Falls and elsewhere. Stan Milsak, president of the Mutual Co-operation League, Sunday appealed for restraint at a special conference of 21 ethnic groups in Toronto.

SEVEN KILLED

MANILA (Reuters)—Seven persons were killed and scores injured during local elections in the Philippines Tuesday. More than 3,000 police were called out to maintain order. The casualties resulted from isolated acts of terrorism. Candidates for the government Nacionalista party won most of the posts.

Dark, dreary days depress canaries, too. They just don't feel like singing. But now—good news for canary colorizurus! If they'll arrange to have the bottom of their cages lined with aluminum, they'll sing through the darkest day. The light reflected from the sparkling metal foil gives their souls that springtime lift.

People find endless household uses for aluminum foil. So does industry—for everything from fire-fighting clothing to photo-flash bulbs, to wrapping for candy and food. Canada used 8 million pounds of foil last year.

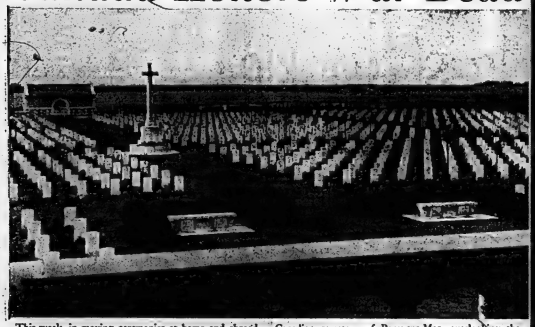
Remembrance Day

THIRTY SEVEN YEARS ago tomorrow the "Cease Fire" command ended World War I. And on that day we honored those who died to give us peace. Added to that honor roll are those who gave their lives in the second great world conflict. It is not enough this Armistice Day to honor the brave dead of two wars by bowing our heads in prayer.



TODAY THROUGHOUT our world angry voices are thundering without reason — and threats, like lightning, break and crash over the people's heads . . . clouds scud along the horizon, sometimes building up to frightening thunder-heads. . . . Yet, the eternal stars are there — stars of Hope, of Faith and of Love, now dimmed or hidden by the clouds — now breaking through with a clarity and brilliance and strength that will not be denied.

MAY THESE stars be seen and followed by the wise men of all nations, and may they light the path to peace, with goodwill in the hearts of all men — warm welcome for their neighbor — and a deep desire for friendship between nations — and a determination to achieve lasting peace.

May This Be The Prayer Today Of The People

Canada Honors War Dead

This week, in moving ceremonies at home and abroad, the historic battles of Amiens, Ypres, Ortona and Sicily will again be remembered as Canadians pay their annual November 11th tribute to over 100,000 fellow-countrymen who fell in two world wars. Beautifully-landscaped Canadian cemetery of Beny-sur-Mer, overlooking the landing beaches near Reviers, France, is monument to some 2,000 Canadians who died during Normandy invasion. Commonwealth war cemeteries are administered by the Imperial War Graves Commission.

National Memorial, dominating Ottawa's Confederation Square, has bronze figures representing all arms of three fighting services, is surmounted by figures of Peace and Freedom. Representing bereaved Canadian motherhood, Mrs. John Leboldus, of Vibank, Sask., will lay wreath at Memorial's base on November 11th.

Impressive in its simplicity, the Canadian memorial at Vimy Ridge, overlooking the French towns of Lens and Lille) commemorates 1917 battle for Hill 70. Names of 11,500 Canadian servicemen missing in France are inscribed in memorial's base. Twin pylons of monument overshadow lonely brooding figure representing Canada.

In the quiet dignity of House of Commons Memorial Chapel located in the lower portion of the Peace Tower, daily ritual of turning over a page of the Book of Remembrance is carried out. On the Chapel walls, stone plaques carry details of the service, sacrifice and achievements of Canadians killed in the First Great War. The six-hundred-and-one page Book of Remembrance lies within a flag-lined casket, is richly illuminated with the names of over 65,000 Canadian servicemen who died in 1914-18 conflict.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Bride-to-Be Feted With Many Gifts

WEST HUNTINGDON. — A miscellaneous shower was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. William Donnan when thirty neighbors and girl friends assembled to wish Miss Sally Purcell (bride to be) much joy on her matrimonial voyage.

The evening's entertainment consisted of a sing-song led by Mrs. Irvin Badgley and Marilyn Fitchett at the piano; readings were given by Mrs. Barton Haggerty and Miss Marilyn Fitchett, and musical numbers by Mrs. Lindsay Sills and Roseanne McIvoy.

Two contests were conducted by Mrs. William Donnan.

Steel Consumers Resort to Barter To Get Supplies

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel consumers in the United States are resorting to barter in a desperation move to get enough of the metal to keep production lines going, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly.

Lack of steel has forced some manufacturers to cut back on their production lines, it adds, reporting as follows:

Many companies have assigned task forces to ferreting out odd lots of steel that other consumers are willing to trade. These are steel-for-steel deals, or steel for any other commodity wanted. Meanwhile, high-cost conversion deals are mounting involving sheets, plates and bars.

Steel mills find that despite the record production pace of recent weeks, output is being exceeded by new business.

There's little chance of a let-up in demand for the next seven months. There isn't enough steel to support the freight-car building program. Consequently, the prospect is for a continuing shortage of shipping space for months to come.

Rawdon

RAWDON—Mr. and Mrs. James Chumbley visited friends in Belleville over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. James Forster, Robert and Lorena, Toronto, visited the Reinle family at Wellman's, for a few days.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

BLUES—NO BOOZE!

Queen's studes won't be "stewed" at Saturday's gridiron classic between the Golden Gaels and the Varsity Blues. If they are, they will be hit where it hurts most—in the hip. Furthermore, they will be tossed out of Richardson stadium on their figurative ears—or other parts of the anatomy.

"Varsity," the University of Toronto's organ, said that fines of two hundred dollars will be levied on the erring ones.

The Kingston gendarmerie will be augmented by 25 student gaolwards and every suspicious "bulge" and parcel will be rigidly investigated.

And the Queen's Alma Mater Society is seeing to it that the boys of the Tricolor will act like the little gentlemen they are supposed to be. It has cracked down heavily on potential smart-takers and anyone caught with a beaker or flagon of hipwater will be hailed before a special court and sentenced but plenty of the coin of the realm. Anywhere from $30 to $200. So if a thirsty stude must accede carry along a flask of gingiewater he must needs tote along a well-lined purse. At that he will have to be a Houdini to smuggle the tonsil tickler past the eagle-eyed sleuths of the city police department and the student body.

The sentences imposed by the AMS, it is stated, will be backed by the university senate and failure to pay could result in expulsion.

All this is the aftermath of the scuffling and high-jinks that took place the last time the Varsity-Gaels met in gridiron combat when several students were injured by tossed bottles and lime-bombs.

However, the fines will not apply to the Toronto students, according to "Varsity." A Blue in a stew will be heaved out on his ear—and that is that.

The greatest crowd in the history of Richardson Stadium will view the gridiron epic on Saturday. The place is practically sold out and tickets are scarcer than the proverbial biddy's molars. Everything points to one of the greatest pigskin thrillers ever staged in Kingston stadium with the odds slightly favoring the Tricolor.

It will be the dynamic speed of the Gael backfield of Ken Stewart, Garry Schreiber, Bill Surplis and Al Koeman against the hard-hitting ground offensive of the Varsity line. If the footing is firm and the field fast, Gus Bracela's pitching may be an important factor.

Michael J. Rodden, sports editor of the Kingston Whig Standard, columns: "History will be made in view of the fact that no other intercollegiate union playoff has ever been waged on this Old Ontario Strand. The Gaels have never won a title since the playoff system was adopted and they have participated in only one semi-final; that of last season when the dying Western Mustangs scored the luckiest touchdown imaginable and eliminated the Tindalmen on the last play of the game in Varsity Stadium.

"A week later the Blues, after travelling to British Columbia, flew into London and shaded the Metramen in the final. And now for the second time the jaunty Blues must retain or lose the laurels away from their costly home stadium."

SOUTH AND AGE

Detroit Red Wings have the youngest team in the National Hockey League this season with the Toronto Maple Leafs a scant two percentage points back of the Wings. The average age of each member of the Red Wings this season is 24.3 years, while the average age of the Maple Leafs is 24.7 years.

The oldest club in the circuit are the Montreal Canadiens. The Canadiens average an even 27 years per player. The New York Rangers ice the third youngest squad in the loop. Average age of a Ranger this term is 24.9 years. Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks have an average age of 25.2 and 26.4 years per man respectively. This makes the Black Hawks the second oldest club in the NHL and Boston the third oldest.

Butch Bouchard, captain of the Canadiens, is the oldest player in the league at 35. The Canadiens have more players in the 35 or over category than any other team. There are five players on the Canadiens who are in this group. Besides Bouchard there's Maurice Richard, 34; Ken Mosdell, 32 and Doug Harvey and Floyd Curry, each 30.

The youngest player in the entire league is Detroit's rookie defenceman, Larry Hillman. The youthful Hillman is only 18. He won't be 19 until March 5, 1956. The Red Wings have another youngster in rookie Norman Ullman who is only 18. Other 19-year-olds in the NHL are Dick Duff with Toronto and Henri Richard with Canadiens.

Duff was born on February 18, 1936, while Richard is a leap year baby being born on February 29, 1936.

There are five teen-agers in the National Hockey League, 15 who are 18 r more and 87 in their twenties. The average of a National Hockey League player this season is 25.4 years.

"What was the score of that terrific game you bowled tonight, dear? I remember you said it was the same as your weight!"

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bert Olmstead of Montreal, the National Hockey League's leading playmaker, spurred Canadiens' only goal in a 1-1, tie with New York Wednesday and moved into a tie for the loop scoring lead.

Olmstead now has five goals and 14 assists and shares the t op rung with teammate Jean Beliveau, who has eight goals and 11 assists.

15,509 Pack Madison Square To See Blues-Habs Thriller; Gendron Scores Tying Goal

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The wording was changed slightly today in the saying that everybody loves a winner. New York loves its Rangers.

Blueshirt fans—15,509 of them—jammed old Madison Square Garden Wednesday night to see Rangers battle to a 1-1 National Hockey League tie with Montreal Canadiens.

It was the largest home crowd in seven years for the Rangers. A rare sight, indeed, at the Garden, where most big-league hockey games in the last few seasons drew no more than was necessary to keep the echoes down.

Canadiens always draw big in New York but the 15,509 was sensational. It was almost a full house, which is 15,925, including standing room. There are 15,246 seats.

EQUALIZED NEAR END

Although Rangers didn't win, rookie Guy Gendron gave the fans something to cheer about. He tied the New York goal with four minutes remaining in the game. It was his first NHL goal and erased the lead left winger Bert Olmstead had given Canadiens in the second period.

The tie put Rangers four points ahead of Boston Bruins, Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs, all tied with 12 points for third place. Montreal heads the league with 19 points.

Gendron, 21-year old left winger who scored 24 goals with Providence Reds in the American League last season, banged in a pass from Ron Murphy which slid across the front of the goalmouth.

Lorne Worsley played another standout game in the Rangers' goal. He stopped 28 shots, 15 in the first period when he and Jacques Plante in the Habs net staged a goaltender's battle. Plante had to save only six shots in that period but was busy, although either he kicked out 27 Ranger shots.

Olmstead scored at 13:46 of the second period, driving a 30-foot angle shot from the right that had Worsley fooled. Dollard St. Laurent and Bernie Geoffrion drew assists. Olmstead's goal, his fifth of the season, put him in a tie with teammate Jean Beliveau for the league scoring lead. Each has 19 points.

Six Applications For Stukus' Job

VANCOUVER (CP)—At least six football coaches are willing to replace Agnis Stukus at the helm of the British Columbia Lions.

Don Mackenzie, president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union entry, said Wednesday he has received six applications for the head coaching job.

Stukus was fired Oct. 27 from his $12,000-a-year job. His three-year contract expires Dec. 15.

Glen Crowe, assistant to Stukus last season after working with the Ottawa Rough Riders of the eastern Big Four, "is the only announced applicant. The other five are reported to be American coaches, some of whom are now working for Canadian football clubs.

who scored 24 goals with Providence Reds in the American League last season, banged in a pass from Ron Murphy which slid across the front of the goalmouth.

Lorne Worsley played another standout game in the Rangers' goal. He stopped 28 shots, 15 in the first period when he and Jacques Plante in the Habs net staged a goaltender's battle. Plante had to save only six shots in that period but was busy, although either he kicked out 27 Ranger shots.

Olmstead scored at 13:46 of the second period, driving a 30-foot angle shot from the right that had Worsley fooled. Dollard St. Laurent and Bernie Geoffrion drew assists. Olmstead's goal, his fifth of the season, put him in a tie with teammate Jean Beliveau for the league scoring lead. Each has 19 points.

Expect 15,000 To Watch Varsity, Gaels

KINGSTON (CP)—Close to 15,000 fans, the largest crowd to watch a football game in Kingston, are expected to pack Richardson Stadium Saturday for the big college game of the year.

University of Toronto Blues and Queen's Golden Gaels, so evenly matched this season they could play on the 55-yard line all game, will battle it out for the senior intercollegiate football league title.

They don't care too much about what the weather will be like either. Both teams have strong ground and aerial attacks that carried them into the playoffs.

LIKE FT. ERIE?

However, Varsity, with its powerful ground attack, wouldn't mind a nice cool day. Coach Bob Masterson waited until the last game of the season to find out that lanky Harry Wilson, one of the team's ace quarterbacks, can really throw when he's warmed up. Against the University of Western Ontario Mustangs big Harry completed 15 of 27 passes, three of them for touchdowns.

Queen's passing attack doesn't stand in any team's shadow either. In the two games with Varsity last year Ron Stewart caught six passes for 113 yards, compared with 39 yards in three catches for Varsity's Phil Munro.

Both Munro and Stewart figure to be big running. He's averaged 7.5 yards a try to Stewart's 5.7.

Will Honor Five At Cup Dinner

TORONTO (CP) — Five members from western Canada and two from Ontario will be honored for outstanding service to football at the Nov. 23 Grey Cup dinner at Vancouver, it was announced Wednesday.

Those to be honored are:

Dr. Gordon Burke, 69, Vancouver; the late Stacy Daniel (Stack) Tibbits of Regina; Lesslie Izard, 59, of Winnipeg; Harold Bailey, 47, Toronto, and Leo Dandurand, 66, Montreal.

Dr. Burke, born in Winnipeg, coached University of British Columbia teams at Vancouver from 1925 to 1937.

Tibbits, an enthusiastic supporter of all sports, was an original executive member of Regina Pats Junior hockey club in 1946. In 1945 he was named to the Saskatchewan Roughriders football executive and was president of the club four years later.

Dandurand, long-time Montreal sportsman connected with his league hockey and racing, invested in Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four in 1946.

Snow, Cold for Eskys, Bombers Cats Favored Over Argonauts

WINIPEG (CP)—Snow and cold is the forecast for Winnipeg Friday when Hon. Bombers play host to Edmonton Eskimos in the first game of their best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

This, added to the already poor condition of Winnipeg Stadium, will dampen the odds which favor the Eskis as the rallbirds claim the weather, and field conditions can be a great equalizer.

The stadium grounds, soggy from record rain and snow, lost its usual good protection from the elements when "nomoskis" failed to see that the park's tarpaulin was laid following a high school football league playoff game Tuesday night.

All day Wednesday, snow-cleaning tractors and other heavy machinery were churning across the soft turf taking the heavy, wet snow from the playing field, but leaving a cut-up gridiron.

A forecast of possible drizzle today followed by colder temperatures and snow would make the footing treacherous by game time 2 p.m. CST.

While the clearing was continuing, coach Al Sherman had his Bombers working out on a small portion of the field. Dressed in heavy sweat suits and with many wearing toques, the players went through spirited running plays and defensive set-ups.

Only two players—tackle Dick Ruffrom and guard Floyd Hasselwood, both members of the 1953 WIFU all-star defensive team—were on the limp. But both are expected to be ready for the opener.

BOMBS BRUISED

Several others, however, still are nursing bruises suffered here Monday in the rugged, total-point contest against Saskatchewan Roughriders. Bombers dropped the second contest 34 but won the round 36-18.

Meanwhile, at Edmonton, coach Frank (Pop) Ivy was worried about complacency setting in.

"It isn't that the club is over confident," he said. "But I do think the players may be a little too complacent. They haven't really been under any pressure since early in the season when they had that winning streak going."

The Eskis, who aren't nursing any serious injuries, were also out on their field, running through handoff drill and a series of defences.

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who haven't missed the Big Four football playoffs since Carl Voyles took over as coach in 1950, rate as slight favorites to knock off Toronto Argonauts when they clash in their sudden-death Eastern Conference tie Saturday.

The 3-to-2 odds or six points that have been posted on the game are laying took on greater significance Wednesday as further talk of disbandment among Argo players and coach Bill Swiacki spread around Toronto.

It first started after linebacker Ken Foster was reported to have walked off the practice field and quit the team rather than take his turn in a tackling drill last week. The exact situation in the Argo camp isn't too clear, but there evidence that everything isn't serene came Tuesday with confirmed reports that Inquiry Editor Bill Talaga had an argument with Swiacki.

QUIT, QUITS

The discussion talk reached its highest peak when an unidentified Argo player was reported Wednesday in a Toronto newspaper interview to have said the players "have lost confidence" in Swiacki and his ability to set up a defence that will work. The player charged that Swiacki doesn't practice defence enough and won't listen to anyone who has suggested a change in the defensive system.

Swiacki refused to comment on the player's statement other than to say that "if that player knows so much he shouldn't be playing; he should be coaching Notre Dame or the Cleveland Browns."

Goodyears Trim Brockville 8-4

Kingston Goodyears took over second place in the Eastern Series "B" group standing last night defeating Brockville Magedonas 8-4 in overtime.

The teams were deadlocked at the end of regular time. Then the Goodies exploded with four goals to clinch the win.

The victory gives to Goodyears five points for two wins and a tie, one point ahead of the second place TT's.

BASLIO PREDICTION

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Carmen Basilio, the onion-picker who became welterweight champion of the world, Wednesday predicted he would find Tony DeMarco soundly Nov. 30 when Basilio risks for the first time the crown he won from the Boston Bolter in June.

Carmen said he was in better shape now than when he wrested the title from DeMarco by stopping him in the 15th round of a bloody, hitting battle before a packed auditorium here.

Johnny Saxton Gets Verdict Over 'Tiger'

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Saxton was set today for another shot at the welterweight championship but he has few old months.

The slick shooting Saxton, thrown by lightheaded daze all the way, sped to a unanimous decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones Wednesday night in a 10-round bout. The verdict was never in doubt as Saxton notched the heavy decision in a bewildered clod in the closing rounds.

"Man, I used rhythm," said the satisfied Saxton in his dressing room. "I'm ready for that title shot now and we've got it bottled in our pocket."

The word before the fight was that Saxton, if he won, would get a date with Carmen Basilio and Tony DeMarco, Saxton, who won the crown from Kid Gavilan, lost it less than six months later to DeMarco.

Jones gave away 10 pounds to Jones. The former welter titlist came in at 148½ pounds to Jones' 158½ and capitalized on his mobility to the fullest.

13 Thoroughbreds Ready to Go In International

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—The fourth meeting of the thoroughbred set for the International Friday, is the biggest both from the standpoint of the 13 equine participants and prospective crowd of spectators.

Competitors from the United States, Germany, England, Venezuela, France, Ireland and Canada are ready to take up the disposition of the $100,000 running of the most countries in one race will last between 2½ and three minutes around a 1½-mile Laurel's infield grass.

Clubhouse caterers say eating requests outnumbr the Kentucky Derby, John D. Schapiro, Laurel president, is atsafied with the 33,000 or so people expected as compared with the standard 100,000 announced at the Derby.

Social Outcast and Traffic Judge of the U.S. are expected to vie for the top betting class with countrymen Mister Gus likely to be next. The strongest foreign betting choices appear to be Ireland's Panasilpper and England's Nucleus.

Orfuns Seek Second Title

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Orfuns, seeking their second straight eastern Canada intermediate football title, leave for Montreal today for a sudden-death final Saturday against Lakeshore Flyers.

It will be the fourth meeting in as many years for the teams. Peterborough has won twice, including last season's 9-7 victory, and Montreal once.

The winners play host to a western team a week later for the game welterweight champion of the world, Wednesday predicted he would find Tony DeMarco soundly Nov. 30 when Basilio risks for the first time the crown he won from the Boston Bolter in June.

Carmen said he was in better shape now than when he wrested the title from DeMarco by stopping him in the 15th round of a bloody, hitting battle before a packed auditorium here.

St. Mikes Edge Marlboros 8-7

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto St. Michael's College Majors, hindered by weak goaltending, needed Pat Hannigan's four goals and an overtime power play to edge Tyrone Marlboros 8-7 and jump into a first-place tie Wednesday night in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A standings.

A crowd of 1,714 fans saw St. Michael's take the lead five times only to have Marlboros tie it and go ahead on two occasions before Hannigan fired the winner with a 40-foot slapshot that bounced past Eric Reid in the Marlboros goal.

Frank Mahovlich followed Hannigan's effort with two goals and two assists. Bob McKnight and defenceman Bob Watt scored the other Major goals.

Bob Nevin sparked the Marlboro attack with two goals and three assists. Bob Baun, Gary Collins, Harry Howe, Wally Boyer and Ken Girard notched single tallies for the Dukes.

The Majors started Pete Kelly in goal but after he had let in five goals in the first two periods, they switched to Don Keenan.

Belair Racing Interests May Remain Intact

NEW YORK (AP)—The famous Belair Stud, which has bred and raced many of the United States' greatest horses, including Nashua, will remain intact as a breeding interest if the executors of the estate of William Woodward Jr. accept the offer of Arthur B. Hancock Jr.

Woodward, who inherited the vast racing and breeding empire when his father died in 1953, was shot to death by his wife Oct. 30 when she said she mistook him for a prowler in their Long Island home.

"I have offered to take over the stallions and mares owned by Bill for 10 years until the oldest son (one 11) becomes of age," Hancock said today.

"Of course I can't take over the racing end of the business," Mr. Hancock, a close friend of Woodward and associate in the ownership of several stallions, including Narrullah, sire of Nashua. "But I have guaranteed the executors there will be no monetary loss in the operation of the stud and will turn it back to them as good as it is today."

"I have made this offer because I believe it same as famous as Belair should remain part of racing. Whether the executors will accept my proposition, I don't know, but if they don't I sure hope some way is found to keep Belair alive."

Horsemen estimated the value of the Belair racing and breeding interests, including the 2,500-acre farm at Bowie, Md., in excess of $2,000,000.

MAY HAVE BEATEN MARK

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Britain's Donald Campbell sent his jet-powered Bluebird "slightly over 300 miles an hour" late Wednesday but was balked by oncoming darkness from making an official try for a world speed boat record. The run on Lake Mead was not timed but the 34-year-old Briton said his gauge indicated the plus-200 mark "and we may brief moment I may have exceeded the record."

Indians Run Wild in 13-2 Win Flick Sparks Tribe With Six Goals

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stratford Indians' veteran line of Billy Flick, Mickey Redl and Ditsy Flanagan went wild Wednesday night.

The trio accumulated a total of 24 scoring points as Indians humiliated Chatham Maroons 13-2 in Hockey Association Senior A games of the night.

Flick, left winger on the line, fired six goals—five of them in the last period—and added two assists for eight points. Redl had one goal and seven assists and Flanagan also scored once and assisted on seven more.

Lloyd Fishpoter, Lou Bendo, Bobby Madeel, George Affleck and Art Hurst were the other Stratford scorers. Eric Unger scored both Chatham goals.

The win moved Indians into first place tie with the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the league standings.

Indians held a 3-1 lead after the first period and led 6-2 after two frames. Flanagan made it 7-2 at the 32-second mark of the last stanza and then Flick went to work. He scored four goals in six minutes. Hurst scored the 12th Stratford goal at 16:09 then Flick closed the scoring at 18:48.

Y Basketball Gets Under Way For Season

The Belleville YMCA has started its Basketball House Leagues for 1955-56 and has increased the leagues by one more than last year. The three leagues are 1: Juniors play Saturday afternoons, 28 participants, age 11 to 14. Youths play Tuesday evening, 14 participants, 14 to 18. Senior league Monday evening, 18 participants, 18 and up.

The first games of the Junior House League were held on November 6th and a good brand of ball was played by the youngsters. Results:

The Sad Skyrockets captained by Don Skinner squeezed out a 16 to 13 win over Don Whitfield's Gold Sharks. Whitfield led the pack with a total of 9 points.

The second game was a decisive win for Ralph Boomhower's Green Pirates as they defeated Brian Valcamp's Black Rascals by a fortune of 38 to 15. Boomhower led the field with 18 points followed closely by Brian Valcamp with 14 points.

The league is comprised of five teams with one team having a bye every fifth week.

The teams (points after name): Referees: Bill Dickey and Bob Skelly; timer and scorer, D. Valcamp and S. Mulrhead.

First game:

(1)—Golden Starlets — Don Whitfield 9; Don Devereaux 2; Bill Tryan; absent J. Calnan; Chris Kendall 9; Nelson Kenhead 2.

(2)—Green Pirates — Ralph Boomhower 18; John Sager 2; Doug Tulk 4; Alan Hilchon 6; Joey Clapp 2.

Second game:

(1)—Red Skyrockets — Donald Skinner absent; Tom Potter 6; Stew Mulrhead 4; John Peoples 6; Gary Moxam; Arthur Taylor; Jack Wilson.

(2)—Black Rascals — Brian Valcamp 8; Robert Ata 2 decline; Bill Burley; Charles Ruttan; Glen Kincaid.

The Belleville "Y" Senior Basketball League started Monday and an excellent brand of basketball was played in the two games. The league is formed of three teams, one team playing two games once every three weeks.

Roy Jeffery's "Galloping Ghosts" came through with a 72 to 35 victory over Bill Spiegel's "Crawlords," but in the second game his Galloping Ghosts bowed to defeat to Ted Batchelor's "Cyclones" to the tune of 46 to 60. In the first game Roy Jeffery was high scorer with 30 points, followed closely by an opponent, W. Hurrew, who scored 27 points. Ted Batchelor was high scorer in the second game with 38 points followed by his opposing captain, R. Jeffery, with 29 points.

The games were well refereed by Bill Gault and scorer Bill Dickey.

The teams:

"Galloping Ghosts" — R. Jeffery, captain, 30; C. Lancaster 14; Bill Cornell 14; E. Johnson 16; P. Zamnes 2.

"Crawlords" — S. Spiegel, captain, 16; W. Hurrew 27; R. Richards 10; Stan Albert 0; Steve Schwartz 2.

Second game:

"Galloping Ghosts" — R. Jeffery, captain, 19; C. Lancaster 0; B. Cornell 13; E. Johnson 8; P. Zamnes 6.

"Cyclones" — T. Batchelor, captain, 38; E. Sivilotti, 14; Joe Ginnberg; B. Lustic; K. Pappas; J. Wilson 8.

The Belleville "Y" Youth (14 to 18 years old) House League started Tuesday, November 8th, and two sizzling games were witnessed. Bill Dickey led his team-mates to two victories, scoring 54 points in the first game and 52 points in the second game. The opposing captains played fine games and Bob Elliott ably led team-mates, scoring 32 points. Captain Jack Calnan scored 28 points, followed closely by his team-mate Lawrence Packhurst who scored 24 points. A good brand of ball was played but more players are needed. If you are interested in playing in this league drop down to the "Y" next Tuesday night.

First game:

Team 1—Bill Dickey, captain, 54; Randy Evans 10; Dave Valcamp; Graham Fox.

Second game:

Team 2—Bob Elliott, captain, 32; Jim Green 4; Bill Skelly 18; Bruce Fox 4.

Team 2—Jack Calnan, captain, 25; Ron Foste 5; Ron McBride; Bob Booth; Art Rogers; Lawrence Parkhurst 24.

Cubs Acquire Three Players

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cubs of the Ontario Hockey Association announced Cubs on Wednesday night they have acquired two new defencemen and a centre.

Dick Wojcik, 18-year-old rearguard with Guelph Biltmores last year, has signed with the Cubs and is expected to play against Barrie Flyers here tonight. Wojcik's home is in London, Ont.

The second defenceman is Ed Ozweko, 18, member of the Galt Junior A team which folded this year. Ozweko, who lives in Guelph, hasn't yet decided whether he will play for Hamilton.

The Cubs' third player is Gerald Regin, left winger who attended the Hamilton training camp and later was sent to an affiliate team in Peterborough. Regin, 18, played juvenile hockey last season in Hearst, Ont.

Chicoutimi Ties With Montreal

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Del Topoll's goal with two minutes to go in the game gave Chicoutimi Saguenesens a 1-1 tie Wednesday night with Montreal Royals.

The tie moved Montreal one point ahead of Shawinigan Falls Cataracts in front of the Quebec Hockey League. Chicoutimi is three points behind the Cataracts in third place.

Monroe Deserts Hollywood, New York Her New Home

Editor's note: No film star in recent years has struck the nation's fancy with greater impact than Marilyn Monroe. In an exclusive interview, AP columnist Bob Thomas describes her present and future plans, plus the background of her cliff with her studio.

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Marilyn Monroe says she intends to be a permanent resident of New York, but Hollywood will claim her for occasional movies.

In a rare interview, she also disclosed:

1. That she considers herself free of her film contract:

2. That she is willing to return to work at 20th Century-Fox—under conditions:

3. That she doesn't insist on doing straight dramatic parts only.

The scene was the Edwardian suite of the Hotel Plaza. Marilyn came to breakfast, dressed in a black skirt, brown jersey top, tweed coat and a furry white tam atop her honey-blonde hair. Despite the flashbulbs and cameras, her entrance attracted the stares of others in the room.

TALKS MORE FREELY

She seemed to talk more freely than I ever heard her do in Hollywood. She was especially enthusiastic about New York.

"I love it here," she remarked. "I lived in California all my life; now I plan to stay here. The California climate is wonderful, but I want to see the seasons.

"I saw spring for the first time this year. It was beautiful. So is autumn."

Marilyn came to New York a year ago, following her divorce from Joe Dimaggio. She announced plans to study dramatics here and produce pictures for her own company. Her studio declared that she is still under contract and has sought her return.

VARIETY OF ROLES

Discussing her return to work, a matter in which 20th-Fox is expected to participate:

"I'm willing to go back to work —as long as I can get what I want," she said. "It's the same thing I've always wanted. I want to work with good directors ones I can learn from. I want a variety of roles-in good stories. And I want to make pictures for my own company."

She reported that h er own company is negotiating for a story to film. But is she free to work?

"I have no comment," she said flatly. "There are good reasons why my contract with Fox is not valid."

The studio doesn't see it her way, and the matter is up to the courts.

ON HER TERMS

She is being asked to return to the studio for "Bus Stop." She said she'd like to do the role—if she gets her terms.

"I hear that somebody printed I would be returning in the same kind of role," she said. "That's not true. The girl in 'Bus Stop' is entirely different. I'd love to do it, because you know I really want to do dramatic roles. I've never said that. I like to do comedies and musicals—but they are good ones. I also want to prove that I can act."

All negotiations with the studio are handled by her agents, she said. Meanwhile she seems to show no impatience about returning to Hollywood. She's too busy learning dramatics and enjoying the New York life.

More Players Go on Block For Taxes

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The federal tax collector said Wednesday he has acquired two more Richmond Virginians he plans to sell along with 18 others Nov. 21 to satisfy his $79,218.68 tax claim against the class AAA International League baseball club.

The two players are Allan Richter, a shortstop obtained from St. Louis Cardinals, who has been with the Rochester team for two seasons, and George D. Lewis, a first baseman purchased several weeks ago from Fitchburg, Mass.

Along with the 20 players, the internal revenue service is prepared to sell to the highest bidder the club's International League franchise and its playing equipment. The auction has been set for Nov. 14 at Parker Field, home grounds of the Virginians.

Rough Riders Will Operate Next Season

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Football Club can look to operate its Big Four football franchise again next year despite a big deficit now carried by the team that cup its 1955 season in the league cellar. The decision was made Wednesday night at a lengthy special meeting of club directors, president Gen Gill said.

"The question of a coach has been deferred to a later meeting," he added. "A meeting will likely be held within a week or two."

Rough Rider coach Chan Caldwell attended part of the meeting, but his comment after it were brief: "All I know is that I have a two-year contract that runs out in February, 1957. I'm happy to hear the club will be operating next season."

No figures were announced of the club's deficit, but financial reports look up a large part of the meeting. However, the deficit was understood to be well into the neighborhood of $45,000.

"The feeling was that with a few additions here and there the Riders would be able to field a strong team next season," Gill said.

Major Hollywood Studios Improving Their TV Film Fare

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—It seems to me there's a slow but steady improvement in the quality of films the big Hollywood studios are turning out for television.

The major Hollywood appeared to feel that television was still a bogey. Finally, however, it recognized that the ghost had substance.

For a time there was one of those vacant-minded arguments if people saw the best that Hollywood could do on their TV sets, would they bother to go and see the best in a movie theatre? As a result, it sometimes seemed that the studios were giving not even of their second-best to only of their third-best on television.

Now, I believe, the tide has turned.

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

There still is a good deal of self-conscious self-adulation by Hollywood on television, but there is improved film interteinment. To wit:

Warner Brothers has buckled down and is turning out better movies on its ABC-TV show, Twentieth Century Fox, which makes televised versions of past movie successes, has struck a high level of entertainment on its program which appears on alternate Wednesdays on CBS-TV.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has made improvements on its program of excerpts from past film hits and new films coming on ABC-TV—but I have not yet heard the lion really roar.

Robert M. Wellman, vice-president in charge of television programming for ABC, is a great believer in what the motion picture industry is doing on television.

"They have to be good," he says, "because the public demands it."

Every Sunday evening on CBS TV, "Famous Film Festival" brings a good British movie to the television audience. Many have been top drawer items which Hollywood should view with interest—if not necessarily with alarm.

Maybe some day we'll be hearing of a new feature-length film never shown in movie theatres coming to the TV audience from Hollywood.

Hornets Sting Hershey 7-5

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Even the bat trick doesn't help Hershey Bears these days in the American Hockey League.

Stan Parker rammed three goals home for the Bears Wednesday night, but Pittsburgh Hornets still came off with a 7-5 victory.

It was the only game scheduled and pulled the Hornets within two points of second-place Buffalo and three behind first-place Providence. The Bears, in last place, now have won only two of 13.

Parker made his third goal an unassisted score to tie the count at 5-5 midway through the third period. But Jack Caffrey and Parker Mcmillan then wrapped it up for the Hornets.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, Nov. 11, 1955

March 21 to April 20—(Aries) — Some restrictions. Don't overindulge pleasures or go to extremes.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — The Sun in the only planet in auspicious aspects. This augurs well for worthwhile activities, home and family matters.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Neither exciting nor dull prospects. It's up to you, your obligations (and the state of your health) how you carry out your program. Be serene, cheerfully cooperative as you should.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon's position today suggests forgetting grievances, personal annoyances, etc. Proceed cheerfully.

July 23 to August 22 (Leo) — Your are specially honored on this stimulating day. Matters beneficial to the majority of people rather than just the few are top favored.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Mild influences mostly. A good day for receiving, noting where improvements can be made, for quiet rest and relaxation in leisure hours.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Friendly vibrations from yesterday's Venus aspect and today's Sun position help to encourage more vigorous action than you may feel like taking, but all wholesome activity will prove rewarding.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Your Mars stresses a need for calmness, patience and good humor now. Some things, some people could irritate, but you don't want that. You can succeed in your program if you keep smiling.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — This day may seem slow at the start but the influences grow better and tomorrow is most promising. So plan and work with renewed vigor. But don't overdo today, that's all.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — You can have a steady, pleasant and prosperous day if you don't worry or try to do too much. Moderation and good humor can be big aids now. Laborious work, hard tasks favored.

January 22 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — If strenuous activities are a "must," keep your inner self calm. Don't let a few minor disappointments or retarding influences keep you from achieving high aims. Be reasonable, too.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — A goodly share of friendly influences in your favor now. Make the most of opportunities, advantages, but don't go to extremes in anything and you will have a happier day.

You born today have a good heritage; are bright, edgag ng, capable of learning a great deal and doing much good with that knowledge. You can succeed in any endeavor to which you seriously apply yourself and you should earnestly control any tendency toward procrastination. Keep your happier side always to the front. When opposed, annoyed, say a silent prayer and carry on in your innately efficient, intelligent way. You can accomplish truly big things. Birthdater: Thos. B. Aldrich, author; Maude Adams, famed actress.

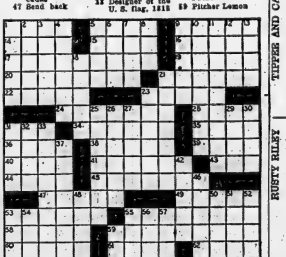
You Was Laid Up With RHEUMATIC PAIN



I had been afflicted with rheumatic aches over since I was a girl," writes Mrs. F. Rose, Schirk, Man. "Four years ago I was so crippled I could hardly get out of bed and walked around on crutches. Then Templeton's T-R-C's. Soon after I started taking T-R-C's I was able to get out of bed, and walk about and do my work. I only wish I had learned about T-R-C's years ago, for I feel they would have saved me a great deal of suffering." This welcome relief from nagging pain can be yours. Don't suffer another day from Rheumatic, Arthritic, Sciatic or Neuritic pain. Get Templeton's T-R-C's—Canada's LARGEST-SELLING proprietary medicine for quick relief from pain—today! BAGS BIG DEER

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP)—The Nova Scotia lands and forests department says Walter Pettipas of nearby Pictou Landing has bagged the largest deer ever reported in the province. It weighed 310 pounds and had 17-point antlers, chief forest ranger Lawrence James said Wednesday. He did the weighing and counting.

DEMANDS APPEAL

BOMBAY (AP)—The Indian high court at Nagpur Wednesday dismissed an appeal by sickshaw puller Babu Rao against a six-year jail sentence for attempting to assassinate Prime Minister Nehru last March. The court said new evidence was produced to "minimize the diabolical nature of the outrage."

Tired, Draggy, Worn-Out, Full of Aches and Pains

This Woman Tells of Grand Results She Got by Taking Syntona.

"I suffered with stomach upset and constipation and my entire system became rundown," said Mrs. Eleanor Farris, 103½ Briscoe Street, London, Ontario, in a recent statement.

Almost everything I ate gave me large quantities of gas and I severely bloated feeling. I would get bad attacks of headaches, sometimes dizzy spells and I was always tired, draggy and worn-out and full of aches and pains. I would often get headaches.

MRS. ELEANOR FARRIS

Thousands of men and women rely on Syntona for relief from the discomforts of the stomach, intestines, liver and bowels. Syntona is a tonic laxative which helps to restore the natural organic system, it aids in the elimination of harmful waste matter from the system, promoting a generally improved feeling.

So Much Better Now!

"A few weeks ago I decided to try Syntona after reading about it having my other people, and it is almost unbelievable how much better I feel now. I no longer bother with gas, I eat better and have no distress afterwards. I have no more attacks of dizziness, headaches and backache. All the aches and pains are relieved, and I don't feel tired and worn-out as I did before."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan's Drug Store.

Army Seizes Control Of Brazilian Govt.

Navy, Air Force Backing Ousted President Luz

Bloodless Coup Is Staged But Rio de Janeiro Is Tense

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The Brazilian army under Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott seized the government and ousted provisional President Carlos Coimbra da Luz in a bloodless coup today.

Teixeira Lott called on the navy and air force to support the uprising, but they were reported to have refused, saying they would back Luz as temporary president.

At mid-morning the capital continued calm, but an air of tension was reported in political circles.

The coup was carried out so quietly that most residents of Rio de Janeiro did not even know it was happening.

A special session of Congress was called to decide who would assume the presidency.

Luz, former president of the House of Deputies, took over as temporary president only last Tuesday.

Only Thursday night Lott, who had been holding the 11th down in army elements who wanted to prevent the inauguration of president-elect Juscelino Kubitschek, had resigned as war minister in a dispute with Luz.

ELECTED LAST MONTH

Foes of Kubitschek considered him the political heir of the late president Getulio Vargas, who committed suicide last year after a coup by some elements of the armed services.

Kubitschek was elected president in last month's balloting. He and Luz both belong to the Social Democratic party, but Luz was a member of a different party faction which opposed Kubitschek in the election.

Italy Will Ban Sale of Vampire Jets to Egypt

ROME (AP)—Italy announced today it will refuse export licences for 30 Vampire jet fighter planes which Egypt has ordered from a private Italian manufacturer.

An Italian foreign office spokesman, announcing this, said he had no knowledge of the order or of 15 Italian-built Vampire jets delivered earlier this year to Egypt.

Nevertheless, Associated Press correspondents said separate confirmation of the two jet deals from responsible officials of three separate interested governments.

Terrorists Flee Algerian Jail

CONSTANTINE, Algeria (Reuters)—Police combed the Constantine area today for 41 Algerian terrorists who broke out of prison here Thursday night while under sentence of death.

They included the notorious Mustapha Ben Boulaid, leader of last November's rebellion in the Aures Mountains, outbreak of civil strife plaguing down 120,000 French troops.

Troops moved in today and French authorities clamped down on a security blackout on all news of the escape. All cars were searched and all Arabs were being checked for identity.

Relieves Cardinal Of Bishopric Duties

SEVILLE, Spain (AP) — Pope Pius has relieved Pedro Cardinal Segura y Saenz of all duties within the Seville archbishopric, authoritative sources said Thursday.

A papal bull transferred responsibilities of the archbishopric from the cardinal, a 79-year-old stormy petrel of Spanish politics, to Archbishop-Coadjutor Jose Maria Bueno y Monreal, apostolic administrator of the Holy See.

NEWS EDITOR DIES

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Edgar Telford Dies, 58, Associated Press executive news editor of The Associated Press, died Thursday night. Dies was divisional news editor for the news service in San Francisco and Chicago before he became director, top chief of the AP news report. He retired some years ago.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synoptic: A complex system of discontinuous stretches from northern Ontario into Wisconsin this morning. It will move slowly eastward today and by Saturday will be lying over Ontario. As a result mostly cloudy skies will prevail over the province and a few showers can be expected. The cold mass of air which moved through Manitoba during the week will cover northern Ontario Saturday morning and will threaten southern regions with the first real blast of winter.

SUSPECT BOMB AS BLAST WRECKS HAMILTON HOME

Six Escape Injury As Neighborhood Rocks

HAMILTON (CP)—An explosion that could be heard for blocks around, shattered windows and a door in a combined store and house here early this morning.

Police believe some sort of bomb may have been tossed either through the window or against the back door of the building, owned by Joseph Randazzo who lives upstairs with his wife and family.

The explosion tore apart a heavy wooden door and demolished the lower part of the back stairway.

Mr. and Mrs. Randazzo, their 16-year-old son Anthony and 20-year-old daughter Vera were asleep when the explosion rocked the house.

Also sleeping in the house were the Randazzo's niece, 19-year-old Josephine and Mrs. Randazzo's 78-year-old uncle, Alphonso Tulumello.

SMELL OF EXPLOSIVES

People from blocks around were awakened by the explosion and rushed to the scene in their night clothes.

Mr. Randazzo, who told police he has lived in Hamilton for 30 44 years, said he had no idea what could have caused the explosion. "I thought at first that the furnace had blown up," he said.

There was a distinct smell of explosives around the immediate area, police said.

Gives Self Up In Texas For Ottawa Robbery

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A slim, soft-spoken Canadian walked into police headquarters today and said he committed a $3,000 payroll robbery in Ottawa last August.

Police identified him as Driscoll, 23, told detective F. P. McDade, "I'm wanted in Canada and I want to get it over with."

Driscoll, a former police officer in Ottawa, said he came to Houston in an unsuccessful search for work.

He added I had caused my family enough trouble and I want to get it off my chest." He told police that his wife and parents still are in Canada.

Driscoll said he joined the Ottawa police force in 1953 after serving four years in the Canadian army, including 18 months in Korea. He said he resigned from his police job last December.

ABANDONED HALF

Driscoll said he was out of work and in debt when he robbed a payroll messenger for the Bruce Coal Company in Ottawa Aug. 10. He said the loot totalled about $5,000 but that he abandoned all but about $2,000 in a washroom while he was fleeing pursuers. The rest, he said, was used to pay bills.

Fire Leaves 11 Homeless

PORT PERRY, Ont. (CP) A family of 11 was left homeless Thursday when fire destroyed their 22-room frame farm house at nearby Utica.

Andrew Popoyomaz, his wife, mother-in-law and eight children escaped but because of a lack of water, firemen were unable to control the flames.

They blamed the blaze on an overheated stove pipe.

The family is 35 miles northeast of Toronto.

Blizzard Halts RCAF Mercy Flight Carrying Food to Isolated Indians

WINNIPEG (CP)—Near-blizzard conditions over northern Lake Winnipeg today forced postponement of a 200-mile flight by an RCAF C-119 to drop 10,000 pounds of food to a band of Indians at the Poplar river reserve.

The plane was scheduled to pick up the food at Winnipeg's Stevenson field and take it to the reserve on the east shore of Lake Winnipeg. The Indians are isolated by the winter freeze-up.

Snow and blowing snow and winds up to 30 miles an hour were forecast for the area today. Temperatures in the area and the same conditions are predicted for Saturday, with the temperature dropping to near zero.

All three services are involved in the food drop, with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Lac La Ronge; Leader of Pendleton, Ont., as pilot; the RCAF's FO Al Sather of Wanham, Alta., as co-pilot; and the army's Capt. Lorne Gemmill of Ottawa, officer in charge of the dropping of the food packages.

Two plans have been set up for the drop. In the first, an army helicopter would fly to Poplar river to prepare drop site and later collect the parachuted food packages dropped by the C-119. The other plan was to have I. A. Worobetz, school teacher and only white man at the reserve, mark the para-chutes as they drifted without any pre-arranged drop site.

General's Daughter Reveals Ryerson Library Abduction

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today they are investigating a complaint by Ruth Simonds, 22-year-old daughter of Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, retired Canadian Army chief of staff, that a man made her accompany him to her room last Friday.

Police said she told them the man stayed in her room for two hours and then left, after assaulting her purse.

The incident followed a scuffle at the Ryerson Institute library where, Miss Simonds said, she had detected the man apparently trying to steal some money.

Miss Simonds, who works evenings as a library assistant at the school, told police the man followed the back room of the library last Friday evening and "put his hand in the box where the money for overdue books is kept."

Then he came around the end of the desk, put his hand over my mouth and grabbed me from behind.

"I bit him and he knocked me down to the floor, telling me not to yell as he had a gun, so I stopped."

She said the man then forced her to accompany him to her home in Rosedale. They walked through a back lane from the school to the subway station on downtown Dundas street, took the subway to the Rosedale station and walked to her rooming house.

Miss Simonds said she made coffee for the two of them in the downstairs kitchen of the rooming house and then went up to her third floor room to drink it.

She said that at 11 p. m. she asked him to leave and that he ransacked her purse and took her address and telephone number. He did not touch $22 she had in the purse.

Then he left, after warning her not to call police.

Inspector Medcalfe said Miss Simonds was asked why she didn't ask for help on the subway or at the rooming house, she replied that she was scared.

Crash Kills 3 Near Winona; One Dead 2 Hurt in London

WINONA (CP)—Three residents of Niagara Falls, Ont., were killed early today when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a passenger train at a level crossing.

Dead are: Mrs. Laurette Smith, 44, Bonnie Taylor, 11, and Tommy Taylor, 10.

Two other persons, Mrs. Myrtle Taylor, mother of the two children killed, and a third child, Robert, five, escaped with minor injuries. Mrs. Taylor, clutching Robert, leaped from the auto, seconds before it was smashed by the Canadian National Railways train.

Mrs. Taylor and her youngest son were released from a Hamilton hospital after treatment for shock.

Winona is 12 miles west of Hamilton.

Police were unable to question Mrs. Taylor, who is suffering severe shock and is being treated in Hamilton General Hospital.

The small English car was demolished by the impact when it hit the passenger train up for about an hour and a half.

Robert Taylor, 5, told police they had been visiting in Hamilton and were on their way back to Niagara Falls when the accident occurred.

Witnesses estimated their speed at 60 miles an hour when the accident occurred. The crew of the extra passenger train No. 6237 were A. Teskey, Sarnia, conductor; and fireman Robert Stacey, Glencoe.

Dr. C. R. Kemp, coroner, assisted by Dr. E. B. Janack, pronounced the three victims dead at the scene.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—One man was killed and two others seriously injured early today when their car rolled a curve on a Western road and smashed into a tree near Delaware.

In another accident here seven persons were injured when their car collided with a Canadian National provincial police at 100 m. p. h. on a cut-off road near Ilderton.

Dead is 21-year-old Hans Strauss, of London. He died instantly in the crash.

Injured in the same accident were Bruce Baragar, 25, and Tom Reid, 26, of London.

Police said the car missed a curve in the winding road before it left the road.

Near Ilderton, seven Indians were injured when their car crashed into the bush after skidding some 400 feet.

In hospital are Elias Henry, 35, of Middlemiss; Laura Seneca, 35, of Muncey, and Christine Seneca, 6. Four other children of the Indian woman were treated for minor injuries and released.

Ike Leaves Denver Hospital, For Warm Welcome at Capital

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower left hospital today, seven weeks after suffering a coronary, and took off for Washington by plane after expressing his "eternal gratitude" to all who aided him during his illness.

Speaking from the ramp of the presidential plane, Columbine III, in an easy, damp drizzle, President Eisenhower said the misfortune of his illness had made him aware "of how good people are."

He expressed appreciation too, for the "messages of friendship" and to the people around the world who had "sent up their prayers" for his recovery when he was stricken seven weeks ago.

A crowd of several thousand persons turned out to bid farewell to the beaming president along the six-mile drive from the hospital to the air strip at Lowry air force base.

In Washington, a warm welcome awaits him—after an absence of nearly three months.

It will be many weeks before doctors can say whether there will be complete recovery. And few among his close friends expect that he will say whether he will run again until he can speak as a well man. Some of them say it may be as late as spring before he gives the word to his party.

Geneva Parley Will Conclude Next Wednesday

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers conference decided in a closed session today to adjourn the Geneva parley with a final meeting Wednesday.

The American delegation issued this formal statement:

"The ministers, in their private meeting this afternoon, bearing in mind their agreement at New York that the conference would last three weeks, agreed to organize their work here so that the conference could finish its work on Wednesday."

The conference so far has been notable mainly for the evidence it has given that Soviet foreign policy tactics have taken the most significant shift since the death of Stalin more than two years ago, American sources say.

END STATE TRADING

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons Thursday night endorsed by 103 votes to 54 a decision to end the present system of state trading in sugar and return it to private enterprise.

PINAY WILL SEEK NEW SETTLEMENT OF SAAR ISSUE

French Leader Going To Germany at Weekend

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

GENEVA (AP) — France's Foreign Minister Pinay goes to Germany this weekend in quest of a new settlement of the Saar issue which could open the gates to a new campaign for German-French unity.

Significantly, Pinay's visit comes on the heels of Foreign Minister Molotov's Russian blast at German reunification at the foreign ministers Big Four conference here.

The dispute over the Saar has repeatedly poisoned relations between Paris and Bonn, and touched any real progress toward a broader move toward west European integration.

The proposed scheme for "Europeanization" of the Saar, which was intended as a settlement of these differences, was rejected by the Saarlanders themselves by a 2-to-1 margin in a plebiscite last month.

Since then the problem has been left on the shelf in the expectation that the Geneva conference might produce some agreement on German unity and thus change the perspective of the Saar question.

This hope was torpedoed by Molotov when he made clear that the Soviet Union will not at this stage agree to a unification of East and West Germany in the near future except at the sway of communism.

French and German leaders now are reverting to the belief that the best way to obtain German unification is to establish a "pole of attraction" in the West based on a prosperous and unified European economy.

Pinay's conferences in Bonn are designed to explore any alternatives to the rejected "Europeanization" plan in the Saar.

Prostitution Racket Charged

MONTREAL (CP)—Details of an alleged scheme to lure Montreal women into prostitution in St. John's, Nfld., were revealed by an attractive city policewoman in court Thursday.

The witness, constable Regina Quigley, said she had been offered police protection and high payments to make sure she kept quiet on "how well you please men."

She was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Germain Plante, 35-year-old former resident of Ville Emard, who faces a charge of St. John's, Miss Plante is charged with 1 fact in procuring a woman to commit morals offences.

Judge Willie Proulx ordered the accused held before the Court of Queen's Bench.

FIRE AT GALT

GALT (CP) — Fire Thursday caused about $25,000 damage to the two-storey plant of the Dayson Rubber Company here.

Firemen said the flames damaged one department in the factory after a small explosion blew out windows. No one was injured.

Cache Of Heroin Worth Ten Million Seized At Montreal

30-Pound Shipment Is Found Hidden Aboard French Ship

MONTREAL (CP)—A cache of heroin, valued at some $10,000,000 by RCMP officials, was seized Thursday night aboard the French Line's St. Malo.

The 30-pound shipment was discovered in the ceiling of one of the ship's cabins. One man, the first man aboard the vessel, was taken into custody.

The value placed on the heroin by RCMP officials was the amount they believed it would have sold for on the illegal narcotics market.

The heroin was found after a two-day search that started at Father Point, Que. Two hundred and fifty underworld bottles of liquor were found aboard the vessel Thursday and the ship's owners were fined $400. Two crewmen were fined a total of $200 in connection with the seizure.

BIGGEST EVER

RCMP officials said there is no doubt the narcotics seizure is the largest ever made in North America. They were checking the possibility that the shipment may be connected with a cache of 18 pounds of heroin found aboard a sister vessel, the St. Lo, earlier this fall.

RCMP spokesmen said Robert Blanchi Maliverno, 30, one of the two men fined in the liquor seizure, also has been arrested in connection with the narcotics find.

Two United States government agencies—the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and the treasury office—took part in the raid. Although the search for contraband continued from the time the ship was boarded at Father Point, it wasn't until she berthed in Montreal that the heroin was discovered.

Two RCMP officers, making a check of a cabin occupied by several crew members, noticed strange marks on the ceiling. They ripped away the boards and came upon the 14 one-kilogram bags wrapped in cellophane and containing the heroin.

LIQUOR WAS DECOY

They said they believed the undeclared liquor discovered Wednesday was a decoy to steer them from finding officials away from the heroin.

They said the shipment was "in typical smugglers' fashion," each bag having a number stamped on it.

The RCMP cruiser Fort Pitt followed the St. Malo upriver from Father Point, "to make sure nothing was heaved overboard during the night."

Police spokesmen estimated it would take some 20,000 pounds of heroin to make even the 30 pounds of heroin, an opium derivative.

The St. Malo left Bordeaux, France for Canada Oct. 20.

Miner Dies

STANSBURY, Wyo. (AP) — Rescue workers Thursday night found crushed to death one of three miners trapped in a cavein in the Union Pacific Coal Co.'s mine here. The body of John Nesbitt, 43-year-old mine foreman, was within a few yards of where Louis Julio, 38, was rescued two hours earlier. The third man, George Chanchar, 54, still was missing this morning somewhere in the shaft.

50-Cent, Hand-Cranked Phonograph Is Answer to Red Radio Jamming

NEW YORK (AP) — A new 50-cent gadget, practically a toy, was demonstrated Thursday as the World's latest answer to Iron Curtain radio jamming.

It is a rugged, hand-operated phonograph. David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, said it can be distributed by air drop and is so simple that even children can figure out how to play it. Records, costing about five cents each, can be "dropped from the sky like leaflets," he added.

Sarnoff said the phonograph can be manufactured at a cost of 50 cents or less, maybe even 20 cents in quantity. He demonstrated one at the Overseas Press Club Thursday.

Sarnoff called the device the answer to the need for a message carrier that cannot be blocked by radio jamming or the absence of electricity. The phonograph is made of the unbreakable plastic. It weighs 19 ounces, including cardboard container, and can be carried by balloons.

Cancer Dies in Cabin In Bancroft Area

BANCROFT, (Special)—Death marred an international hunting party's quest for deer near here Thursday when an American hunter slumped to the floor in a hunting cabin and passed away. Death was said to have resulted from natural causes.

Frank Drahos, Cleveland, Ohio, with three American and two Canadian friends was in the hunting cabin three miles west of Boulter when he suddenly slid to the floor. Immediate help was summoned but Drahos was dead when it arrived.

With Mr. Drahos were Joseph Rashi, Akron, Ohio; Gerald Hollow Rettig, all of Cleveland, O., and Dave Smith and his son, Dennis, of Boulter.

Coroner Dr. O. W. Anderson following investigation of the causes of death stated that no inquest would be held.

Lights Match, Trailer Home Goes 'Boom'

BRANTFORD (CP)—Scott Byre, 49, lit a match Thursday in his trailer home at nearby Norwich and blew the trailer to bits.

Byre suffered severe burns to his body and hands, and his hair was burned off. His condition today was described as satisfactory.

Byre, living alone in the trailer, had been using propane for cooking, police said, but the exact cause of the blast has not been determined.

Offer $25,000 Reward in Probe Of Plane Crash

CHICAGO (AP) — United Air Lines Thursday offered a $25,000 reward "for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible" for the crash of a DC-6 airliner near Longmont, Colo., 19 days ago.

Forty-four persons died in the crash.

The reward announcement did not specify whether the company suspected an explosive.

WINS COURT AWARD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A pretty waitress, Jeanne Carver, 23, testified she says, she was impaled on a mattress spring. A jury awarded Virginia Maechtlein, 29, that sum in damages after she testified Thursday that the spring cut her back, necessitating surgery. She had sued the mattress company for $10,000.

RETURNS TO BELLEVILLE

MAJOR ARNOLD BROWN

Returning to his home town after left it 21 years ago to join the Salvation Army, is Major Arnold Brown, now a leading figure in the corps' work in Canada.

Together with Mrs. Brown he will address morning and evening services in the local citadel here next Sunday.

Born in England, Major Brown entered the Army's training college in Belleville in 1934, and now is responsible for all publicity of the Salvation Army's work in Canada as national publicity representative for the corps.

Major Brown also is known as a bandmaster, composer and arranger and has assisted in establishment of music camps in Canada and the U.S.

He married his wife in 1939 and they have two daughters.

30-Pound Fish Not a 'Muskie' As Season Closed

This sort of thing takes beating —and baiting — any time of the year.

When it happens in November it also needs taking with a pinch of salt.

Observed last night by an Intelligencer party near the south side of city hall was a little group of persons who must remain anonymous. They were holding a fish. But what made the party an interesting party to watch was the fact one of the group was holding a fish about four feet long and weighing an estimated 30 pounds.

The interested party is certain this piscatorial prize was a muskie.

However, when it was pointed out that muskies are a little out of season he was certain it could be a pike or a pickerel, but then it did look like a muskie.

If the anonymous possessor of the muskie (or pike or pickerel, since muskies are out of season) reads this we would like to quality an above statement.

If it is a 30-lb. muskie, mister, don't mind what we say about taking it with a stroke of an axe.

A dash of lemon goes down better with musk . . . er, fish, any day.

Obituary

MRS. ALBERT COCKERHAM (Deserved)

The funeral of Mrs. Elisabeth Cockerham, who died November 7th at her home, Brant St., Deseronto, was held from the White Funeral Home, Deseronto, Thursday, November 10th.

Interment was in Deseronto cemetery. Officiating clergyman was Mr. C. S. Peitra, Kingston. Pallbearers were Mr. Cockerham, Rev. T. F. Townsend, Belleville, and the prayers at the graveside were conducted by A. J. Brim, Percy Stover, Oscar Pitchett, Ed. Roach, Lauriel Clement and Robert Bell.

Mrs. Cockerham was in her 78th year. Born in Lancashire, England, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Forshaw, she had been a resident in Deseronto for the past 14 years, coming there from Kingston. She was a member of the Church of England. Her death ended an illness that lasted for a year.

Besides her husband, Albert, Mrs. Cockerham leaves two sons, Albert, Jr., of Hamilton, Ont., and Edward, of Deseronto.

Also surviving is one sister, Mrs. M. E. Earnshaw, Manchester, England.

LATE KENNETH KLEINSTEUBER

The funeral of Kenneth Klein-steuber, of Plainfield, who died November 3rd, after injuries received in a train-car collision at Carrying Place, was held from Trest Church on Thursday afternoon.

Service was held by St. John's United Church, where the funeral arrived from the Sulphide residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mrs. Francis Kleinsteuber.

Rev. W. H. Hall assisted by Rev. R. Middleton, officiated at the service. Interment was in Victoria cemetery, Trest.

Bearers were: Ken Credicott, Frank Mayers, Ken Castles, Ralph Wilder, John Gow and Garnet Denyes.

LATE CARRIE HAZEL REID

The funeral of Carrie Hazel Reid took place Thursday afternoon from her residence at Ivanhoe to Bethesda church at White Lake, where service was held by Rev. George Teskey, of Ivanhoe. Interment was in Bethesda cemetery. The funeral was under the direction of the Thomas Funeral Home of Belleville.

The bearers were: Stanley Frost, Thomas Hinchey, Stanley Wood, Earl McMaster, Percy Cooney and Wallace Fleming.

MRS. JOHN CULLEN (Lonsdale)

Resident in Lonsdale all her life, Mrs. John Cullen died in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, Friday afternoon, 11th, in her 85th year. She died suddenly.

Mrs. Cullen was born in Lonsdale, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Murphy. Well-known and highly respected in the community, she also was active in church work as a member of the Holy Name of Mary church at Marysville, she belonged to the Catholic Women's League and to the League of the Sacred Heart.

Besides her husband, John Cullen, she leaves two daughters and two sons; Sister Mary St. Rose, of Carleton Place; Mrs. Joseph (Agnes) Tracey of Deseronto; Thomas, of Lonsdale and Joseph of Kingston.

Also surviving are two brothers, James Murphy, of Shannonville; Patrick, of Napanee, and one sister, Mrs. James Brennan, also of Napanee.

She is resting at her late residence. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. THOMAS NAYLOR

Resident in Belleville for the past 45 years, Mrs. Louisa Elizabeth Naylor, 40 Baldwin St., died suddenly at her home this morning. She was her 80th year.

Mrs. Naylor had been a member of the Salvation Army for nearly 50 years and was well known for her active contribution to the work of the corps in this district. Much of her life was taken up in work for the Army. She was a Sunday School teacher and treasurer of the Home League of the Salvation Army for 25 years. During World War II she spent much time knitting for servicemen.

Born in Kent, England, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Nicholls, she first arrived in Canada at Smiths Falls, coming from there to Belleville. Her husband, Thomas Naylor, predeceased her some years ago.

Mrs. Naylor leaves one son, Eric Charles, at home.

Also surviving are one sister and three brothers, Mrs. H. Hales of Belleville, William and Charles Nicholls, both of Toronto, and Ernest, of Kingston.

She is resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police had an exceptionally quiet night with only routine matters being brought to their attention.

City police reported two minor accidents, with a dozen panes of glass were found broken out of Ellis & Son lumber warehouse and office on South Front Street. A street lamp on George St. was broken, presumably the work of boys.

A female store worker complained of tar spattering her white uniform while working at East Bridge St. The tar had apparently fallen from a roof under repair.

Cook Tobacco Store Moves Over Weekend

A familiar Front Street business landmark will be missing from the old stand Monday morning—but its large clientele won't have far to look for the new location.

Bill Cook's well-known tobacco store which has seen nearly 27 summers pass at its site at 223 Front Street, will move lock, stock and barrel, including "Scotty", to its new premises at 211A Front Street a few yards down the street.

It will be like leaving "home" for Mr. Cook and his staff most of whom have been associated with him for a number of years. After all, 27 years is a long time for any business and the old site has seen a humble Cook start in 1928 to flourishing concern over the years.

Mr. Cook expects to start moving operations Saturday evening so that the new premises will be all set and ready for bright and early Monday morning.

Much expansion has taken place since that day 27 years ago when Bill Cook and his assistant Dick and Bill Beare first opened the doors of their new business at 223 Front Street. The Beare brothers along with Mrs. Beare Sr. were "the boss" are "charter" members of the organization. From the new location, Mr. Cook has mushroomed into 18.

Tobacco business has flourished over the years and today it boasts besides retail store here, a wholesale business in Trenton. Another wholesale outlet was opened in Peterborough a few years ago. The business covers a wide area of the district with two trucks in Belleville and Trenton city, besides four automobiles. Its staff consists of retail clerks, wholesale members and city and district salesmen.

Besides the "charter" members, a large number of the staff have been associated with Mr. Cook for a large number of years.

Longest in years of service is "Scotty" who is the official polisher of shoes for 21 years. George Gay has a total of 17 years while Lorne Burke and Vern McKnight boast 13 years. Roy Guilford has been counter for 11 years while Cliff Ouderkirk has ten years' service. Tom Barrett has seen five years' service while Jean Bradshaw, stenographer and Lyall Hebert have been with Mr. Cook for the past three years.

Local Scouts Receive Awards For Heroism

Rescue efforts on the part of a former Belleville Scout and now a Stirling Boy Scout are being recognized by the Boy Scouts' Association.

Thomas Lyons Seymour, 11, of Kingston, formerly of Stirling, will receive the Silver Cross for rescuing Freddy and Mary Joyce of Belleville from drowning in the Bay of Quinte in June of 1954.

The three boys were swimming to a raft in the Bay of Quinte at Rossmore when the Joyce boys got into difficulty. They were brought ashore by the Seymour boy. Thomas is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gardner of this city.

John Kenneth Ray of Stirling will receive the Gilt Cross for rescuing Michael Long, also of Stirling, from Oak Lake a year ago. John attended the Canada Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake last summer.

The two boys will receive their crosses from Governor-General Vincent Massey at a special Government House investiture on December 1.

Suburban Planning Board's Approval Required Before City Zoning Changes Made

The importance of suburban planning boards in working out long term plans for the proper development of growing municipalities was outlined Thursday by representatives of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development at a special meeting held at city hall.

Arranged by Alderman Bram Humphreys as chairman of the city planning and housing committee, the meeting was attended by representatives of Belleville, the meeting was attended by half a dozen city councillors, along with members of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board. Department officials attending were C. Hidaka, Martin Sinclair and Norman Keefer.

Specifically the meeting was called to obtain information on the correct procedure to be followed when considering a government approval for proposed changes in its zoning by-law. The suburban Planning Board has wide range of topics relative to the city and suburban planning.

NEED BOARD'S APPROVAL

Mr. Hidaka said that as the Belleville Suburban Planning Board was officially recognized by its department, any proposed changes in the by-laws should first be approved by the local suburban planning board.

The reason for this was that changes in zoning could affect the entire planning area and the long range view must be kept in mind. Generally speaking, however, the suburban planning board would have a better opportunity than would council to study the long range viewpoint.

SEEKING 9 CHANGES

Currently the city is seeking three minor changes in its zoning by-law.

Changes proposed are: 1, East side of Cannifton Road between Memorial Park and the C.N.R. crossing, from residential to commercial; 2, Portion of one lot on the west side of South Front, from residential to commercial; 3, West side of South Front, from industrial to commercial.

The proposed changes were forwarded by city council to Toronto for approval, but have been considered by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board. The department has now asked for the feeling of the suburban planning board on the proposed changes.

MAYOR OBJECTS

Mayor J. Both took exception to the requirement that proposed changes in the city by-law be submitted to the suburban planning board for approval.

"We already have a city planning committee appointed to carry out the wishes of the city," he said. "It is absurd to suggest that we have to seek the approval of the suburban planning board for something which the city has already approved."

The mayor went on to say that it did not make sense that the city plan be controlled by outside interests and termed the meeting of city hall "a waste of time."

He noted that the city paid 65 per cent of the cost of the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board and yet was only represented 5-4.

Here Mr. Hidaka emphasized the importance of long term planning and the necessity of having an over-all plans that "fits together."

ALDERMAN REPLIES

"Mayor Both is speaking for himself, not for the board," interjected Alderman Ralph Graham.

"I'll apologize pardon," replied the mayor. "I came here for information and I am as much entitled to get it as anyone."

Mr. Hidaka noted that his department felt the interests of the entire planning area should be considered. "The planning board is expected to deal with all problems," he said.

He emphasized that the whole intent was long term planning for 15 or 20 years with such things as roads, through arteries, schools and other matters being taken into consideration.

Alderman Enos David said he felt the mayor's statements were out of proportion to the views of himself he felt his duties as Alderman was the first in the city but at the same time the surrounding area had to be considered.

TAKES MONTH MAYS

Mr. Hidaka went on to point out that Belleville being the designated municipality for the Belleville and Suburban Planning area the city would be asked to approve of any changes in the suburban planning board or Thurlow.

Belleville council, however, that his department considered councils and planning boards were composed of responsible citizens who should be able to keep their own house in order."

Alderman Humphreys supported the mayor in that stand that Belleville should not have to obtain the approval of the suburban planning board for minor changes in the city zoning by-law. "Why go to the suburban planning board with such a small request?" he asked.

Mr. Hidaka reiterated that this was the procedure laid down in the planning act.

RECOGNIZES VALUE

Reeve Cecil Ketcheson of Thurlow said he fully recognized the value of a suburban planning board and the importance of the importance of long term planning.

"I am sorry that Mayor Both takes the attitude he does," he went on. "Until this year Thurlow and the city of Belleville got along well."

H. Simpson, secretary of the Belleville Public Utilities, enquired as to the proper procedure to be followed with respect to sub-dividing. The procedure was explained by Mr. Hidaka who noted that plans were not finally approved until the signature of the minister of municipal affairs.

Alderman Jane Forrester enquired regarding the advisability of local authorities handling the hiring professional services. She noted that this could be achieved when finances of suburban planning board permitted the hiring of part time professional service. Such men could give good direction in that respect.

City councillors attending the meeting were Aldermen Forrester, Humphreys, David, Graham, Keegan, and Tice with Mayor Both. Also with representatives on the Suburban Planning Board from Sidney and Thurlow.

Farmers Need Union Claim At Roslin Meeting

The regular meeting of the Ontario Farmers' Union No. 183, was held in Roslin Hall last Monday evening with a good attendance.

Mr. Don Holbert, president, presided and opened the meeting. A sing-song followed with Miss Margaret Bates at the piano.

Mr. Holbert extended a hearty welcome to the guests from Tweed, Union and Marysville unions.

A short business period followed. It was decided to hold the meetings the first Monday in each month in the hall and also to hold a euchre party in the near future.

Mr. Holbert gave an interesting report from the Farmers' Union convention, which he attended in Guelph recently.

A short musical program was enjoyed with Miss Margaret Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Griffith and Jimmy, taking part. Mrs. W. Bates was pianist.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Holbert introduced the speaker for the evening, Mr. W. J. Miller, 1st vice-president of the Union of Ontario.

Mr. Miller opened his address by saying "I am a farmer and I believe in the union. There never was a time, when the farmers were down so far as they are today. Why? For lack of union. We are the only unorganized class that has not a union to fight for our rights. So let us get busy and organize for a Farmers' Union.

"We have lost one-third of a million men, this last few years from the farms. It used to be you could hire a man to help on the farm, but you cannot today. Where have they gone? They have gone to labor. They have joined a union and left the farm, so let us be farmers get organized and see if we can't do something to encourage our young people to stay on the farms."

Mr. Miller in his closing remarks paid a tribute to farm members. He said the farmers sit at home, and they don't need to come in and support the union."

This was followed by a discussion period. Many questions were asked and Mr. Miller explained them thoroughly.

After the meeting closed the ladies served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Papers were mostly higher, though Powell River lost a point. There was irregular demand for utilities, liquors and refining oils.

Chrysler was down $3 to 93¾ on a 25-share block. United Corporations A dipped $2.75 to 29½. Dominion Glass was off $12.50. Light gains were recorded by Canada Permanent Mortgage and Eddy Paper.

In base metals, most scorers were narrowly lower, but Noranda gained ½. Copper-zinc continued Thursday's strong advance among miners with a 18-cent climb to $1.30 on 58,000 shares.

Golds showed little change. Moneterys was up ½. Uraniums scored some small advancers, including CanMet, up 10 to $2.74.

Western oil movements were sluggish, and Canadas generally showed the biggest change, a 15-cent advance to $3.90.

Hunger-Striking Ohio Convicts Start Eating

LONDON, Ohio (AP)—Most of the convicts who touched off a sit-down strike at the Ohio prison farm here had their first meal in 48 hours this morning and returned to work.

But nearly 1,000 others who struck "out of sympathy," with the original 233 remained in the cells, "quiet but hungry," said one prison official.

In a similar outbreak at Boston, 16 hunger-striking Massachusetts state prison convicts were eating again today after quitting their two-day fast on the word of a prison official that "they could starve for all anybody cared."

The Boston prisoners quit eating Wednesday with the announcement that they wanted the state correction commission to go to the prison to hear their complaints.

Commissioner Winfield Oswald, who took over the job less than two weeks ago, refused to heed the request.

In the Ohio strike, which officials said was called over prisoners' demands for more payment for work done at the farm, the only disturbance reported was a raid on the prison commissary Thursday night by food-starved convicts.

Throughout the morning hours today, two companies of Ohio National Guard troops were stationed outside prison fences as a precaution against possible violence.

Russia Sets Off Another A-Bomb Britain, U.S. Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has set off another atomic test blast, it was announced Thursday both here and in London.

The United States Atomic Energy Commission said the Soviet Union has "in recent days conducted a further nuclear test" in its 1955 series. A British defence ministry announcement was phrased similarly.

Neither official statement indicated the nature of the Russian test blast, whether it involved atomic or hydrogen devices.

British sources said the new Russian series began just after the July "summit" conference in Geneva.

Last Monday the United Nations General Assembly's political committee rejected Soviet and Indonesian-Syrian proposals aimed at getting the assembly to urge atomic powers to halt such experimental explosions.

The U. S., which has refused to halt its testing operations, until the Russians do likewise, last week held some low-explosive force tests in the Nevada desert.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were steady to 50 cents a hundredweight lower this week at the Toronto public stockyards. Calves were active at prices fully 50 higher. Sheep and lambs were unchanged.

Cattle receipts were about 500 head less than last week and about 450 head more than the same week in 1954. Receipts from western Canada were 2,100 head of cattle, a decrease of 800 head from last week, and 1,679 head of stock calves, a decrease of 180 head from last week.

The westerns were mostly replacement cattle. There were no exports or shipments east.

For the first time in the last four weeks, cattle receipts were less than 10,000 head. Despite this, trading was generally slow, due to a heavy unwanted volume of common and medium steers. With estimated 2,000 common and medium killers and stockers were unsold at the close.

Prices

Choice Steers $23-$25; with some sales to $21.50; good steers $19-20; medium $16-19 mostly $17-18; good heifers/ commons $17-18; good/ medium $15-17; medium $12-14; common $10-12; choice dry-fed yearlings $21.50-23.50; with sales to $25; good yearlings $20.50-21.50; mediums $17-20; good cows $10.50-11.50; with sales to $11.50; good light heifery cows up to $13; canner and cutter cows mostly $8 and down; good heavy bologna bulls $13; heavy fat beef bulls $12-13; good/ medium light bulls down to $9.

Replacement Cattle: This class, particularly stockers and shorkeeps was slow. Stock calves, however, were in fairly active demand. Good stockers were mostly $18-19; with odd sales to $19.50. Good/ medium stockers mostly $15-$19; with one straight load at $22. Shorkeeps were mostly steady at 800 pounds, were $15-18.50. Medium stockers and steers were $15-17; with sales to $17.50 with comments at $14-16.

Good and choice calves were scarce to medium and near. Good grades moving up so that on the next calves were fully $1 higher. Good and choice vealers were $24-26 with some sales just sheet at $27. Good vealers were mostly $20-23 with commons at $10-15. Grass calves sold for $10 and down to $8.

Grade of lambs were $22.50 during the week. However, this class closed on a firm note at $23.50 with top loads out at $24. Sows were unchanged at $16 dressed. Stags were $13 and down.

Lambs were barely steady due to buyers sorting carefully. Good/ choice wooled and shorn and wethers were $19.50 a hundredweight with some sales of good/ choice medium lambs selling at $20.50. Bucks, discounted $1 a hundredweight, while heavy lambs discounted $2. Common and medium lambs were $13-17. Feeder lambs ranged from $12-16.50. Good light sheep were $8 with common and heavy sheep down to $2.

Dismiss Nun's Charges

LONDON (Reuters) — Charges brought by a nun against Bernard Cardinal Griffin, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster, and other trustees of St. Andrew's Hospital were thrown out of court here today.

A High Court judge said not "a scrap of evidence" could be brought against the trustees to support Mary McCann's allegations of assault and false imprisonment.

The nun, known in religion as Sister Priscilla, is also suing a Catholic mental home in southern England and the mother superior of her community, the Sisters of Nazareth, claiming damages on the same grounds.

SIGNS NOTED SOPRANO

CHICAGO (AP)—Rudolph Bing, general director of New York's Metropolitan Opera, has signed the celebrated Mme. Marie Meneghini-Callas to sing at the Met next season. Terms of the contract were not announced, but Bing said Mme. Meneghini-Callas' first vehicle will be Bellini's "Norma."

Under Rain-Threatening Sky Like That of 37 Years Ago Belleville Honors War Dead

Sullen, rain-threatening skies, reminiscent of that first Armistice Day 37 years ago, greeted the city today as it paused to honor its glorious dead.

Brenda agititer with medals, veterans of two World Wars, augmented by civic organizations, members of governments and civilians, marched in parade and paid reverent tribute at a Memorial Service held at the Station Bl. Cenotaph.

Further observances of Remembrance Day will be held tonight when members of Branch 201, Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada and Branch 99, Canadian Legion, attend banquets given at their respective club quarters.

The representative parade with color fluttering at its head, moved from the Bridge St. armories shortly after 10.30 under Parade Marshal Major Angus B. Duff of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. It marched along Bridge Street to Front St. in Station Park, thence to the Cenotaph.

It observed the same route on the return to the armouries, where it was dismissed.

It was estimated that one of the largest deposits of wreaths at the Cenotaph in many years was made as the 1955 observance of Remembrance Day. Representatives of Dominion, provincial and civic governments, three armed services, war veterans' and organizations, civilian associations and individuals contributed floral tribute to the memory of those who gave their lives for freedom.

Six bands took part in the parade. These included the Quinte Pipe Band, affiliated with the ANAF and veterans' pipe band; Kinsmen's Navy Band; the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment Band; the Trenton and RCAF, Trenton, and the RCSCC band of Trenton. The Salvation Army band provided the music for the hymns at the service.

BAND HEADS PARADE

Headed by the crack drum and trumpet band of the Royal Canadian Air Force, the parade swung from the Bridge Street entrance to the armouries led by parade marshall Duffy. Then followed his Worship Mayor Bob and Alderman Bram Humphreys who represented the city council. Also in the official party was Frank Follwell, M.P., for Hastings South.

Then followed the Hastings and Prince Edward Drum and Trumpet Band and the Wing Boys' Canadian Air Force Association. Next marched the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment under Lieut.-Col. E. S. Fairman carrying the Queen's Colour. With Lieut.-Col. E. S. Fairman came next followed by the 15th Technical Squadron RCEME.

Then came the Branch 99 Canadian Legion followed by members of its women's auxiliary and the Quinte Pipe Band which included members of Branch 201 Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada. The band of the RCSCC "Quinte" trim in their navy uniforms were followed by a detachment of cadets. Army cadets followed in line with the Kinsmen Boys' Band and in order by members of the Trenton Club.

Members of the Belleville Fire and Police Departments and Boy Scouts brought up the rear followed by an army vehicle laden with wreaths.

CROWDS LINE STREETS

Crowds lined the streets as the parade marched from the Bridge St. armories to Front and thence via Station Street to the cenotaph where one of the largest crowds in years gathered to attend the service.

The sun tried to peek through the sullen overhang as the parade formed a four-square around the cenotaph. Four sentries with heads bowed and arms reversed were stationed at the four corners of the monument. The Union Jack fluttered at half staff from the cenotaph flag-pole.

Overhead a lone aircraft roared as eagles passed.

The Rev. Eric Strain, chaplain of the ANAF Veterans, conducted the service proper with the Scripture being read by Senior Captain C. Marks of the Salvation Army.

The Rev. J. Spearman, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association, offered the re-dedicatory prayer while the Salvation Army band played the hymn accompaniment and the National Anthem.

The colors fluttered slowly to the salute as an RCAF trumpeter sounded "Last Post." After two minutes silence the lively notes of "Reveille" rang out in the morning air.

During the wreath-laying ceremonies, the Dominion Government wreath was placed by Frank Follwell, M.P., escorted by Tommy Harris and Walter Turner. Major Bob and Alderman Humphreys deposited the city wreath while Mrs. Dorothy Price, 47 Gordon Street, mother of Flight Lieutenant J. Price, killed in action over Hamburg, Germany, deposited the wreath of the Belleville Ministerial. Mrs. Price was escorted by Everett Liddle and Beverly Herron.

ARMED SERVICES' WREATHS

The three armed services deposited their wreaths, headed by the navy. The army and air force wreaths were placed by Lieut.-Col. Alex Cunningham, Hasty Pees, and Squadron Leader A. V. Hollinshead. The ANAF wreath was placed by branch president William J. Reid, while Alderman William Bailey deposited the wreath of the Canadian Legion. Wing 412 RCAF Association placed its wreath through Flight Lieutenant Ken Bell. The foot of the cenotaph was a mass of red and green.

At the conclusion of the wreath-laying ceremonies the parade reformed and marched into the armouries where it was dismissed.

Unions Freer Of U.S. Control Than Firms, Claim

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian unions affiliated with United States labor organizations are more free to make their own decisions than many U. S.-owned firms in this country, a union labor official said Thursday night.

Charles H. Millard, Canadian director of United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), said industrial unions in Canada are "autonomous organizations."

He replied, in an address to the West Toronto Foreman's Club, to a recent address by Stuart Armour, economic adviser to the president of the Steel Company of Canada.

"I do not know of a single instance where a union has been told by its American counterpart that 'You must do so or so in Canada'," Mr. Millard said.

He quoted from a recent Supreme Court decision which criticized representatives of a union because they had been given no authority to bargain in a conciliation hearing and could only go to company policy which it said obviously "had been laid down elsewhere."

Company Submits Lowest Tender For Trent Bridge

TRENTON (Special) — Central Bridge officials here are hopeful that the Company will be awarded the contract to supply the steel for the Trenton-to-401 highway bridge crossing the Trent River a few hundred feet below No. 1 powerhouse at No. 2 dam north of the town's northern limits.

At 4.00 p.m. yesterday a spokesman for the company reported the Department of Highways had sent word that the Trenton steel fabricators were the lowest bidders on the tender calling for a quotation on 1823 tons. The department, he said, advised that the actual contract would be awarded sometime early this coming week.

Only two firms bid on the big job, Central Bridge quoted $784,837 against Dominion Bridge's price of $804,430.

The tender advertised in September specified that the successful bidder was expected to start steel erection in September 1956.

BLIZZARD HALTS

The food is the winter gratuities for the 250 Cree Indians at the reserve.

R. D. Ragan, acting regional resources and development affairs department, says there is "no desperate emergency" attached to the re-supply drop but he expressed concern for the babies there "because of the lack of milk."

The food shortage arose when the Chapman's Co. supply ship, Chichama, carrying winter supplies to the company post at Fort Severn for the inverse ice-locked near Warren's landing after its propeller shaft snapped. The Chichama was to have picked up the supplies from the S. S. Nanuk which came from Selkirk, Man., to Warren's landing at the north end of Lake Winnipeg.

While the ice is heavy enough to halt the progress of boats, it still is not thick enough to take the weight of landing aircraft.

Ragan says that it would be at least another month before a plane could land on the lake at Poplar river, and by that time a "real shortage" of food would exist.

He understand the Indians have shot three moose which would give them a food meat supply but there is a shortage of staples," he said.

Mayor Says Project Is Too Big, New School Not Needed--Council

CAMPBELLFORD — The town hold a Tag Day on November 12. council, of Campbellford met on the 7th November meeting on Monday night with all members present except deputy Reeve Rutherford and Coun. Macmillan.

The first act of the council, in response to an adequate petition, was to order a by-law that's obstacle be taken at the next municipal election providing for an annual grant to the Citizens' Band of one-third of a mill, which is 33⅓ percent $1,000 of assessment.

No action was taken on a request from the Public School Board that council make provision to build a new 8-room school. The request stated that temporary quarters could be arranged at the public library at a cost of about $2,000, including $750 rental, caretaking and the installation of toilet facilities. The board felt that temporary accommodation is the answer.

Council, in the matter part, did not appear to believe a new school is necessary, particularly as many families have been leaving town.

PROJECT TOO BIG

The mayor expressed the opinion that a six-room school is too big a project. Coun. Tatham felt that council had not given enough consideration to a request made by a body elected by the people to give adequate educational facilities to the children of the community.

An offer to purchase 100 x 125 feet of Lot 5, Block 39 in front of the former dump adjacent to the C.N.R. station) for $400 by the Canadian Petroleum Co. was favorably accepted after much controversy.

Reeve Hayes and Coun. Nicholas were opposed to the sale, though a price of $1,500 had previously been set on the lot. It was held by the other members that though the water could be obtained the lot is too low for sewer service and therefore would be inappropriate for industry.

A door at the fire hall will be ordered for sale by tender, and the repair to the chimney at the hall was left to the F. W. and L. committee.

Mayor Locke reported for the Lake Ontario Development Association stating that its offices will be located in Toronto and the pilot offer of free offices in Campbellford.

STREET SIGNS

A lengthy discussion ensued regarding the "stop" streets at the Baptist Church, but no action was taken.

A letter from the Chamber of Commerce asked that signs be replaced on Centre and Bridge Sts. now in storage under the roof to Stirling and also to No. 30 Highway. The request was favorably considered.

Approval was given to the Quinte Dundas Personnel Club to

Policemen's Revenge

NORTH BERGEN, N.J. (AP) — Hundreds of traffic violation tickets have blossomed on cabs here in the police's retaliation for a $500 annual pay raise sought by policemen.

Police commissioner James Nolan ordered a check of the situation when more than 300 tickets were written Wednesday. The normal for a day is between 10 and 20.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP)—Binghamton policemen, denied a pay raise in the election Tuesday, retaliated the election with motorists. They handed out 270 traffic tickets Wednesday.

Mayor Donald W. Kramer issued a warning Thursday that the police were not to be "petty or vindictive." The warning also went to firemen, likewise denied a raise.

The 270 tickets topped the combined total for the previous eight days.

RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES

Down in Australia, where the eighth conference of the Commonwealth Press Union is being held, the familiar theme of the link between a free press and democracy was the keynote of the opening session. Governor General Sir William Slim of Australia said freedom and democracy are impossible "without a virile, free press." Floyd S. Chalmers, president of the Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co., said press freedom in Canada was ensured only by public opinion. This means, he said, that press freedom was accepted by Canadians as a normal element in the human rights that were basic to a democratic society.

With sentiments of these types mernily rippling down the ruts of the routine, it was surprising and refreshing, to learn that L Norman Smith, associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, had declared that too much was heard of freedoms and privileges and "not enough of responsibilities" of the press.

This needed to be said. If Canadians ever cease to regard press freedom "as a normal element in the human rights basic to a democratic society" it will be because too many newspapers have been spending too much time championing their own causes and not enough time defending the rights of the people.

Smith's point was that newspapers "in Canada, the United Kingdom and perhaps here in Australia... exploit our freedom to the point of irresponsibility." He mentioned the handling of the romance between Princess Margaret and Group Captain Townsend as an example.

From cabled reports it does not appear that Smith raised any startling issues. He might well have had a place in his argument. A newspaperman has no more right to access to information than has any other private citizen. If he did not enjoy some privileges, the volume of news would be greatly reduced; but this does not alter the fact that in many instances the accurate reporting of news is based on a privilege and not a right.

There are instances where the withdrawal of a privilege has aroused bitter protests. This may serve to weaken the newspaper's case when it is denouncing the denial of a right. But even more serious is the habit, not infrequent, of seeking a privilege when a right should be claimed. This happens most frequently when public bodies seek to hold their deliberations behind public eyes. Newspapers protest—and rightly so. But all too often these protests are quieted if the newspaper's representative is permitted to attend these closed meetings—as a privilege. The access should be his by right—a right shared with every other citizen.

LOVE'S LABOR NOT LOST

How does a community attract industry?

That is the $64,000 question for almost every municipality except a summer resort with sun, sunshine, soft breezes and complete smokeless months.

Answers to the problem of attracting industry can be as numerous and as varied as the communities seeking industry. It is hardly likely, however, that many communities would look on Shakespeare as an industrial attraction.

The Stratford Shakesperian Festival apparently has paid off industrial dividends for the pleasant city on the Avon. In the last year seven new industries employing 535 persons have located in Stratford's population increased by one-seventh, or slightly more than the 2,000 population increase which the creation of 535 jobs produces.

Does industry want Shakespeare?

Not necessarily. But industry, seeking to decentralize, is looking to communities with living conditions and recreational facilities that are above average. Great corporations are especially on the lookout for communities with demonstrable civic enterprise and energy. It will be impossible to meet municipal problems head on with imagination and vigor.

Stratford's remarkable achievement in presenting a Shakespearean festival has not only given it favorable theatrical notice around the world, but gave clear expression of the faith of Stratford citizens in their city and outlined, to some degree, its community energy.

It seems to be the boom that Stratford, by-passed to some degree by the boom that affected all of Ontario in the post-war period, should now be coming into its own industrially. It is not, of course, a mere coincidence that a civic project on behalf of the theatre should result not only in a transient tourist boom but precede a striking industrial growth.

NOTHING NEW HERE

In Toronto thirteen-year-old Bobby Dawson has discovered that a prism-shaped piece of glass from a chandelier, held up to the screen of a TV set, produces a blaze of colour.

An official of the General Electric Company took the prism to the firm's laboratory for study.

What's all the excitement?

What is General Electric trying to do? Find a sale for all the old-style chandeliers turned in by customers buying fluorescent lights?

Maybe. But it seemed long ago that TV looked a lot better if viewed through a glass, though the glass that produced the glow was not from a chandelier.

WEATHER CHANGE

Was it a few brief weeks ago
We wished a chilling breeze would blow
And when we went, to all we'd meet,
We smiled about the cruel heat?

Only a short while back to run
And hopefully we watched the sun,
To see a cloud come drifting by.

Well, clouds have come and brought the rain.

The breeze we wished for blows again.
But, hot or cold, by day and night,
The weather never seems just right.

When August was, this thought had we:
November days would perfect be.
Now here they are and we complain
About the wind and driving rain.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 11, 1935

The city council has granted the sum of $200 to the Belleville Football Club to assist it in defraying expenses during this season.

The members of the Bar and the officials of Hastings County gathered in a body at the Registry Office on Church Street, to say good-bye individually and collectively to Mr. Addison Vanderwater upon the end of his association with the Registry Office after rendering faithful and efficient service for over half a century. Mr. R. C. Donnelly, K.C., expressed the regret of the gathering at the loss and officials at parting with Mr. Vanderwater and expressed in the appreciation of the skilled and experienced assistance which Mr. Vanderwater had given to the legal profession in this city and county during his long and faithful service.

Belleville's most impressive remembrance day ceremony was were conducted at the Cenotaph on Memorial Park this morning, representatives of every overseas branch of the various services and veterans' large numbers marched from the armouries, led by the Belleville Municipal Band and the Argyll Regimental Band, to the Cenotaph where an impressive service was conducted by the chapain of the Argyll Regiment, the Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne of St. Thomas' Church, the Rev. Dr. J. Semple of Bridge Street Church and the Rev. W. J. Walker of St. Andrew's Church. A large number of wreaths were placed at the Cenotaph, the honor of placing the wreath of his Ontario Government was given to Mrs. J. V. Roe of Geddes Street, this city. There was a large crowd of citizens present at the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Ruttan of Watertown, N.Y., formerly of this city, are visiting friends here.

Miss Lana Allore of Lonsdale is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. Hart, Victoria Avenue.

Mr. Arnold Orr was home from McMaster University, Toronto, to spend the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Orr.

Mr. Clarke Mims of Queen's University, Kingston, spent the weekend here with his aunts, the Misses Clarke, Bridge street east at John street.

Mr. William George has returned to Toronto after visiting his parents here.

Mr. Herbert Wrightmeyer of Hamilton, formerly of this city, is spending a few days in town.

The Belleville Club through its president, Lieut. Col. Thomas Stewart, has extended the privileges of the club to Lieut. Col. Ketcheson and theofficers of the 90th. Battalion, C.E.F., now in winter quarters here.

Mr. John F. Agnew has returned home after an absence of seven months in Winnipeg.

The sum of $500. has been collected from residents on the Front of Sidney township for the patriotic fund.

Mr. Alfred Gillen has returned home from Virginia Hot Springs.

Mr. Charles Baker, who is in charge of the Bay of Quinte, has a runaway horse last evening. The horse came from the city and crossed to the end of the bridge at which point Mr. Baker was able to stop it.

50 YEARS AGO

Nov. 11, 1905

There is now ten inches of snow at Monteagle, Hastings county.

Mrs. William Huffman, Bensamin Street, has left to visit friends in Toronto, Sarnia and Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. C. H. Vermilyea of the Oak Hall Clothing Store, is spending a few days in Toronto on business.

Mr. H. Corby, with his customary generosity, has donated a silver cup for competition in the city hockey league this season.

Mr. D. O. Roblin, travelling salesman for the Crowley Distillery has sold his property on West Bridge Street, at Ontavia Screels and has left to reside in Toronto. The new owner is Mr. George D. Bell of Toronto who will come here to reside.

From our file at this time in 1885: A full-sized coon was discovered up a tree on Catharine street last morning by a citizen on his way home at six o'clock. He stopped to look at it and soon a crowd assembled, for it came up the tree after the coon, but could not find it. Eventually the coon was seen in another tree—but no one had a desire to chase it.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

(Toronto Star)

There is one thing greater than the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Order of Merit, more honorable than the Companion of Honor. And that is the wooden cross, the memory of which we are expected to bear in mind this day.

Close to one hundred thousand Canadians, fathers, sons, brothers and dear friends of the generation, have joined the order of the wooden cross in our time. We have four wars to think upon. There are still the veterans of the Boer War with us, and the widows and orphans. The veterans of the First German War number some hundreds of thousands in our midst, the elders of our business and politics. Mothers of those who accepted the wooden cross in that first war to end wars are still with us by the several thousand, though their grief is so old it might appear to strangers as being a little faded. The Second German War and the Korean War are not so distant that most of us today who might attend a service at a cenotaph, or at least remember to keep a moment's silence at 11 a.m., will think of the boys of these last wars, rather than include t h e young men who joined the most ancient of all military orders of chivalry forty years ago.

However here an act that wins an award for gallantry or distinguished service, however noble a life dedicated to some service of the nation may have been, even if he or a jewel of honor, they come far down the ranks of precedence after those who not merely offered but gave their lives for their country.

Unknown, most of them, save to a circle of family and acquaintances no larger than the compounds village population; humble and unpretentious, most of them are. But their lives were little to offer—they say that these lie animate every one up to nine feet in length. In British Columbia latitudes, however, they are considered too rare to be considered as a potential in the commercial fisheries.

Executor Of Estate

(Tracks Magazine)

Down in the mountains below the Mason-Dixon line, one of the inhabitants had been standing in the ground as a rifle ball whizzed past his head from behind him. Turning around, he discovered a neighbor calmly reloading his squirrel gun.

"Say, what's the idea?" he asked, shooting at me for?"

"Why, you ain't", answered Lonzo. "Sides, I'm a dead shot, Suggs had a fine gun, didn't you?"

"Sure", replied the target, "but old Dad's dead."

"Well", said Lonzo, "I'm the executor of his estate."

Good Speeches Require Work

(Ottawa Journal)

The world has wondered why Adlai Stevenson speaks as no other American politician has spoken for more than a generation. James Reston, writing in the New Times, a reporter who does his leg work, comes up with one answer. Visiting Chicago to try to find out what Stevenson had in mind about his presidential aspirations, he described his campaign headquarters — researchers, public relations experts, advertising men with newspaper clippings and a new mimeograph machine — and then wrote:

"Stevenson looks a little puzzled about all this, as if it had happened when he was out . . . His mind is clearly not on the physical arrangements. He is downstairs in the basement, or even on the floor below, in and out of the mahogoney-paneled offices, but on that always unfinished speech that he has to make in a week.

"This gift of speech writing is either American politics has fascinated him. It is constantly on his mind. He is forever questioning and forever searching for new words to express things. This is clearly the secret of his power, more than any other part of electioneering."

It has been said of Churchill that he took two days in the midst of Britain's worst crisis to prepare a speech for Parliament, and his secretaries found nothing to criticize time and toil he put into even his minor utterances.

Not only in this are great speeches, or even good speeches, fashioned.

In these hurry-burly "practical" days most of our ministers stick a memo from an official or a manuscript firm a ghost writer and read it before a resentful or apathetic audience. But it is not that way with great orators, the memorable and moving utterances of a Churchill or an Asquith or an Abraham Lincoln are made. The brilliant epigram, the vivid image, the rolling period like the "music of waters unwithstood", come from sweat and toil. That is why — "Words with transcendent meanings calling up the best passions of all hopeful men" — are the clarioned men for freedom and shaped the history of the world.

Judge Power By Funnels

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

Several new Atlantic liners have been put into service during the past year or two, although all of them are 20,000 tons or more, and have been designed to reel set at the right angle sets off the graceful lines of an ocean greyhound. But it is the funnel at the leash to be off; like the rakish angle of a yacht mast which gives him a somewhat dashing appearance.

Big liners took to the water around the beginning of this century, and funnels reached 30,000 tons or thereabouts, they added as a sort of afterthought, or three. A little less than 50 years ago came the stiker ships Lusitania and Mauretania, and the Cunard line, each with four funnels.

There was no aerodynamical reason for this, because the travelling public was impressed with the fact that Atlantic ships in the four-funnel category. The Aquitania, the same line, although bigger than the others named, reverted to three funnels, and it was the much bigger Queen Mary, nearly twice the size of the Aquitania, was launched, she also had three funnels. Soon after came the Queen Elizabeth which is even slightly larger than the Queen Mary, and she has only two funnels.

But neither the size or number of funnels have anything to do with the factor of power. One fisherman took his boat close alongside a big turtle which scientists of the Pacific Research Board of Canada identified as a Pacific Leatherback, in waters two miles off Pachena Point. Several other troll fishermen reported turtles swimming near Big Sand, offshore from Kyuquot. Scientists say that these big animals grow up to nine feet in length.

John L. Lewis Needed Here!

(By W. H. Cranston, editor of the Midland Free Press Herald, writing in The Ontario Federationist)

Ontario's Department of Planning and Development officially espouses a policy of industrial decentralization.

But we sometimes wonder if Premier Frost shouldn't hire John L. Lewis to get the program really going.

It was Lewis, in his capacity of head of the United Mine Workers Union, who introduced portal-to-portal pay.

He thought of him one recent rainy Friday afternoon as, at ten minutes after five, we left an office in downtown Toronto to head back home to Midland.

We were still thinking about him when, fifty minutes later with our intensely interesting hitting on all eight cylinders, we had managed to thread our way through the traffic tangles as far north as St. Clair avenue. Three miles in fifty minutes!

John L. Lewis came to mind again a few days later when we were chatting with the president and foreman of a Scarboro-based industry. Later he was whisked by a sanitarium where the poor fellow received all kinds of "therapy" for his nerves." Finally he came home to die. The autopsy — which I was not invited to attend—revealed that the man's trouble had been a case of appendicitis, in his thickened gallbladder.

The other case might have been a guess, period.

Personal Health Talks

Watch Out For Indigestion

The very concept of "indigestion" is shifty, vague and devious. Heaven only knows what may be the matter with the patient who purports to have indigestion, acute, intestinal, nervous, acid, you pays your money and takes your choice.

If "indigestion" means that food, all food or just a particular item is not digestible or is difficult to digest, or just lies there undigested—a silly notion, if you have an elementary knowledge of physiology—he discovers, distress or pain attributed to "indigestion" is still unexplained.

I recall vividly two cases of "indigestion" in my early years of practice. First, that of a businessman about 45 with "nervous indigestion." That's what a prominent doctor of physicians at home and far from home had called it, and I could find no good explanation for his complaint, so, being only 23 years old, I had to agree with them. Fortunately for the patient, he did not remain with me long. He was admitted to a sanitarium where the poor fellow received all kinds of "therapy" for his nerves." Finally he came home to die. The autopsy — which I was not invited to attend—revealed that the man's trouble had been a case of appendicitis, in his thickened gallbladder.

The other case might have been a guess, period.

Once in a while when a controversial figure passes away, the newspapers of the country seem to vie with each other in their attempt to praise him, and usually the best in his character is dragged out during his life are the ones who praise him most highly, now that he has left the scene.

One cannot escape the suspicion that a good deal of this reveals a tremendous relief and joy that the trouble-maker has passed on. He will cause trouble no longer. "Praises be," cry his erthsite opponents, "we will have no more of him. But really he was a great guy."

It takes a lot of character to be able to praise an opponent. The people who disagree with us so often become so deeply involved in their differences that they are unable to see any good in the opposition.

Now, I'm not thinking about him when I say that the most accurate measurement of Christian sincerity is the attitude we take toward opponents. If, secretly, we wish that they might drop dead, we are not displaying a very low mark.

It is impossible to separate people from what they say and do. It takes patience and plenty of character to accomplish this.

Married Folk Change Campus

(Chatham News)

Growing trend of college students to marry and have children during the undergraduate years, according to an article in Maclean's Magazine, by Pierre Berton, is a sharp decline in dating and dancing — a corresponding upgrading in attention at more serious diversions such as lectures, panels and round tables.

Educators are even beginning to wonder about the fate of fraternities and sororities which depend largely on dues of single students who live in houses.

This mass migration to matrimony has changed the campus, who flocked back to college after World War II brought their wives, and offspring to the fold. They're gone now. But the "temporary" housing erected for them still is still occupied. Comments one college administrator, "The kids are all married and just began asking, 'Why not us?" Another reason is the uncertain world, certainty of today's atomic world has prompted many to seize their happiness while they can.

One university used to provide its married students with temporary units; now brick apartment buildings, like those found in other there's an average wait of a year and a half for space in the new units. Another has a married university gives students the benefit of a marriage counselor and social clinic for debates.

Lack of privacy, housework burdens and isolation from classmates are flies in the ointment of the married student, however. There's a good many faculty people have married students in their classes at Northwestern. "It cuts out a lot of the problems," one of them says, about dates. If more of my students were married I'd get more work out of them."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MY FRIENDS

I like my friends. I collect them, as I do my rare books, on the setting that I can read them when I want what I haven't. To become intimate with some of them, to see them and I keep learning new things about people and life.

I have friends whom I have never met. I write to them and they to me. I dislike eating alone so I try to invite special guests to dine with me. They make the food taste better. It doesn't matter if they are famous. I like people of good talk and lively conversation.

We are creatures of many moods but my friends are much the same. I'm not interesting and dramatic than the one who merely succeeded!

Remembrance!

The last time you were together you didn't have a chance to say goodbye—not a real one.

He was standing beside you in that field in Normandy. It was a hot, sticky afternoon; little explosions of dust shot out from under your boots when you moved. Somewhere up front you could hear your armor. But for the moment you had inherited a quiet field in Normandy.

Then suddenly a burp gun opened up in the hedgerows. You dived for cover, and the grass stubble stabbed you chin as you hit the ground. Then there was blood on the grass. Somehow you'd never thought of death coming on a bright afternoon. But it did. And things moved fast after that and you moved with them.

You never got a chance to say a real goodbye.

Now, as you kneel here, you don't know how to go about it. What do you say? What do you do? Maybe you knew him better than you'll ever know anybody. But you still don't know what to say.

He was just an ordinary Joe, a number, a face in the elbow line-up. You knew him, yet you didn't. You knew how he came through when the chips were down. But you didn't know much about his past. He didn't talk much about why he was in the war. He just said he wanted to get out of it, and let it go at that.

There was a kid he'd never seen back in Canada. Unlike a lot of guys, he didn't talk much about that either. Yet you knew what it meant to him. You could tell whenever he looked at a bunch of French kids in the villages.

He was just an ordinary Joe. But the cross he's wearing makes him seem mighty big.

You leave the cemetery, knowing that you may never see it again. It's a long way to Canada. Yet you know that you'll return to this cemetery a million times. You'll return every time you think of valor, of sacrifice; every time you think of heroism and death, and every time a bugle splits the autumn stillness.

You'll return because part of yourself died that hot afternoon in Normandy. And the part that lives won't let you forget.

Neighbors' Aid Entertains, Marks 25th Anniversary

END THURLOW. — The Neighbors' Aid members entertained their husbands, wives and families and the 2nd Thurlow boys' ball team and their wives at a pot-luck and turkey supper at the Front Road church hall, on Wednesday night.

About 100 were present to enjoy the many good things provided, turkey, dressing and cranberries, were provided from the Aid funds, to which all did ample justice.

The president, Mrs. D. Atkins, called the gathering to order and welcomed all and especially the ball team boys and their wives.

Mrs. M. Mitchell at the piano and Mrs. Robert Atkins leading the community singing, several songs were enjoyed.

After planning the supper, it was suddenly remembered that it was the 25th anniversary of the Neighbors' Aid, which had been organized 25 years ago in November with the late Mrs. John Donaldson as the 1st president, and Mrs. A. Mitchell as secretary-treasurer.

Two minutes silence was observed in memory of those who have passed on over the period of years.

An appropriate poem was read, followed by the hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus".

Mrs. M. Mitchell at the piano and Mr. M. Mitchell playing the cornet, and Mrs. Robert Atkins, the accordion favored with several selections, which were thoroughly enjoyed. Marlene and Carolyne Mitchell, sang nicely "The Bible Tells Me So" and "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

MAKES CANADA MORE SELF-SUFFICIENT

This drop hammer, largest ever to be used in Canada, will soon be stamping out airplane parts and other metal forgings which formerly had to be imported or made by slower and costlier methods. The machine and housing weighs 750,000 pounds and arrived at Sorel, Que., en route to Toronto, where it will operate for the A. V. Roe, Canada, group of airplane manufacturers. The hammer weighs 10 tons, world's largest is 18 tons. It is one of the many machines that is making Canada more self-sufficient in all branches of industry. (Central Press Canadian.)

Weddings

SARANTOS—GENEJA

Gladioli and ferns adorned the chancel rail and altar in Christ Church, Belleville, for a lovely early autumn wedding when June Geneja, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Geneja, became the bride of Douglas Lawson Sarantos, of Kingston, son of Mrs. O. W. Bobrecker of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and Mr. Paul Phillip Sarantos of Halifax, Nova Scotia. The Rev. Everett P. Smith, assistant rector of the church, officiated.

Mr. John Croyden Withers, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the six boy choristers who sang as the bride entered the church, "O Perfect Love", and during the signing of the register, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Jan Geneja, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of blush pink Bubicom satin, fashioned with molded bodice having a Medici collar, V neckline and outlined with seed pearls, and long sheath-like sleeves banded over the wrists. The full skirt fell in graceful folds into a chapel train. Her veil of tulle net and illusion was caught to a pillbox headdress of matching seed pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of ivory glamellias, miniature carnations with seed and accented with philodendron leaves.

Mrs. Douglas Sangster of Kirkland Lake, as matron of honor and Miss Mary Elizabeth Black of Toronto, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in waltz-length, mink-toned peau de soie featuring long torso bodice silhouettes, with bateau necklines and shirred cap sleeves. The bouffant skirts were off-set with a large bustle bow. They wore dusky rose velvet headbands with sequin trim, and carried cascade bouquets of pink-toned glamellias with ivory accent.

Little Leslie Jane Geneja, six-year-old niece of the bride, was flocked in dusky rose silk with short, bouffant skirt with rose velvet trim. She carried one ivory glamellia and wore a dusky rose velvet band on her hair.

Mr. Kenneth Avery of Kingston, attended the bridegroom, with the bride's brothers, Mr. Stephen C. Geneja, and Mr. Jan Edward Geneja, acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parish hall, where the bridal couple was served. The bride's mother, wearing buff-toned brocaded satin with matching accessories with corsage of cypripedium orchids, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in pink-toned nylon with grey mink stole and corsage of brown cypripedium orchids.

For travelling, the bride chose New England States, and to Halifax, the bride chose a blue-grey tweed suit with matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Sarantos are residing in Kingston.

Guests were present from Halifax, Kirkland Lake, Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston and Napanee.

W.T.A. Enjoys Talk, Slides On European Trip

On Wednesday, the members of the Belleville Women Teachers' Association met in the common room for their monthly meeting.

Following a social dinner hour Mrs. Sine, the president, called the meeting to order.

The treasurer gave her report and this was followed by reports from the various groups the following committees: superannuation, status, and educational research.

The president asked the secretary to read the correspondence.

Following the conclusion of the business portion, the meeting was turned over to Miss D. McCoy, representative for Queen Alexandra sales, who was responsible for the program.

Miss Phyllis May and Miss Margaret Hillis rendered a delightful duet, and Miss Hazel Thompson showed pictures of her European trip.

Thanks and appreciation were extended to Miss Thompson for allowing to the members such beautiful pictures and such an interesting account of her trip.

'New Trends in Education' Topic at H-S Assoc. Meet

Monday night at Queen Victoria School the Home and School Association of Queen Victoria and Sir Winston Churchill Schools held its November meeting.

Mrs. D. Garlepy read the minutes after which Mr. K. Huntley gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. A. A. Wilson, president of the Association, mentioned that a wreath of 'mums and roses had been sent in memory of Mr. A. C. Wilkin, former principal of Queen Victoria school for 37 years.

A letter was then read from the Canadian Institute for the Blind thanking pupils of the two schools for their efforts in raising money for the Institute.

Mrs. J. Brown reported 245 parents registered last year as members of the Association.

H-S CAMP

Mrs. J. Hilchon gave a vivid and interesting report on the Home-School camp which is held in early June each year at Lake Couchiching at the Ontario Athletic Association camp which is loaned to the Home and School Association for their conference. Mrs. Hilchon described the camp which extends along the waterfront, the lovely trees, sleeping cabins, central lodge with stone fireplace, patio, recreation room, tennis courts, floating dock, and also the good food which was served.

The work sessions were from 9.00 - 11.00 a.m., 2.00 - 4.00 p.m. and 7.00 - 9.00 p.m. each day. During your leisure hours you could make full use of the recreational facilities. The theme for camp was "Group Leadership Training." One hundred delegates attended and they were divided into groups of 18 people with individual leaders of high quality. Each group would take the aims of the Home and School Association in turn and asked (a) What is being done to further these aims? (b) How successful are they? (c) How do we know how successful we are?

PROGRAM PLANNING

A lecture was given on 'Program Planning' which included the interchange of ideas and a great variety of practical material. There was also information given on membership drives and how to organize them to get new members.

There was some controversy on whether Home and School meetings should be entertaining and it was agreed that the Home and School Associations should make their programs educational and interesting and if possible to make them entertaining as well as to do.

Booklets on group leadership and other subjects were taken which will be useful and which should be of invaluable help to the executive.

Two thoughts were left with the Association by Mrs. Hilchon who closed the meeting with a plea for leadership to attend this worthwhile camp.

Mrs. Wilson mentioned the 15th Belleville Cub Pack which the Association of Queen Victoria and Winston Churchill School is which is in need of funds to the tune of $10.00 for small items of equipment for the 221 present members.

Mrs. D. Hall gave a report on the conference held in October at Parliament Buildings, Toronto, leading from Belleville district attended the conference, and had an interposing array of speakers, G. C. Irvine, Mrs. G. C. McCauley, Miss Muriel Preston and Mrs. Lloyd Raper were the morning speakers.

After a pleasant luncheon Mrs. G. C. McCauley, Mr. D. Young and Dr. Eidon Ray gave talks.

Mr. C. Fretwick took the attendance counting for Queen Victoria Churchill School which was won by Miss Robertson's room and Mr. E. Fairman the attendance count for Queen Victoria School, which was won by Miss Pierson's class. A young lady student, Miss Barbara Smith from Queen Victoria School, favored with a tap dance solo.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Mr. Fairman referred to Remembrance Day on November 11, informing that 80,000 Canadians served during the past two wars on foreign soil with a number of them buried in France and on the continent of Europe, with 116 Canadians buried in one cemetery in Belgium. Mr. Fairman said people will be gathering in villages, towns and cities, at cenotaphs everywhere to pay their respects for those who made the supreme sacrifice. An effective stage setting with an illuminated cross, several wreaths and maple leaves held the attention while a recital of "In Flanders Fields" was effectively recited with "Taps", emblematic of the last salute to the dead, was then heard followed by a two-minute silence. A lively "Reveille," indicating awakening in a happier world was followed by the poem, "Canada Calls."

SPEAKER

Mr. C. Frederick introduced Mrs. W. Sine, primary supervisor for Belleville, a specialist in primary supervision. He mentioned the wonderful changes that are taking place in the education-al system and the progress which has been made through the years and how they are trying to improve their educational methods all the time.

Mrs. Sine told how especially glad she was to have the opportunity to talk with parents about the primary reading program in Belleville schools known as the Unit System. Mrs. Sine said interesting parents should know what is going on and how it is going on in the schools today. Parents are showing interest as never before as to how and what their children learn in school and as a result a wonderful co-operative movement is growing between parent and teacher.

The school program should study the individual child and maintain a record as he develops, then see these things by obtaining his individual program. The individual child achieve according to standards appropriate to him. The unit system is a progressive one in that although children follow a general pattern of growth they advance at various rates and encounter different types of difficulties. This is recognized and they are helped along the waterfront, the lovely trees, sleeping cabins, central lodge with stone fireplace, patio, recreation room, tennis courts, floating dock, and also the good food which was served.

The work sessions were from 9.00 - 11.00 a.m., 2.00 - 4.00 p.m. and 7.00 - 9.00 p.m. each day. During your leisure hours you could make full use of the recreational facilities. Leading Ballerina, Celia Franca, Wells Top Dramatic Dancer

Celia Franca, Founder of National Ballet

Miss Celia Franca, leading ballerina and artistic director of the National Ballet of Canada, was regarded as one of the brilliant young talents of the flourishing British ballet before she came to Canada five years ago.

She had been a star four years with the Sadler's Wells, for another two years she had been leading dancer and ballet mistress of the popular Metropolitan Ballet in London. As a choreographer she had created a number of new works including "Kinder" for Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet and "Summer Interlude" for BBC.

Her extraordinary gift for leadership and marked organizing ability also contributed to creation of a new company when she arrived in Canada. She has brought it international recognition on a top level. New York, Washington and other U. S. audiences and critics as well as those in Canada have acclaimed its growing excellence.

Someone has described her as "being part of the whole history of ballet in England but she is the history of ballet in Canada."

TALENT ATTRACTS

Her talent made itself manifest while she still was very young. As a child she started a wide choice of scholarships. At one time her parents thought she should become a concert pianist and she is one of the few women who are able to read a complicated orchestral score.

Instead she chose a career in classical ballet and her teachers included such masters as Anthony Tudor and Stanislaus Idzikowski. Her milieu was the ballet world of London whose works have received acclaim the world.

With the Sadler's Wells she created such memorable roles as the Queen in "Hamlet", and the streetwoman in "Miracle of the Gorbals". Her Queen in the Wills in the great classic "Giselle" still is regarded as one of the finest interments of post-war theatre in England. Dame Ninette de Valois, director of Sadler's Wells called her "probably the greatest dramatic dancer the World has seen."

DEVELOPS YOUNG TALENT

Miss Franca's ability for developing young talent can be perceived in Svetlana Beriosova who was given the great opportunity for leading roles while in Metropolitan Ballet with Miss Franca as ballet mistress.

She has the quality of transmitting not only the technique but guished artistry to dancers in her company but also the communicates her own modesty and love of the art. A New York critic remarked of the dancers in the National Ballet, "they are full of wonderful zest . . . they dance as if it were a way of life . . ."

Born in England, the slender, darkly lovely Miss Franca has been active in connection with most of the major developments in modern English ballet. She began her training at four (although she still considers herself young) and at six won a scholarship to the Guildhall. At 11 she won a piano scholarship.

She was part of that great host of talent in the Ballet Rambert where her senior contemporaries were Anthony Tudor, Hugh Laing, Agnes DeMille, Andree Howard and most of the great modern choreographers who were developing a new and modern kind of ballet in England.

RICH HERITAGE

It is with this rich heritage she is able to realize the great ambitions of ballet such as "Swan Lake," "Giselle," "Les Sylphides" and others in the repertoire of the National Ballet. This season she is choreographing the four-act production, "The Nutcracker."

When, five years ago, a group of Canadians approached Dame Ninette at Valois with a view to founding a national company in this country, the name of Miss Franca was mentioned as being the best possible choice.

She has brought the National Ballet to a top level of recognition. Accepted on this continent the company now is traveling its sights on old Europe.

would have a ready acceptance there because with European theatre-goers the name of Celia Franca still burns brightly.

Miss Franca brings the company and founded in Belleville on Monday, November 14th, for the opening of its 1955-56 North American tour. The Belleville Theatre Guild is sponsoring the appearance of the ballet locally in a program comprising "Les Sylphides," "Lilac Garden" and "Offenbach in the Underworld."

The Experts Say — Tasty Tidbits in Deep Freeze Wholesome After Six Months

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TORONTO (CP)—A housewife who has found the way to her hubby's heart is through his stomach would be wise to keep tasty tidbits ready to serve at a moment's notice.

She need not spend every day preparing fresh snacks. Many foods can be prepared ahead of time and stored in a freezer.

Prof. R. H. Haskin of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph says there are three advantages to freezing foods. Leftovers can be saved and time and work cut by making larger quantities.

Writing in a bulletin for the Ontario department of agriculture, Prof. Franklin says it is not advisable to tie up valuable freezer space with a few quantities of cooked food. Nor should it be kept a long period because quality of some frozen foods deteriorates quickly.

He has several tips on how quality in freezing can be obtained—use only high quality ingredients, prepare carefully, package in moisture-proof and vapor-proof materials, freeze quickly and store at zero degrees fahrenheit for not too long a period.

Prof. Franklin says almost all soups prepared from standard recipes may be frozen satisfactorily. He especially recommends chicken noodle, chowder, onion, cream of spring, split pea, black bean, ranged vegetable, concentrated tomato and purees of asparagus, carrot, celery and peas.

Frozen concentrated bases for soups is preferred because of less bulk to store. Milk or water could be added at time of thawing. Because seasonings lose strength during freezing, they should be added when soup is reheated for serving.

Fruit for freezing should always be packaged in water-tight containers allowing space for expansion during freezing. They can be thawed directly over heat.

Fruit juices may be frozen used for sandwiches are satisfactory after freezing as says. Hard-cooked egg while becomes rubbery and tough, mayonnaise curdles and separates, and lettuce wilts.

Cheese, peanut butter, salmon, sardine and sliced turkey sandwiches may be stored for six months; egg yolk, minced ham and pickle, tongue and tuna fish for three months and bologna for one month. Jam and jelly sandwiches can be stored for only two weeks because of sugar settling; tend to soak through bread quickly.

Prof. Franklin says all kinds of baked cookies may be frozen with excellent results for six months. To prevent sticking, cookies should be thawed in their wrapping at room temperature.

'Value of Good Literature' Stressed at PTA

The November meeting of Holy Rosary P.T.A., with Mr. J. Calligan presiding was held in the parish hall, Donald Street, on Wednesday.

Prior to the meeting, all parents enjoyed a striking display of Catholic magazines suitable for every age group. The display featured 35 magazines contributed by various publishers. These were distributed to the members at the close of the meeting and subscriptions taken from those interested in obtaining good reading material.

Rev. Anthony Martin P.P.M., opened the meeting with prayer. The attendance plaque was won by Mr. Keough's classroom.

GUEST SPEAKERS

The guest speaker, Mr. D. T. Morrocco, who was introduced by Mr. H. Brown spoke on the topic the "Value of Good Literature".

In his address he emphasized the importance of nourishing the mind as well as the body. He stressed the importance of reading with the express purpose of improving one's mind and that one should be concerned with mental development as an end in itself, but because as Catholic parents they should have a three-fold obligation to develop themselves. It is easy to forget that one must keep learning.

Mr. Morrocco also mentioned light in his material available at the Catholic Lending Library in Belleville.

The speaker was fittingly thanked by Mr. Keough.

Rev. Anthony Martin, Rev. Anthony Martin, of the Scarboro Foreign Mission Society, was introduced by Mr. J. Callaghan.

Father Martin stated that "Religion is not a subject, religion is life only on Sunday, Religion is a way of life. At one time our civilization was a Christian civilization. It is now called Western. Many of our people have lost the sense of Christian principles and as a result they have lost the compass or guide to follow. The Communists are not in this dilemma. They know what they want because they are wrong."

Father Martin stressed that Catholic lay people should avail themselves of good literature in order to be well informed.

Rev. Sister Mary Timothy graciously thanked the speaker.

Rev. Michael Simson closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were then served.

St. John Ambulance Presents 26 First Aid Certificates

The regular monthly meeting of St. John Ambulance Nursing Division No. 150, was held on Monday evening at headquarters. The November first aid class was guest of the division at a special demonstration of artificial respiration. Fire Chief Gerald Vance and a team from the fire station demonstrated resuscitation equipment. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Ethel Anderson, division-al officer.

Five aid certificates were presented to the following Belleville city firemen: Fred C. Dalzard, Lyle W. Wannamaker, Roy Wardle, Wm. George Coleman, Albert W. Rump, Jack Darvell, Elmer Helm, Robert Fair, Gerald A. Vance, Bruce Diamond, John Browning, Fred Ellis, Stanley Pomeroy, Leo D. Culhane, Irvine M. Browning, Gerald Lee, O'Brien, Allen H. Vance, John Thompson, Clare L. Millar, Thomas E. Poste, John F. Finkle, Fred W. Hoskins, John L. Vone, Clayton Wilson, Raymond M. Reid and Arthur Hill.

These men received their first aid instruction from Mrs. J. McLuskie, St. John Ambulance instructor, and were examined by Dr. Russell G. Scott, St. John Ambulance examiner.

Foxboro Church Observes 101st Anniversary

The recent 101st anniversary of Foxboro United church was largely attended at both morning and evening services and beautifully decorated for the occasion with baskets of fall flowers, chrysanthemums, the handiwork of God.

The Rev. R. E. Darke, minister of the church, presided, and introduced the guest speaker the Rev. Elias Andrew, M.A., B.D., Ph.D., D.Litt., principal of Queen's Theological College, Kingston. Mr. Andrews took as his message "The Threefold Blessing of the Lord" and spoke in a most impressive.

Two selections were rendered by the choir for the morning service, "The Earth is the Lord's" and "Consecration" (Dana).

At the evening service, Mr. Andrews took as his subject, "Your Call to Consecration," which was helpful and inspiring. The anthem was "Holiness Unto the Lord" by Mrs. E. Tummon and Mrs. Sills effectively rendered "Consecration Than All," with Mr. E. S. Gay as choir leader at both services. Mrs. Ellis Ashley

On Wednesday evening, a turkey supper was enjoyed by the church hall and public school hall being filled to overflowing, which necessitated the re-setting of the tables in order to accommodate all who came.

A good program was also provided following the supper by the Forest talent and the Rev. Lloyd Shorten of Peterborough, as guest speaker. Mr. Andrews occupied the chair.

The offerings from the Sunday services and from the turkey supper were most gratifying with over $1,400 being realized.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

OUT - OF - ORDER FOR "BOY FRIEND" TO GIVE HOPE CHEST

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

This year in school we have a sewing course, and I'm having a wonderful time learning to sew. We've been making household linens, principally hand towels, guest towels, kitchen towels, and now we're also learning to embroider them, either with initials or designs. This has given me the idea of starting a hope chest. I am not engaged, but I do go steady with a fellow I like very much. He has a good allowance, is generous, and lately has been hinting about what I would like him to give me for Christmas. Now that I have this idea of starting a hope chest, I'd rather he'd give me a chest for Christmas. I've never really known who is supposed to give the first hope chest. Would it be proper for a boy friend to buy it? If not so, would it be proper for me to go with him to choose it?—Gloria M.

Not so fast, Gloria, not so fast with this impulsive and distinctly incorrect idea of yours. For this boy friend to give you the full-fledged round-cornered present is completely out-of-order, and you just mustn't consider suggesting to him that you would be willing to accept such a significant present from him.

I'm quite sure that you haven't consulted your mother and father about this . . . right? A girl's parents are generally the ones who buy her a hope chest, at any time she decides she would like to have one. This is really the b e st plan. Or of course the girl may buy her own hope chest. Or when she becomes engaged, her fiance may give her a hope chest. But not a boy friend, Gloria.

PROPER FOR HER TO WALK UP CHURCH AISLE ALONE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father, whom I loved dearly, died two years ago. I had always planned that, when I was married, my father and I would walk up the aisle together. That, alas, cannot be at my marriage in about two months. But I do not want to walk up the aisle with anyone else. However, I have never seen—or heard about, a bride walking up the aisle alone. Would it be absolutely incorrect? My mother and I live together, I have always loved her dearly too, and I would like to have her give me in marriage. Would this be permissible?—B. T.

It is entirely proper for you to walk up the aisle alone, since this is your wish. This is of course not the usual precedure, but it is sometimes done, and the poised bride can carry off this procedure with a great grace, particularly when it is her own preference. And yes, it is permissible for your mother to give you in marriage (if the minister who is to perform the ceremony approves). Your mother may stand in her place (in the first pew on the left of the aisle) and respond "I do" to the minister's question "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" Or, if she prefers, she may step from the pew and carry out this part of the ceremony standing at your side.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

TREATMENT FOR SKIN PROBLEMS

There probably isn't a woman in the world who's completely satisfied with her complexion, probably not one who hasn't, at one time or another, been up against some skin problem—even if it was only temporary. But, generally speaking, the majority of where complexions are concerned, are divided into two groups—those with oily skin and those with dry skin.

Women who have oily skin complain that nothing could be worse. It's always shiny and, worse yet, is subject to enlarged pores and blackheads. Those with dry skin, on the other hand, bemoan the fact that, no matter what they do, it always looks flaky and they have to wage a constant war on lines and wrinkles.

There is no doubt but each group has a problem, but both can be solved. Oily skin is caused by overactive sebaceous glands and one of the first steps in its treatment is thorough cleaning. Soap and water is the best cleanser here. Use a good soap, making sure to rinse away all suds. After the washing, you can apply a liquid cleansing lotion, followed by an astringent. An occasional brisk rubbing with ice cubes after cleansing is also helpful.

Diet is also of vital importance in the treatment of an oily skin. Rich foods must be avoided at all cost. Eliminate fats, gravies and sweets from your diet and concentrate on lean meats, fish, poultry, lots of green vegetables, salads, fruit juices. Substitute a glass of orange juice for the afternoon chocolate soda and see the difference in your complexion. Heavy cosmetic creams and heavy make-up may also aggravate the condition so go easy on these items.

Dry skin is also caused by the sebacious glands—but underactive ones. Here's, besides following a well-balanced diet, getting plenty of exercise and fresh air, lubrication—and plenty of it—is the answer. Use rich cleansing creams morning and night. Apply body oils or baby oil after each bath. A hand cream or lotion should be used after your hands have been in hot water—no matter how many times a day. Use oily lipstick during the day and lip pommade at night so that lips won't chap.

Some persons have the type of skin that's oily in spots, say around the forehead, nose and chin, but inclined toward dryness about the nose and throat. This means that each of these areas has to be treated individually and you'll need both creams and astringents to do it.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I am a constant reader of your column and enjoy your recipes and interesting hints you have to offer. . . . Could you send me a recipe for coconut macaroons and please tell me how to get them out of the pan so they look like macaroons and not all crushed up and out of shape. Today I made some cornflake macaroons and they were a terrible trial to get out of the pan. I took them out of the pans and they came from the oven and they were not a nice shape. I hope I am not making you repeat a recipe in your column when I was away.—Ida Mae R.

ANSWER:

On your baking sheet use heavy brown paper, ungreased. Drop macaroons on it 1 inches apart then bake at 325 deg. Fahr. until delicately browned. Remove from oven and lift paper with macaroons on it to table and lay a thick wet towel on hot baking sheet. Place paperful of macaroons back on it and let stand 1 minute until steam loosens bold macaroons have on paper. Quickly slip off onto towel. Even when Don't worry you are not the only one who has this trouble. Even the macaroons spread during baking and must be shaped up from edges with knife.

A simple recipe with which you will not have this grief is

QUICK COCOANUT MACAROONS

One-half cup sweetened condensed milk, 3 cups shredded cocoanut, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix the condensed milk with the shredded cocoanut and vanilla. Drop by small spoonfuls on well-buttered pan about 1 - 2 inches apart. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until delicately browned. Remove from pan at once. Note—A delicious variation of this is the addition of 1 cup well-drained crushed canned pineapple.

QUESTION:

For a long, long time I have been a follower of yours but this time you have led me into a horrible mess . . . It was the recipe for Barb's Cucumber Rings that I thought I would try out on my Bridge Club since they were to be something extra special. The only differences in what I did was not use the variety of cucumbers you suggested, other wise I followed the recipe and of 3 lbs I started off with 2 quarts of rings and it took 3 cups of vinegar to cover them and when I put the finished product in a bottle I had about a cupful of syrup left, and what can I do with that gray tell? . . . do you suppose there was a misprint?—Connie.

ANSWER:

When Canadian press women met overseas this summer some of the food editors got into a huddle to question one another on their problems. No. One question was how do you file government and commercial releases on general food topics. No. Two was what do you do when readers have a failure? No. Three was how to cope when readers write or long-distance-telephone when they are in the midst of concocting something you have recommended and it is going wrong?

It is the eternal headache of food writers.

The recipe for Cucumber Rings is one I have made carefully and it has always turned out just as I described it—a fancy, fussy product.

Long almost seedless cucumbers should be used. If they are young skins may be left on. As the recipe specified rings should be 1-2 inch wide, not 1-4 inch. If large old cucumbers are used, naturally the flesh will be softer and more porous and will break inevitably. Overcooking would ruin them of course.

I am ever so sorry it happened, but felt my warnings in the recipe were clear enough. Do you feel that any of the "don'ts" I have added apply to any other thing you did: old cucumbers, overcooking, too-thin rings?

I sincerely hope that the carefully tested recipes I always give you will return me to your good graces and that I will win your confidence and friendship back.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'RE RIGHT! AN UNTIDY HUSBAND IS A MOTHER'S FAULT

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

A while ago, I read in your column a letter about how to treat untidy husbands. To my way of thinking it is a mother's fault when wife finds herself with an untidy man around the house.

My husband is untidy not only with his personal things but with everything else. He is one of those don't-yourself men, and is very good at everything he turns a hand to. He built our home, which is lovely, and installed all the plumbing and lighting fixtures. But while he is working at anything, and when he has finished and the left-over materials and tools are lying around, it would take a mountain goat to be able to walk without breaking a leg.

Now I do not intend to try to change his ways. This habit of his was too well grounded when he was a child, for when our two boys came I made up my mind I was not going to raise two boys who made these things hard for themselves as well as for everyone else. So I started their training while they were very young.

One of the boys was not so easy to train as the other. If he threw them straight, his clothes went on everything in the room except the floor, I never hung them up for him. Instead I would put them all in the middle of the floor. He would say: "Mom, what are my clothes doing on the floor?" and I would reply: "My pet, you can find them easier when they are all in one place." Then he would say: "But Mom, my good suit is there." I would just smile, and so would he. It only took a short period of this before everything was hung up properly.

When this boy grew old enough to drive a car with his Dad sitting beside him, his Dad said he never had to worry or watch the road. The boy had learned to be careful about everything, and so he was careful with his driving, too. But tragedy came when this boy, at only 19, was hit by another car and killed by someone who perhaps had not been taught early to be careful.

Our other boy, not 21, also learned to be careful, and to hang up his clothes no matter how tired he was when coming home in the evening. As a result, his clothes always looked tidy, even when he was away at college, and his room was also always tidy. Now he is over in England, in a position that calls for him to be well-dressed and with his early training, this comes easy.

So, mothers, let's not raise any more untidy husbands! — Mrs. A.V.R.S.

Dear, Mrs. A.V.R.S.:

Congratulations to you! You have surely raised a son who will be a joy for any wife to have around the house!

And I certainly think you make a very sound point when you suggest that untidy husbands are the fault of their mothers.

You apparently were very wise, too, in recognizing the fact that, because he had not been trained to be tidy as a child, your husband would be a difficult man to try to make over in this respect. No doubt you felt that to have the lovely home he built you, and the many other things he was able to do for you, was worth putting up with the untidiness.

I am very sorry you had such a tragedy in regard to your other son, but I'm sure he was a source of pride and happiness during the years h e was with you.

Thank you for your letter. It was most interesting, and full of very practical suggestions. I am sure this column will enjoy it as much as I did.

Rich Uranium Strike Reported In New Zealand

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — Two elderly prospectors jubilantly proclaimed tonight that a uranium ore strike they have made on New Zealand's South Island is likely to be one of the richest mineral finds in modern times.

They said that information from government scientists showed ore samples contained 2.7 per cent uranium. In addition, a private assayer told them that three other minerals found in the samples would prove more valuable than uranium. One of these is tantalite, one of the most rare and precious minerals in the world.

The ore was found on the west coast of the South island by Fredrick Cassin, 77, of Wellington, and Charles Jacobsen, 70, of Picton. They said the deposit was "huge" today after government authorities had confirmed the strike.

Cassin claims that when they put a geiger counter on the ore at the site, it bumped to a reading of 620 which is reported second only to Belgian Congo deposits.

Halloway

HALLOWAY — A number of ladies attended a demonstration party, at the home of Mrs. Earl Snider, on Monday evening.

Mr. Will Detlor of Marsh Hill, spent a Sunday recently with his daughter, Mrs. Elmer Tufts, Mr. Tufts and family.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Gordon Roth, in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Monk.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McMullen were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Coulter, of Sidney.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Robson and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Robson were: Mr. and Mrs. Don Brown, and family of Hoards: Mr. and Mrs. John Robson and Susan, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wardaugh of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Robson and David, of Stirling.

Congratulations to Mr. Eric Emerson, in winning 1st prize on his oats at the Ottawa Winter Fair. Eric entered them from R.C.I.V.S. and next week they will be exhibited at the Toronto Winter Fair, and all wish him the same good luck.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison, of Wallbridge, were Sunday afternoon and evening guests of Mrs. Herb Townsend and Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend.

FURNIT DEDICATED

On Sunday morning in Halloway United Church, a new pulpit, a gift from the Kum-Double Club was dedicated. Mr. Roscoe Robson, president of the Club, made the presentation and the Rev. E. F. Darke accepted the gift, on behalf of the congregation.

Special music was rendered by the choir and a lovely duet, by Mrs. Coleman Townsend and Mrs. Gordon Roth was enjoyed.

The Kum-Double Club met at the home of Coleman and Verna Townsend last Wednesday evening with a good attendance.A short worship service was enjoyed. The topic was given by the Rev. Mr. Darke.

Business was dealt with in the usual manner, and plans were made for the special Church service to be held for the Kum-Double Club late in November.

The club's objective for the year has been reached with the purchasing of a new pulpit for the church which is lovely, and adds to the beauty of little country edifice.

Beatrice and Earl Snider had charge of the program, and a reading by Mrs. Darke was given, also a duet by Verna Townsend and Ruth Roth. Refreshments were served by the hostess, and a social half hour was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be held on November 19th. Saturday evening, at the home of Harry and Edna McMullen.

CUT DRAFT SERVICE

LONDON (Reuters) — Communist Bulgaria today announced a reduction in the period of military draft service.

Sunday School Lesson

New Strategy For Living

By ROY L. SMITH

The reason Christianity has not taken the world captive is that the Church has, in all too many instances, presented the message of Jesus as though it were a system of theological doctrine rather than a workable strategy for living. The principles the Master laid down have been represented as commands rather than as recommendations.

CANNOT CHOOSE LIFE

Very few of us choose the things that happen to us. Like the weather, each day's events, circumstances, reverses, and contacts are beyond our control. Illness comes without warning; the crops fail in spite of our best efforts; friends desert us in emergencies; debts accumulate; we are imposed upon, misrepresented, and undercut.

Toward every experience we can take any one of a number of attitudes, and each attitude produces its own results. Our attitude will have the effect of relieving our mind, and another will have the effect of producing ulcers. And we choose our attitudes. Unlike the misfortunes which befall us, and which we do not choose, our attitudes come up from inside us and are subject to our own choice.

LIFE CAN BE MANAGED

Jesus was very positive in declaring that, in spite of the uncertainty of the things that happen to us, life can be managed successfully, happily, and constructively. If we expect to achieve such management, however, we must take the attitudes which will produce those results.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for November 13: "Jesus Teaches How to Live," Luke 6: 17-49.

In His Sermon on the Mount, of which this week's Scripture is only another version, Jesus described a series of attitudes which would, He said, produce the kind of life that would be eminently satisfactory. And He laid these principles down exactly as a clerk in a store would lay the merchandise before us. It is as though He were saying, "If this is the kind of life you want, then these are the attitudes that will produce it."

The Church through many centuries has insisted that men should declare their belief in certain doctrines and correct thinking in the field of theology is of very great importance. But in Jesus' message we find relatively little insistence upon doctrine and great insistence upon moral and spiritual attitudes. If we have any doubt about the deity of Jesus, for example, it may take a lot of study of the facts and the record to clear the matter up. But if we have any doubt about the question of the second mile or the other cheek, all we have to do is to go the second mile or turn the other cheek. If we take the right attitudes, these two principles will produce their own results.

CENTRAL PRINCIPLE

The central principle in Jesus' philosophy, or His strategy of life was love. By this He did not mean something sentimental, emotional, artificial, or pretended. As a matter of fact, there seems to have been a good many circumstances and a good many people in Jesus' life whom He did not "like." He called a few people some pretty hard names. But never once did He resent such a word or deed any ill-will toward them. On the other hand, He was graciousness and kindness to all who would permit Him to be, as in the case of the thief on the cross who begged for a place with Him "in Paradise."

THREAT TO EYE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Col. Victor Byrnes, U.S. Air Force surgeon, said Monday that the flash of an atomic bomb at a distance up to at least 12 miles could convert certain eye fluids "to steam" and literally cause an explosion of part of the retina.

PICTON

Picton to Have 3-Day Holiday At Christmas Time

PICTON — Residents of this town will have a three-day holiday, at Christmastime council decided last night.

Christmas falls on Sunday, Monday is a statutory holiday, and council voted to make the following Tuesday Boxing Day.

The town's new fire truck is without a home of its own as has been the case for several months. Earlier, council agreed that an addition be built on the present fire hall as the present fire hall is not sufficiently large to house the new equipment. Tenders were called and opened but no contract awarded.

Since then, some councillors changed their minds and agreed with Mayor H. J. McFarland's suggestion that it would be better to renovate the entire building instead of making an addition.

Councillor Randolph Clapp bitterly assailed council for shelving the matter, indicating a lack of confidence in the fire committee, he said.

MISSING 2 TURN UP

EDMONTON (CP) — Two prospectors reported unheard from since last September in northern British Columbia's Prince George area, reached their destination without mishap last Friday, an Edmonton associate of the men said Monday.

IVANHOE.—The many friends of Mr. Stanley D. Fresh extend to him sincere congratulations upon the receipt of a handsome Rolex wrist watch, suitably engraved, presented by the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario in grateful appreciation of 40 years' service.

The presentation took place at the 20th annual dinner of the Quarter Century Club held recently in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

The citizens of this community share in the honor extended to Mr. Fresh and are also grateful for his willing and kindly service to the people.

BANCROFT

Mediterranean Trip Described To Lions Club

BANCROFT. — George S. White, M.P. for Hastings-Addington, was guest speaker at Monday night's meeting of the Bancroft Lions Club held at Hotel Bancroft.

Introduced by Roy Barton, Mr. White remarked that, when accepting an invitation to speak to the club, he had asked what he should talk about. Past president Mike Burns' reply had been "Anything but politics."

Illustrating with a large number of colored slidees, the speaker told his listeners of the places and people of interest seen and met during a tour embracing most of the Mediterranean countries, some of the Near East, Switzerland, Germany and Britain.

Mr. White, who is D.F. everywhere he stayed, his Canadian citizenship became the passport to a wonderful welcome and he was proud that his countrymen were held in such esteem abroad. On one or two occasions where he encountered hostility, this was due to the fact that his party were mistakenly taken for Americans, and apparently the policies of the United States were not popular.

WON'T RELAX LAW

LONDON (AP)—The government Thursday night turned down proposals to relax Britain's law on hanging. The decision came amid a continuing campaign for abolition of the death sentence for murder.

Safety Campaign Bringing Results Declares Roberts

BRANTFORD (CP)—The Ontario highway safety campaign is producing results beyond expectations, Attorney-General Roberts said here Thursday.

Predicting that the high accident rate in Ontario could be reduced by better than 30 per cent, Mr. Roberts said that since the start of the safety campaign 18 days ago there had been a marked decrease in highway speeding, a drop in the number of traffic infractions generally, and a noticeable improvement in driving habits —and road courtesy.

The attorney-general visited here in the course of a western Ontario trip to see at first hand the operation of the safety drive.

Steam Engine Cuts Wheat Crop, Just Nostalgia

DISBURY, Alta. (CP)—The invention of modern gasoline-powered combines and tractors made the old steam engine obsolete years ago.

But once a year on the Spreesman farm near this central Alberta town, an ancient steam engine and separator are brought out of retirement long enough to provide a few thrills for oldtimers —and the younger set, for that matter.

Allan Spreesman and his sons Elmer and Walter farm 1,200 acres with 800 acres in crop. They have a liking for modern machinery and their farm is well stocked with it. But they also have a yen for something old.

This fall they again brought out a 1922 Case steam engine, reported to be the last new one sold in Alberta. The threshing machine is a 1908 Case.

ANOTHER RUN

The Spreesmans bind and stook about 30 acres of their crop each year so they can give the old outfit another run. Binding and stooking aren't necessary with the modern combine, which cuts and threshes the grain in the same operation.

Observers trekked to the Freeman farm this fall to watch the old outfit at work. Oldtimers took turns stoking the fire, adjusting the steam pressures, pulling the whistle cords—and whistling. Some of the spectators took pictures, watched and visited.

Walter Freeman said the old machines can thresh up to 4,000 bushels of wheat in a day and can turn out 700 bushels of oats an hour.

In sharp contrast to these ancient threshers were the modern tractors pulling rack wagons that brought the grain to the machines. A new truck hauled water for the steam engine and another truck hauled the grain.

There wasn't a horse in sight.

Stirling

STIRLING, — Wor. Bro. Fred Bateman, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, and several members of Springbrook Loyal Orange Lodge, attended the funeral of the late James R. Wood at the McKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, on Saturday. The interment was made in White Lake Cemetery.

Miss Marlene Moorcroft was guest soloist on Sunday at Cooper United church. The service was in charge of Mr. Arthur Wilson. West Huntingdon, owing to the illness of the pastor, the Rev. A. E. Lewis.

Mrs. Walter Elliott, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference Woman's Association and Mrs. Arthur Pryear, president Hastings and Prince Edward Presbyterian W.A., attended a convention at Fraserville last week. Mrs. Elliott gave the address.

The Stirling Retail Association has issued forms for the purpose of finding out what each adult individual in the surrounding country wishes done re opening night for the three winter months.

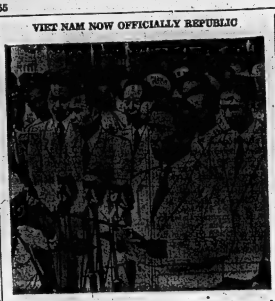
The first query asks "If you are in favor of having open night each Saturday evening as has been the custom of the past?"

The second "Would you prefer Friday evening as open night, for January, February and March?"

Each adult is being asked to mark his or her ballot and sign the query as the storekeepers wish to please the public.

Several folks in the town feel that with television and hockey games, the Saturday open night is not a good choice for the winter months, however, they have chosen on this way of getting public opinion.

The Salvation Army group of Tweed, paid a visit to Stirling on Saturday evening and canvassed the town. They also contributed a brief service on the street corner.



POPPY DAY RECEIPTS

The Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion sponsored the sale of poppies on Saturday and realized a goodly sum. The exact total will not be known for a few days until all receipts are in. The branch uses this money for their Poppy Fund, which gives direct relief to needy veterans in the community.

This year people everywhere have been asked to wear the "Memorial Flower, the blood red poppy of Flanders Fields", as a tribute of honor and remembrance to those who gave their lives for Canada.

It has been said that a lot of people wear a badge or emblem on their lapel which proclaims membership in some organization. In this way they tell the world that they are proud of that particular group. However, the greatest belief and principle is the one where men pay the supreme sacrifice that others may have freedom. For that reason, Legion officers are asking their members and other people all over Canada to procure their poppy and week; symbolizing faith in "Re-wear it proudly every day this membrance Day" on Friday, the eleventh of November.

Aussies Admit Rabbits Beat Killing Virus

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australia's rabbits are threatening to defeat scientists in the battle to exterminate the pests by means of the myxomatosis virus.

Scientists admit that the virus has lost its punch against an immunity built up by the rabbits and that myxomatosis cannot be relied on to maintain its present killing power.

An important factor in the buildup of inherited resistance has been the widespread prevalence of weakened strains of the virus. This allowed 10 per cent of the infected rabbits to recover and later to increase the population with their progeny.

With rabbits just as supeptible as they always had been to formers research officials have urged farmers to use these methods to kill off as many surviving rabbits as possible in order to prevent them from breeding in greater numbers, and so consolidate the benefit which myxomatosis has brought to Australia.

There is no precise knowledge of the monetary value of myxomatosis to Australia. Estimates run to many millions of dollars, represented in increased pasturage, increased flocks of sheep and increased wool returns.

Canadians Help to Establish New Zealand Paper Industry Now Entering World Market

By J.C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — New Zealand has begun newsprint production under conditions which open up possibilities of entry into the world market on a far wider scale than hitherto planned.

The quality of the first paper produced astonished experts from Canada and the United States who examined it.

It came from the mill of the Tasman Pulp and Paper Company at Kawerau, near the east coast of the North Island, Canadian technical skill has been extensively used in designing and installing the plant. Canadian experts occupy many of the senior posts in the project, but the capital comes from New Zealand and Britain.

CANADIAN LOGGERS

Canadian lumberjacks who came in New Zealand on three-year contracts mostly work for the Bruce Logging Company, which supplies the timber for the enterprise.

In full production the mill will turn out 75,000 tons of newsprint, 40,000 tons of pulp and 72,000,000 board feet of timber a year.

Although this country will make New Zealand newspapers virtually independent of overseas supplies, they have elected not to put all their eggs in one basket. Fearing interruption of supply from the Tasman company through any industrial dispute or plant difficulties, they have decided to maintain their long-term contracts with Canadian suppliers, while also taking a proportion of locally made newsprint.

The Tasman company has assured markets for its output, as the surplus will be exported to Australia and Britain under contracts already made.

PULP EXPORTS

In addition to the Tasman output, large supplies of pulp are now being produced for export by another firm, New Zealand Forest Products Ltd., which discovered many aspects of forest exploitation in New Zealand. For some time it has been sending pulp to Australia for use in newsprint mills there, and has recently begun shipments to Britain. It does not itself produce newsprint.

Present production is only a fraction of what is possible from New Zealand forests. Radiata pine and similar species mature about twice as fast in New Zealand as in their homelands. Most of the forests now being harvested were planted only 25 years ago.

Britain is showing increasing interest in New Zealand as a source of pulp and paper. Already there is large British capital investment in New Zealand projects and if present operations show that supplies can be shipped economically, further large investments are likely.

An enthusiastic inspection of the development by an American commercial mission has opened up prospects of New Zealand entering the North American market.

THERE'S AN AIR OF CONSPIRACY ABOUT THIS

A civic secret is whispered to Toronto's Metro chairman, Fred Gardiner, by Helen Dishra. Mr. Gardiner was trying out his best city garments—hat, chain of office and cape — which he will wear in Vancouver to witness the Toronto-Western football game on November 26 when Miss Dishra, also wearing what looks like parade costume, let him in on what a few other Torontonians plan for the event. Mr. Gardiner promised he would keep the information as though it were an atom formula. On Nov. 19 a Lecar train will take 200 Torontonians west for the game. (Central Press Canadian).

Motorists Get No More Warnings In London, Ont.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Traffic violators — both motorists and pedestrians—from now on will receive no warning but be summonsed on the spot in an intensified police drive to reduce accidents in London, it was announced Thursday by police chief C. E. Knight.

The chief said the practice of warning speeders or drivers who fail to heed stop signs or other regulations has been abandoned. Police have orders to issue court summonses to every offender caught.

He also criticized motorists who make left or right turns into the path of pedestrians legally using intersection crosswalks. The chief reminded drivers that the pedestrian has the right-of-way, and anyone who interferes with this right is liable to be summoned.

Artist at Work On New Portrait Of the Queen

LONDON (CP)—A British artist who has exhibited his works five or six times in Canada is painting a new portrait of Queen Elizabeth.

But Edward Seago's portrait will be different. He is painting the Queen mounted on her chestnut horse, Winston, and in full regalia for the Trooping the Color ceremony.

The artist, whose last exhibition in Canada was in 1951, has painted several portraits of members of the royal family, including one of King George VI in RAF uniform.

In his equestrian portrait, Seago shows the Queen against an imaginary background, with a line of scarlet-clad troops in the distance. A shaft of light, out of an otherwise dark sky, catches the Queen's scarlet uniform.

The portrait, on a five - foot canvas, was commissioned by the Coldstream Guards, and is expected to be completed while in Norfolk. Seago obtained four sittings from the Queen, and for one of them, she put on the full-dress uniform and posed on a horse in the grounds of Buckingham Palace.

Abolition of Grade System In Primary Schools Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Prof. N. V. Scarfe, University of Manitoba's dean of education, said Thursday night the present system of grouping children in grades in primary schools is "fallacious and harmful."

Addressing the Ontario Association for Curriculum Development, Prof. Scarfe suggested that children be grouped according to intellectual ability and called for the abolition of the present grade system.

The intellectual groups should be arranged early in school life on the basis of intelligence tests, teachers' assessments, and achievement tests.

Prof. Scarfe said that where possible, the groups should be kept together for all subjects through the school, and teachers should remain with the same group as home room teacher for two or three years.

He said this system would allow groups to proceed at a good pace and that all would find equally challenging problems and have roughly equal chances of success. No one would be reduced to a level or to a conformity. The urge in such classes is to be different, not to conform to a pattern," he said.

The dean said uniformity, mass regimentation and group pressures tend to depress all to an average mediocrity.

Now Reveal Italian Company Agreed Six Months Ago To Sell Vampire Jets to Egypt

By FRED ZUBY

ROME (AP)—The Middle East arms race took a new twist today with a report by authoritative sources that Egypt has a contract with an Italian firm for 30 Vampire jet fighters.

If the fighters are delivered—under an agreement reported to have been signed six months ago—it would mean Egypt getting arms from a NATO member as well as from the Communist bloc.

It seems reasonably certain that pressure will be brought on the Italian government to block delivery of the Vampires to Cairo, a dangerous arms buildup which Egyptian and Israeli guns are facing each other.

The Western powers favor holding down arms deliveries to both sides, through fear of a major Arab-Jewish conflict.

Under a barter deal of cotton for arms, Egypt already is receiving large shipments of weapons from Communist Czechoslovakia via Russian Black sea ports. This deal is reported to cover 200 Soviet-built MIG jet fighters and 100 Russian-made tanks plus half a dozen submarines, all at cut-rate prices.

A correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co. in Cairo, Wilson Hall, quoted Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser as saying recently the new Communist-supplied arms already are on the Egyptian front lines.

Informed sources gave this account of the Italian deal:

Six months ago Egypt signed a contract with the Macchi Company, which makes Vampires under licence from the British designers, for 30 planes to be paid for in cash in Italian currency.

Deliveries are expected to start next month. Egypt should have received six or eight of the planes already, but there was a hint of outside pressure causing a slowdown. Macchi gets its engines from the British manufacturer, and these have not been forthcoming.

Under a previous arrangement, Macchi delivered 16 Vampires to Egypt prior to last February.

There was no immediate comment on the deal by Egyptian sources in Rome. But Macchi officials at Varese in northern Italy. But Egyptian intelligence sources claimed that Egypt has 36 French-made Mystere jet fighters in recent months, six of them passing through Rome only 10 or 12 days ago.

The Egyptians are believed to have signed for the Vampires after the French turned down their request for Mystere. The report of Egypt's deal with Macchi may give new urgency to Israel's request for American arms aid.

Minister Moshe Sharett said his country, "if driven to a tight corner and our existence is at stake, would "seek and accept arms from any source in the world." But he is leery of offer by Russia to sell Israel weapons.

Housing Official Facing Charges Of Taking Bribes

HAMILTON (CP)—A former government housing inspector and two Hamilton men have been charged in connection with alleged payoffs in local construction operations of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

John Chapman, 32, of Brantford has been booked on four charges of accepting bribes. Alex P. Brown, a real estate man, and Emelio Anthony Tatti, a construction firm head, each was charged with giving a bribe.

Chapman appeared Thursday and was remanded to Nov. 14 on $1,000 bail. He was arrested Wednesday night.

RCMP officers said Chapman was discharged by the CMHC last September after corporation officials received complaints about defective houses in suburban Stoney Creek.

Brown and Tatti were charged in summons served Thursday afternoon. Both are ordered to appear in court Nov. 14.

Most of the complaints about houses, officials said, concerned leaky basements. The development was started a year ago and residents moved in during the summer.

Ross Moorcroft Of Madoc Wins Swine Judging

TORONTO (CP) — A three-man team of junior farmers from Durham county headed by Kenneth Storey of Bowmanville Thursday won the Ontario inter-county livestock judging competition at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

The team was presented the Jeffrey Ball Memorial Trophy for the highest total points among 29 county teams that competed. It scored 2,700 out of a possible 3,000 points.

Ken Buttery, with a personal score of 914 out of a possible 1,000 points, won the P. E. Simmons Memorial Trophy and the F. K. Morrow scholarship award.

Buttery's teammate, Clifford Bristow of Campbellcroft, had the second highest individual score of 908. Ronald Brooks of Bowmanville was the third member of the Durham team.

Teams from Lincoln county placed second and Peel county third.

Gold medals were awarded the following junior farmers as top judges in the various classes of stock: Dairy cattle—Kenneth Buttery; beef cattle—Robert Hall of Glanford Station, Wentworth county; swine—Ross Moorcroft of Madoc, Hastings county; sheep—George Pinkney of Alton, Peel county.

American Sources Convinced USSR Makes Radical Shift Back to Hard Strategy Line

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union, on the basis of what American sources regard as impressive evidence here, has made the most radical shift in its foreign policy tactics since the death of Stalin.

Unless Russian behavior at the current Big Four conference is completely deceptive, they say, the softer line of Soviet strategy has been replaced by a return to much harder tactics.

For the first time since the Kremlin started its more conciliatory approach toward the West in early 1953, a Soviet spokesman has been speaking out in blunt, uncompromising terms on great issues. Foreign Minister Molotov has made it unmistakably clear that the major aims of Soviet world policy remain unchanged.

The July smiles at the "summit" conference here have almost vanished in Molotov's November presentation of Russia's position and aims.

ON DISARMAMENT

The latest piece of evidence in this emerging pattern came Thursday when the Soviet foreign minister spoke on disarmament.

There had been speculation here that Molotov might make some gesture toward agreement with the West, perhaps on President Eisenhower's proposal for an exchange of military blueprints and reciprocal aerial inspection.

Instead, Molotov delivered the bluntest blow yet struck by a Soviet spokesman at the Eisenhower plan.

Terming Russia's attitude toward the plan "negative," Molotov rejected it, and assailed every American argument advanced in its favor. He denied that it would create confidence or could serve as a first step toward a complete disarmament program. Instead, he said, it would increase the fear of war.

Molotov said Russia's attitude would be "favorable" if the plan were tailored to Soviet demands for abolition of atomic weapons and prior development of a complete arms reduction program.

Such conditions are contrary to Eisenhower's purpose of getting some action taken immediately as a first step in working out a disarmament program.

Four Men Hurt As Light Plane Crashes in North

SUDBURY (CP) — Four men were injured Thursday when their light plane plunged into a field seconds after it took off from nearby Trout lake.

Pilot Jack Rumball of Lockerby suffered broken ribs, chest and leg injuries and deep head cuts. Three passengers, all from Sudbury, also were aboard.

Oliver Crowley, a Sudbury school teacher, suffered head and rib injuries; his son, Douglas, head and back injuries and John Heine, a broken arm, deep lacerations and shock.

The plane was bound for a hunting area south of here when the crash occurred.

Witness said three young boys fired from the path of the plane when it plummeted into the earth. Cameron Pitkethly, 9, Ricky, 6, and Billy Gardner, 9, were playing in their backyard when the plane appeared headed for a group of houses.

Charge Fourth Man in Narcotic Smuggling Case

TORONTO (CP) — Police Thursday charged a fourth man in an alleged $1,000,000 narcotic-smuggling case as the crown prepared to open its case Nov. 16.

Leo J. Craig, 53, of Toronto, was charged jointly with Mrs. Hannalure Rosenblum, 22, Jacob Rosenblat, 32, and Jack Goldhar, 48, with conspiracy to traffic in narcotics.

Craig was sent to prison in April for illegal possession of drugs. He now will be charged as a habitual criminal, police said.

Approve Toronto Tax Exemption Law for One Year

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government Thursday erected approval to a Toronto by-law providing for the assessment exemption of owner-occupied homes assessed at less than $1,400.

But, government officials said, the city is operating on an unsound principle in granting the exemptions—a form of tax rebate.

The by-law, which requires annual approval by the department of municipal affairs, has been in existence since 1921. City officials said it was passed to aid veterans of the First World War to buy their own homes.

The by-law recently has been blamed for providing unscrupulous landlords with the opportunity of paying lower taxes by letting their property depreciate. A $1,000 exemption is automatic under the provincial assessment act and the by-law has jurisdiction only over the extra $400.

Government officials said it is the last year the by-law will be approved.

Eastern Ontario Group Urges 60-Mile Limit

OTTAWA (CP)—A speed limit of 60 miles an hour on all Ontario highways was recommended Thursday in a report of the highway committee of the Eastern Ontario Development Association. The present limit is 50 miles an hour.

The report, presented by Reeve Albert Wilson of Pakenham, committee chairman, said highway safety does not depend on speed limits alone. Speeding was not the major cause of accidents. Slow drivers often caused accidents.

The report called for the establishment of some mechanical device to test the degree of impairment of drinking motorists and said driving hazards should be eliminated.

The committee also recommended establishment of four-lane toll highways, on which speeds above 60 miles an hour would be permitted. Such super highways should run parallel to free roads.

Modern conveniences in highways and motor vehicles made low speed limits unacceptable to the majority of motorists, the report said.

Psychiatrist Doubts Accused Lost Memory

KINGSTON (CP)—A psychiatrist testified Thursday that murder suspect Hilton Campbell's claim that he suffered a complete loss of memory since hours before the shooting of Mrs. Bernice Ansley is, in part, not correct.

Dr. C. S. Tennant of the Ontario department of health told a Supreme Court jury he could find no explanation for Campbell's memory lapse or loss of memory.

Dr. Tennant was the 15th crown witness to testify in Campbell's trial. The 25-year-old bachelor is charged in the July 21 fatal shooting of Mrs. Ansley, mother of two children.

Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson contended the evidence cannot be used. He said Dr. Tennant's testimony was drawn partially from evidence heard during a five-day legal argument from which the jury was excluded.

CONSULT CASES

He adjourned the trial early Thursday to examine cases which may set a legal precedent for the present case.

Dr. Tennant quoted Campbell as saying he was "feeling pretty good" after drinking with a friend, William Hogan, little more than three hours before the shooting.

"From the time of the shooting he knew what was going on. He could converse rationally with others and could remember on July 23 things that happened on the evening of the 22nd.

"The statement that he did not have any recollection of this period, was, in my opinion, not correct." Campbell was not mentally ill, Dr. Tennant said.

Earlier Thursday two detectives testified Campbell led the search for his .22-calibre sawed-off rifle two days after the shooting. The rifle has not been found.

Youth Who Shot R.C. Priest Was 'Legally Insane'—Doctor

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A psychiatrist called by the defence says the youth who named himself as the killer of a Roman Catholic priest was "legally insane" at the time of the shooting.

Guy Ferrarge, 18, of Riviere des Prairies, Que., was described Thursday by Dr. Robert Genest of Montreal as a person who had "completely lost control of his mind."

Dr. Genest was the first witness called by the defence in the murder trial of Ferrarge and his two companions. Gerard de Tonnancourt, 18, and Claude Paquin, 18, of Montreal. They are charged in the shooting Jan. 9 of Rev. Alfred Guilbon, 46, of St. Edouard, Alta., on a highway near here.

Dr. Genest described Ferrarge as living in a dream world "out of contact with reality and indifferent to joy and sorrow." His testimony was given in English under direction of defence counsel Harry Walsh of Winnipeg.

EXAMINER YOUTH

Dr. Genest, on the stand for 3½ hours, had examined Ferrarge at the Brandon jail last Feb. 28 and had again examined him this month. He also had obtained information and history on Ferrarge from his parents, brothers and others.

Asked by Mr. Walsh to describe the mental condition of Ferrarge Jan. 9, Dr. Genest replied:

"I think he was from compos mentis and surely legally insane."

The psychiatrist defined non compos mentis as a condition that left the mind of the person upset so that he could not distinguish between right and wrong.

A statement signed by Ferrarge after his arrest was read Thursday to the Court of Queen's Bench jury.

"I shot at the man with the .32 that I had taken out . . .", it said. "I do not know if I fired two shots, three shots, I do not know. . . ."

INDIFFERENT TO EMOTION

He told Ferrarge had a pernicious complex, had refused to go to school, and showed every evidence of being out of contact with reality and indifferent to joy, sorrow and responsibility.

In cross-examination by crown attorney F. O. Meighen, Dr. Genest admitted that the testimony was "opinion only," but he insisted it was opinion based on years of experience in psychiatric practice.

Under further questioning by the crown, he said the difference between insane and legally insane was that "when insane he might see a little light of good and bad, but when he is legally insane he would not be able to distinguish between right and wrong."

Denies That Liberals Ignoring Parliament

WINNIPEG (CP)—Solicitor-General W. Ross Macdonald, federal government leader in the Senate, says the opposition's contention that the Liberals are ignoring Parliament is a "myth".

He told the annual convention of the Manitoba Liberal-Progressive Association Wednesday that the last session of Parliament was the longest in history and that the government allowed opposition speakers more than twice the time for debate that it had for itself.

Wheat Crown In Garden Wins World Title

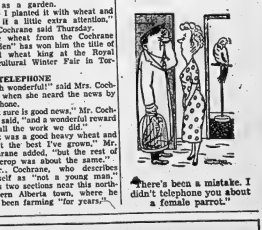
GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cochrane returned from a trip to the United States and Mexico first spring to find that their son, "Jim, 27, had been crowned king of the Soil-Sow-and Harvest.

Cochrane house that normally was used as a garden.

"So I planted it with wheat and gave it a little extra attention," Mr. Cochrane said modestly.

The wheat from the Cochrane "garden" also won the title of world wheat king at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in Toronto.

BY TELEPHONE



"Oh wonderful!" said Mrs. Cochrane when she heard the news by telephone.

"It sure is good news," Mr. Cochrane said, "and a wonderful reward for all the work we did."

"It was a good heavy wheat and about the best I've grown," Mr. Cochrane added, "but the rest of the crop was about the same."

Mr. Cochrane, who describes himself as "not a young man," owns two sections near this northwestern Alberta town, where he has been farming "for years."

Urges Govt. Buy in U.K. To Aid Wheat Sales

MAPLE CREEK, Sask. (CP) — Increased investment by people in the United Kingdom to boost Canadian wheat exports was urged Wednesday night by Social Credit leader Coldwell.

He proposed that as one of several ways of "clearing the trade bottlenecks which now are almost completely blocking the movement of Canadian wheat."

Mr. Coldwell said last year the government spent nearly $150,000,000 in the United States—more than the total value of all wheat sales to Britain. Less than $25,000,000 in government purchases were in the U.K.

A substantial proportion of the U.S. purchases could have been made instead in the U.K.—"enough to improve very materially the ability of the United Kingdom to buy Canadian wheat and other primary products we have to sell."

The statements were included in the partial text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Want Beer Price Fixed by Board

WINNIPEG (CP) — Control of beer prices by an independent board—a move which would be unprecedented in Canada—was recommended in the final report of the Manitoba liquor inquiry commission.

The recommendation, backed by three members of the five-man commission, urged that prices be set by a "permanent, non-political body competent to decide that the price is one which allows a reasonable return to the brewers and at the same time respects the interests of the consumer." The commission is headed by former premier John Bracken.

Under the commission's proposal, the board also would consider guidelines for prices to be charged for a particular outlet to profits earned by that outlet. Some licensed hotels in the province now were making excessive profits, the report said.

The recommendation suggested appointment of a three-man publicity board to determine brewery beer prices, liquor outlet licence fees and the markup for retail sale in new outlets.

Prices negotiated by the liquor commission would be submitted for the board's approval. If no agreement could be reached, the dispute would come to a hearing of the pricing board which would make a ruling binding on both parties.

Divorce Ends War Romance

LONDON (Reuters) — British war heroine Odette Churchill, 43, who saved her commander's life by feigning marriage to him in occupied France—and then wed in real life — was divorced Thursday.

Her husband, Capt. Peter Morland Churchill, author, lecturer and leader of her underground resistance group during the Nazi occupation, was granted a decree nisi (valid in six weeks) on the grounds of her adultery with a man identified as Geoffrey McLeod Hallowes.

The case was not defended and the co-respondent was ordered to pay costs.

Odette Marie Leonie Celine Churchill, French-born British subject, was parachuted into France as a British agent during the Second World War, was eventually captured, tortured and held in Gestapo cells and concentration camps until 1945.

To fool the Gestapo during one of her escapades she pretended that she and Capt. Churchill were married. That saved the captain's life and in 1947 they were really married in London.

She was the first woman to receive the George Cross, highest British non-combatant award for bravery.

BEACHES AGREEMENT

DETROIT (AP) — The Studebaker-Packard Corporation and the United Auto Workers (CIO) reached agreement Wednesday on a new three-year contract covering 10,000 Packard division employees in Detroit. It carries a layoff pay plan. Negotiations on a contract to cover 9,000 Studebaker division employees at South Bend, Ind., are continuing.

IVANHOE

Beulah United Church WMS Sponsors Successful Bazaar

IVANHOE. — A most successful bazaar was held on Friday afternoon in Huntingdale township hall, Ivanhoe, sponsored by the Beulah United church W.M.S.

Visitors were in attendance from Madoc, Stirling, Harold, Napanee, West Huntingdale and Crookston.

Mrs. Keith Bray, 1st vice-president, of Beulah W.M.S., presided and extended a warm welcome to all.

PROGRAM

Mrs. Bray opened the program by reading a poem, "Gleaning Time". All joined in singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds", with Mrs. George Wood at the piano. Mrs. Hugh MacMillan led in prayer.

The following numbers were given by the visiting societies: reading, "God is Right Next Door," Mrs. Zivin Holland, Bethesda, W.A.; solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere", Mrs. R. Jackson, Trinity United church W.M.S., Madoc; solo, "Jesus Is My Next Door Neighbor", Mrs. Ed. Colden, St. Thomas' Anglican; reading, "Farm For Sale", Mrs. Harold Holden, Salem W.A.; solo, "The Bible Tells Me So," Mrs. A. Hassall, St. Andrew's Presbyterian church W.M.S.

Mrs. Albert Empey, Mrs. Delbert Carman of Madoc, and Mrs. Gaynor Rendall, Deseronto, spoke briefly.

The guest speaker, Mrs. A. Packman of Stirling, was introduced by Mrs. S. Twiddy.

Mrs. Packman gave an inspiring and appropriate address based on the latter part of verse 17, Psalm 90, "the work of our hands, establish thou it."

"For the past year, many hands have been busy fashioning articles for this bazaar. May you be richly blest in your labour. All of us like to have well kept hands, but what kind of hands do you think God likes to see? Hands that are free from the stain of sin, hands that are kind, helpful and loving.

"Hands are helpless without the mind. We have to think before we make or design. So hands can be used for good and evil purposes. God has given us our hands 'let us be grateful and use them for His work.

"The Master has called us to a wonderful calling. We as individuals must give our lives to the glory of God that the church on earth may be strengthened by our prayers and by our sacrifices. We must give Christ the central place in our hearts, our homes, church and community life. Only God knows how far reaching our work will be. Cease your worry. No child of God should worry."

CHINESE PROVERB

The guest speaker used a number of interesting stories by way of illustration and closed her fine address with an old Chinese proverb:

"If there is righteousness in the heart,
There will be beauty in the character.
If there is beauty in the character,
There will be harmony in the home,
If there is harmony in the home,
There will be order in the nation.
If there is order in the nation,
There will be peace in the world."

Mrs. Bray expressed thanks to Mrs. Packman and to all who had contributed to the program.

A delicious afternoon tea was served by the ladies and the bazaar was opened.

The tables were attractively arranged. A home-cooking was convened by Mrs. Don Reid, Mrs. E. McMaster and Mrs. George Tesky. Delicious tarts, pies, cookies, buns, layer cakes sold quickly.

Mrs. R. Twiddy, Mrs. George Wood and Mrs. Goldie McInroy displayed aprons, quilts, fancy work, children's wear, knitting, embroidery, cushions, infants' wear, pot holders, mats and novelties.

Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. Earl Benson were in charge of the Country Store, with its house plants and cut flowers. Here one could find relishes, eggs, sweet apples, onions and carrots.

Labor Member Says His Charge Was Erroneous

LONDON (AP)—A Labor member of Parliament has withdrawn his accusation that Harold Philby, former British diplomat, was the "third man" who tipped off spies Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean that they were under investigation.

Lt.-Col. Marcus Lipton told the House of Commons that after further study he "was satisfied that Mr. Philby was not the person who warned Burgess or Maclean or engaged in dubious third party activities."

Lipton had made the accusation in a question in the House on Oct. 25.

Subsequently Philby challenged Lipton to make the charge outside Parliament where it could be challenged legally on grounds of libel or slander.

He said the accusation was based on "comment and gossip."

Mrs. Sidmer Reid and Mrs. P. Cooney convened the home-made candy and cook books. The latter were compiled by the members of Beulah W.M.S.

The ladies realised $102.

Bandits Kill 100 in Sumatra

MEDAN, Sumatra (AP)—Darul Islam bandits captured a small town and killed 100 persons in a series of rebel raids in north Sumatra, police and military authorities, announced Thursday.

They said outlaws took the town of Reunoon and killed all the members of the Moslem peasant's Peril political party in sight, hurling the bodies into nearby rivers. The Peril party is Communist-dominated.

Police said the raiders also kidnapped many Communists and pro-Communist nationalist workers.

Mare Worth $10,000 Stolen at Dunbarton

DUNBARTON (CP) — A black mare in foal, valued at $10,000, was reported stolen Wednesday night.

Dunbarton is 20 miles east of Toronto.

The mare, named Target, is owned by Sheila Moore, 17, daughter of W. G. Moore. It is a thoroughbred with a four-year-old imported from the United States and was given to Sheila by her father.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Messrs. Hugh MacMillan, William MacMillan, Frank Reid, Walton Reid, Milton Shaw, Wayne Shaw are deer hunting in North Hastings.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benson and Patsy, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw attended anniversary services at Mt. Pleasant on Sunday and were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thrasher.

Mrs. F. Benson, Mrs. J. C. Sills, Mrs. William Shaw, Mrs. John Wallace, Mrs. William Donnan and Miss Beatie Fleming attended the Conference for all Adult Leaders, held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, last Friday.

Mrs. Roy Belshaw visited her mother Mrs. Henry Wallace, on Sunday.

The sympathy of this community is extended to the sorrowing family of the late Mrs. Fred Reid, whose death occurred at Belleville General Hospital, on Monday.

Mrs. Reid was a good mother, a faithful friend, and a kind neighbor. She will be missed from her place in the home, the church and the community.

Alberta Farmers Win Wheat, Rye, Barley Crowns

TORONTO (CP) — Five world grain championships were announced by the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair Thursday.

The world wheat championship, which last year was won by an Ontario man for the first time, returned to more traditional form with the naming of Robert Cochrane of Grande Prairie, Alta., as winner.

Alberta this year can also boast world championships in barley and rye. The barley crown went to R.W. Hummel of Milk River, and the rye crown to Jack McBride of Benalto.

An Ohio grower won the world corn championship. He was W. C. Kirk of Jeffersonville. In the three previous years Indiana entries won and prior to that for three years it went to Illinois growers.

TO SCOTLAND

For the second consecutive year the world oats championship went to Scotland. Winner was William Sharp of Castleton Banff. The reserve champion was also a Scotsman, Edmond William of Stirling.

Alberta and Saskatchewan growers won the title regularly prior to last year.

The international championship for seed potatoes, also announced Thursday, went to S. A. Macaulay of East Baltic, P.E.I.

Thursday, went to S. A. Macaulay of East Baltic, P.E.I.

A variety of spring wheat won the world crown for Mr. Cochrane. Winter wheat champion was Essoms of Spalding, England.

Doolittle Fears Reds Know Much About Missiles

TORONTO (CP)—Lt.-Gen. J. H. (Jimmy) Doolittle, United States hero of the first Tokyo bombing raid, said Thursday Russia may be "far along the road" to developing a long-range guided missile that could destroy the heart of North America.

He said the Russians gained much knowledge about guided missiles from the Germans after the Second World War and have made intensive research since then.

"We must not let them beat us to this so-called ultimate missile," the 59-year-old general told the Empire Club. "The tragic consequences that await us if we do are beyond comprehension."

RCAF Photographic Centre Established

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF Thursday announced establishment of a new unit at nearby Rockcliffe air station—the photographic intelligence centre.

The centre, commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Earle T. Arnold, 40, of St. Thomas will include the personnel of, and do the work formerly performed by, the photographic interpretation section of 408 Photo Squadron.

The centre will provide interpretation of aerial photographs for use by Canada's mobile striking force, and of all aerial reconnaissance photographs. It will also prepare mosaic photographs and photographic maps for the air force.

APPOINT GENERALS

BONN (AP)—The first two generals of the new West German army were appointed Thursday by President Theodor Heuss. Adolf Heusinger and Hans Speidel—both lieutenant - generals in Hitler's Wehrmacht—were named to the same rank in the armed force that West Germany will build in the Atlantic alliance.

Court Quashes Forest Hill Move to Block Fluoridation

TORONTO (CP)—A court judgment has cleared the way for fluoridation of drinking water piped to more than 1,000,000 residents in metropolitan Toronto.

Mr. Justice F. G. MacKay of the Ontario Appeal Court, Thursday rejected an attempt to quash the metropolitan Toronto by-law calling for addition of fluorine to the municipal water supply.

The water will be fluoridated by next April, metropolitan council chairman Fred G. Gardiner said after the judgment was announced.

Forest Hill, one of the 13 municipalities forming the metropolitan area, had claimed metro had no power to pass the by-law and no competence to carry it out.

Addition of the chemical to Toronto's supply will bring the number of fluoridated water system's in Ontario to 39. More than 20 Ontario municipalities have public water supplies in which fluorine appears naturally.

Got Sick Leave To Wrestle

MONTREAL (CP) — The Montreal police department Thursday suspended a constable who went sick leave a month ago to become a professional wrestler in western Ontario.

Chief Inspector Ernest Pleau said the department found Const. Emile Votero has been wrestling for the last month under the name of Jumping Joe de Valleau.

Former Queen's Dean of Medicine Dies Thursday

KINGSTON (CP)—Dr. Frederick Etherington, 77, surgeon and former dean of medicine at Queen's University died Thursday.

He was dean of medicine here for 14 years.

Born in Gananoque, he came to Queen's as a youth and soon won for himself a place among the Tricolor's football greats.

He was a pioneer in the prison reform movement, being a member of a three-man commission which probed practices at Kingston pen'tentiary in 1913. During the First World War he was overseas as colonel-in-charge of No. 2 Stationary Hospital, later No. 7 Canadian General Hospital, staffed from Queen's.

WIELDED INFLUENCE

A past president of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons and a past president of the Medical Council of Canada, until the time of his death, Dr. Etherington wielded a national influence among his medical confreres.

On his retirement in 1943, he received an LL.D. from Queen's and was made emeritus professor.

In 1923 Dr. Etherington was appointed associate professor of surgery at Queen's. In October, 1925, he was appointed to a five-year term as dean of medicine, succeeding Dr. J. C. Connell. In October, 1934, he was reappointed dean without any time limit, and in October, 1938, was made a full professor.

Charge 3 Men With Fraud

TORONTO (CP) — Three men charged with fraud in connection with $100,000 in St. Lawrence seaway contract promises appeared in court Thursday.

The men are Stanley Garden, 52, of North York, Harry Ferkovich, 44, and Mike Yakubuta, 38, both of Toronto. They face 15 fraud charges.

Police said 40 immigrants reported losing money on seaway contract promises but 22 won't lay charges. Total loss may be over $100,000, police said.

The first crown witness, Pepi Neuboeck, 35, said he paid Garden a $2,000 deposit on a $5,000 truck this year. Garden had told him he had a tie-in with the Seaway Authority and would get him trucking contracts, Neuboeck said.

Will Not Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney General Kelso Roberts changed his mind Thursday about appealing the case of Leopold Loudas, of Lakeview, convicted of careless driving and speeding at 108 miles an hour.

Loudas had paid a $100 fine and had his licence suspended for three months. Mr. Roberts said at the time he was not satisfied with the decision and would ask for a magistrate's report.

Thursday he said that if Loudas had been speeding three days later —at the opening of the provincial police crackdown on speeders—the case would have been appealed.

Truck delivery was promised within five weeks, he said. He waited seven weeks and then phoned police.

Six U.S. High School Students Killed in Car-Train Collision

GLENCOE, Minn. (AP) — Six Minnesota high school students—four boys and two girls—were killed Thursday night when their car was struck by a Milwaukee Railroad passenger train at a grade crossing near here.

Sheriff Leon Odegaard said the car was smashed "so badly I don't think a junk yard would want it." Bits of metal and the broken bodies were scattered 200 yards along the tracks.

The body of one victim, a girl, was so badly mutilated that identification could not be made immediately.

The crash disabled the diesel locomotive of the train, a local bound for Aberdeen, S. D. out of Minneapolis, 55 miles northeast of here. The impact smashed 4 steamline on the locomotive and the train was delayed more than three hours.

It was Minnesota's second mass traffic tragedy of the week. Early Monday five young Minneapolis women perished when their car skidded on ice and plunged into the Minnesota river.

RYLSTONE

Young Couples Honored By Communities

RYLSTONE—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morton was filled to capacity on Thursday night, when the community turned out to honor their son, Jim, and his bride, Jan Ingram of Campbellford, at a miscellaneous shower. Murray Mckleljohn acted as chairman for the following program — chairman's address; piano solo, "Wake the Town and Tell the People", by Anne Reid; reading, by Mrs. Murray Mcklelohn; vocal and guitar solo, "Faith, Hope and Charity", by Wallie Jackson of Springbrook; vocal duet, "Sing Her a Love Song," by Patsy and Sherry Spencer; reading, "How to Cook a Husband," by Mrs. Fred Barnum; guitar solo, "Steel Guitar Rag," by Freddie Spencer; girls' quintet, "Pass the Plate of Happiness Around," by Misses Norma Petherick, Anne Reid and Dorothy and Donna Morton; vocal duet with guitar accompaniment, "Give My Love to Nellie Jack," by Mrs. Ralph Heath and Mrs. Walter Heidt; address to bride and groom read by Billie McKeown, to which the bride and groom both made suitable replies.

On Friday night, the communities of Springbrook and Rylstone met together in the Orange hall, Springbrook, to honor Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spencer, (nee Marilyn Bateman) of Springbrook, at a shower. Chairman for the following program was Frank Cosbey of Rosaries— chairman's address; piano solo, "Tarantula," by Agnes McKeown; reading, "The Brighter Side," by Lindsay Finch; vocal trio "Oh Baby Mine" by the Spencer sisters, Margaret, Patsy and Sherry with piano accompaniment by Margaret Spencer; guitar and vocal solo, "The Kentuckian" and "When I Get My Money Made," by Bob Spencer.

"Whispering Hope" was sung by the 5th Line quartet, Norma Petherick, Dorothy and Donna Morton and Anne Reid.

Marilyn and Jack were called to the platform and an address was read by Aarm Anderson and a purse of money presented by Cameron Mckleljohn. Both the bride and bridegroom responded with a few words of thanks to those responsible for the shower and also for all the lovely gifts.

BRIEF ADDRESSES

Wilfrid Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Harper Bateman and the Rev. H. E. Beare all made short speeches.

Bob Spencer sang "I Didn't Know", and "I Wonder How the Old Folks are at Home," with guitar accompaniment.

The crowd sang "They are Jolly Good Fellows."

Refreshments were served in the basement and music for dancing was supplied by Phil Beaudrie, violin and Mrs. Albert Bassett, piano.

BRAND ANTI-FREEZE

to keep your car on the GO this winter and your engine FIT for next summer

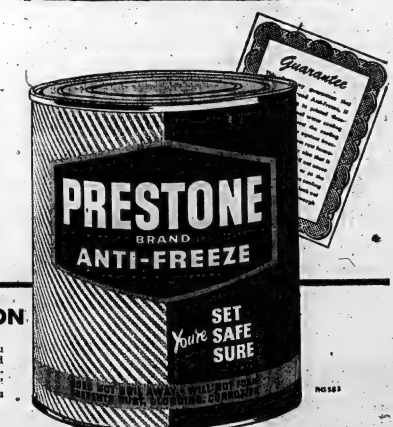
Think of June as well as January when you buy anti-freeze this fall. An anti-freeze which gives freeze-up protection and little else may not damage your car's engine this winter, but it can cause you plenty of trouble next summer.

Why?—Because the modern cooling system is a highly critical factor in efficient engine operation. It demands an anti-freeze which not only eliminates the possibility of freeze-up but also provides superior protection against foaming, seepage, acid contamination and rust.



"Prestone" Anti-Freeze does all this and more. It coats the cooling system completely with a thin, rugged Polar Film inhibitor. This special protective film protects the cooling system against rust, corrosion and deterioration. "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze is the one and only anti-freeze designed to give your car this complete protection.

Use "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze to keep your car's cooling system clean and tight. Get more miles per gallon with a smoother-running engine this winter. Enjoy the benefits of a cooler, smoother-running engine next summer.*

So, don't ask for trouble. Play it safe with "Prestone" Anti-Freeze . . . the one brand that will keep your car on the GO this winter . . . your engine FIT for next summer.

*For peak performance next summer, drain your anti-freeze in the spring and replace it with water and rust inhibitor, as recommended by all automotive authorities.

Remember—there is only one "Prestone" Anti-Freeze

it's time for "Prime"
GAS LINE ANTI-FREEZE

"Prime" Gas Line Anti-Freeze and Conditioner prevents every inch of your car's fuel system from freezing . . . stops engine stalls caused by carburetor icing—a problem in modern cars even at temperatures 20 degrees above freezing. Prevents corrosion from water condensation, winter and summer. Use a can with every tankful of gas!

A WORD OF CAUTION

No matter what anybody tells you —there's only one "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze. There's no other anti-freeze like it. Insist on "Prestone" Brand . . . and you can get it : : : anywhere!

Pa-Rousseau Wan Beeg Hockey Fan He Has Cinque Fils Playing the Game

MONTREAL (CP)—Papa Oscar Rousseau of the St. Hyacinthe Rousseaus has every right to be a rabid hockey fan. He has five sons playing in organized hockey, from professional to junior.

In the Rousseau household any subject other than hockey is the most taboo as conversation. The No. 1 fan of this unusual family brother it would like to see all of his sons some day make the grade as regulars with Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Rollie, 22, is the oldest and is married. He is something of a spokesman and general overseer for his brothers. They are Guy, 20; Jean, 18; Gilles, 17, and Robert, 15. There's also eight-year-old Michel, already a nifty little skater.

NORTHWORTHY PASS

Rollie may be the boss among the troupe, but Guy has already achieved a distinction in hockey that none of the others ever can reach. Guy supplied the pass to Maurice (Rocket) Richard a year ago when Montreal Canadiens' famous scoring combine was formed. In all of his NHL career, The little Rousseau winger was playing a three-game lead-less term with the "big team," having been brought up from junior ranks.

Rollie is the only defenceman among the five. Both he and Guy, a left-winger, are currently with Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League. Jean, centre, and Gilles and Robert, both left-wingers, are playing with St. Johns Braves of the Metropolitan Junior League—a big, new junior organization this season embracing 10 teams from the Montreal and nearby areas.

The Rousseaus are comparatively small, by professional hockey standards, but they are speedsters and fearless and all have "hockey brains." The boys average five feet, eight inches in height. Rollie is the heaviest at 175 pounds; Robert the lightest at 125.

If there's a "pet" among them, it's Robert. The 15-year-old youngster is rated a fine prospect by Roger Gaudette, a former star in the old senior league and now Robert's coach.

Rollie has played pro hockey with Cincinnati and Buffalo as well as with Royals. He has also filled in a few games with the NHL Canadiens. Guy was third highest scorer in the Quebec Junior Hockey League last season when both he and Jean played with Quebec Frontenacs.

Dutchies Whip Maroons 11-2; Back on Top

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen moved back into undisputed possession of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series by trounching Chatham Maroons 11-2 here Thursday night before 1,833 fans.

Stratford Indians are second two points behind and the clubs play here Saturday.

The Maroons, beaten 13-2 in Stratford Wednesday night, were disorganized and often ineffective little against the pin-point passing of the Ken Laufman - George Scholes - Gerry Theberge line. They picked up 20 points. Laufman getting 10 with four goals and six assists. Scholes had two goals and four assists and Theberge two goals and two assists.

Charlie Brooker, Bud Kemp and Jim Logan got the other Dutchmen tallies.

Ernie Dick and Chick Chalmers counted for the Maroons, both goals coming in the first period. Chatham drew four of seven minor penalties.

The Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran Ted Lindsay of Detroit zapped in his 10th goal of the season Thursday to take over undisputed leadership in that department in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Lindsay broke a three-way tie for the goal-getting leadership. Bob Murphy, who has nine, failed to score as the Rangers bowed 5-1 to Boston and Tod Sloan of Toronto, also with nine, was idle.

Stampeders Had Lower Revenues

CALGARY (CP)—Bootholders of the Calgary Stampeders Club at a special meeting Thursday night approved a resolution to turn over an estimated $30,000—representing the sinking fund payments for 1954 and 1955—as a means of meeting the current indebtedness of the football club.

The governors already have voted to turn over an additional $30,000, representing receipts from the $100-a-plate dinners, to help reduce the club deficit.

In a letter to bootholders in mid-October club president Ed O'Connor said the club had been faced with decreased revenues of about $14,000 from exhibition games plus reduced home game gate receipts for the 1955 season of about $40,000. The club had a $19,000 cash deficit at the end of the 1954 season.

Boudreau Denies Kansas City Used Telescope

CHICAGO (AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau of Kansas City Athletics Thursday scoffed at published reports the Athletics used a supervisor's telescope in the ball pen to steal signs in the crucial American League rivals last summer.

"It is not true, to my knowledge," said Boudreau.

"I read where this was supposed to be a well-kept secret," said Boudreau. "It was no secret if the Yankees or any other club knew about it, as this report implies.

Asked whether his "to my knowledge" qualification might indicate the players in the center field ball pen used a telescope and signalled pitchers on their own, Boudreau replied:

"I don't know how any manager would not be aware of such a thing."

The published story said the supervisor's telescope was borrowed from a group of workmen at the Athletics' ball park and Kansas City ball pen pitchers would steal signs of rival catchers.

A bunched-up towel on the ball-pen fence would up a signalled pitch, but the towel was removed, a fast ball was due.

Eskys Rated 6-5 Favorites Over Winnipeg Blue Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP)—The defending Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos, despite a long layoff, have been installed as 6-to-5 favorites to defeat Winnipeg Blue Bombers today in the opening game of their best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

Second game of the series will be played at Edmonton next Wednesday and the third, if necessary, in Edmonton, Nov. 19.

Eaks, runaway winners of the league schedule, were sitting quietly on the sidelines during the time Bombers polished off the second place Saskatchewan Roughriders 24-16 in a two-game, total-point semi-final.

Nursing several bruises from the rugged Riders series, Bombers will go along with the same lineup that carried them past Saskatchewan, Coach Al Sherman announced after a 40-minute workout Thursday night at Winnipeg Stadium, site of today's battle, which starts at 2 p.m. CST (3 p.m. EST).

Eaks also had a short limbering-up session at the stadium, which now has its playing field covered by a giant tarpaulin.

Thursday's warm sun and speedy work by stadium workmen apparently has the field in much better shape than was figured Wednesday following an overnight fall of heavy, wet snow. Scrapers cleared the snow, and the sun practically dried it off. So back went the tarp, which had been left off Tuesday night following a high school football game.

Sherman considered the playing field in "terrific shape, considering the weather we've had. You can't give manager Johnny Peyten too much credit."

Verdun Meets Windsor Juniors

MONTREAL (CP) — Verdun Shamcats set out Thursday night for Windsor and a third straight crack at beating the Windsor AKO junior football club.

The two teams meet Saturday in a sudden-death game for the eastern Canada junior football title.

So far the team from suburban Verdun has come to grief twice in the last two years at the hands of coach Al Newman's AKO. Two years ago they dropped a 26-13 count in Windsor and last year, when Windsor went on to take the Dominion title, they were whacked 43-1 at Verdun.

Verdun this year is considered a stronger team than that which entered the eastern Canada final in previous years.

HAVE WIN 10

They have won all 10 games they played this season. They took eight regular season games and then thumped Ottawa Cobra Lascers 17-5 in the Quebec final last Saturday, in addition, the Shamcats captured a 13-10 decision from an intermediate M C G I I I University team in a mid season exhibition.

The Verdun crew has 16 holdovers from the team that met Windsor last fall. That number includes a healthy chunk of the backfield.

The halfbacks include Alf Swinski, league scoring champion with seven touchdowns.

Verdun, ordinarily a straight T-formation team, has been practising the split-T in preparation for the Windsor game.

An Exclusive Interview by Wm. Neal

TORONTO, ONT. (Special)—M. Lewis, Director of Lewis Hair Experts of Canada exploded the "myth of baldness" today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly, and a plague to mankind," says Lewis. "No man need be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age that is forced upon him because he is losing his hair. The Lewis method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness —can turn colorless fuzz into healthy into growing hair — can make you look youthful again.

DEMONSTRATION TO BE HELD IN BELLEVILLE, ONT.

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Belleville at the Quinte Hotel on Saturday, Nov. 12 ONLY.

Trichologist M. Lewis will conduct the private individual interviews from 12 noon until 9.00 p.m. on Nov. 12 only. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

REASON FOR BALDNESS

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is infected with dandruff, excessive oiliness, or extreme dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes women too, walk the streets today, completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament — hair—simply because they were not taught the basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer", emphasized this expert, "is that children should be taught the same simple rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today."

HEREDITY NOT INVOLVED

Trichologist Lewis dodged no issues. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness — heredity "Man-kind's unrealistic belief that baldness is hereditary stems from a misinterpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families a tendency exists towards an undernourished scalp." The purpose of Lewis Hair and Scalp experts is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition." A healthy scalp will grow hair, if it is not already completely bald", assures Lewis.

IS THERE HOPE FOR THE COMPLETELY BALD?

In his travels throughout the United States and Canada Lewis has collected hundreds of testimonials of his ability to develop weak fuzz into healthy mature hair. All of his clients had started with a private examination, hair and scalp analysis and a diagnosis of the disorder. Lewis is quick however to tell a hopeless case that he cannot be helped. "We strongly advise", says Lewis, "that no person who is completely bald hold any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there is any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

OFFERS A GUARANTEE

"Lewis Hair Experts of Canada, offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted with results at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," pledges Lewis. "We must have satisfied clients. We must regrow hair. After all, it is our best advertisement."

IS YOUR HAIR HEALTHY?

If you have a scalp disorder or if you are worried about your hair, call at the Quinte Hotel from 12 noon to 9 p.m. The public is invited. The examinations are private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

MAGGIES TONIGHT

There's a fightin-mad crew down Brockville way who step on the ice in Memorial Arena tonight to do puck combat with the Cox clan, who, themselves have a little vindication to get off their chests.

The Magedomas from the riverside town will be here at full strength, headed by their amiable, but determined boss-man, Ritch Stanford, who contrary to his usual sweet self is in a mood that would make a jungle-joined warhanger Zolo look like an emissary at a peace conference.

It seems that the old adage "the well-laid plans of mice and men" has worked itself to death as far as the genial Ritch is concerned. He went out and got himself a bevy of rubber-chasers that, on paper, looked a formidable ice-lane host, but this far have been able to come up with a lone win.

The other night in Roddenville the Magedomas, who, the story goes, are named after a mythical John Bunyan who roamed the countryside down Brockville way before the Indians decided to make stake meat out of him—or was it the guy who lost his penny when a stiff St. Lawrence breeze sent it fluttering to destruction and he decided to build himself a new bonnet and thus started the local hat factory, seemingly had the tussle with the revamped Goodyears in the bag, when everything happened.

Anaboo, by the time the piccolos tooted the end of full time the Maggies found themselves all tied up in a 4-4 tussle with the Corky Clan. Then, the story goes the joust went into the time-and-a-half session and the Maggies promptly fell apart before the determined onslaughts of the Douglas crew who swiftly reaped the four markers for their second victory of the young season.

From then on potential money-seekers have steered clear of the Stanford menage.. The Maggies' boss has been cornier than a grizzly with a toothache and he has even begun to chide himself. In any event he gave Coach Emile Dagenais, part of the three brothers act in the senior B group, strict orders to whip the club into game-winning shape or he would—cut off their pablum rations and cancel their Saturday morning passes to the cartoon series at the local Bijou.

Emile, b'gar, took the boss at his word, and the Maggies have been traipsing up and down the ice like American tourists looking for uranium deposits. And tonight they are fully determined the extra exercise will pay off at the expense of the TPT's. Dagenais will centre Al Kunts and Nobby Wilson on the Maggies' first string of goal-seekers, while Gordie Joiner will strut between Marcel Legris and Lyo Gibson. Edwin and Erwin Dumesh will be on hand, the hefty cusses, along with Paul McManus, who will patrol the left boards. Hal Hockhorst with Don Thomson and Pat Frost will look after the defence chores while Johnny Bourada, last year with the Clinton Comets, will do the pipe-fanning.

Meanwhile, word from the Cox camp has it that the estimable Danny has the TPT's in fighting mood. They have been sent through stiff practice grinds all week after the lethargic showing their last time out against the Whitby Dunlops and tonight should see them in top fighting trim. They will be augmented by Bob Taylor, who will be making his first appearance in a TPT uniform and the big fella should add a lot of punch to the attack. Cox has Taylor working out with Nobber Day and Pat Gilmour in an experimental move, alternately shifting Peter Jones into the front line slot.

So all-in-all it looks like a hot hockey time in the old village tonight. Game starts at nine o'clock.

ANNUAL MEETING

The twenty-first annual meeting of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association will be held in the Sheraton Room of the King Edward Totel, Toronto, on Saturday, November 26th, commencing 10 a.m. The meeting will be followed by luncheon in the Ball Room (17th floor) at approximately 1:00 p.m., and then by the ever-popular "OMHA Bull Session" in rooms 849 and 850. This year an added feature of the bull-session will be TV viewing of the Grey Cup. In the evening members will attend the Chicago-Leaf game as guests of Maple Leaf Gardens and the OMHA.

DIG UP STADIUM

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies are going to dig up Connie Mack Stadium.

The job of taking off between eight to 10 inches of the big field will permit the installation of 80 additional boxes, each containing six deluxe seats.

Work on the project begins Monday, and is expected to cost owner Bob Carpenter, $50,000. He figures it's worth—it since the boxes will be sold at a season rate of $1,200 each—and two-thirds of them already have been purchased. The new boxes will increase the stadium capacity to 33,346.

Sixth Stalemate for Champs Who Cling to Basement Spot; Beantowners Blast Blues 5-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

General manager Jack Adams once looked at his Detroit Red Wings and declared "we'll be stronger than ever this season." That was a month ago.

What happened since would confuse even the most avid of Detroit followers. Wings have won only three games in 15 starts.

But they have been tying, an indication at least that things aren't too bad. The Detroiters were held to another deadlock Thursday night, a 2-2 affair against Chicago Black Hawks at Detroit. It was their sixth stalemate of the 1955-56 campaign.

Meanwhile, at Boston the Bruins continued their domination over New York Rangers as they won 5-1. It was Bruins' third straight win against the Blueshirts.

CANADIENS ON TOP

Bruins moved into undisputed possession of third place in the league standings. They have 14 points, two fewer than Rangers. Montreal Canadiens are on top with 19 points. The Hawks hold fourth with 13 points and Toronto Maple Leafs and the Red Wings share the cellar, vest pocket behind Chicago.

It was two players the Wings traded to Chicago last summer who scored the Hawk goals.

Tony Marvik and Johnny Wilson fired the Chicago markers while Ted Lindsay and Metro Prystai counted for Detroit.

A crowd of 10,135 saw Lerwick 1th Nick Mickoski's rebound over the prostrate Glenn Hall, Detroit goaltender, at 1:39 of the second period to open the scoring. Lindsay deadlocked the score at 17:06 of the same frame when he completed a play started by defencemen Bob Goldham and Marcel Pronovost. Prystai took Marty Pavelich's pass 94 seconds later to score Wings' second goal.

THEN THE EQUALIZER

Wilson fired the equalizer at 11:29 of the third period. Jack McIntyre fed him a pass and Wilson shot it into the net from 10 feet out.

Al Rollins stopped 34 shots in the Chicago net while Hall made 23 saves.

Vic Stasiuk led Bruins to their highest scoring game of the season as he scored two goals and set up another. Cal Gardner, Doug Mohns and Bill Quackenbush added Boston goals. Larry Popein was the Rangers' marksman.

Dave Creighton, Ranger centre and former Bruin star, was taken to hospital after he and Boston defenceman Fernie Flaman collided along the boards in the first period.

Creighton suffered a "mildly serious concussion" and will be lost to Rangers indefinitely.

COUNTED ON REBOUND

Peepin put Rangers out in front 1-0 at 6:04 of the first period when he scored on Lou Fontinato's rebound.

Stasiuk made it 1-1 at 12:14 of the middle frame and Gardner added another Bruin goal at 19:51.

Boston scored three times in the final 20 minutes to take the win. Mohns scored at the 34-second mark and Stasiuk at the second goal at 5:37. Quackenbush counted at 19:25 to close out the scoring.

Boston goaltender Terry Sawchuk had an easy night in the nets after Popein scored. Sawchuk had to stop only one shot in the final period and was called on 16 times in all.

Lorne Worsley, in the New York nets, had his worst night of the season—the first time any team had beaten him five times. He made 32 stops.

Field Goal May Be Factor At Kingston

TORONTO (CP)—The field goal could play an important part in Saturday's Senior intercollegiate championship final at Kingston between Queen's Golden Gaels and University of Toronto Blues.

Blues, last year's intercollegiate champions, won one game and lost one against Gaels in season play. Both games were close and in both the lead changed hands in the last minutes of the game to provide the victory.

Toronto took a 16-9 thriller here after the Gaels led for most of the game. In Kingston, Gaels' Jocko Thompson kicked a field goal with 27 seconds left to help them edge Toronto 11-10.

Blues have a reliable placement kicker in Peter Mail. And coach Bob Masterson thinks his toe might make the difference.

WERE WORSE OFF

"Remember last year's game? We were worse off then, as far as injuries are concerned and we had to play Western Mustangs in London where Varsity hadn't won a game in 18 years."

Blues won it 3-2 because halfback Steve Onesehuk was adept at kicking field goals and Western's Gino Fracas wasn't.

Onesehuk kicked a 40-yard three-pointer to wrap up the game for Toronto after Mustangs led most of the way.

Queen's will be nearly at full strength for Saturday's game, Gary Lewis, Gaels' all-star centre, likely will start but he still is on the limp from a knee injury suffered two weeks ago and may not be able to finish.

Toronto will have to go without wingback Gerry Lansky, an all-star, and Don Cheeseman, a bruising fullback.

LEAHY WILL SPEAK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Frank Leahy, hard-rock football coach who led Notre Dame to consecutive undefeated games before his retirement, will be principal speaker at the Grey Cup dinner here Nov. 25, it was disclosed Thursday.

John Adunsmuir, chairman of the Grey Cup festival committee, said Leahy's address, to be given before 750 guests at the $10-a-plate dinner at the Hotel Vancouver, will be "nationally broadcast."

Costa Fights Joey Lopes

NEW YORK (AP)—If Carmelo Costa could punch, he might be the featherweight champion of the world. Instead of fighting for the title, the flashy Brooklyn boxer takes on Joey Lopes, the No. 8 lightweight, tonight at Madison Square Garden in a rematch of their March 18 bout.

Ranked No. 4 among the 126-pounders, the slick Costa owns a classy left and trigger-fast hands. His Brooklyn accent is a bit hard for some "Chubby" but boxing fans elsewhere have been able to take him or leave him.

Costa, 21, has lost only twice in 33 pro starts for a 27-5-4 record. He never has been knocked out. The catch is that he has knocked out only three.

Death or Glory

Important East, West Games Feature Weekend Grid Fare

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Football in Canada deals a major drawing card both weekend with important playoff games in both the East and West.

A sudden-death game in Hamilton Saturday between Toronto Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats will decide the finalist to go against Montreal Alouettes for the Big Four championship.

In Winnipeg, the Blue Bombers meet Edmonton Eskimos today in the first game of their best-of-three round for the Western Interprovincial Football Union crown.

College football winds up Saturday in Kingston where Queen's Golden Gaels will try to wrest the senior intercollegiate crown from University of Toronto Blues.

The game between Argos and Tiger-Cats shapes as the kind of match that could be decided by one or two breaks.

The game is likely to prove a test of strength between Hamilton's powerful attack and the dazzling pass offensive of Argo's quarterback Tom Dublinski.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who lost their first five games in season play, will be going into the series against Edmonton just a little uncertain about their attack potential. They've won seven and lost nine games this while Edmonton took first place in the five-teamcoop loop long before the schedule finished.

Edmonton generally is considered to have the best balanced and most diversified attack but experts point to the Big Bombers have won every "big" game this year. The winner meets the Big Four champion for the Grey Cup in Vancouver Nov. 26.

The game at Kingston marks the first time Gaels have reached the college championship final in years. They last won the Yates cup in 1937.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Sarnia Imperials and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen meet at Sarnia in the second game of their best-of-three final series.

Dutchmen, who finished on top of the three-team ORFU, won the first game at Kitchener last Friday 34-0 and will be heavily favored to take the series. The ORFU champion is not eligible to challenge for the Grey Cup as in previous years.

Argonauts may find the boot on the other foot in their game at Hamilton. They have been outkicked consistently by Tiger-Cats in the four times the teams have tangled this year.

Hamilton has the other twice in season play, Argos racked up 31-6 and 16-13 victories and Tiger-Cats won 15-11 and 37-32 over Toronto.

Ottawa Couch Won't Be Back Says Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ottawa Journal said Thursday it is considered a certainty in football circles here that coach Chan Caldwell of Ottawa Rough Riders will not be back next season.

Caldwell, who still has one year to go on a two-year contract at a reported $11,000 a year, was brought here this year from University of Saskatchewan.

The Journal said that although there was no club announcement regarding the coaching situation for next season after an executive meeting Wednesday night "unofficially it was known that the feeling among the executive . . . was that Caldwell would not be brought back."

The club announcement Wednesday night said the 15-man executive decided only to carry on in the Big Four Football League next year despite a deficit estimated at $45,000 this year.

The club also said another meeting would be held in a week or two to appoint "a coach."

The Journal said the club denied rumors that Annis Stukus, fired recently as Hamilton Tiger-Cats head coach, and Frank Clair, former Toronto Argonauts coach, had been sought as replacements.

Tough Schedule For US Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Several of the leading U.S. college football powers, including Maryland and West Virginia, had better go to their toes Saturday.

Not that Clemson, which will face the Terps and Pittsburgh, which takes on Virginia, are fall-to-middlin' clubs. They're a lot better than that.

It's just that there's a lot at stake in both games and maybe a little of the whoop and holler will spur the underdogs on.

Maryland, the second - ranked team, is heavily favored to move further along the Orange Bowl road.

Pittsburgh stands smack in the way of a possible Sugar Bowl bid for West Virginia, which is No. 6 and already has won the Southern Conference title. Should West Virginia win this one, an invitation to New Orleans may be in the mail next week.

Gaye Stewart Rejoins Bisons

QUEBEC (CP)—Gaye Stewart, appointed temporary coach of Quebec Aces three weeks ago, announced Thursday night he has decided to return to a job with Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League.

Stewart, who played three seasons ago with the team he now coaches, said he will return within a few days as publicity director of the Bisons.

"The Aces made me a fabulous offer to stay," the former National Hockey League star said "but I had to consider that my ties now are in Buffalo."

Twinkle in Rah-Rah Firmament

Golden Gaels Place Quartet On College All-Star Squad

By ROD SMYLIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The resurgence of Queen's Golden Gaels as a formidable contender in the Senior Intercollegiate Football League in the last few years is reflected in the 1955 college all-stars.

The team, selected for The Canadian Press by coaches and sports writers and broadcasters, shows four Gaels in the lineup. Last year and in 1953 only two Queen's men made the grade.

University of Toronto Blues, who meet the first-place Gaels for the intercollegiate title in Kingston Saturday came up with three all-stars. McGill Redmen also provided three.

ONLY TWO MUSTANGS

And the once powerhouse team of the league, University of Western Ontario Mustangs, who finished last this season, placed only two men on the mythical team. Last year five Mustangs were named all-stars.

Only three of this year's team were named last year. They are halfback Don Stewart of Queen's, Bob Waugh, Varsity guard, and Ted Homuth, Gaels' tackle. Waugh and Stewart are on their third all-star team.

Stewart was the only unanimous choice of the voters. Last year he headed the poll, getting the nod from all but one selector.

Votes were cast on a nine to give equal balloting strength to each city in the union.

The team:

Flying wing—Gerry Lansky, Varsity

Half—Ron Stewart, Queen's

Half—Phil Munro, Varsity

Half—Ralph Simmons, Western

Quarter—Dick Carr, McGill

Centre—Gary Lewis, Queen's

Guard—Buster Brown, McGill

Guard—Bob Waugh, Varsity

Tackle—Jim Hughes, Queen's

Tackle—Ted Roman, Western

End—Johnny Bennett, McGill

End—Lou Bruce, Queen's

STEWART STANDOUT

Stewart was the only one of the league's half-dozen top scorers to earn an all-star rating. The 21-year-old physical education student finished second with 20 points, one behind McGill's John Bennett.

The slight five-foot-six half has been the key man in the Queen's backfield for the last two seasons with his deceptive running.

Gaels' strength along the line is reflected in the three other all-star placings. Lewis, team captain, went to Queen's from the United States, where he played with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs.

Hughes, a 205-pound two-way man, was strong in the left secondary spot for Gaels and Bruce in his last year, was a standout defence.

Lansky, a 21-year-old first-year medical student from St. Catharines, is one of the greatest two-way players Coach Dick Masterson has on the Blues. His powerful ground gaining placed him well ahead in the voting for the flying wing spot.

Munro earned his all-star rating for his strong plunging this season. His line smashes over the last two seasons were good fir an average of more than five yards an attempt.

GOOD BLOCKER

Waugh, one of the smallest linemen in the league, was a standout for the second guard spot. His offensive blocks often turned out to be the key plays in the Varsity ground attack this season.

McGill's strength showing this season was due, to a large measure, to the passing combination of Carr and Bennett, Carr went to Redmen from the U.S., where he played the last four seasons under coach Lou Little of Columbia University. Bennett was an outstanding high school player. It was the first year for both.

Brown, 25-year-old second-year commerce student, went to the Redmen from Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four.

Western's Romzin and Simmons were both outstanding in spite of the team's miserable year. Romzin who doubled with the kicking, was a steady man on the line. Simmons, the hard-driving fullback, was the sparkplug for Mustangs' attack.

Barrie Downs Hamilton 6-1

HAMILTON (CP) — Barrie Flyers scored a 6-1 Ontario Hockey Association junior A victory over Hamilton Tigers' Cubs Thursday night before 1,810 fans.

Alvin Norrena, Colin Loveday, Hubert Bell and Fred Wonoski scored single goals for the Flyers while Norrena tallied a pair.

Brian Smith got the lone Cub counter.

Tied 1-1 at the end of the first period, Flyers, now with a 3-4 season record, took a 3-1 lead in the second period and added three more in the last 20 minutes of play to average a 3-2 loss suffered at the hands of the Cubs earlier in the season.

NOREN HURT

TOKYO (AP)—New York Yankee outfielder Irv Noren, hobbled by a bad right knee, left the touring ball club today for his Los Angeles home. The sore knee hampered Noren in the world series and during the post-season trip to Japan.

US Favored In International Track Classic

LAURE, Md. (AP) — Thirteen thoroughbreds from the United States and Europe, Canada and Latin America meet today at 4:15 p.m. EST on a muddy field in the $65,000 International.

Leading the U.S. team are Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Social Outcast and Clifford Moores' Traffic Judge.

Rated best from across the Atlantic are Ireland's Panaslipper and Britain's Darius and Nucleus.

The Canadian entry is Alberta Ranches' Firebolt, with Johnny Longden up.

Reading by a cosmopolitan crowd expected to number between 30,000 and 35,000 will be mixed.

The European side is ahead so far in the tilting. Winyen won the first International for England in 1952 and his time of 2:30 4-5 has never been lowered for the 1½-mile course at Laurel.

Doping such an international field always is difficult without any common yardsticks but the heavy betting is expected to swing to the U.S. on Social Outcast and Traffic Judge.

Cataracts Edge Montreal 3-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The defending-champion Shawinigan Falls Cataracts of the Provincial Senior Hockey League lead from Montreal Thursday night by shading the Royals 3-2 on a late goal by Eddie Kachur.

The night's other game saw Quebec Aces upset the third - place Chicoutimi Saguenees 5-4 as Dick Gamble and Gene Achtymichuk scored two goals apiece. It was Gamble's first game with the fourth-place Aces since being purchased outright from Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

Frisco Seals Price Too High For Milwaukee

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joe Cairnes executive vice-president of Milwaukee Braves, Thursday turned down the $200,000 price set on the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League.

Cairnes, who met with PCL directors during a 3½-hour meeting, did not make a counter bid after turning down the PCL's asking price for the franchise.

Earlier in the day the San Francisco franchise was forbidden to the league. Cairnes' rejection of the option to buy means that the PCL will have to operate the Seals next season unless another buyer moves into the picture.

GAVE NO REASON

Claire Goodwin, president of the PCL, said Cairnes gave no reason for turning the offer down. He did say, however, that the Los Mateo Park, near San Francisco, was discussed during the meeting.

I was rumored earlier that the Braves would not close the deal unless they could switch the Seals' home to San Mateo.

Goodwin said there were other prospective buyers on the west coast, but would not elaborate.

Asked about Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, who withdrew an offer to buy the franchise for $150,000, Goodwin said:

"Greenberg isn't through as a prospective buyer."

Campbell Fails To Crack Mark In 'Bluebird'

LA VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—After successful runs in Canada in an effort to break his world speed boat record, Donald Campbell in his Bluebird Thursday drove the jet-powered Bluebird over Lake Mead at 182.176 miles an hour, but his performance late Thursday was the fastest officially clocked speed ever made by a motorboat in the western hemisphere.

Campbell was able to get his craft up on her planing surface only long enough to make the one timed run. Because of the two short approaches in the 3-mile course now used, the British boat never attained peak speed.

According to her air speed indicator, the Bluebird entered the run at 161 miles an hour and at the end of the run she was turning better than 230 miles an hour.

Quinte Juniors Meet Port Hope In Rugby Tilt

Jack Sisson's Secondary School juniors will play host to Port Hope tomorrow afternoon on the Albert College field at 2:00 p.m. in a COSSA Junior "B" rugby fixture.

The Quinte crew, which captured the Ontario title last season in its initial year of play, holds honors this season in the COSSA Bay of Quinte District to qualify for further play.

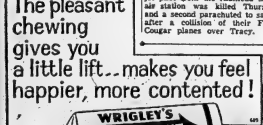
They come up with a four won-one lost record in district play, accepting their only defeat at the hands of BCI. Trenton gave them a tough battle for honors, compiling a four one-two host record. Albert College dropped out of competition.

Minor Hockey

280 boys registered for the 1955-56 minor hockey season at Memorial Arena last night with two more divisions yet to be heard from. The B.M.H.A. received forms from 150 squirts, 90 midgets and 40 juveniles. Their leagues open next Thursday night and schedules will appear in this paper sometime next week along with team line-ups.

On Saturday morning, the pee wees will register at the arena at 8.00 p.m. and the bantams at 10.00 a.m. These two divisions each boast six-team leagues which will bring the total number registered with the B.M.H.A. near the 600 mark. Pee wees and bantams start play on Saturday, November 19th.

Racial Discrimination Penalty Suggested



TORONTO (CP) — The Central Ontario Area Women's Institutes Wednesday passed a resolution recommending the closing of premises for at least one month in cases of conviction for racial discrimination.

The annual meeting also resolved to urge legislation making it compulsory for every car owner to provide insurance policy or proof of coverage before being issued an ownership policy each year.

It was announced that the first national convention in the history of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada would be held in October of 1957.

MILLIONTH IMMIGRANT

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—A 21-year-old British bride was welcomed by cheering crowds when she arrived here today as Australia's millionth post-war immigrant. Mrs. Dennis Porritt and her husband face a week of official celebrations before settling down in a new home near here. They were officially received by Immigration minister Harold Holt.

Sport in Brief

A OFFER PACKAGE

MONTREAL (CP)—Grey Cup package tour was announced Thursday by Canadian National Railways.

The "package" includes a seat at the game in Vancouver, round-trip CNR transportation, sleeping accommodation both ways and in Vancouver. The cost is $142.15.

The Grey Cup train will leave Montreal Nov. 22 and arrive in Vancouver Nov. 25. It will leave there Nov. 27, the day after the game, and reach Montreal Nov. 30.

TO TALK TRADES

CHICAGO (AP) — The trade-minded Washington Senators and Chicago White Sox will talk over a possible deal at Columbus, Ohio Nov. 28. It is reported the Sox are willing to surrender first-baseman Walt Dropo and a pitcher for possible infielder Pete Runnels, pitcher Pedro Ramos and catcher Clint Courtney of the Senators.

WANTS NFL TOO

CHICAGO (AP)—Arnold Johnson, satisfied that is making progress with his Kansas City Athletics, said Thursday he also would be interested in buying a National Football League franchise for Kansas City.

The Chicago industrialist said he didn't have any particular pro football club in mind, but would buy "on the proper terms."

It was rumored previously that Chicago Cardinals were eyed by Johnson, but Walter Wolfner, managing director of the Cards, said the club will stay in Chicago.

FINE SANTEE

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Wes Santee, fastest miler in the United States, was fined $25 and costs on an automobile speeding charge in Arlington county traffic court Thursday. Santee, who ran a mile in 4:06.5 last April, was charged with driving 75 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone near Washington.

TO SELL STOCK

INDIANAPOLIS (CP) — The board of directors of the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce Thursday approved a campaign to sell 16,000 shares of stock at $10 a share to save the city's American Association baseball franchise.

The three major Indianapolis newspapers have agreed to publish stock purchase agreements through which any citizen can buy up to 100 shares. The 100-share limit was set to prevent any individual from gaining control of the new corporation.

Upset Truck Found Deserted Near Apsley

BANCROFT (Special)—Ontario provincial police from Peterborough are investigating the mystery of the "deserted truck."

The vehicle was found overturned in a ditch filled with three feet of water near Apsley, west of this village, on Thursday. There was no evidence of any occupant or passengers. Knowing of a human nature was discovered near the place where the truck went off the road to overturn in the ditch.

FLIER KILLED

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—A navy jet pilot from the Alameda naval air station was killed Thursday and a second parachuted to safety after a collision of their F-9F8 Cougar planes over Tracy.

New Society Helps TV Fans Fight Lengthy Commercials

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—There comes from Bruce G. Bond of Arlington, Mass., a communication so literate, thorough and interesting that you pick up the phone and call Bond immediately. Bond on the telephone is as persuasive as Bond by mail.

Bond, like all of us, is of the grassroots of radio-TV viewers and radio listeners. Despite the convention of some cynics that nothing grows in the grassroots but grass, much of North America listens alertly to the small voices from the roots.

Bond, an energetic veteran, a statistician, a graduate of Boston University and the author of an unpublished book on political theory, has given up other pursuits to devote himself exclusively to the study of TV and radio commercials. He has formed an organization called the Society of Listeners Against Commercial Emphasis, which he aptly names SOLACE. This is Bond speaking:

"SOLACE is a non-profit society, formed this summer to unite the many individual listeners, whose single complaints have little or no effect, into a strong demand for a return to normality in home entertainment. Our object is not to destroy commercialized entertainment, but to bring it under control and help it be responsible to customer demand."

CODE OFTEN BROKEN

The television code of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters says that "in accordance with good telecast advertising practices, the time standards for advertising copy in prime program hours run to three minutes for a 30-minute show and six minutes for a 60-minute program.

Bond contends that practically nobody is observing this. Many viewers have muttered the same thing. Most of us are too lazy to do anything about it. But not Bond. He has planted himself before his TV set and his radio with a watch and comes up with an impressive statistical analysis of the percentage of non-entertainment in about 40 TV shows and 40 radio shows. There isn't space to report his findings in detail, but he claims some TV shows run to a half hour and up of "non-entertainment" instead of the 10 per cent prescribed by the code.

Now Bond wants viewers and listeners throughout the country to become members of SOLACE. "I'd like a basketful of reports on programs from other viewers," he says. "I'd like to check my findings against those of others and compile the studies before sending them in the form of network sources. If there are enough of us maybe we'll get somewhere."

2nd Thurlow

2ND THURLOW, — Miss Marion Asseltine and pupils of S.S. 2, Thurlow, entertained the parents and friends at a Hallowe'en party on Friday night.

The costume parade for the pupils with Mrs. Don Leeming, and Mrs. Robert Atkins acting as judges, was enjoyed.

Mrs. Raley, music supervisor, furnished music for the marching and program.

Prizes were given and the following pupils received prizes: Junior, Stephen Grills, Tommy Burchill; Senior, Christine Brown and May White.

Several older folk came in certime and caused lots of laughter. Mr. M. Mitchell won first for best disguise and Mrs. H. Ford, second.

Mr. Clinton Grills acted as chairman for the program and dialogues, songs and dance, which was enjoyed.

Candy, peanut scramble and apples caused lots of excitement, and a happy time was spent by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Atkins spent the supper hour and evening on Saturday with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Goodfellow, Belleville.

AT THE McCARTHY — An M.P. interrupts a honeymoon in Warner Bros.' True Story of America's first triple jet ace, "The McConnell Story," which stars Alan Ladd and June Allyson. Gregory Walcott, as the M.P. brings the welcome though untimely news that Mac has been ordered to flying school. The feature continues today and Saturday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE — Jennifer Jones and William Holden are enjoying the delights of a private beach just across Hong Kong Bay in the new CinemaScope romantic drama at the Bellis Theatre, "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing," in Color DeLuxe. Miss Jones will next be seen in "Good Morning, Miss Dove", another best-seller in origin! Mr. Holden in "Picnic", based on a prize play by William Inge.

Marilyn Ready for Romance Now That Divorce Is Final

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—"I've never been happier in my life."

That's what Marilyn Monroe said, and it appeared to be true. She smiles readily and talks excitedly about her interest in acting, plays, books and living in general. She also indicated that she is ready for romance.

"My divorce decree (from Joe DiMaggio) became final—finally," she remarked. "I haven't been going out. But now—who knows?"

Marilyn's day in New York began early. She's up around six o'clock—"I go into the habit when I was making movies."

OBSERVES CLASSES

She spends much of her mornings observing the classes of Lee Strasberg, the dramatic coach whose pupils included Marlon Brando, James Dean, Julie Harris, Shelley Winters, Kim Stanley. Miss Monroe attends classes at his actors' studio.

"I do all kinds of roles," she said.

But so far no Shakespeare. She reads Shaw, however. Someone asked her which plays of his she liked.

She pondered and then smiled, "no comment." She added: "I'm not going to get into the monster thing I did with 'The Brothers Karamazov.' She was aware of the vast amount of kidding she received for expressing a desire to do that Russian novel on the screen.

NOT BOTHERED

"It didn't bother me," she commented, "I knew they hadn't read the book. Or if they had, they had forgotten it.

"Actually, it would make a wonderful movie. Samuel Goldwyn himself told me that. I'll take his word for it."

When she isn't studying dramatics, Marilyn will often prowl around the museums and book stores.

Don't the crowds bother her?

"Not terribly," she said. "I have a few disguises that work pretty well. People often recognize me in museums, but they seem to leave me alone there."

ENJOYS DRIVES

She added that she enjoys going for drives in her car, especially through New England.

At present she is living in the apartment of a friend. She's waiting to move into her own apartment on the east side.

Because she hasn't reported to work at 20th Century-Fox, she has been off salary for a year. But money doesn't seem to worry her. She didn't elaborate, but it's possible she has found investors to back her future. She left no doubt that she intends to remain a New Yorker for some time to come.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Nov. 12, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Don't waste any precious moments quibbling over small errors or understandable mistakes. This is your day to be big in the fine way you can.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You can give a better account of your talents on a day like this one than on many others. Start with a strong will to achieve, backed by tact and the desire for truth, fold to high principles.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Avoid at all that cause later rushing and nervous tension. Also guard against taking on too much at the first place. Give your talents a chance by maintaining an even pace.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may have to adhere strictly to routine duties today. There may be some hidden contention, some conflicts, but both can be overcome.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't let things confuse you and, if a situation seems difficult, talk matters over with loved ones, friends. There's always a way, and tomorrow's another day.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — You can accomplish more than you think today. But inner calm is an important must. When a surprise or sudden change takes place, you take over in the sensible way.

September 24 to October 22 — (Libra) — Keep your head about you (as Libra ably can) should obstacles come your way. They should bring out your better side, the smarter you.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — "Waste not, want not" should be applied to energies as well as to assets. One seldom realizes the great gift of health until it is lost. Do everything at a reasonable pace.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Confectioners, painters, poets, accountants and handlers, teachers, chemists, scientists, doctors, nurses, religious are most highly favored. But all can succeed in part today.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Don't worry about assets or health but do the things that will keep them in shape. And if you slip, pick up again with renewed vigor — never pessimism.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Most activities should be research; such activities should progress; stars indicate an upward trend for well-managed endeavors.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Not much of a day for new, untried propositions. Interest yourself in others and you will gain unexpected benefits.

You born today have many talents, a versatile, agile mind, and usually the physical strength to carry through your numerous interests and activities. But you can be at fault in trying to accomplish too much in too short a time. After you make up your mind, review thoughtfully to ascertain if you are making decisions based on all the facts. Your intuition and judgment about humans and their needs is keen, but don't be too abrupt in pointing out errors.

KIDNEY ACIDS
Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They toss and turn—blame it on "worries"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kid-ney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

JUDICIAL SALE

OF

NUMBER NINE KLMER STREET

IN THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE

IN THE COUNTY COURT OF THE COUNTY OF HASTINGS

IN THE MATTER OF the Partition and Sale R.S.O. 1950 Chapter 286

AND IN THE MATTER OF the Lands and Premises of part Lot 6 on the West side of Frank Street, and South side of Elmer Street in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, being Municipal number 9 Frank Street in the City of Belleville.

BETWEEN:

HELEN IONIS POOLE,
Applicant,
— and —
FREDERICK CHARLES POOLE,
Respondent.

PURSUANT to the Judgement in this cause dated the 20th day of April, 1955, and to the direction of the Judge of this County Court of the County of Hastings, pronounced in accordance with the Conditions of Sale, tenders will be received by the undersigned up to twelve o'clock Noon on the 1st day of December, A.D. 1955, for the purchase in one parcel of all the property of the parties hereto in the above Partition Cause and the Mortgage dated the 30th day of May, 1946 in the Registry Office for the County of Hastings as No. 39,000 from Frederick Charles Poole to Frank Street in the City of Belleville.

UPON FIRE Freehold lands described in the conveyance is erected a one and one-half storey frame and brick dwelling house and other buildings. There is a bathroom in the house. There are six rooms and bathroom on the first floor. The heating system, as of furnace, and the fuel used is coal and electricity. The plumbing is of copper tubing and the floors are of hardwood. The concrete foundations are of hardwood and tile.

The terms and conditions of sale and the date and hour of sale shall be as follows, and the conditions and stipulations except as otherwise specified in this Conditional Sale.

A full description of the property, including all fixtures and chattels, things and equipment, and permission to inspect the property may be obtained at the office of Messrs. Marshall, Macasken & Hurley, 241 Front Street, Belleville, Ontario.

CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. The vendor does not guarantee, warrant, or represent and does not make no representation and gives no warranty with respect thereto or as to any other matter whatsoever, and the purchaser acknowledges that he has relied entirely upon his own inspection and investigation.

2. Sealed tenders marked "Re Property" must be delivered or mailed or forwarded prepaid to His Honor Judge C. C. Anderson at his Chambers, County House, Belleville, Ontario, so as to be in his hands on Thursday the 1st day of December, 1955 by the hour of Twelve O'Clock Noon. Such Tenders shall be opened at the time appointed by the said Judge at his Chambers and in the presence of the same day in the Forenoon or Afternoon as the said interested parties and any Tenderers or their representatives who may attend.

3. Every Tender shall be in writing and shall contain:

(a) The Name and Address of the Tenderer;

(b) A Statement to the effect that the Tenderer submits to the terms and conditions of sale and that the same were part of his Tender;

(c) The amount of the Tender, which Tender shall be valid for a reasonable period to enable the Judge to make a decision as to the successful Tenderer, but not exceeding 30 days from the date of Tender.

4. The Vendor reserves the right to accept or reject any Tender and to accept a Tender for a lesser amount than the highest Tender.

5. Each Tenderer shall with his Tender deposit the sum of $1,000.00 as a certified cheque or bank draft payable to His Honor Judge C. C. Anderson, for the sum of $1,000.00. And if his Tender be accepted and he fails to complete, he is deemed a cash deposit and the successful Tenderer shall pay to the Local Master at the office of his clerk on or before the 20th day of December, 1955, without interest upon such balance of purchase money as aforesaid shall be entitled:

(a) To a vesting Order in respect of said property

(b) To let into possession at said property

(c) To such Deed or Deeds of conveyance and transfer and/or Bills of Sale as may be considered necessary by the Local Master or the Court to convey to the purchaser or his assigns the said property.

6. Subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Judge the highest tender shall be the Purchaser.

7. If no Tender is accepted by the said Judge then the acceptance of the highest bid or offer received on the succeeding day which is a day appointed for the opening of Tenders, by reason in writing, by personal registered post.

8. The Tender and acceptance and these conditions of sale shall be deemed to form part of such Tender and shall constitute the Agreement for Sale.

9. The Purchaser shall not call for any requisitions or objections of the Vendor and shall make any objections to the Title, Deeds or Documents to the Solicitor within fifteen days from the date of acceptance of the Tender, and in default of making any such objections the Purchaser shall be deemed to have accepted the Title.

10. The Purchaser shall pay Provincial Land Transfer Tax, Local Improvement Rates and any Taxes and Rates which may accrue to the date of completion of sale when adjustments shall be given.

11. If the Purchaser fails to comply with the conditions aforesaid or any of them the deposit and all other payments made thereon shall be forfeited, the deficiency, if any, on such re-sale to be borne by the Purchaser.

12. The Purchaser shall take the property and may assume a first Mortgage to the Ontario Loan and Debenture Corporation, which Mortgage is now outstanding approximately in the amount of Twenty-Seven Dollars ($27,000.00).

13. The Purchaser shall have the conveyance prepared at his own expense and tender the same for execution.

J. C. ANDERSON,
Judge.

DATED AT BELLEVILLE this 20th day of October, 1955. 0-2t-10-11

ADLAI'S CHOICE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson indicated Thursday he plans to put his name in the pot next Tuesday for the 1956 Democratic presidential election. Stevenson, the 1952 party standard-bearer, confirmed the stop-over here that he will disclose his intentions about the nomination in a statement Tuesday.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop and ma always buy each other a present every year to celebrate their wedding anniversary, and this afternoon ma was in her room asking me to help her about it, saying, Oh dear, I dont know what to get your father It should be something appropriate for the occasion, but what? That's the question, what? she said.

I'll give you some suggestions, ma, I said. Why dont you get him about a hundred dollars. I've heard the man on the radio talk about that. It makes me want him stay put all day long, even when the wife is blowing. I said, and ma said, Sutch an idea. In the first place you know very well that your father has very little of practically any hair, she said.

But just the same it's appropriate, ma, I said. It'll remind him of the time you first married him and he used to have hair and to put stuff on it, like his pictures in the fotograph album. O, ma, wouldn't you like to be reminded of when pop first married you and you were his strate up and down instead of partly the opposite? I asked.

No I wouldn't, and I can do without your suggestions, thanks, ma said. I have got the very thing. I'll get him one of those gadgets to hold his newspaper in the morning so he can read it neetly folded in frunt of him on the table, she said, and I said, Well heck, ma, is that appropriate?

It most certainly is, ma said. When we were first married, and even afterward, I could see his face across from me every morning at breakfast, and I'll be very happy to welcome it back again, she said.

And she started to brush her hair singing to herself like somebody feeling better instead of worse.

CHOKES TO DEATH

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A four-months-old boy choked to death in his carriage Thursday. The infant, Paul James, Brill, son of Mrs. Mary Brill, was dead on arrival at hospital. Medical examination revealed some of his formula got into his lungs and strangled him.

PLUNGE 40 FEET

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two workmen, one a professional welterweight boxer, fell 40 feet to the ground Wednesday when a scaffold under a new bridge being built across the Schuylkill river gave way. Each suffered a fractured leg and other injuries. A third man, working with them, heard a warning cry and leaped to safety by grabbing an overhead pipe. Injured were Carmen Bartolomeo, 21, a boxer who has won 21 victories without being defeated, and John Mummaw, 28.

Fleeing President Returns, Air Force Gives Up Fight

De Havilland 4-Month Strike Likely to End

TORONTO (CP) — An aircraft plant strike that left more than 3,000 workers jobless for four months was all but settled today.

Some 1,940 production workers, members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL), will vote Sunday on an agreement reached Friday with negotiators of de Havilland Aircraft Company.

Both sides were optimistic the proposed contract will be approved by the strikers.

While the contract terms were not announced officially, it was believed they called for pay increases ranging from eight to 12 cents an hour in the next nine months with some groups getting as much as a 15-cent boost by March, 1957. A company-paid health plan was also believed incorporated in the agreement.

Man He Robbed Named by Youth As Reference

HAMILTON (CP) — Robert Happy, 17, wanted in congoltion with a theft from a local bowling centre where he was employed, was picked up in Miami Friday after he gave the name of his former boss as a reference.

Police said Happy will be brought to the international border by United States immigration authorities and picked up by Hamilton police.

Police said a theft warrant was issued last week after Happy left the alley where he was employed and many money in the bank and did not return. The money was not deposited. Store manager Elliott Baron said he received a phone call Friday from a friend in Miami, he also a store manager, who was checking him as the reference Happy gave on a job application.

Buck Deer Gores Algonquin Visitor

ALGONQUIN PARK (CP) — A jealous buck deer gored a 55-year-old man from Thornhay as he was feeding an apple to a doe.

Matthew Sinclair of Sudbury staggered to his car and the horns pierced the back he was taken to hospital at nearby Whitney.

Park superintendent George Phillips said he had warned persons travelling through the park not to approach too close to the deer.

"They are much more dangerous than bears," he said. "Their actions are unpredictable and I live in fear that some person will be killed or mutilated for life."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Winter weather hailed all of western Canada in its grip, Vancouver dipped to 15 degrees early today and below zero temperatures were common on the Prairies.

This cold wave is moving eastward Ontario, and it will reach the province Saturday night, considerably modified as the cold air passes over the Great Lakes.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — All threat of opposition to Brazil's new regime collapsed early today.

Carlos Coimbra da Luz, ousted temporary president who took refuge Thursday night aboard the Brazilian cruiser Tamandare, ordered the cruiser back into Rio de Janeiro harbor today and said it was his final official act.

Gen. Henrique Lott, Maj. - Gen. Eduardo Gomez, who rushed Friday to Sao Paulo, Brazil's ranking industrial city, to organize a last stand resistance to the administration of the new temporary president, Nereu Ramos, meanwhile ordered the air force to halt its opposition.

Congress named Ramos temporary president after Friday's predawn coup led by Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott had toppled Luz. Ramos became Brazil's third chief of state in five days.

Thus Brazil returned to normal after a bloodless, 24-hour coup won by Lott over against the open but passive opposition of the navy and the air force.

There was no fighting. The only shots fired in anger came from the fortress at the entrance to Rio de Janeiro harbor. It fired five or six rounds Friday afternoon to warn navy ships in the harbor not to make a break for the open sea.

Police lifted censorship this morning after nearly 24 hours in which all news dispatches by cable and radio were monitored. All business houses except banks reopened. The banks were ordered closed till Tuesday.

A government statement said Luz would be permitted to land when the cruiser Tamandare returns to Rio de Janeiro, but it was reported that some of Luz's associates who boarded the Tamandare with him would be arrested.

Luz, former president of the House of Deputies, had assumed the presidency under the constitution when President Joao Cafe Filho last Tuesday took an indefinite leave of absence to recover from a heart attack.

TO TRIAL ATTEMPTS

Lott's move was made in an effort to thwart any possible attempts by military officers to keep Juscelino Kubitschek, elected president last month, from taking office. Kubitschek, 54, was scheduled to be inaugurated Thursday night as war minister Lott has failed to back him up in an effort to discipline an army colonel for an anti - Kubitschek speech.

After his ouster Luz hurried aboard the cruiser Tamandare, which like most units of the fleet was in the Rio de Janeiro harbor. The navy and air force threatened for a time to support him, but later agreed to accept Lott's order the big shore guns at fashionable Copacabana Fort boomed across the entrance to the harbor to bottle up the ships.

KILLED, CLEARED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Toronto, Ont., mother-nine years to keep a baby as a bricklayer because it entitled her to welfare relief, she told Superior hospital authorities Friday. No one suspected that Marilyn Sharpe, 23, was pregnant when she last Monday, when she was injured in a building site. She was forced to confess to a workmate who accompanied her to hospital in an ambulance.

NEW YORK POLICE HOLD 73 PERSONS IN DOPE-RAIDS

Nothing Like It Before States Police Official

NEW YORK (AP)—Police seized 73 persons Friday night and early today in a roundup of alleged narcotics wholesalers, retail dope peddlers and drug addicts in New York City.

The 16-member police narcotics squad, headed by deputy chief inspector Peter Terranova, made the arrests in a series of raids from 4 p.m. Friday to 2:30 a.m. this morning.

Terranova termed the raids "a shocking last" and added: "I don't remember anything like it before."

The police squad struck in Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn. Terranova said officers had been gaining evidence against the alleged violators during the last several weeks.

HAD PLANE TICKET

Some of the alleged dope peddlers, Fred Ramos, 26, was seized after he had his bags packed and an airline ticket in his hand for Miami, preparation for a flight to Puerto Rico.

Terranova said officers raided in Manhattan was a 30 - year - old woman, Clara Gray. When they broke her apartment door open, they found a loaded revolver, a shotgun and 1,000 reefers of marijuana cigaret.

The raids followed by one week the $40,000 seizure of heroin in a Riverside drive apartment here, in which two men were arrested. It also came less than two days after the $1,000,000 seizure of drugs aboard a French ship in the Canadian city. However, there was no connection, police said, between that and New York raids were connected.

Among those arrested here last night were teen-aged drug users as well as wholesalers and retailers.

Proposes UN Mount Guard On Israel's Border

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) Adlai E. Stevenson proposed Friday that United Nations forces mount guard on the borders between Israel and her Arab neighbors to enforce peace in the Middle East.

Stevenson, who is expected to announce next Tuesday he is a candidate for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination, did not mention in a speech before a University of Virginia audience whether the Nations troops would be raised.

Instead, he said, they were evident the way to avoid, bloodshed is to "keep the troops of these antagonists apart."

The Eisenhower administration has indicated it would not be unwilling to involve American troops in the Middle East situation, even as a part of any UN action.

MASQUERADED AS MAN

BERLIN (Reuters) — A young German mother masqueraded as a man for nine years to keep a baby as a bricklayer because it entitled her to welfare relief, she told Superior hospital authorities Friday. No one suspected that Marilyn Sharpe, 23, was pregnant when she last Monday, when she was injured in a building site. She was forced to confess to a workmate who accompanied her to hospital in an ambulance.

Father of Two Murdered Boys Dies As He Gets Shocks for Depression

CHICAGO (AP) — A heart broken father, whose only children and a companion were murdered less than a month ago, died Friday.

The cause of Anton Schuessler's death was described by a physician as "apparently a heart attack." He suffered the attack, the doctor added, "because he was given a routine electrical shock treatment for a depressed state of mind."

But police and friends of the 42-year-old father of the slain boys agreed that he died of a broken heart.

Schuessler's wife, Eleanor, 37, prostrate at the news of her husband's death in a rest home, pleaded:

"It's all the killers' fault. They killed my boys and now they've killed Tony. I had everything to live for and now I've got nothing."

The Schuessler's only children, John, 13, and Anton Jr., 11, and a neighborhood playmate, Robert Peterson, 14, were found brutally murdered in their home last August.

The boys had disappeared from the vicinity of their home to attend a movie. Schuessler went without eating in search of the boys. After the burial of his sons, his successful business slipped with heartbreak and anguish.

He closed his north side lather shop and said he would devote all his time in helping police search for the sadistic slayers.

Thus far police have found no tangible clues in connection with the slayings. They have questioned some 100,000 persons and have pursued every lead, however insignificant. Rewards for the capture of the slayers total $33,350.

Bodies of 4 Cornwall Men Found in Truck in Old Canal

VALLEYFIELD Que. (CP) — The bodies of for Cornwall men were found Friday night in a panel truck at the bottom of the abandoned Beauharnois canal here.

The victims—Elouard Sabourin, 21, Clement Vervais, 18, Roger Fluton, 21, and Lionel Briere, 23—had been missing sine Oct. 30. They were found huddled in the cab of the truck, owned by Sabourin. A coroner's jury Friday night handed down a verdict of accidental death.

Police came upon the truck while dragging the canal for the bodies Friday. Diver Romeo Macsween was sent down and discovered the victims. Police said the driver apparently lost control of the truck while driving along a street paralleling the canal. It crossed a 15 foot green belt bordering the canal before plunging into 20 feet of water.

Tire marks leading from the street to the canal provided the clue that led to police dragging.

'Actual Killer' in Sheppard Murder Is Named in Letter

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A Columbus lawyer, middle man between an unidentified informant and the family of Dr. Samuel Sheppard of Cleveland, has labelled as fanciful a letter purporting to name the "actual killer" in the sensational Sheppard murder case.

The letter came to light in New York City Friday night when The Daily News published a copyrighted story saying an unnamed letter writer had accused a fellow camper of the murder of Sheppard's wife.

Webster S. Lyman, the Columbus lawyer, said the published account tallied with the facts as given to him by the informant a month and a half ago, but that he now believes the entire version to be a farce. Lyman was not involved in the Cleveland trial.

And through it all, Dr. Sheppard spent another day of his life sentence in Ohio penitentiary. The 31-year-old osteopath was convicted last December of the July 4, 1954, murder of his wife, Marilyn, in their home near Cleveland.

Briefly, here is Lyman's story of the letter:

An unidentified man called him and said he had the contents of a letter to offer to the Sheppard family in exchange for a "favor."

Lyman did not see the letter, was told verbally of its contents. He said they sounded "real" at the time, and forwarded the information to William J. Corrigan, Sheppard's chief defence counsel in Cleveland.

Lyman said he had nothing further to do with the case until questioned Friday night about the story.

The informant had told him that the letter said the alleged murderer was a camper in the Lake Erie area who came ashore the night of the murder from a cabin cruiser on the lake. The man, according to the letter, left the cabin cruiser early in the morning and returned about daybreak spattered with blood.

Israel May Get U.S. Weapons Only If It Accepts UN Truce

WASHINGTON (AP)— Diplomatic officials indicated today that Israel has little chance of getting United States arms without first accepting United Nations proposals to end Middle East border strife.

These officials said support of the proposals, offered by the UN truce chief, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, is basic to the "sympathetic consideration" promised Israel's plea for U.S. arms.

The Burns plan calls for Israel and Egypt to withdraw all their forces from the disputed El Quja border zone, to submit to UN inspection and to work out a final boundary line.

So far Israeli officials have announced full support provided Egypt goes along and Israel does not have to give up any of its rights or positions in the embattled area. Egypt has said nothing in reaction.

The U.S. state department called a week ago on both countries to state their intentions. A formal reply from them has not yet arrived.

A spokesman described the Burns proposals as the short-range U.S. policy "to put out the fire."

For the long haul, he said, American policy is summed up in State Secretary Dulles' Aug. 26 offer of economic aid to resettle refugees and help negotiate frontier problems, and military support to guarantee the security of both sides within those boundaries.

It was emphasized that no decision has yet been reached here on whether to sell Israel weapons. The Israelis want them, they say, to offset Soviet - bloc shipments of jet fighters to Arab nations, submarines and other arms to Egypt.

Israel also is reported to have sounded out Canada. The suggestion has been raised in some quarters here that the U.S. could send its diplomatic troubles by letting Canada supply weapons to Israel.

AWARD WOMAN ESTATE

SHERMAN, Tex.—(AP)—The $2,000,000 estate of a north Texas man Friday was awarded to his housekeeper on the basis of a handwritten will. An earlier will made children's agencies the beira. A jury decided Mrs. Lucille Stone Wom le, 56, in effect the sole beneficiary of C. T. Tatum's estate.

TRAFFIC RULES ARE TIGHTENED ACROSS CANADA

Use Various Systems To Cut Accident Toll

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's provinces are tightening up on motor traffic regulations, hoping to curtail death on the highways.

Each province is clamping down on existing legislation and some are revamping their highway codes in attempts to reduce highway fatalities and accidents, a Canadian Press survey shows.

Some report a drop already in their accident rate.

The British Columbia highway's department reports driving records "greatly improved" during the last two years, coincidental with a stepped-up program of law enforcement and education.

Its program gives traffic controllers power to revoke bad drivers' licences. Repeaters are sent warning letters and licences may be suspended for indefinite periods.

DRIVER LICENSE CONTROL

J.A. Christie, chairman of Saskatchewan's traffic board, says the "most important single factor in cutting highway accidents in Saskatchewan is our system of driver-licensing control . . . the only means of its kind in Canada."

The system works this way: A driver is first given a white licence. He loses it after his first serious offence but soon gets a red licence. One more "red" infraction and he loses the licence altogether. On minor infractions he gets a blue licence—and three blues lose him the right to drive.

Traffic officials in Manitoba say their driver-testing program is effective in cutting accidents down. Most training is done before the driver gets the highway. Under Manitoba's Highway Traffic Act all prospective drivers undergo written and practical tests.

ALL-OUT CAMPAIGN

Ontario is in the midst of an all-out campaign against drivers who violate traffic laws.

Ontario's Attorney-General Kelso Roberts, who has predicted a 50 per-cent reduction in traffic accidents in a few years, has asked for co-operation of municipal police forces in lining up uniform enforcement throughout the province.

Provincial police are carrying on a spot check of vehicles on provincial highways and will be charging all violations of the Highway Traffic Act.

Indications are that the most effective deterrent to violations is the sight of a policeman cruising at the side of the road. The percentage of charges laid during checks has been much smaller where motorists were aware the checks were conducted by police.

VARIOUS METHODS

The attorney - general's department is studying various methods and various methods of cracking down on violators—one of which is unmarked cruisers manned by constables in plain clothes, extension of the period drivers' licences may be suspended, and unmarked radar speed traps.

Several minor amendments to the act were passed at the recent session of the legislature, in line with recommendations of a report submitted by a select committee.

Quebec says its most effective legislature is cancellation of permits. Permits are cancelled for excessive speeds as well as more serious offences.

In Quick Switch, Big Four Seeking Accord on Arms

Stress Need Big Powers Retain Monopoly of A-Bomb

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The foreign ministers of Russia and the United States dropped their bitter debate over arms reduction and controls today and began trying to patch up some kind of agreement on a final Big Four disarmament declaration.

The newly conciliatory tone in today's Big Four session was in stark contrast to the acid argument of two previous sessions, in which State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Minister Molotov accused each other, either directly or by implication, of practising bad faith in negotiations and of trying to deceive the world about their disarmament policies.

Today Dulles suggested that work be started on "a common statement" reflecting the debate, which he said had been "useful and informative." He remarked that he would not be so optimistic as to say that either side has affected the thinking of the other, but he thought there was a better understanding of differing points of view.

Dulles said he felt confident that "even though we do not have a large measure of formalized agreement" certain areas of agreement and viewpoints which has occurred here will be instructive and will help representatives in the United Nations sub - committee" on disarmament.

Molotov began his comments on the achievements of the United Nations disarmament debate with what appeared to be a needling reference to his efforts to get a Soviet agreement to some kind of generalized renunciation of atomic arms. In his words, he had hoped to get an agreement here "to end the arms race."

Otherwise, Molotov said, he thought the Big Four could state that they recognize the need to continue to seek agreement on a comprehensive program for disarmament which could promote international peace and security.

ARMAMENT BURDEN

The Western Allies and Molotov have agreed that somehow, some day, the burden of armaments and the fear of atomic war ought to be reduced, if not abolished. And State Secretary Dulles, Premier Faure, Harold Macmillan and Foreign Minister Pinay indicated Friday night that they expect to come up with a new set of proposals in a few months.

Their arguments with Molotov in the last two days have disclosed several of the things that have to be incorporated in the new western approach.

The principles so far developed publicly include:

1. Agreement should be reached on ways to retain a big-power monopoly of atomic weapons. This will become an increasingly acute problem as technology of manufacturing atomic explosives develop. Dulles said an answer may be found in better control and checking and circulation of such explosives.

2. Any agreement to permit the use of existing atomic weapons may be solved in part by reducing the means of their delivery against a target—and by watching for the future of modifications that would be necessary if a great power intended to launch an atomic war.

3. The problem of eliminating existing atomic weapon stocks is at present insoluble. There are not known scientific means of detecting hidden stockpiles of such weapons, but devices for detection may be developed, and it is essential to continue to search for them.

4. The size of standing armies, navies and air forces must be reduced with the result of cutting military costs all over the world, lessening the fear of war and in-

Malcolm Robb Asks Dismissal Of Murder Charge

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson, hearing the case of a young bricklayer charged with the murder of a 25-year-old mother, was to announce today whether he would instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Defence Counsel Malcolm Robb asked Friday that the jury be so instructed because of what he termed a compete lack of incriminating and competent evidence against Hilton Campbell, 25.

Campbell is charged in the slaying of Mrs. Bernice Aulay, mother of two, who died of a rifle wound in front of her home July 21.

Mr. Justice Wilson after hearing arguments on the defence motion, said he would rule on it today. However, he also advised counsel to be prepared to address the jury, Friday, Lionel Campbell, father of the accused, testified his son told him he was through with Mrs. Aulay because "she's destroyed my life."

The father, last of 16 crown witnesses, said his son up to the age of 14 never missed Sunday school and before Mr. and Mrs. Aulay went to live near Campbell's home the youth never drank much and always behaved himself.

CHAPEL IN KREMLIN

OSSTON (AP)—Bishop Fulton J. Sheen said today was 4,000 Roman Catholic worshippers at Holy Cross Cathedral Friday night that one could be well pleased to enter a Moscow's Kremlin. Bishop Sheen, who celebrated a mass in the Byzantine (old slavonic) rite which was dedicated to the conversion of Russia, said that in the Kremlin is a church dedicated to the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, centuries ago, long before this belief was made a dogma of the church.

creasing international confidence. This can be done if the agreed reductions are fully supervised to prevent violations.

ATOMIC PLENTY

The old program, dating back to signed to deal with an age of atomic plenty, an age in which the U.S. and Russia would have so many they need to blow each other up. The problem now is to make sure small powers may not produce weapons to threaten world peace.

But the new program embodies the hope that in the end the atomic scarcity when there was little nuclear material for war in enough weapons to threaten world the same critical weakness that now threatens peace will make it impossible.

Dulles did not work at any point unless it is built around an effective system of safeguards to make sure all countries which agree to it live up to their pledges.

Pipe-Smoking Woman Rides Train, At 90 She Now Has One Wish, to Die

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Maggie Steele, a pipe-smoking St. Joseph Island woman, had never had a party on her birthday. She had one Friday—a belated celebration for her 90th birthday which fell on Oct. 7.

The gift was a train ride, a lifelong ambition. She found it "just dandy."

Other passengers on the Canadian Pacific Railway train running along the Lake Huron north shore got almost as much kick out of the lady as she did.

She seated herself comfortably in the day coach, leaned back and got out her pipe. She's been smoking since she was 14 and prefers a pipe although she has also smoked cigars, cigarettes and snuff.

She thought she might enjoy a cigar now and then. "I suppose my nerves wouldn't stand it."

Mrs. Steele said after the ride she has but one last wish—to die.

Since receiving her old age pension she has more money to spend than she ever had in her life. She has saved enough to pay her funeral expenses and has a burial plot already picked out. She even bought a new dress in which she asks to be buried.

The party was arranged by the Sault Star.

CITY & DISTRICT NEWS

CARS OF FOOTBALL FANS PACK HIGHWAY

Traffic between Trenton and Belleville but a seasonal high this morning.

Highway congestion gave promise of being a problem all the way to Kingston as hundreds of cars flying the red, gold and blue ribbons of Queen's University and the blue and white streamers of the University of Toronto passed through the district.

The senior intercollegiate football clash between the ancient rivals from Toronto and Kingston is expected to attract a record crowd of 15,000 to Richardson Stadium this afternoon.

Heavy traffic from the west seems to assure the U. of T. plenty of support in the Gaels' hometown.

OIL DRUM TAP TURNED, FIREMEN CALLED

The attention of city police has been called to the actions of some unknown persons whose slanted sense of humor created a dangerout fire hazard in a Dundas St. home.

Police said that the tap on a 45-gallon oil drum in a downstairs hallway at the home of Mr. Jack Pinke, 55 Dundas Street, had been turned to the "on" position as the result that most of the oil had run over the hallway floor.

City firemen were called until the oil was cleaned up and the fire hazard reduced.

WARNS BIKE RIDERS TO STAY OFF WALKS

Bicycle riders who persist in using sidewalks as a raceway are rousing the ire of residents in the MacDonald Ave. district.

In fact the practice has become so prevalent that the attention of the police has been drawn to the matter.

Today Police Chief Walter Probert stressed that riding bicycles on the sidewalks is contrary to the city by-law. He asked that bicycle owners abide by the regulations and warned that prosecutions would follow if the practice continues.

Two-Car Crash Injures Five, Two in Hospital

Five persons were injured, two of them being admitted to Belleville General Hospital, following a head-on crash between two cars on Dundas Street East, early today.

In hospital are Mrs. Thelma Bennett, 42, and Mrs. Ethel Soderhjelm, 55, both of Point Anne. Mrs. Bennett had lacerations over her eye and on her forehead, while Mrs. Soderburg suffered a badly sprained ankle.

Others injured are Andrew Bennett, Point Anne, bruised knee, and two persons in the other vehicle, John David McComb, R.R. 5, Belleville, and Diane Ballantyne, Peterborough, both of whom suffered skinned knees.

The accident occurred about 12.40 this morning on Dundas Street at Point Anne. John McComb was westbound and had turned out to pass another car when the vehicle collided head-on with an approaching vehicle driven by Reginald Bennett of Point Anne. Extensive front end damage was caused to both cars.

City police quoted Mr. McComb and his companion as saying the other vehicle did not have its lights turned on.

Mechanical Man And Dog 'Sparko' Here on Monday

Elektro, the giant Westinghouse mechanical man will entertain at Bayside Park Community Centre on Monday. The amazing robot walks, talks, smokes, sings and plays a game of cards. He will be his robot dog, Sparko, who will also perform — walking, barking, sitting up and wagging his mechanical tail.

The marvelous mechanical man has been a feature on many popular network TV shows with Bob Ripley in his "Believe It Or Not" syndicated strip has described Elektro as "the mechanical man with the 75-pound brain. He can smoke a cigaret, make a speech, count up to 10 on his finger tips."

"Elektro is seven feet tall and hasn't grown an inch since he was born," says J. M. Barnett, Westinghouse engineer who designed the robot and his dog. Elektro weighs 299 pounds, has an 82-inch chest and his feet are 18 inches long and nine inches wide.

Elektro's canine companion Sparko, tips the scales at 83 pounds. He is 17 inches high at the shoulders and 42 inches from nose to tip of tail.

The robot's actions are in response to commands spoken into a microphone. Vibrations set up by these commands are translated into electric impulses which operate the relays in the 75-pound brain. Thus a series of words, properly spoken, sends both Elektro and Sparko to go through their paces.

Two tons of electronic equipment travel with, them in their truck — relays, motors, switches, photo-cells and other electrical devices. The mechanical team's operator is Charles D. Huey of Mansfield, Ohio.

Robota like Elektro and Sparko are actors on the stage of electrical living with dramatic animated electrical devices which are at work today in the automatic control of machinery. Each trick Elektro has been "taught" to perform has resulted in advances in methods of automatic electric operation and control.

ANAF Told Governor General Ought Not to Be a Canadian

Appointment of Canadians as governors-general of Canada was severely criticized here before war veterans at a Remembrance Day banquet here last night.

Speaking to members of the local Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association branch, Dr. C. H. A. Walters, a major with the Canadian medical corps during World War II, said the appointment of Canadians to the governor-generalship would be next post to a "political football."

"The governor general is the representative of the Queen in this country. If we select a Canadian it must necessarily be a political figure," said Dr. Walters.

"And if we put a political figure in that office it loses its dignity and it loses its meaning," he said.

Dr. Walters was criticizing various speeches put up to support what he called "our British way of life."

"I view with alarm the clamor for a Canadian flag," he told the veterans.

"What is wrong with the Union Jack?"

"I dislike very much that we are dropping the word 'Dominion' of Canada."

On Remembrance Day every one should be thinking seriously for those who did not come back from the wars, he declared.

"We each have a responsibility to those men," he told the veterans.

CRITICIZES SCHOOLS

He also criticized Canada's schools, saying they failed to teach them (their pupils) patriotism any more.

"We listened to a lady MP one day as we put out cadet training in our public schools," he added.

He told the meeting of an incident in Belleville where a former commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment wished to address a school's pupils, but was told by a past principal he could not appear in uniform "because that would be showing the flag."

What can be done about these things? he asked the meeting.

"We can teach our children a little more about patriotism", he said.

"We can see that we elect men as our leaders who also have a firm faith in those things in which we believe . . . and which we have fought for."

Dr. Walters was introduced by J. H. Wells and thanked by ANAF president W. J. Ford.

140 MEMBERS PRESENT

About 140 members of the branch were present, together with some distinguished guests, including Mayor Jack Bush, Rev. A. S. McConnell, padre of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; Lt-Col. E. S. Fairman, commander of the regiment; Archdeacon Rev. J. B. Creegan, RCAF padre and local OPP inspector A. McDougall.

Answering the toast to the nation's armed forces, Lt-Col. Fairman asked for ANAF cooperation in interesting the youth of the community in joining the militia.

"If we are to continue to command the respect of other nations of the world then it is most important that young men be encouraged to take over the responsibilities handed down to them," he said.

He also told the meeting of a recent Dominion conference he had attended. Whereas we were behind methods for the armed forces were displayed, Canada, he said, has made great advances in such research, particularly in fighting weapons.

The assembly stood to solemn attention for a two-minute Remembrance silence while a lament was piped by pipe-major Thomas Sproule of the Quinte Pipe Band. The Reveille and Last Post were sounded by P/O/2 Duncan Carmichael, as the Quinte sea cadet unit.

A toast to the Queen was proposed by past-president Henry Drury Chairman of the meeting was W. J. Ford.

Fat Muscles Way to Retain Peace Says Air Vice Marshal

TRENTON, (Special) — Air Vice Marshal J. G. Bryans, C.B.E., C.D., Commanding Officer Training Command, Headquarters, Trenton, believes that the most effective way to maintain peace is to have muscles so fat that the other fellow can be clobbered before he has a chance to hit back. Also the distinguished airman spoke to veterans and their friends last night at the annual Armistice Day dinner sponsored by Trenton Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion. He reminded his listeners that it is important that those muscles be kept in shape. He could see the Empire Service League conducted playing a leading role in helping the cause.

The public must be kept white paper put out each year to show what Canada is doing about defence," the air force officer explained. "It is up to the veterans to see that other people in our country know about it."

He pointed out that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) was organized to share responsibilities for defence so that the other fellow will not try an attack. "The Russians have taken out of the mouths of the men from the east nowadays is the direct result of what NATO is doing," he said.

Air Vice Marshal Bryans mentioned Canada's contribution in the training of airmen from other NATO countries. He noted that Trenton has been a training centre for them all the time. He made special mention of the high standard of personnel sent by other countries to Canada. He contended that some of them would rise to leaders and may even become prime ministers.

Jimmy Gunn, of Trenton, introduced the guest speaker. The vote of thanks was moved by Albert Cunnell.

The guests were introduced by Legion president Kail Donaldson. Mayor Ross Burrt welcomed them on behalf of the citizens of Trenton.

Veterans held forth in Trenton throughout the day. In the morning, servicemen, ex-servicemen and citizens filled the Legion hall to overflowing, attending a service in honor of those comrades who gave their lives fighting for their country.

Comrade Capt. W. A. Bessant asked the 500 in attendance to realize the significance of being a Canadian. He urged them to remember their obligation to the comrades who gave their lives that we have freedom we can't forget God," he added.

Following the ceremony wreaths were placed on the memorial gate at the entrance to Senator Fraser Park.

Servicemen and veterans paraded through town to the Legion grounds, led by the RCAF bugle band from Station Trenton.

Gerrit Dijkstra, Struck by Auto, Dies of Injuries

TRENTON (Special) — Gerrit Dijkstra, 39, riding home after work, died from injuries received when he was struck by an oncoming car and knocked from his bicycle on highway No. 2 a mile and a half west of Trenton last night.

The car was driven by Herbert Park McCallam, 27, of Milk River, Alberta, a worker on his way east to visit friends.

Dijkstra leaves a wife and four children.

Provincial police of Brighton investigated.

Woman Hits Head On Steel Rail

TRENTON — (Special — Walking along the C. N. R. siding on the north boundary of the Legion property, an aged Trenton resident on her way to the Remembrance Day service yesterday slipped and fell, hitting her head on one of the steel rails.

The left lens of Mrs. Jennie Warren's glasses shattered cutting her above the left eye. The RCAF ambulance on the scene was at first away rushed the injured woman to hospital where she was treated and permitted to return home on Dundas Street W.

Legion Told Trenton Trains World's Top Flying Instructors

"Ten miles down the road from Belleville the RCAF is producing the best flying instructor in the world. He is second to none."

Squadron Leader C. Jackson, commanding officer of the Flying Instructor School at Station Trenton, made these statements Friday evening in an address on the organization and work of Station Trenton delivered to a packed audience of 100 at Branch 99 Canadian Legion Remembrance Day dinner.

Cold wars, iron and bamboo curtains have made it imperative that "for a time we have to be prepared to sacrifice our young men if need be," said S/L. Jackson.

"Since 1945 Canada has not been behind in any manner, shape or form in defence. All services are up to full strength commensurate with our economic power. The RCAF could have been twice as fast as those of World War II and still be within our economic means," said S/L. Jackson.

"The RCAF is almost in finite. Latest weapons make World War II blockbusters look like armor piercing shells."

MODERN MIRACLE'

"Everything these days is speed tailed. Flying must be brought about modern miracles. The man in the cockpit is the most essential to take the plane off the ground and land it. Electronics hunts an enemy, shoots it down and then returns the pilot to base.

"Maybe you are interested in what we are doing at Station Trenton. A total of 2,400 people is employed there. This number service personnel and civilians. There are another 1,000 wives and dependents at Middleton Park, No. 6 R.D., which houses the Maintenance Command, has 1,100 people employed there."

S/L Jackson explained that there are two "tenant organizations" on the station — Training Command Headquarters and No. 4 Operational Training Unit. There are also units on the Station: School of Instructional Technique, No. 1 Radio Training Units No. 4 and No. 6, Meteorological Unit. Operational Training Unit and the Flying Instructors' School.

TEACHERS

The school of instructional technique, which trains men in the art of instructing, [illegible] has 4,500 graduates since it was founded five years ago.

The technical training units, composed of "the most highly specialized people in the air force," train officers and men in the intricacies of modern aircraft. No. 6 unit operates a transport section of C-119 Packets and North Stars, while No. 4 works with T-33 Silver Star jets.

"The Flying Instructors' School is the cornerstone of the RCAF because its graduates will train and guide every new generation of pilots of the RCAF and NATO countries. Men at the school are chosen for their stable, mature and very proficient at flying. They must be able to pilot, how to analyze faults, make corrections, encourage timid students, suppress nervous ones so that they can train others to their own high standard," said S/L Jackson.

PROUD OF VOLUNTEERS

"What kind of people are we? We are proud to call you gentlemen. Most of us are married and are family men. We have some things you do—come home at night and look at TV.

"There are a lot of advantages to being in the service and some disadvantages which we are willing to accept. We are very proud that all three services in Canada are volunteer services. We in the air force because we want to be in it. We feel we are wanted."

"If our country wants us for service we are ready. We pray to God we won't be needed for war."

Robert Perry introduced the speaker. Frank Gardner thanked him on behalf of the Legion.

Major Angus Duffy of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment proposed the toast to The Queen. Col. Rocose Vanderwater proposed the toast to the fallen comrades.

Two minutes' silence was observed between "Last Post" and "Reveille."

A single spotlight shone on a memorial cross emblazoned with poppies when the silence was observed.

Everett Liddle reported that the poppy campaign in Belleville set a new record. Gross sales of wreaths reached $2,500 and total sales of poppies was $1,500.

Seated at the head table were: Major Colin Hepburn, Frank E. Follwell M. P., Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, W. O. Bailey, president of Branch 99, S/L Jackson, Capt. R. Marks, of the Salvation Army, and Adolph McFadden, convener of the Remembrance Day dinner and chairman of the evening's program.

Toronto Child, 5, Discovers $500 In Rubbish Pile

TORONTO (CP)—Eight-year-old Evelyn Leigh was playing in a junk pile Friday when she found a brown paper bag filled with "all this paper, like money."

She rushed home with it where her mother confirmed it was money—$500.

Police, to whom the find was reported, said the little girl, daughter of an unemployed bricklayer can have the money if no one claims it within 90 days.

Her mother, Mrs. Fred Leigh, said if the family gets the money it will go to 'pay my furniture off and buy some clothes for the kids."

The money was found in a pile of castoff clothing and other items at the rear of the Society for Crippled Civilians building. Police said it probably was picked up with items collected for the society and then thrown out with discards.

IN MEMORIAM

LATHANGUE. — In loving memory of Mr. George Lathangue, who passed away November 12th, 1954. God knew you were tired, dear father, God knew you needed rest better than we. He saw the road was getting harder for His tired feet to climb. So He closed your weary eyes and whispered, "Peace be still." And with those words came peace to you. Who loves you most sincere. We never will forget you.

Sadly missed by his wife and family, Mrs. Sidney and Clara, daughter and son-in-law, and granddaughter Sandra.

ARMITAGE. — In loving memory of a beloved wife and devoted mother, Mary Armitage, who passed away November 12th, 1945.

Sweet is the memory of her still and silently you passed away

Into the hands of God

God called you without warning Our hearts are broken

But what a glorious morning You've entered heaven

Sadly missed and forever remembered by husband and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

I'M BUT A STRANGER HERE

I'm but a stranger here,
Heaven is my home;
Earth is a desert drear,
Heaven is my home.
Danger and sorrow stand
Round me on every hand;
Heaven is my Fatherland -
Heaven is my home.

What though the tempest rage,
Heaven is my home;
Short is my pilgrimage,
Heaven is my home.
And time's wild, wiry blast
Soon will be overpast,
I shall reach home at last —
Heaven is my home.

Here is a hymn written by a young man who knew that he was doomed to an early death. Its author, the Rev. Thomas Rawson Taylor, is the "stranger" who, with a limited pilgrimage on earth, is soon to return to his heavenly fatherland.

Taylor, a Congregational minister, was afflicted with an incurable ailment which even in boyhood, threatened early death. Born at Ecclesfield, in Yorkshire, England, in 1807, he was educated at Bradford, where his father was pastor of a prominent church, and at Manchester Academy.

Because he knew that his early days were numbered, the young clergyman hurried into his life work and even while he was studying for the ministry he was preaching in the towns and villages near his theological school. He was ordained at the age of 21 when he was stalled as pastor of the Howard Street Chapel in Sheffield. Less than three years later he had to give up this charge when his strength failed, and he died in 1834.

It is said that in his last sermon, preached in his father's church, Taylor declared: "I want to die like a soldier: sword in hand." And that same night he passed over into the "home" toward which he had long been looking.

Resolutions In Rhyme

By NANCY CLEAVER

"There's a poem enclosed in Great - Aunt Margaret's letter again!" Mary Green wood said to her husband as he looked over the mail lying on the living room table after supper was over.

"Sometimes her choles in verse is rather old-fashioned. But this time I've liked the poem she sent me immensely. In fact I've posted it up beside the kitchen sink and started to memorize it. Would you like me to read it to you?"

"I'm too weary to take in anything 'high-brow' after such a busy day!" her husband protested, sinking into his easy chair. "But first of all, who wrote this superior production, and where did Great-Aunt find it?"

"No one knows who wrote it— But a friend of Great-Aunt's was in the Old Country last summer and discovered it in Chester Cathedral. It is evidently quite famous and is quoted in several modern verse anthologies. Great-Aunt Margaret said she never saw a poem so suggestive of sound New Year's Resolutions—and I'm inclined to agree with her that it is a good rhyme for January!"

CURIOUS ABOUT POEM

"I'll without judgment until I hear it," Bob Greenwood said, "Go ahead and read it. I'm curious about this unknown writer's lines which were good enough to get in to an English Cathedral!"

Mary Greenwood read slowly in her rich contralto voice:

"Give me a good digestion Lord,
And also something to digest;
Give me a healthy body Lord,
With sense to keep it at its best.
Give me a healthy mind, dear Lord,
To keep the good and pure in sight,
When seeing sin, is not appalled,
But finds a way to set it right.
Give me a mind that is not bored,
That does not whimper, whine or sigh.
Don't let me worry overmuch
About the fussy thing called "I"
Give me a sense of humor Lord,
Give me the grace to see a joke,
To get some pleasure out of life,
And pass it on to other folk."

SILENCE

There was a silence for a few minutes when she finished. Then her husband said quietly, "It looks to me as if it covers almost everything—food, health of mind and body, a right attitude to mistakes and even the importance of laughter!"

His wife smiled, "What many of us homemakers need most of all, is those lines about worrying overmuch about the fussy thing called 'I.' It's often a great temptation to indulge in self pity!"

"Don't be too humble!" Bob Greenwood exclaimed, "You certainly put a lot of pleasure out of life—and you pass it on too. Perhaps that is part of the secret of your sweet life, Mary—I'm thankful that living with you is never hard! I've even come not just to tolerate but to enjoy your passion for reading aloud—even poetry!"

Mary Greenwood answered, "I'll remember this poem when I'm inclined to stray off the path of my good resolutions for 1956!"

Bulletins From Birdland

ECCENTRICS

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

The sight of some bird which does not seem to fit into any class we are accustomed to see puzzles us greatly. This may happen at any time of year. Let us try to discover how it is possible.

Some kinds are known to be gypsies as nobody can tell for certain just when or where they will turn up; yet any day, there is the chance of coming upon a band of them. As they are especially given to wandering down from their northern breeding-grounds in winter, they are often called "winter visitors". Both pine and evening grosbeaks come into this group.

Of course there are also the "accidentals", that is, birds that have been recorded a very few times in our special district, although they may be comparatively common "at home". Unusual weather conditions occasionally change a bird's course.

The weatherman at Halifax explained over the radio a month or so ago that hurricanes were responsible for strange birds arriving in our midst, and cited as an example the yellow-billed cuckoo that was found on the east side of the Island after Hurricane Edna.

"Hybrids" are few in birdland, yet they are possibilities. In "The Auk" of July 1954 a hybrid between a little blue heron and a snowy egret was recorded.

FREAKS NOT UNCOMMON

"Freaks" are not as uncommon as one might suppose. For several years an ordinary English sparrow could easily be identified when it perched on our verandah or the nearby trees because of a little white patch on one wing. Many people will tell you that they know of an "albino"—an English sparrow or some other kind of bird that is all white.

Bird watchers know that a few species occur in two "phases", as the red or the grey plumage of screech owls; and hunters must be aware that ruffed grouse also may be found in either of these colors, regardless of sex or age. Likewise, certain kinds of birds have three phases. A gyrfalcon can be white, grey, or black.

Individual differences may be discovered. When a bird is strikingly unlike others of its own species it is called a "sport". An extremely good way to observe birds carefully is to provide a feeding tray. Then we are able to note exactly what are the distinguishing features of a certain species, and can compare the different members. If you are fortunate, you may come upon a real "sport".

A Lift For Living

Courage Is A Cool Virtue

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Courage is a cool virtue. Its contagion is not always recognized. Yet I venture to say many of my readers have been in situations where all seemed defeated, and then into the group would come a person with what William James called a will - to - believe. And this man's will-to-believe in himself, his enterprise, his colleagues, or perhaps his God, had a magic power of turning the mood of defeat into victory, just as effectively as Phil Sheridan turned defeat into victory that day he dashed down the Virginia turnpike and saw his troops rallying and turning in retreat. Raising himself in his stirrups he cried, "Turn, boys, turn, we're going back!" I believe that is not quite all that Sheridan said, but whatever words he added, he turned the tide.

From such figures as the dashing Sheridan, the silent Jackson standing like a "stonewall," and gentle Lee there radiates a contagion of courage. And we become more civilized, we are seeing that spheres of power give place to scope for the infectious spirit of bravery than do battlefields or war. In fact, it is the contagion of courage which would be our best safeguard against war.

GERMS OF FRIENDSHIP

To see how the contagion of courage spreads between nations, look along the boundary line between the Dominion of Canada and our own United States. Neither of us feels the need of putting up any brave front to show we are not afraid of each other. Fortifications would prove we were fearful.

But our two great countries have proceeded on the principle of spreading germs of friendship and confidence. We have preserved in our mutual relationship, the original spirit with which Paul declared Christians are endowed by their Creator. He said, "God gave us not a spirit of fearfulness, but of power and love and discipline." If such contagious courage can be demonstrated along one international boundary line, why not along others?

May we mention another magical element in courage—its power of accumulation. Our emotions have an amazing way of adding to themselves. The little boy put it naively when he said: "A fellow starts to cry for the thing that's just happened, and then he goes on crying for every sad and sorry thing that ever happened."

So it is. Our emotion of sorrow seems to have a suction of memory which draws sadness out of the past until the specific grief of the moment grows into a general feeling of being sorry for ourselves. Anger also has its law of accumulation whereby a minor resentment can amount into a towering hate.

COURAGE COMMENDED

So is it with courage. That is the truth Jesus was trying to drive home in His parable of the pounds. The courageous spirits who used their pounds and accumulated more were commended. The timid fellow who buried his pound in a napkin was rebuked and his pound was removed from him, with the rather enigmatic remark: "Unto every one that hath shall be given, but from him that hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken away from him." Such is the law of life. The brave spirit lives by a law of accumulation; the fearful soul lives by the law of diminution.

Katherine Mansfield, with all her brilliant promise as a writer, found herself stricken with a progressive illness. She was no shallow Pollyanna. In her Journal she recorded such expressions as these: "bad night, this morning," "frightful day." But read on. A few weeks before her death she wrote: "I feel happy —deep down. All is well." Those who visited her to give sympathy went away comforted.

The Book of Acts contains many bits of drama. One is the occasion when Paul and Silas were thrown into prison for preaching the gospel. They were put in stocks and darkness. Then the record reads: "And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed and sang praises unto God; and the prisoners heard them."

A friend of mine, in his sick room, said when men can turn their painful midnights into songs of praise, other imprisoned souls will hear them. Such is the contagion of courage.

SOUTH AFRICA COPIES BAD EXAMPLE

If anyone had suggested, a few short months or even weeks ago, that the governments of France and South Africa would see eye to eye on any question involving racial relations, the resulting uproar of derisive laughter would have been nearly understandable.

But it has happened.

For years the French have exhibited a tolerance towards those with colored skins almost unique amongst the white races of the world. They have even, by passing a law, converted Arabs into Frenchmen. Also, it was this act which, ironically enough, led them into a persistance which the race-conscious Afrikaners have now copied. When the United Nations Assembly decided to discuss nationalist unrest in Algeria, France withdrew her delegation from the United Nations on the grounds that Algeria was a part of France and that anything pertaining to that North African area concerned France's domestic affairs and, as such, was no business of the UN.

The South African Government, poles away from the color-blind French, has also been having difficulty with the UN which has been investigating South Africa's segregation or apartheid policy. Now South Africa has taken a leaf out of the French book and recalled its UN delegation.

Should African claims that apartheid is a domestic issue are at least as questionable as French claims that Algeria is part of France. Part of the territory in which South Africa is operating this policy was formerly a German colony and was turned over to South Africa for administration as a League of Nations mandate after the First Great War. It can be argued, with considerable force, that the United Nations is the logical successor to the League of Nations and, as such, has a vested interest in the nature of policies applied to this mandate.

Leaving that point aside, though, the French and South African cases against UN interference are questionable. It is true that the UN charter provides that it is not to interfere in domestic affairs. One may argue that this is a regrettable clause or, more logically, that it is essential if the UN is to operate with any degree of efficiency under present world conditions. The fact remains that it is part of the charter and should guide UN decisions until it is changed.

But the UN charter also provides that it is to act to preserve peace wherever possible and is to do what it can to eliminate potential causes of war.

The gravest danger of war existing in the world today, apart from the conflicting policies of world Communism, is bound up with the understandable desire of colored people, of many races, to enjoy self-government. Wherever this desire is denied, for whatever reason, strife is certain to follow.

Most reasonable men will agree that to grant self-government to all colored peoples, without due preparation, would be certain to result in chaos in many lands and would expose the masses of these colored races to miserable exploitation by those of their own race.

The problem, while it makes any immediate solution in granting the wishes of nationalists in these lands, does not alter the fact that denial of these wishes is certain to engender bitterness and strife and that, therefore, such denial should be closely investigated.

The UN claim to the right to investigate such cases is, we suggest, soundly based on the premise that international strife or bitterness arising out of potential war and is, therefore, very much the business of the world organization dedicated to the preservation of peace. If this section of the UN charter is violated by the other clause forbidding interference in domestic issues, can there be any valid question about which clause is the more important and should override the other?

The South Africans can withdraw their delegates from the UN if they wish. Probably the UN will be unable to discover any effective way to curb the applications of the policies of apartheid. But the withdrawal of the South Africa administers by right of a League of Nations mandate. But if, a few years hence, white South Africans are murdered in their homes by the hordes of colored South Africa, or even by colored peoples from outside the borders of South Africa, the whites ought not to expect any sudden aid from overseas. They will have to suggest that they will deserve to be murdered, but only that, in this world, it is not reasonable to expect that others will be continually rescuing us from the results of our own folly, nor particularly flattering to this folly we have converted any rescue attempt from a comparatively simple process of conciliation and advice into the bloody business of war.

A WISE MAN

In Karachi, Pakistan, Hon. L. B. Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs was asked what he would do if personally asked to act as a mediator in the dispute between India and Pakistan over Kashmir.

"I would call in the experts to advise me," Pearson replied.

Somebody is sure to denounce him for evading the issue.

And so he did. But that does not mean that his statesmanship is called into question. Quite the reverse. The very essence of statesmanship, we suggest, is a willingness to evade an issue when facing it can do no good and may do harm. There is a difference between the man who rushes into a burning house to rescue a child and the fool who makes the same trip to discover whether it is hot inside.

WORK INSTEAD OF PLAY

When you are ten and twelve and wild,
And you would like to play,
It's hard to have your mother tell:
"I've work for you today."
Say, to your comrades, when they ask about
Along their way to pass.
Football you needn't think about
Until you've cut the grass.

"I don't care what you boys have planned,
Or what the ball game means,
Today I'd have you understand
You're taking down the porches,
You're going to sweep the porches, too.
So when your playmates call,
Remember you have work to do.
You heard me. That is all."

It's hard I know at work to stay
And miss the time for fun,
But that, my boy, is not the way
When duty must be done.
And many times, when old as I,
Life will insist that you must let some wanted joy pass by Because you've work to do.

"Why is it every time we start to an auction sale you get hopelessly lost?"

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 12, 1925

The Rev. C. T. Lewis who has been rector of the Anglican Church at Bay Roberts, for twenty-six years, has resigned the rectorship owing to ill health and he has come to this city to reside. Mr. Lewis was rector of St. James' Church, Trinity Tweed from 1893 to 1899 and he has many friends in the Tweed district.

At an enthusiastic meeting of the Badminton Club at which seventy five persons interested in the sport were present, the election of officers resulted as follows: president, Miss Mabel Ketcheson; secretary, Fred Lazier; treasurer, Gregor Murray; women's captain, Miss Mary Bennett; men's captain, Harvey Ross; house committee, Mrs. Norman Robb, Mrs. R. H. Martin and Mrs. Harry Alford; entertainment committee, Mrs. Cochrane, Mrs. bridge, Mrs. C. A. Cameron, Miss Ella Bennett, Mrs. H. Green and Mrs. Milton Davison; membership committee, Gordon Miller is the chairman with the same members as last year.

Belleville Market Report: — Dressed poultry was the feature of the Belleville market on Saturday; chickens rankked in price from 65 cents to $1. each; geese 30 cents to $1. each; turkeys sold at $2.50 and $2.75. Eggs commanded a good price at 40 cents per dozen with pullets eggs selling at 35 cents per dozen. The young price for butter was 40 cents per pound.

Robert Lewis Stevenson dreaded his birthday to a little girl. Here is the interesting story as told in an Associated Press despatch from New York City under date of Nov. 12:— "Mrs. Bourke Cochran will put on her party dress and entertain at dinner tomorrow in celebration of her birthday — the birthday denied to her by Robert Louis Stevenson. Forty-four years ago Mrs. Cochran, then a little girl living in Samoa, complained to neighbor Stevenson that she had a birthday like other children because she had to celebrate on Christmas Day. The author drew up a deed which gave Miss Osborne eleven little acres in Ide had been "born, out of all reason on Christmas Day" and thereby had "no further use for a birthday" he inscribed and the organ is now being tuned. It will be one of the finest churches in the district. The church building which this new organ was installed in was opened on Sunday morning, Sept. 9th, 1894. The fire was discovered by a back driver returning from the Grand Trunk Railway Station. He saw no flames but the windows of the church were ablaze with light, which he knew should not be at that early hour and he gave the alarm. The contract price for the building of the new church was $23,650. The Rev. M. W. Maclean, B.A., is entering upon his 23rd. year as minister. The communion plate has been in use for 50 years. (Note 1955) The church which was destroyed had a set of chimes which, if memory serves us well, was presented by Mrs. Leach, wife of Colonel Leach, Col. and Mrs. S. S. Lazier).

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 12, 1915

The members of the Belleville Cheese Board have voted the sum of $250. to the patriotic fund of the 80th. Battalion, now in winter quarters here.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Anderson of Carmel celebrated the 60th. or diamond anniversary of their wedding on Oct. 29th., Mr. Anderson will be 90 years of age in January and Mrs. Anderson will be 80 years of age in April next. Both are in good health. They received many presents and the congratulations and good wishes of a large number of friends.

The third carpet ball game was played last evening between the Alpha Club of the Tabernacle Methodist Church and the Yorkfellows Club of the First Baptist Church. The Alpha team won, the score being 61 to 38. The following composed the team: Alpha Club, Jones, Brunin, E. Kelly, Webster, Wilkins, Robinson and Rowlands; Yorkfellows Club — Doolittle, Biggs, Mackenzie, Smith, Hart and Skinner. The umpire was P. E. Fisher.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: Complaint is frequently made that the belfry can't be too fast. A car went up front St. yesterday afternoon at the rate of about twenty miles per hour and a small child narrowly escaped being run down.

50 YEARS AGO

Nov. 12, 1905

A young men's club composed of members of Mr. Henry Pringle's and Mr. F. E. O'Flynn's Bible classes in Bridge Street Methodist Church has been formed with the following officers: hon. president, William Johnson; president, R. S. Ellis; vice president, G. A. McClatchie; treasurer, B. Chown; secretary, K. Conger; chaplain, Rev. J. P. Wilson. The club will organize a mock parliament with Mr. F. C. Stewart as speakker of the house; prime minister, R. E. Sills; leader of the opposition, G. A. McClatchie. Sir Mackenzie will be the Governor General.

The New St. Andrew's Church, from our file on the date, this time in 1895: "The new St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in this city will be dedicated next Sunday. The Rev. Dr. Barclay of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Montreal, will be the special preacher at both services. In the afternoon the choir under the leadership of Mrs. Eva Rose will render a special musical praise. The church is now about fully completed and the finishing touches will be put on this week. The seating has been done and the organ is now being tuned. It will be one of the finest churches in the district. The church building which this new organ was installed in was opened on Sunday morning, Sept. 9th, 1894. The fire was discovered by a back driver returning from the Grand Trunk Railway Station. He saw no flames but the windows of the church were ablaze with light, which he knew should not be at that early hour and he gave the alarm. (Note 1955) The church which was destroyed had a set of chimes which, if memory serves us well, was presented by Mrs. Leach, wife of Colonel Leach, Col. and Mrs. S. S. Lazier).

Competition Gets Convert

(Memphis Press-Scimitar)

Congratulation to the W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co., the second nationally known manufacturer to abandon "fair-trade" price fixing in recent weeks. (Westinghouse was the first.)

Retail dealers, the company explained, felt that "fair-trade" pricing hampered the merchandising of Sheaffer pens.

It hampers the merchandising of any product, it said, because competition that exists nowadays, any attempt at rigid price-fixing is unrealistic, and results in far too limited by law or not. And it is contrary to our philosophy of free enterprise.

Teachers Getting Less

(New York Times)

If American democracy as we know it should ever collapse, one of the major causes would certainly be public indifference to the economic plight of the teaching profession. The report just issued by the Ford Foundation's Fund for the Advancement of Education helps dramatize the economic deprivation to which teachers have been subjected over the years. Prepared under the direction of Dewey Stuart, the report helps explain the degree to which it is impossible to believe the American public can permit to continue much longer.

Or does not have to go all the way along with Mr. Stuart's statement that "disaffection is being created at the most sensitive point in our society" to be able to recognize the extreme dangers of allowing the teaching profession to slide backward, relatively, in position, in dignity and in remuneration as we have on the whole been permitting it to do for the past fifty years.

Wherein do the neglect, the injustice and the humiliation lie? The report produces fascinating statistics to show how we have fallen behind in the matter of salaries (expressed in purchasing power) have actually decreased to a 1939 level.

But even in the instances where salaries have increased and these cover the bulk of lower-ranking professors and teachers in all faculties — the percentage increases in many cases have been much smaller than have those in a wide variety of industrial occupations such as automobiles, rubber, steel, mining, electrical machinery, petroleum refining and so forth. In other words, the relative position of teachers in the economic scale is worse, much worse, than it was fifty years ago; and that is the most really important fact.

Mr. Ruml observes with justice that "the best way to improve the next generation finds that education is not as highly valued by its seniors as law, medicine, engineering, or many technical skills." We are in a perfect when our country simply cannot afford to short-change the children by not changing its teachers. The American public as it expresses itself at all levels — community local, state and national — will fail to recognize this crisis in education at its peril.

Authors Get State Help

(St. Paul, Minn., Pioneer Press)

Sweden is using a novel plan adopted last year, for encouraging its authors to write good books. The government is paying each author a small royalty on his books, based on lendings, contributing three new tone per year for about one-fifth of a cent for each book loaned out of libraries.

Of this allotment two ore go directly to the author and one ore is special fund for the support and pensioning of deserving authors. This remembrance fund also compounds up in the case of authors whose works enjoy wide circulation.

Soon the authors of Sweden will participate in the "crop" of a melon of 290,000 kroner (about $78,000) for library circulation of 1954.

When Poet Sang Blues

(Christian Science Monitor)

When poets instead of popular song writers voiced the current sentiments of mankind "Serpent Song" had not been thought of, let alone "plugged" on the stages and screens of two or three countries. But Thomas Hood of "I remember" fame had done pretty well with a number he might have called "Hot Air Song." And he certainly was "singin' the blues";

No sun—no moon!
No morn—no noon—
and no forth until
No fruits, no flowers, no leaves, no birds,
November!

Though it seems to be overdoing it, we should recall that he wrote these "lyrics" on an island where folk feel well treated by the weatherman if he can offer them "bright and breezy" as a variation. And when you get into a British November you're really "had it," as the people of that island say, meaning what an American means by "the works."

November apparently brought Thomas Hood to the lowest point of no return. After seeing October turn his trees' raiment to pet and gold, we can well imagine his chagrin as he looked out the window to "see dull November brown as grass probably akin to the feeling that "now comes in the sere, the woodsmoke of today's song writers who in a burst of passionate distaste for "moon" rhymes exclaim: "You went too far when you dyed your hair chartreuse."

Was Mother Of Eye Bank

(New York Herald Tribune)

Ten years ago there was established the New England center of organization for bringing back sight to the blind, a movement destined to walk in darkness. This was the Eye Bank, which receives human eyes, to be used within hours for corneal grafting operations. In this way the eyes may bring light to the living. The idea is a natural, shining one, but the fact that it caught on so powerfully and was so effectively implemented is due to a small group who worked devotedly upon it. The story of how they first taught her the methods by which human tissues can be organized and made potent on a large scale, the story from which she is now retiring has been in every sense a fulfillment. Its dramatic and human success, its appeal to men and women across the land, its growth as one of the merciful accomplishments of the century, all these in a progress will continue to be a tribute to the able executive director, Mrs. Breckinridge.

Shortening

Husband has Ben Told the use of [popular shortenings or cooking oils] in baking and frying is very injurious to the human system, and asked me to stop using them. (Mrs. W. F.)

Answer—Does he intend to exercise, or is he just too credulous. Use of such shortenings is perfectly healthful.

A few days later came this letter from a New England reader:

Dear Sir:

I assume "popular shortenings or cooking oils" would mean the various hydrogenated fats and refined oils we find on the grocers' shelves today.

I should like to refer you to Adele Davis' book Let's Eat Right to Keep Fit, published last June.

On page 41-43 she tells about the hydrogenating of fats and oils and the heating of vegetable oils and the effect of consumption of these products.

Read it carefully, and you may have a different answer for the next person, alert enough to question the wholesomeness o fsuch "food".

Very truly yours,

Mrs. H. C. R.

Is my face red? Not from reading when I wrote that answer. I consider only the fact that nothing harmful is added in the me up.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE CHURCH SPIRE

We read in the history of one of the New England towns that one of the laws requested the people in a certain village to paint their houses with a tall spire which would be seen far out at sea. They needed this to guide them into the port.

Sailors used to guide their ships into New York harbor by the spires of the Old Trinity Church, but that spire is shut in now by the canyon walls of high office buildings. This is indicative of the way in which the material things have crowded out the spiritual in modern life.

Whether to guide ships or to guide souls, we have to have the Church toward which the mind and soul of men turn in expectancy. The good need the Church in order to grow better; the evil need the Church in order to break the bonds of bad habits; the doubter needs the Church, for the Word of God is incontrovertible the spire upon which the soul may rest, and the Church is the custodian of these saving truths that young women and the Church that their sons may be molded after the pattern of God's high destiny for them. Parents need the Church in these days when raising a family and keeping children unspoiled from the influences of the world seem particularly difficult. The need is for a Church that they may find comfort and a quiet harbor after a long voyage.

The church is the symbol of our needs and of God's provision for them.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Doctors are the special targets of all organizations of out-doorsmen. Their skill and nature study talents. A doctor is the greatest of all recruiting agents for nature clubs. To begin with, a great many doctors are ardent fishermen, hunters and amateur naturalists. Because a day in the open, in pursuit of their hobby, gets them out of touch with their office assistants, and gives these harried men a real escape, such as no other form of outdoor exercise cannot afford them.

But more and more doctors are prescribing membership in local field naturalist clubs for their patients. For outdoor exercise is becoming more difficult with every passing year of our new, excessively technological age. To inject an interest in bird watching, or trees or botany or shells or mineralogy into the life of a patient is a physician's opinion, than an injection of vitamins or sedatives. And all over Canada there are springing up local field naturalist clubs and groups that offer exactly at a loss for something to be interested in not only a fascinating interest but a lure that takes them out of doors at all seasons of the year. The latest example is the formation of Ontario Naturalists h a thirty member club in it, from the Quebec boundary, and some of the best known and most number hundreds of members. The Audubon Society of Canada, of which Dr. Lawrence Bates is be a director, devotes itself chiefly to inspiring an interest in wild nature among the school children of the nation, but also sponsors a very popular Audubon lecture series, which crams public halls all across Canada with real escape, such as is given when a doctor in the Audubon Society, or one who have recruited a plein toon with him.

Those who live in cities can reinforce their interest and address of field nature clubs in their neighborhoods by visiting museums of biology or from museums. Those living in smaller centres have the direct contact their nearest society. to act as parent to a new group, and to encourage by the professor of biology of the nearest university town or the nearest museum. Indeed, in every community, however small, there is usually one ardent amateur field naturalist of ten enough a medical man, who well know the name of the nearest society; so that the formation of new field nature groups is the easiest and, maybe the happiest, thing in the world.

A Great American Nurse

By NICHOLAS MIKA

(Article 5)

This is the story of a little American girl who was an extremely shy and backward child. Yet when she was older she attended international conferences and became the head of the most powerful and noble organization, the American Red Cross.

When she was in her early teens she insisted on caring for her sick brother. For two years she forgot to play, to laugh and to sing and hardly left the sick-room. She lost weight and looked pale. From that time on she did not grow any more. She was not a pretty girl either, but she possessed something far more important than beauty, a remarkable will-power.

When she became a teacher she refused any salary for several months so that the poor could send their children to school. At that time there was no free school and she was determined to change this situation.

DEADED FOR FOOD

After the Civil War broke out, she pleaded for food and supplies to be distributed among the wounded. What was still more astonishing, she did not belong to any organization, she worked on her own, driven by her conscious heart. All she knew was, that she must help, and help wherever it was needed most.

People shook their heads. It was a strange thing to see a woman working among the soldiers. Soon they got used to the greater shock when she announced that she was going to the battlefield and care for the wounded. The officials refused. Well, when she intended to do something, however, nobody was going to change her mind. The wounded needed her help and the dying her comfort. Her heart was bleeding in the face of the misery around her but her hands continued to be efficient and soothing and comforting. Twice a bullet tore her clothes, striking her to the ground, but it could not destroy her courage and strength.

Within a week the whole country knew about this remarkable woman. The soldiers called her "Angel of Mercy" and for the civilians she became the "Good Samaritan." When the war was over, there were thousands of families waiting in vain for their loved ones. Thinking of their grief and sorrow, she helped to search for over eighty thousand missing men. And never that she forgot herself. Her health began to fail and she went to Switzerland for a rest.

HEARD OF RED CROSS

There for the first time she heard about the great organization of mercy, the Red Cross. Its spirit and principles were the same as those deeply rooted in her own heart. When she learned that her country did not yet belong to the Red Cross, she was shocked and ashamed. Determined to do something about it, she returned home. Excitedly she spoke to thousands of people travelling from town to town, but her pleading went unheard and nobody showed the slightest interest.

Suddenly a great disaster swept through Michigan, a destructive fire. Her time had come. To help the victims of the catastrophe she organized the first Red Cross Society in her country. Soon after the senate ratified the United States became a member of the International Red Cross, and as their first president Clara chose the resolute little lady, Clara Barton.

Clara Barton appears on the United States stamps in 1948.

'ACTUAL KILLER'

The next day, Lyman was told, the man informed his companions he had been in a fight in a house and had given a man and a woman a severe beating. The alleged murderer was described as being bushy haired.

This tale matched roughly the testimony given at the Sheppard trial, since Sheppard, in maintaining his innocence, had described the murderer had bushy hair. With this in mind, Lyman said, he forwarded the information as requested.

In Cleveland, Corrigan said investigation is continuing in the case.

At Berkeley, Calif., Dr. Paul A. Kirk, University of California criminologist, said the report of a bushy-haired prowler in Sheppard's home the night his wife was murdered checked with what he learned during his investigation of the case.

After being read the story of the letter carrying to the prowler, Dr. Kirk told The Associated Press Friday night, "I agree that someone (other than Dr. Sheppard) was in that house" the night of the murder.

SENTENCED TO DIE

CHICAGO (AP) — Gunman Richard Carpenter, who shot two policemen to touch off one of Chicago's biggest and most dramatic manhunts, was condemned Friday night to die in the electric chair. A jury deliberated only an hour and 15 minutes in finding the 26-year-old defendant guilty of murdering detective William J. Murphy, 34, Aug. 15.

Diefenbaker Says Wheat Loan Plan Is Slap at West

SASKATOON (CP)—John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament, says the federal government's bank - loan policy on farm-stored wheat is "a reasonable and deliberate slap in the face to western Canada."

Mr. Diefenbaker told the Saskatoon Progressive Conservative Association Friday that "it seems to me the only people satisfied with the loan policy are Mr. Gardiner (Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal agriculture minister) and the provincial council of the Saskatchewan Liberal party."

The loan policy meant only that the federal government was providing a shelter only for the farmers' other debts. The federal government was solely responsible for the present wheat situation. "An economic blizzard has hit the Prairies and everybody saw it coming but the government."

With regard to the United States current wheat policy, which Mr. Diefenbaker termed "a fire-sale," he said "it's time for Canada to tell her what we think about it—that the United States has a right to give fair competition but not the type of competition that denies the principle of co-operation embodied in NATO."

600 Parade To War Memorial For Services

PICTON (Special) — Remembrance Day was fitting observed in Picton with a service at the War Memorial and a lengthy parade.

The sun broke through grey clouds, bringing out the color of the many flags and banners and adding glitter to the medals worn by veterans. Base of the memorial was left a great mass of flaming red poppies as tributes were deposited by organizations, individuals and merchants.

The church clock struck eleven o'clock as the parade formed about the triangle and two minutes of silence followed. The haunting strains of the Last Post sounded as the Union Jack fluttered to the top of the mast and banners were raised, came Reveille.

The immortal words of John McCrae's poem "In Flander's Fields" were recited by Homer Shields. "O Canada" was sung to the accompaniment of the Odd Fellow band. Legion Padre Frank Starr briefly referred to the meaning of Remembrance Day and the poppy as its emblem: Tribute to more than 100,000 Canadian dead was paid. In the past year four veterans had died, he said.

NO PRAYER SAID

Following the depositing of wreaths "Abide With Me" was sung, "God Save the Queen" concluded the service which was devoid of Scripture or prayer of any kind.

Taking the salute at the base in front of the armouries was Lt.-Col. Vincent, RCSA (AA) and Len Foley, president of Branch 78, Canadian Legion.

Around 600 participated in the parade led by the scarlet-coated Odd Fellows band, then around 100 veterans with berets and medals, the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary distinguished by their berets, members of St. John Ambulance with scarlet-lined black capes, the RCSA trumpet band, 300 members of the Picton Army Camp units forming a long line of khaki moving in precision, 31 members of the Sea Cadets, Sea Rangers in smart blue uniforms, Girl Guides in uniform and members of town council.

In the evening the veterans enjoyed a supper served by the Ladies' Auxiliary and a social evening at the Legion hall.

Jumps from Jet Going 700 MPH And Survives

HIGHER HOLLOCOMBE Eng. (Reuters)—A 22-year-old RAF flying officer has become the second man to bail out of a jet plane at supersonic speed and live. The first was an American.

FO. Hadley Mollard, who declined to identify the type he was flying, after diving "down to 30,000 feet, she did not show any sign of re-speeding," he said. "I knew I had to abandon."

He came down in the sea, having suffered a broken left arm, two black eyes and a fractured pelvis bone. The rush of air as he bailed out wrenched off his crash helmet, wrist watch, gloves and left shoe.

Mollard said that before he bailed out he looked at the machmeter and it showed he was travelling faster than the speed of sound, about 700 m.p.h. at sea level.

PHOTOGRAPHERS FIND IKE EXUBERANT

Back on his own two feet and with the characteristic smile very much in evidence, President Eisenhower reaches out to shake hands with one of the photographers who were assigned to photograph him and his visitor, President Castillo Armas of Guatemala, at the Fitzsimmons Army Hospital in Denver. President Armas is in right background. Eisenhower looked robust and full of vim as the lensmen joyously "shot" him on his feet for the first time since his illness. (Central Press Canadian.)

Have New Policy On Immigration During Winter

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal government plans to encourage immigration during the winter months, when jobs are scarce and unemployment is up, has the qualified approval of Canada's two big labor organizations.

The plans, described as "a new position" by Immigration Minister Pickersgill Friday night, call for encouragement to winter immigrants who are liable to find jobs on arrival or have jobs lined up before leaving their homeland.

"We are not going to encourage immigrants who are at all likely to be jobless nor are we going to encourage movements that might displace labor," Mr. Pickersgill said.

A spokesman for the Canadian Congress of Labor said his organization does not object to winter immigration provided it does not displace labor or under-cut wages and working conditions.

Claude Jodoin, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, said his group prefers that there be no winter inflow of new Canadians, but if there is it should not displace Canadian job-holders.

The immigration department's plans were disclosed in London Friday night by a spokesman for the Migration Council for Commonwealth Development and Co-operation.

Mr. Pickersgill confirmed the report of his department's plans, but added that immigrants will not be admitted freely on the Canadian labor force, to look for jobs as best they can.

Winter, normally is the high unemployment season in Canada, when construction work, farms and other seasonal sources of jobs are in slack months.

Last winter, when unemployment reached a post-war peak in march of 401,000 jobless, with about 633,000 registered job-seekers, immigration in the first quarter of the year was 11,837 new Canadians.

Mr. Pickersgill said he does not expect the "new position" — the word policy was not used — to have to use, he said—would result in immigration movements as heavy as those in the summer months.

New Hollinger Contract May Set Mine Pattern

TIMMINS (CP)—Hollinger Mines Ltd. and union representatives Friday agreed to a new contract which may set the pattern for agreements at other Porcupine district gold mines. Two years ago these mines were locked in a series of strikes lasting from 14 weeks to more than six months.

The contract, which still must be approved by members of United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), provides a 44-hour work week to replace the present 48-hour week with no cut in take-home pay. Other fringe benefits will not be announced until the contract has been approved.

Union and company officials said they were confident members will approve the contract when they vote Wednesday.

The agreement was reached during conciliation board hearings. Usually a report is filed following hearings and the company and union accept or reject the report.

But judge Walter Little, Parry Sound, arriving here three days ago to commence hearings, said he was "not going to write any reports."

"I am here to get a settlement . . . A strike such as you had here before is unthinkable."

The crippling strike two years ago left mines in northern Ontario and Quebec. Hollinger was the first to reach agreement and the contract was the basis for agreement in most of the other mines, with some adjustments.

Weather Slows Market Trading

Business was slow on the local market this morning.

Although a wide variety of produce was offered prices were mostly unchanged. Trading continued the slackening-off trend, noticeable with the approach of winter weather.

Biggest market item continues to be the bulk apple offering. Russets and spies brought $2.30 a bushel, greenings and sweets, $1.50, snows $1.25, with all ranging between 50-60 cents a six-quart basket. There was a slight offering of pears at 75 cents a basket.

Cabbage was a sizeable vegetable offering, selling at 10-15c a head; cauliflowers, nearing the end of their season, sold from 10-30 cents a head; Brussell sprouts were 20 cents a quart box. Beets and carrots were 50 cents a six-quart basket, with carrots $1.75 a bushel, washed. Parsnips were 60 cents a basket, $2.25 a bushel. Chinese cabbage was 10 cents a head; broccoli 15-20 cents a bunch.

Potatoes were 50 cents a basket, $1.80 a 75-lb. bag. Squash sold from 10 cents for pepper-squash up to 30 cents for the largest Hubbard squash. Turnips were 10 cents a piece, celery 10 cents a bunch. Spanish Onions were 60 cents a basket, $3 a bushel with cooking onions 50c and $2.50 a bushel.

Whitefish was 35 cents a pound, three pounds for $1.00.

Eggs were 60c to 70 cents for extra large, with large bringing 53 cents, mediums 50 cents and pullets 48 cents. Poultry was 50 cents for fowl, 55 cents for spring chickens.

Police Blotter

Accidents Keep Police Busy

A series of motor vehicle accidents kept city police busy during the night with at least half a dozen mishaps being reported.

Five persons suffered injuries in a two-car collision on Dundas street, while at the corner of Bridge and Church streets damage of about $500 was done to two vehicles.

James Butler Hough, 99 Front street, was northbound on Church street and after stopping for the stop sign proceeded into the intersection where his car was in collision with a westbound car driven by Lawrence S. Calnan, 107 Pine street.

Other accidents were of a minor nature with property damage amounting to only $100 in each case.

Soft drinks were running free at the corner of Front and Bridge streets this morning. But the drinks were not in bottles. Five or six cases of soft drinks slipped from a truck which was negotiating the corner and broken glass littered the street.

And pigeon pilfering is still in progress. A Bleecker street resident complained that his pigeon loft had been taken from his loft in the backyard during the night.

Sharp-shooting youngsters were blamed for broken light bulbs at the ball park.

CANADA'S NATIONAL BALLET ON TOUR

Fifth annual tour of the National Ballet of Canada begins in Belleville, Ontario, and will take the cast to most Canadian cities before performing in the U. S. Two of the cast are Edelayne Brandt and Mimi Torvinova, dressed for their roles and operating a jack-in-the-box. The company has two additional plays in its repertoire, The Nutcracker and Swan Lake. Hold Grade 13 Course Too Hard

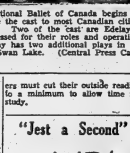
TORONTO (CP) — A group of educationists said Friday many students drop out of school rather than tackle the Grade 13 course because it has the reputation of being too hard.



Many of the delegates to the Ontario Association for Curriculum Development agreed there was some basis for the fears.

Rev. C. L. Siegried of St. Jerome's College, Kitchener, said the average Grade 13 student "has to study at least four hours a night, outside of class."

Dr. H. Pakin of Hamilton suggested that the number of required courses be reduced to four subjects: English, French, history and an option, such as mathematics or science.

W. E. Hunter of Parkville said many students who are avid readers must cut their outside reading to a minimum to allow time for study.

Weddings

DONSTEEL—MASSEY

A lovely autumn wedding was solemnized at the home of the Rev. H. E. Hillis, William Street, Belleville, on Saturday, October 29, at 2 p.m., when he united in marriage, Muriel Jean Massey of Foxboro, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Massey, to Raymond Herb Bonisteel, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Bonisteel.

Miss Mary Anne Nicolson, A.T.C.M., of Toronto, cousin of the bride, rendered the wedding music before the ceremony and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ralph Wescott, A.T.C.M., of Brooklyn, Ontario, aunt of the bride, who sang during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love" and at the reception "I Love You Truly."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of Chantilly lace over tulle and satin, featuring a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and insert of nylon net accented by a matching Chantilly lace and net sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The full skirt, worn over a hoop, had a front panel of pleated nylon net. Her matching fingertip veil was held by a seed pearl headdress with nylon net edging, and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of red Happiness roses and white feathered carnations with asparagus fern. A rhinestone necklace and matching earrings completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Harry McDonald of Brankford, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, wore a floor-length gown of mauve Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin with full skirt, and fitted bodice enhanced by a matching jacket with short sleeves. She carried a round bouquet of yellow pom pom and white feathered carnations and asparagus fern.

For the wedding reception, which was held at the Orange Hall, Wallbridge, to which Wallbridge was escorted, the bride's mother chose mink-toned lace with pink accessories and corsage of carnations and phantom fern. The bridegroom's mother selected a gown in powder blue crepe and lace with navy accessories and corsage of orange blossom and phantom fern.

For the wedding trip to Sarnia, Detroit and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a powder blue all-wool boucle suit, with navy and pink accessories and corsage of pink roses. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bonisteel will reside in Belleville, where the groom is employed with the Norcan Construction Company.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom was an onyx initialled ring with diamond setting; to her matron of honor, a necklace and matching earrings; to the soloist, matching pin and earrings. A gift to the pianist, a compact.

Guests were present from Toronto, Brooklin, Oshawa, Brighton and nearby points.

Home Portrait Display Shown Y's Menettes

Tuesday evening, at the regular meeting, Bill Riley of Riley's Studio, and Artisan Studio, addressed the Y's Menettes on "How to Display Portraits in Your Home".

He gave many helpful suggestions and illustrated several methods by picture slides. The girls had guests with them and all present felt much better informed on the subject.

Mr. Riley was introduced by Ruth Denton, and thanked by Ardeth Leslie, who presented him with a small gift on behalf of the club.

The "Y" secretary, Di Diamantopoulos, is to be carried. For example, several carriers may operate between New York and Chicago on an east-west route with service between Cleveland and Detroit. Another may operate on a predominantly north-south route, but also with service between Cleveland and Detroit.

Changes are your ticket on the New York-Chicago trip is not interchangeable with those on other lines between Cleveland and Detroit because the lines are not interlined to compete with east-west carriers. You may lose what is known as the "through" fare.

Only an experienced agent fully understands these ramifications of ticketing, so depend on him. But while you can't be expected to memorize all the values of government-established tariffs, an understanding of these basic principles should help you lay out your trip.

ZIGZAG ROUTE

Sometimes a trip may not be as simple as the New York-Cleveland-Detroit-Chicago deal. You may follow a more zigzag route, but generally, between the starting and most isolated point, the direct or round trip routing is established so long as your trip proceeds in the same general direction.

For example, one airline permits you to go on to Seattle from Chicago and San Francisco by way of far-off Seattle, but at considerably more cost than the direct round trip fare between Chicago and San Francisco.

If you were to buy one-way tickets from Chicago to San Francisco to Seattle to Chicago the cost would be far greater, an obvious illustration of why it pays to buy your ticket in advance if you know your exact itinerary.

Bear in mind that even when you do use different carriers on Mrs. Jones' trip, operated conjointly, you may still be entitled to stopover privileges. Be sure to point fare agreements between the carriers — known as "interline through" fare and at the very least you'll still get your round trip ticket.

TOURIST SERVICE

There are no stopover or round trip privileges on the airlines' tourist services, since these are reduced-fare, non-refundable, specially your stopover privileges plus round trip, joint fare and interline through fare are the kinds of tickets are such that it is actually cheaper on long trips to travel first class.

Everything hinges on returning to the point of origin. Now, if you were to go from Boston to California and finish your trip in New York, you'd pay one-way fares all the way and it would cost you much more than to return to Boston.

Sometimes tickets which are not interchangeable in theory are so in practice. If you have a long complicated itinerary and have to switch at one point to a carrier not in on the joint fare deal, the ticket agent will occasionally accept the ticket anyway rather than rewrite the entire ticket, but don't be careful of this since a slight change can mean a lot of extra fare because of the routing complications.

Going Places so Much to Buying Tickets Is Complicated

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Since the airlines, bus lines and railroads have done so much to promote elaborate trips with multiple ports of call in preference to the simple point-to-point-and-back hops that used to be the rule, buying a ticket no longer is the uncomplicated operation it used to be.

Judging from the surprising volume of mail we receive on this subject, particularly from business men who travel on itineraries, there seems to be considerable confusion among readers.

What exactly constitutes a round trip and what is a circle trip? What are "stopover privileges" and why does it sometimes cost more to switch from one carrier to another? Above all, how is it possible to get the most of your ticket money?

While the carriers do everything possible to arrange fares so they are low as can be for given trips, there are a number of things you can do this; most tickets are good for a year, except on special excursion fares.

A round trip, contrary to popular opinion, is not necessarily a direct trip to and back from a given place. Its any trip that ends eventually where it began. You can start at home, stop at every city in the country and return home on a ticket on which you receive the round trip discount.

CIRCLE TRIPS

Trips on which you go via one route and return via another are known technically as circle trips. For instance, on the airlines, if you go to Cleveland via Chicago with stops at Cleveland and Detroit going out, and at Cleveland, Chicago, and Philadelphia coming back, you still pay no more than if you go direct to Chicago and back.

The reason for this is simple enough. Certain rules which operates between New York and Chicago and Cleveland and Detroit operate which are scheduled to stop at these and other cities en route. Consequently, very well charge you extra because they make these stops.

Since they stop there anyway, there's no reason why you can't get off, either for a few minutes to walk around the terminal or, by the same token, be a day or a week or more to visit or conduct business before you go on with your stopover privilege.

Therein lies your first tip: with any type of your travel or ticket agent, try to plan your trip. If possible, on a desired stop are not along the regular route of the carrier, it need not be a deterrent to your plans, since many lines operating over the same routes have "interline" agreements that permit you to switch carriers.

However, there's where you have

College Hill United Church Bazaar, Tea Most Successful

On Wednesday afternoon, College Hill United church was the scene of the annual bazaar and tea, sponsored by the Women's Association.

Mrs. A. Dickens, president of the W.A. received. Mrs. Bruce Belsey welcomed the people and introduced the bazaar, after which she assisted Mrs. Dickens in receiving.

The room, attractively decorated with mums, leaves and flower sprays, had an L-shaped arrangement of tables displaying aprons, fancy work, wrapped novelties, candy, and home-cooking. In one corner by itself was a fish pond.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Many Christmas gifts were selected from the crocheted doylies, pillow slips, mitts, baby booties and bonnets, pot holders, knitted doll outfits; doll high chairs, wall brackets in fancy design and novelties. This table was convened by Mrs. J. Thomson and Mrs. J. Blir. Presiding over the novelty packages was Mrs. Pine.

At the apron table there was a choice of coveralls, half aprons, children's fancy aprons, and work tote bib aprons. This table was served by Mrs. C. Bailey.

The candy table in charge of Mrs. M. Vandervoort and Mrs. I. Barrow, did a brisk business selling the delicious maple creams, fudge, chocolates, and other varieties of sweets.

APPETIZING GOODIES

The home-cooking table held the usual array of goodies including tarts, pies, buns, bread, cookies, cup cakes and large cakes of all kinds. This table was convened by Mrs. G. Waite, assisted by Mrs. Belcour, Mrs. Kelcheson, Mrs. Greenwood, Mrs. F. Watson and Mrs. Bruce.

The fish pond became the centre of attraction at four o'clock when the young fry landed in it quickly buy up the "fish". Mrs. C. West and Mrs. D. Dafoe served the customers.

The tea table, surrounded by small tables, was a picture in lily lace cloth and with a beautiful centrepiece of cedar, angel hair, colored balls and chrysanthemums flanked by streamers of red ribbon and red candles.

PRESIDING

Presiding at the tea services were, Mrs. R. Farnsworth, Mrs. J. Brown, - Mrs. A. Miller, Mrs. A. Mawson and Mrs. D. Belsey.

Convener of the tea room was Mrs. J. Townsend, whose assistants in serving the delicious refreshments were, Mrs. D. Watson, Mrs. G. Jenkinson, Mrs. D. Hunter, Mrs. J. Sproule, Mrs. H. Elliott, and Mrs. H. Hicks.

Those who prepared the plates in the kitchen were, Mrs. E. Flinder and Mrs. H. Clarke. The delicious tea was made by Mrs. W. Walker and Mrs. A. Armstrong.

The treasurer was Mrs. E. Price.

Many thanks go to all those who helped to make this bazaar an outstanding success.

Hobby Develops Into Lucrative Business Mrs. G. Welsh Has 1,200 Plants in Home

By RUTH HOWARD

Shown above is Mrs. Gardner Welsh of Belleville with a few of the African violets of the hundreds she has in her home. The plants are shown on shelving in the cellar along with fluorescent lights which substitutes for sunlight and also promotes faster growth.

An unusual hobby that has grown into a business is that of Mrs. Gardner Welsh at 317 Bleecker Avenue. Her business has to do with African Violets in which she became interested six years ago, when a neighbor gave her a fine specimen and she has made it a commercial effort for the last four years. It is rare to see so many beautiful plants in one household. Mrs. Welsh's collection numbers approximately 1,200 plants in 150 varieties, and she cares for in addition to her homemaking and summer gardening.

"When my first violet did so well, I bought a large one at a florist's and divided it up into six pots. Then I started looking for different varieties. I could visualize my glass shelves filled with blossoms."

It went to Copeland's Violet House at Cooksville and Mrs. Clelland's at Niagara Falls. I ended up different varieties at these places."

JOINED SOCIETY

Mrs. Welsh joined the African Violet Society, through which she receives a quarterly magazine, devoted to the growing and care of these plants. She availed herself of every opportunity to learn as much as she can and she can tell you the name of almost every variety she has, without pointing out some of the loveliest ones, as mentioned. "This one with the white-edged petals is called Miss Louise. For anyone who wants a hanging plant here is a Gent's Blue Cluster. The measure one resembles like a rosette is a Flora Potlie. This largest one is a Blue Heiress."

Noting the rich green foliage of all the plants we asked Mrs. Welsh the secret of watering, soil and light.

"You have to learn a great deal for yourself," she answered. "With so many I can't say precisely how often they should be watered. I water them only when the soil feels dry to the touch. When the weather is hot and dry, sometimes I don't dry out so quickly."

"The soil I use is a mixture of garden soil, leaf mold, peat moss and vermiculite or sand. I fertilize them about once a month."

"African Violets do not require as much light as other plants but must be good light. The winter sun does not hurt them but the summer sun seems to burn the plant, causing the leaves to become crisp."

FLUORESCENT LIGHTING USED

One is reminded of a greenhouse in Mrs. Welsh's basement, where hundreds of young plants are growing under white fluorescent lighting. Since the native habitat of the African Violet is in the jungle of Africa, we can understand why it grows best in moist warm and humidity, with out too much strong light.

There seems to be little trouble with pests or disease, according to Mrs. Welsh.

"The only trouble I've had results from bringing in outdoor flowers. Insects called aphids breed in on them. The mature ones can fly and they burrow into the blossoms and lay eggs. This politenzes the blossom, causing it to drop quickly. Two drops of Black Leaf 40 in warm water and sprayed on will kill insects in the larvae."

"There is also an insect called the cyclamen mite. A stronger spray is required for this one but I've never been troubled with it. The cyclamen mite is too small to be seen with the naked eye, but its presence is indicated when the center of the plant becomes dwarfy and the leaves don't mature properly."

"Another enemy of African Violets is nematodes, a worm found in the soil, where it attacks the roots of the plant. Sterilizing the soil is the best way to get rid of it."

USES OVEN

The soil is sterilized by moistening it well and placing it in an oven at 220 degrees Fahrenheit for about an hour. The heat and steam will kill any existing insects. Some commercial mixes are not likely to be found in Canada, due to the duty, winter frost. They are prevalent in warmer climates.

Mrs. Welsh, a Rawson bus-driver, is greatly interested in his hobby. Regular visitors to her home are always welcomed.

Mrs. Welsh has on display numbering 40 varieties of African Violets on exhibition at the Belleville fair last August.

SCOTT'S W.A.-W.M.S.

A good crowd assembled at the home of Mrs. Ross Scott, Foxboro, for the November dinner of Scott's W.A. The next dinner will be in December, will be at Mrs. Allen Sine's when election of officers and Christmas party will be held.

During the W.A. business, it was decided that Scott's pay one-quarter of the parsonage expenses for re-wiring and plumbing.

W.M.S. MEETING

Mrs. Morley Sine called the meeting to order and took charge of the W.M.S. program.

The Rev. W. E. G. Dovey led in prayer. The roll call showed 11 members present. The treasurer was the third quarter's money to be sent to the presbyterial treasurer. The supply secretary brought the allocation for supply work—for overseas missions—good used clothing, soap, towels and tooth brushes. These will be brought to the next meeting, each member is to bring one or two articles.

Mrs. Sine had the study book on "Our Church and First Canadians" telling the story of the two groups of Indians, the Caughnawaga Indians in Quebec and Central Ontario, and the Six Nations Indians in southwestern Ontario, showing what the church has been doing for these early Canadians and the scope of the work is still to be done. It is a worthwhile and satisfying work. But the challenge is—more workers and more money.

Mrs. Marilyn Fawcett with a duet, and Mrs. Leslie Reed a prayer, and Mrs. G. Pollard took the chair for the devotional period which was on "Our High Calling —The Call to Fellowship".

Then the several Bible readings. It was shown the Christian must utilize her teacher's college training to act as tutor to members of the east. This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Did you know that, according to the department of vital statistics, the population of Belleville rose from 15,710 in 1941, to 18,518 in 1951 — that the population of Ontario grew from 3,787,655 in 1941 to 5,046,000 in 1954, and that 68% or nearly 3,500,000 of the 1954 figure live south of a line running from near Oshawa to Georgian Bay, or that "one-third of these live in the metropolitan area of Toronto and that Canada's population on June the first 1954 was estimated at 15,- 185,000 people.

"There was a star danced and under that was I born." Toronto's National Ballet Company brings to Belleville on Monday next, a troupe of talented dancers with devotion and love for the dance could give them the right to use the above quotation from As You Ado About Nothing for their motto. An authority said that ballet is a performance in which dancing, music and pantomime are involved: "Ballet is the theatrical representation by means of dancing, mimicry and orchestral music, had its origin in the pantomimic performances of ancient Greece."

The good fortune and the bad fortune of the ballet after the fifteenth century experienced popular and unpopular periods. After the French revolution, it languished in Europe, being preserved in the old Imperial ballet in Russia alone. An American dancer, Isadora Duncan, in the early 20th century, perfected a new convention and did much to revive the ballet in Europe and once more. The authority already quoted states too, "that the old ballet relied almost entirely on foot-and-leg work, whereas modern practice has the whole body as its medium of expression" and further "this more movement will be more truly a cultural expression of the basic emotions of life than was the elegant art of the old ballet." Since World War II a new ballet has arisen. It appears have come to Canada. In nearly every city in Canada, schools of ballet are active, while ballet courses are being conducted in summer schools throughout the country.

Some indication of the ballet's increasing popularity within a few years was shown in 1954 when the Royal Winnipeg Ballet which had become immensely successful, lost in a disastrous fire, all of its material assets such as costumes, sets, books of scores, records and documents. Public sympathy poured in from all parts of Canada and the United States, while a group of Winnipeg supporters formed a committee to raise $50,- 000 to re-establish the organization. Fortunately, however, the National Ballet Company filled the gap and subsequently enjoyed hence a successful season both here and in the U.S.A.

Ballet is a highly international flavor with its splendid example of choice to graduates from many ethnic groups. Judith Dorni, who is only fourteen has already accomplished dancing was born in Budapest and is studying all the time at the grand conservatory. Genevayre Brandt comes from Frenchmen's Bay, Lake Temiskaming. Diane Ireland is a graduate teacher who prefers to dance, but utilizes her teacher's college training to act as tutor to members of the east. Grant Stratis is a lawyer whose love of dancing is greater than his desire to practice the law. Lillian Jarvis speaks five languages — Finnish, Russian, Spanish, German and English. ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU'RE ON THE WRONG SIDE OF THE ARGUMENT, GERRY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Not long ago, my girl friend introduced me to the nicest boy I ever met. I hear that he likes me, too, and would like very much to take me out.

The problem is that my girl friend used to go steady with him in the summer, and may be still does. Every time I'm out with her and we meet some of my friends, I usually show them a picture of my boy friend, and s h e always says: "Oh, I went steady with him in the summer."

That embarrasses me a lot. It makes it seem as though I'm second choice with him. How should I tell her to stop saying such things?

I'm 14 and this boy is 17, and if I ever do go out with him, I'd be scared, because it would be my first date. Please tell me what to do about this, too. — Gerry

Dear Gerry:

The way to make your girl friend stop claiming this boy as her former "steady" is for you to stop showing other girls his picture and claiming him for your own boy friend. It's you who is making the big mistake. After all, he's never asked you for a date, and you've only "heard" that he likes you and wants to take you out. Wait until he tells you himself before you show him off as your boy friend.

As things are, it's your own fault if you get into an embarrassing situation.

Moreover, it seems wholly possible to me that your girl friend might feel you had taken her boy friend away from her. She was the one who was going with him in the first place—and you say maybe she still does—and she was the one who introduced you to him. Frankly, I think you're on the wrong side of any argument here.

As for how to act on your first date, whoever you happen to have it with, just act like yourself—which I hope would be that you'd act like a lady. You might go to your public library and take out a little book called "Teen Talk," by Marion Gelendining. It will tell you a lot of things that will be helpful to you.

YOUR SISTER CAN'T QUARREL IF YOU DON'T

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

My sister and I are always fighting. She is nearly 19 and I am almost 16.

No matter who starts it, my mother always blames me and punishes me. But my sister is always saying smart things to me to make me yell at her, and then my mother yells at me. We had a big fight when my mother was away over the weekend, and since then I hardly speak to her.

I hope you can help me. — J.A.

Dear J.A.:

What do you and your sister fight about mostly? If you had told me this, I'd be able to try to make suggestions to you.

Here are two suggestions, anyhow, that will probably help. If you have enough self-control to carry them out.

First, the next time your sister says "smart things" to you, give her a surprise and don't "yell at her." Just don't say anything at all. If it's possible, simply walk quietly out of the room, and when you see her again, talk to her as though it never happened. If you're where you can't leave the room, go on with what you're doing and act as though you hadn't heard anything. If you can't do it with quietly out of the room, and when you see her again, talk to her as though it never happened. If you're where you can't leave the room, go on with what you're doing and act as though you hadn't heard anything. If you can't do it with quietly, you'll probably help. If you have enough self-control to carry them out.

The second suggestion is that once in awhile you bring her some little thing and give it to her as though you just wanted to do it because you're fond of her. After all, you really are fond of her, I'm sure, but you just forget that when she makes you mad. If you try to remember it, though, and show her that you do, you might be surprised to find how much difference, it makes. Even no more than an unexpected little kiss once in awhile might do a lot.

Will you try this plan, and let me know how it works?

Modish Sheath

By ALICE ALDEN

It's a change, isn't it, after all the fluffy, bouffant, romantic evening clothes, to see and wear a slinky siren sheath? Nice that is, if one has the figure for same — and has worked on whittling into shape. Anyway, slim elegance, a keynote for the fall fashion picture, is personified by a real femme fatale creation, a bitter chocolate brown rhinestone-embroidered crepe evening sheath. Stirrels molds the lovely lace into a slinky, long willowy line from strapless bodice to floor. The chiffon stole, in matching brown, is attached at the bustline for versatile, soft draping.

FRUIT MILK SHERBET
(Sugarless)

One cup evaporated milk, 1 cup water, 24 sucaryl tablets dissolved in 2 tablespoons hot water, 6-oz. tin frozen orange juice concentrate. (You may use other fruit concentrate as long as they are unsweetened and undiluted, such as grape, tangerine, grapefruit, pineapple or lemon.) Combine all of these ingredients and mix very well. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze to a mush. Turn out into cold bowl and beat with rotary or electric beater until smooth and creamy. Return at once to tray and freeze until firm. This amount makes 4 to 6 servings. The whole family will like it. Serve with

ORANGE ANISE COOKIES
(Sugarless)

Fourteen sucaryl tablets, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup stirred but not sifted flour, 1-4 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 cup orange juice, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 scant teaspoon anise seed, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Let the sucaryl tablets stand in the orange juice and vanilla until dissolved. Cream the shortening. Sift the dry ingredients together. Mix shortening, dry ingredients and liquid together. Knead into them the anise seed and orange rind. Shape this dough into a 2-inch roll and wrap in wax paper. Chill until firm. With sharp knife cut into 1-8-inch slices and place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 12 minutes or until edges are tinged with brown.

SPONGE CAKE
(Low-sugar-content)

Two eggs, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup sugar, 24 sucaryl tablets, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-3 cup skim milk (or reliquefied skim milk powder), 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 1 cup sifted flour, 2 1-2 teaspoons baking powder. Beat eggs until very light and foamy—about 5 minutes. Beat in salt, sugar and vanilla. Add the butter and the sucaryl tablets to the milk and heat just to boiling point. Stir in flour together flour and baking powder and stir in until smooth. At once turn into greased square pan 8x8x2 inches or 2 greased 7-inch layer tins. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 25 to 20 minutes. When cool spread with

LOW CALORIE TOPPING:

Pour 1 cup evaporated milk into freezing tray and chill until tiny crystals start to form around edges. Whip in chilled bowl with chilled beater until stiff enough to hold its shape. Dissolve 12 sucaryl tablets in 1 teaspoon vanilla and fold in. This frosting is at its best when fresh.

Mildred I hope you will let me know when I may help again.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WHY NOT TAKE A CHANCE AND INVITE HIM TO THE DANCE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My girl friend and I have a problem we wish you would settle. She is a most attractive girl, but because her family has had to move several times when her father's company transferred him to various cities, she hasn't had too much opportunity to make lasting friendships. About a month ago, at church, a boy friend of mine was with a boy I also know quite well. I introduced this boy to my girl friend. After church we all went for a walk together and then we moved back to my house for sandwiches, cake and coffee. They seemed to have a good time together, but he hasn't called her up since, as I hoped he would (she thinks so too). He goes to a different school from the one we go to. Now our school is giving a dance, and I suggested she invite him. But she insists it wouldn't be proper for her to do this because he hasn't even telephoned her, let alone asked her for a date. But I don't see why she couldn't at least invite him. Do you? — Patricia G.

No! I think she might just as well take a chance and invite him. It may be that he'll respond delightedly this one-sided gesture. And if he doesn't want to accept her invitation, he can "regret" it by saying he has another engagement.

TWO GROUPS OF HOURS FOR COLORED WEDDING CELEBRATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and father are to celebrate their 25th Wedding Anniversary soon, and we are following your advice about having the party on the Sunday following the actual date. Would you approve of our having two groups of hours at Open House, which we think might better accommodate relatives and friends? For example we had thought of having Open House in the afternoon (say from 2 or 3 o'clock to 5 o'clock), for relatives and friends who are their contemporaries and also those who would come from a distance; and then have Open House in the evening (say from 7:30 or 8 o'clock to 10 o'clock) for friends we've never heard of having the two groups of hours, or do you? Do hear if you approve. Thank you for advice. — D.K.S.

This is a wise and practical plan . . . and as a matter of fact today it is quite often the case because of just the s e n s i b l e reasons you have in mind. I approve of it most wholeheartedly for, as much as is possible, it provides convenience for all those most concerned. And please do protect the interval between 5 o'clock and 7:30 or 8 o'clock, so that this will be a real rest-period . . . so often the mistake is made of letting the afternoon guests tarry on and on after 5 o'clock so that there is not enough time for the guests of honor to rest before the evening festivities begin. Cheers! 2 o'clock as the beginning - hour (rather than 3 o'clock) might release a more leisurely ending-hour for the afternoon gathering.

CORSAGES FOR "THE GRANDMOTHERS"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that it is my responsibility to provide the corsages for "the mothers" on my side of the family—my mother. But how about the grandmothers? My bride's maternal grandmother and my paternal grandmother are to be present at our wedding, and although my bride-to-be hasn't mentioned anything about their corsages, I have a feeling she may be holding back about this subject hoping I will mention it. Do you think I should mention it first? — Groom-to-be

Yes . . . it is the responsibility to provide the corsages for the grandmothers, and it will make it easier all around if you talk this over with your bride-to-be. Tell her

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

HOW TO APPLY EYE MAKE-UP

To apply mascara properly one needs patience, practice, a good mirror and a good light.

Nothing adds so much glamour to a woman's appearance as eye make-up properly applied. Improperly applied, however, it can make a woman appear ghastly or give her entire make-up a grotesquely over-done effect. Proper application takes time. It should never be done hurriedly in poor light.

One of the first things to remember in applying mascara is to see that the lashes are thoroughly clean. There should not be the slightest bit of cream on them or the mascara won't "take" properly. The mascara should be brushed on the upper lashes only, and then only on the lower side. If applied to the lower lashes the effect is theatrical. Apply one coat and let it dry thoroughly. Then apply a second coat to get the most satisfactory results.

Eye-shadow must also be applied carefully and painstakingly. But here, unlike the case of mascara, a slight bit of cream on the lids will help the shadow to blend more smoothly. And it should be applied only to the lower part of the lid.

You can have a lot of fun experimenting with different colors of eye-shadow. Green, say, makes women believe, have to match the color of the eyes, but it should complement your skin tones. Blue shadow can be used with brown eyes, for instance, and green shadow with brown eyes, but you'll have to practice in order to achieve the desired effects.

An eyebrow pencil can do much to accent the eyes and even change their shape. If the eyes are small, for instance, a thin line drawn from the outer corner of each eye for an eighth of an inch, with a slightly upward tilt, will make them seem larger. But be sure that the line is a thin one or you'll achieve a clown-like look that's anything but beautiful.

you are planning to take over this pleasant responsibility and ask her if she would please choose the corsages at her florist's and charge them to you with her own wedding bouquet and the corsages for "the mothers."

THE FUNERAL SERVICE IS THE SAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman;

Will you please tell me if a funeral service is the same whether it is to be followed by interment or cremation? I had always thought that these services were different, but a friend of mine has told me they are the same. Or does it perhaps make a difference where the service takes place; that is, in a church or in a house? — S.C.

The funeral service is the same, whether it is to be followed by interment or cremation. And the service is held in a church or in a house or funeral home.

NOVEMBER SNOW

The air was sharpened by a breath that stings —
A herald of the coming winter drear —
With clouds portentous and a wind that sings
Of snow and frost to mark the closing year.
The gaunt trees shivered 'neath the threatening storm,
The brown leaves clattered before the freshening gale,
The snow came down and spread a blanket warm
O'er hill and hollow and the sleeping vale.
—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON — We wakened on Tuesday morning to find the world white with snow. The night before, the sharp air seemed to herald the storm. Doubtless the children hailed the snow with delight but older folk shrink from winter's power. On our way to Florida one autumn we spent the last night at a fine tourist home at Jacksonville which was visited by a severe frost which was unusual and which blackened all the flowers. The small boy of the home was delighted to see something so unusual and listened eagerly as I told him of the ice and snow in Canada and how the boys and girls enjoyed coasting and skating on the shore and far on to the ice of the frozen lake. On the following Sunday in St. Petersburg the Baptist minister commenting on the frost, said that some tourist had come down from the north and left the door open.

Anniversary services in the United Church on Sunday were impressive and inspiring with Rev. W. Berry, M.A., B.D., as guest speaker.

Miss S. E. Blakely and Miss Marjorie Berry with Miss Helen Arthur of Belleville, and Mrs. Charles Berry of Picton motored to Kingston on Friday.

The members of the W.A. of the United Church were guests of the Bloomfield W. A. on Friday afternoon, a very pleasant time is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Conley and Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys were guests of Mrs. J. Conley on Sunday.

Mrs. Glendon Sanders and young son spent the week-end the guests of friends in Toronto.

The nominating committee of the W.A. of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. Arnold Vanderwater on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. W. Luffman passed away on Wednesday after a brief but severe illness. The surviving husband and son and daughter have the sympathy of their many friends.

The November meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday School Room with the president, Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg in charge.

MR. ERNEST CARLEY

Mr. Ernest Carley passed away at the Belleville General Hospital after an illness of some months at his home at Consecon Lake. The deceased was a son of Mr. Albert Carley and the late Mrs. Carley of Melville and will be remembered by many friends for his genial personality and friendliness.

Surviving are his father, Mr. Albert Carley, his wife, (nee Miss May Hough), a son, Clarence, at home; a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Preston(Dorothy), of Wellington, and three grandchildren, also two br0thers, Clifford Carley of Melville and Henry Carley of Wellington.

The funeral service was conducted at his late residence, South Lakeside, on Thursday afternoon, with Rev. Mr. Cook of Consecon in charge, with burial in Burr's cemetery. The floral offerings were beautiful.

Garden Notes

Odds and Ends in The Garden

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

One chore for November is mulching your strawberries, if you planted a new bed this year.

Since these plants have a shallow root they will need this protection to prevent them being heaved out of the ground by alternate freezing and thawing. When the ground is frozen deep enough to bear your weight without breaking through, it is time to apply the mulch. Shredded corn stocks, straw, or hardwood leaves will do. Uncover gradually as they first show new growth in the spring. Rake the mulch between the rows and allow it to stay there. It will provide humus and also prevent weed seeds from germinating.

Clean up the corner of your garden, raking up leaves which may mat down and smother semi-dormant plants. You can cut soda and pits them around the edge of your compost heap to keep it in bounds. Soot from the chimney and vacuum cleaner dust may also be added to the heap.

Burn the stocks and dead flowers from perennials to prevent carry-over of insects and other plant pests.

NEED LIME

If you are sure you need lime on your garden, this is a good time to apply it. Soil conditioners and commercial humus may also be spread now. They will and filter away unless the soil is on a slope, or is very sandy. Shredded paper is a good humus, and also an excellent mulching material.

You can insure the winter safety of newly-planted evergreens and shrubs if you soak the soil to a depth of two to three feet; if the season has been dry then moisten heavily. Do this just before the first freeze-up.

The falling of the leaves marks the beginning of the spraying season for the soft scales. Use a miscible oil spray on lilacs, ash, fruit and poplar trees if you find scale insects present. Aphis which infest white pine and other evergreens should be sprayed with a nicotine spray. Chrysanthemums often need this spray to combat aphis too.

Do not allow the late grass to grow too long. Keep it cut as long as it is still growing. Matted long grass will mean patches of dead grass in the spring. Keep the leaves raked off over winter. They smother the roots.

W/ BORDER PLANTS

Your madonna lilies will have thrown up new leaves. Do not mulch these plants until the ground is frozen to a depth of two to three inches. Apply straw, or hardwood leaves, cover with wire netting, branches cut from evergreens, or shrubs, to hold the mulch in place. If you have received your shipment of madonna-lily bulbs late, plant them in a shady well-drained position where the soil is rather sandy.

See that the crown is two inches below the soil surface. These lilies require a little elbow room. In the border keep neighboring plants a reasonable distance away to allow full sun.

A rainy, or particularly raw Saturday can be spent in-doors pulling the flats, frames, sash and tools in order. Coil up the hose, and if you do not have a rack, coil it in a bushel basket and store it inside away from the weather.

Wash out and oil the plant food spreader, then it will be in good working order for next spring. Any residue of plant food will encourage the formation of rust.

Give houseplants a lift with liquid fertilizer. It will get them in condition for the short days ahead.

Apple Growers Request Ban On Cheap Wines

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP)—Town council has asked the Nova Scotia liquor commission not to sell in its local store imported wines retailing for less than a quart, or less. Resolution to this effect was passed 3-2 after discussion about Nova Scotia and Ontario apple growers and the quality of commission wines.

Council originally specified a ban on cheap wines but withdrew the mention. A Nova Scotia apple wine sells for less than $1.40.

Although it didn't say so, the resolution was aimed at the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association and Ontario wineries. The sponsor, deputy Mayor Percy Best, said Ontario fruit men opposed federal government assistance to Nova Scotia growers in processing 2,000,000 bushels of Annapolis valley apples for sale outside Canada.

Eisenhower's Doctor Seeks Information

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist directing President Eisenhower's treatment, has begun a country-wide survey among American doctors to learn how common such heart disease is and what has happened to the victims.

The survey will determine how many have had acute coronary thrombosis attacks like that of the president, what percentage are still alive and what proportion have been able to return to work. It will be published in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, he said "all physicians in this country" to supply him by letter with information on their heart patients.

Catholics Issue New Translation Of Old Testament

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic officials have prepared a new English translation of seven books of the Old Testament.

The translation goes "back to more reliable sources" and uses more modern English than the Douay version for English-speaking Catholics, the National Catholic Welfare Conference announced.

One change is a renaming of Ecclesiasticus to the Book of Sirach. Another is the omission of Baruch do not appear in the Protestant version of the Bible.

The other books translated, as part of a project begun in 1944 to cover the whole Bible, include Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and Canticle of Canticles.

The new translation takes advantage of advancements in scientific textual description, improved knowledge of Hebrew and related dialects and manuscript discoveries as late as 1931, the announcement said.

The new volume is the second of the five-volume edition to be published, although it is the second of the series. The announcement said the project decided to issue books out of order because work was farther along than on volume I.

Volume I was issued in 1952. It contained the first eight books of the Bible.

Lady Magistrate, Mother of Six, 'Goes to Jail'

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's youngest magistrate, a 31-year-old mother of six children, disclosed Friday that she recently spent a day in jail.

Magistrate Barbara Buchan said she surrendered herself at Oxford prison and was locked in a cell for the day. She was served prison food and left in solitude to consider her "sins."

"I did it," she said, "because I have the power to send people to prison and therefore I should know what it is like."

Mrs. Buchan is the wife of William Buchan, second son of the late Lord Tweedsmuir, former governor-general of Canada.

STIRLING

Laurel Rebekah Lodge Marks 35th Birthday Anniversary

STIRLING — Tuesday evening the Stirling Community Hall was the scene of a happy gathering when 150 sisters and brothers gathered for the 35th birthday anniversary of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211 in Friendship, Love and Truth.

Bouquets of variegated chrysanthemums were used as decoration.

The central theme was a three-tiered anniversary cake decorated with the date and emblem of the order in the lodge colors of pink and green. This was set on a cut-work luncheon cloth flanked by silver candelabra with matching tapers and dishes of green and pink mints. The cake was made by Past Noble Grand Mrs. Mabel Barlow.

Mrs. Marjorie Siapley officiated at the piano with the newly elected Noble Grand, Mrs. Erma Clancy, as presiding officer.

CORSAGES PRESENTED

Past District Deputy President Miss Evelyn Bailey introduced Mrs. Irene Woods, Tweed, District Deputy President of District No. 4 and presented her with a lovely corsage of yellow mums.

Past Noble Grand Miss Gena Spry introduced lady president, Mrs. Irene Bellerive, of the Ladies' Auxiliary Patriarchs Militant and she was then recipient of another lovely corsage of mums.

Immediate Past Noble Grand Mrs. Mabel Barlow, introduced Mrs. Isobel Good, lady president of The Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, and she also received a beautiful corsage.

The Noble Grand welcomed these three distinguished guests and read an appropriate poem to them before they were given seats of honor.

The roll call showed visitors from Belleville Quinten Lodge, Tweed Lodge and Thomasburg Lodge with special visiting Rebekah guests from Oshawa and Peterborough.

A period of silence was observed in remembrance of those who paid the supreme sacrifice with appropriate music and meditation.

A poem based on a toast to Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, Stirling and written by Henry Farrell was read by Mrs. Mabel Merginson at the Rebekah 20th birthday party on November 12th, 1940. There were retired 15 years later and read at this party on November 8th, 1955, by Mrs. Mabel Barlow, P.N.G.

Laurel Lodge No. 211 was instituted on Thursday, November 11th, 1920, when Sister M. E. Green, Ottawa, the president of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario I.O.O.F., assisted by Sister Watts, Assembly Marshall of Peterborough, and Sister Chapman, Assembly Captain of Ottawa, with P.N.G. Sister Nicholson of Belleville, assisted by Sisters of Quinten Lodge, Belleville.

Twenty-four members were admitted by transfer and the officers of the new lodge were elected. The ceremony of candidates were ready for initiation and a degree team from Quintens Lodge was in charge.

The first initiation was under the direction of Brothers S. A. Barkley and J. M. Clarke.

At the 20th birthday party, Laurel Lodge began the practice of presenting jewels to their P.D.D. presidents. On that evening the first six received their jewels as well as a corsage from the Past Grands Club.

FLAG PRESENTED

Twenty-eight Past Noble Grands of Laurel Lodge took part in a special ceremony when a beautiful Rebekah flag, beautifully stamped with name, date and emblems of the order, was presented to Sister Isobel Cary, who received it on behalf of Laurel Lodge and solemnly dedicated it for use in the lodge room at all meetings.

The flag was presented by Mrs. Neva Vandervoort, with Mrs. Marion Heath, Mrs. Walter Warren and Mrs. Hazel Mumby each sharing a part. The others in the group were: Sisters Mabel Merginson, Jennie Burkitt, Effie Bailey, Grace Vandervoort, Florence Dafoe, Edith Ulman, Gena Spry, Evelyn Bailey, Retta Wilson Grills, Nina Neal, Mary Vandervoort, Mildred Morrow, Ethel Duffin, Eva Hick, Lyda McKee, Edith Bradshaw, Edna Fox, Gladys Elliott, Aileen Vandervoort, Laura Rhorti, Marion Wells, Isobel Good, Luella Tompkins and Mabel Barlow.

Two charter members who signed up in Belleville on the afternoon of November 11th, 1920, have been faithful throughout the years, Mrs. Mabel Merginson, the first Noble Grand, and Mrs. Jennie Burkitt, the fourth Noble Grand, were presented with corsages of rose mums and a china plaque with the three links of the order. Mrs. Gladys Elliott, P.N.G., read an appropriate poem and made the presentation.

Three other Sisters signed the necessary papers that same evening at Stirling, among a number of others and they are still connected with the lodge, namely Sisters Effie Bailey, Leatha Thompson and Agnes Hammond Johnston.

PRESENTATIONS

Mrs. Thelma Ketcheson read an address of appreciation to Sister Carr and Mrs. Bessie Patterson made the presentation of an aluminum server.

Mrs. Jean Clancy read an address to Sister Woods, and Mrs. Margaret McDonnell made the presentation of a cup and saucer.

Mrs. Ethel Duffin spoke briefly and presented Sister Aman with a plaque.

Noble Grand Sister Clancy spoke briefly and presented Laurel Lodge with a banner for use at all lodge meetings. Mrs. Hazel Mumby presented the gift for Laurel Lodge and voiced thanks.

Brief addresses of greetings, congratulations and thanks for gifts and corsages were given by Sisters Carr, Woods and Aman.

Greetings were also brought by Mrs. Eva Turvey, Trenton, the only member of Quintena Lodge who attended the initiation service in 1920.

Miss Cora Bailey, Peterborough Lodge; Mrs. June Carruthers, Noble Grand of Quintena, Belleville; Mrs. Keenan, Noble Grand of Thomasburg; a member of Tweed Lodge and a member of 222 Oshawa Lodge each brought birthday greetings.

PAGEANT

Following lodge at 10.30 p.m. a special birthday celebration was held when a pageant entitled "A Wishing Well" was rendered under the direction of Misses Cora and Evelyn Bailey.

An old fashioned well with the oaken bucket partially filled with flowers, with a large spot-light shining through the white gates made a pretty setting.

Mrs. Verna Woodbeck was soloist throughout and the officers were grouped together each having a special part. The Past Noble Grand, Sister Barlow, placed flowers for departed friends; Captain, Sister Olive Whitehead, spoke of the charter members and Noble Grands as she placed her bouquet; Noble Grand Sister Erma Clancy, and Vice-Grand, Sister Mary Hulin; placed their flowers for those who had received the degree of chivalry; other officers each voiced a tribute to those who serve on committees and sit on the sidelines at lodge meetings.

The symbols of the four loyal orders represented by Sisters Hazel Mumby, Ethel Duffin, Doreen Archers and Gladys Elliott.

Friendship, Love and Truth were represented by Agnes Post, Bessie Patterson and Thelma Ketcheson.

Following the floral pageant, all the other newly elected lodge officers and the 28 Past Noble Grands took part in a pretty display of flowers, the blue and white gowns making a gorgeous picture as several flash cameras recorded the scene for future days.

HISTORY BOOK PRESENTED

At this juncture Miss Cora Bailey presented each one with a very concise booklet of several pages recording the history of the 35 years as a memento of this auspicious birthday party. Sister Cora's message on the first page of the booklet read in part: "It has been my happy privilege to compose this little booklet and to present it to you loyalists, in loving memory of one of your members, my mother, Sister Maude Bailey. This book is especially dedicated to her and to three of her relatives and Sister Rebekahs.

Rebekahs Sister Effie Bailey has been one of the main stays of this lodge throughout its 35 years; Sister Erma Clancy, Noble Grand, 1935-36; Sister Evelyn Bailey, Noble Grand and Past District Deputy President.

"May your Laurel Rebekah Lodge continue in all its good works. Sincerely and fraternally, Cora E. Bailey."

The book fully describes the first installation of officers, and lists the charter members' names.

During the 35 years there have been eight District Deputy Presidents, namely : Sisters Mabel Merginson, Effie Bailey, Evelyn Bailey, Gena Spry, Mildred Morrow, Ethel Duffin and Edna Fox, all active members of Laurel Lodge, and Sister Alberta Farrell, deceased.

The historical pages reveal a galaxy of important lodge items.

It was regretted that one book of old records is lost and so much valuable information was not available for the booklet.

At this juncture, Sister Effie Bailey, P.D.D.P., presented a floral bouquet to the Noble Grand, the gift of Sisters Cora and Evelyn Bailey, on behalf of their deceased mother, Sister Maude Bailey.

Sister Evelyn Bailey, P.D.D.P., presented a floral bouquet to her aunt, Sister Effie Bailey, on behalf of her sister and her mother, and in her address said "It was just 24 years ago that her name was proposed in Laurel Lodge by Aunt Effie."

CAKE CEREMONY

All of the Past Grands had a part in the "cake ceremony" and voiced birthday wishes as each lit a candle on the cake. The tapers were blown out by two charter members, Sisters Effie Bailey and Leatha Thompson, followed by the birthday song, as Sister Mabel Merginson cut the cake.

The refreshment convener, Mrs. Leila Carlisle, and her assistants were in charge of a bountiful lunch of sandwiches, cookies and tarts and the large gathering enjoyed a delightful social hour together.

WARN OF WAGE CLAIMS

LONDON (Reuters)—Leaders of Britain's 700,000 engineering workers Thursday presented the National Coal Board with a four-point charter for better conditions and a warning to expect new wage claims soon. The miners' charter calls for a third week's paid annual vacation, a 40-hour working hours, a sick-pay plan and consolidation of bonus pay in normal pay.

THIS IS CALLED LIVING DANGEROUSLY

Mr. Mouse would have a hard job getting an insurance policy on his present architecture. He is one of hundreds of field mice who are making the mistake of taking up residence in town at this time of year, and, though life might be easier there, it is also more dangerous. Fewer Polio Deaths in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada had a total of 24 deaths from poliomyelitis up to Nov. 5 this year compared with 94 in the same period of 1954, a health department polio report said today.

The total number of cases was down to 913, including 452 paralytic cases. This was just about one quarter of the five-year average of 3,586 cases up to November in the years 1950-54. However, it was pointed out that the 1950-54 average includes the 1953 epidemic, the worst Canada ever had.

This was the first year of widespread use of Salk vaccine in Canada—about 820,000 children were inoculated—and qualified credit is given the new preventive vaccine in keeping down the polio rate.

Effectiveness of the Salk vaccine will come under detailed study at the end of November, generally considered the peak of the polio season. Meanwhile, health officials are going forward for vaccination of 2,000,000 children beginning early year and concluding before the summer rise in polio incidence. The 3,000,000 will include this year's 820,000 who will get booster shots.

Ontario up to Nov. 3 had 127 cases of polio, compared with 1,029 in the same period last year, and four deaths compared with 19.

Humpback Whale Hunt Staged By N.Z. Scientists

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—From their breeding grounds around Samoa, the Cook Islands, New Caledonia and the New Hebrides, 50-ton humpback whales now are making their annual trek south to the Antarctic. On their 3,000-mile journey they will be subjected to one of the most intensive scientific hunts their species has ever undergone.

Scientists armed with strength-zoned shot guns and 10-inch markers darts hope this season to mark up to 450 humpback whales—the biggest effort yet made in the tropical breeding grounds of the mammoths.

The planning has been largely done by W.H.I. Dawbin, zoologist at Victoria University, College, Wellington. Dawbin has provided his teams with fast launches and special shot guns. The shot guns will fire the steel darts into the fleshy muscle backs of the younger whales. Each dart is individually numbered. Each carries on its shaft these words, "Reward for return to Discovery, Admiralty, London."

As each dart is fired, an entry is made in the log-book by Dawbin in Wellington.

"Very little is known about the humpback whale in the Pacific and indeed about any whale," said Dawbin. "We do not even know if separate groups return each summer to the same breeding ground. We don't know what part of the ocean they go or where they return."

No More Bulls In Girls' Lounge Faculty Rules

GUELPH (CP)—A bull at large last week in the girls' lounge of a dormitory of Macdonald Institute here has prompted a new faculty regulation covering the care and control of livestock.

The Ontario Agricultural College was reported to have instituted a ruling that any student may be expelled for future incidents and must pay the costs of frivolity.

It is understood every student was fined to pay a portion of the damage done last week when a bull caused considerable damage to the lounge.

The animal was found sound asleep amid the debris—on a rug.

'Glamor, Guts' Maybe But No Goals For Leafs As Hawks Collar 'Em 2-0

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ONE POINTER

For two periods you could have yawned—and be justifiably excused, then Goyer flashed an underworked red light—and the troops got down to business.

The Brockville Maredomas and TPT's suddenly sprang to third period life and a thrilling 30 minutes of play made the fans forget the lethargic openers. It was fast and furious with TPT hopes looking slim until Peter Jones dunked the equalizer with seven minutes to go.

Bob Taylor, Vern Goyer, Sammy the Man, and Doug Jones came up with fine displays while the three-sided goalkeeping had the crowd of 1239 on its feet at times.

The tie gives the TPT's undisputed possession of third place with five points. Kingston took over second spot with seven after their thrilling 5-4 overtime victory over the Cornwall Colts last night. Brockville is in fourth spot with three while Cornwall is in the cellar with none. Whitby is well out in front with 11 points.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

We have been shooting quite a bit of good-natured railery at the amiable Kitch Stanford, who mentored his Brockville Maredomas against the TPT's here last night. Kitch promised himself and the good folk of the town of the hats and ever a good hockey club this season and he wandered far and wide to obtain the necessary player strength to make good the promise.

Kitch has always been a stalwart battler for good, clean hockey and at pre-season meetings he proved beyond a doubt that he was a roundtable knight of the hockey court over whom nothing could be slipped willy-nilly unless it was a gang-up affair. We have always respected Kitchen for his counsel and attitude towards other clubs at these pre-season confabs.

He even laughed up his Toole sleeves when the tub-thumping Wren Blair of the Whitby Dunlops, who' manipulates a column in a Whitby weekly, smoothered to all and sundry that Joe Corky of the Kingston Goodyears, petitioned the OHA to investigate Kitch's imports. Kitch knew where he stood. He knew his imports—and he knew our players. He should. he's paying plenty for most of 'em.

In any event Kitch secured the services of Emile Dagenais. former Quebec Hockey League ace—and it looked as though the Magedomas' days of hockey travail were over. He surrounded Dagenais with a bevy of ex-Quebec leaguers—and others, and things looked hunkey-dory for the hockey future of the home of the Brock chapeaux.

Then it happened. The Maggies ran into disastrous days. The first time out the boys whomped the bejabers out of the supposedly powerful Cornwall Colts to the tune of 12-2. But the joy was shortlived. They ran into snags on three successive occasions when they found themselves on the short end of the score. The last straw to break the Kitchen camel's back was that 8-6 overtime defeat at the hands of the revamped Kingston Goodyears.

Kitch looked around—in fact he had been looking around—and suddenly put his finger on the pulse of the matter. With one fell swoop—and he didn't waste any time—he fired Dagenais from the coaching spot and decided to take over the job until another could be obtained.

But let "Stew" Mulligan, sports editor of the Brockville Recorder Times, tell the story. Here it is:

"The Axe fell and another nice guy toppled with it. Leo Durocher once said 'nice guys don't win ball games'—he may have had something there. Emile Dagenais is an amicable gent, well liked by his playing mates, the typical nice guy who tried and flopped as a coach. Dag had a stiff task set against him when he took on the Magedomas coaching job; he had to play as well as pilot the club, and though this formula has worked in other centres it has never seemed practical to us. A coach can't point out mistakes to his players when he can't see them, and that's exactly what happened in the last three Magedomas' defeats. Everyone else recognized brother Leo's inconsistencies as defencemen, but Emile was too busy keeping tabs on the opposition to look behind him. That was just one example. There were many more with others certain to result if the playing-coach idea had continued. Fortunately manager Kitch Stanford stepped in and lowered the boom. He will handle the club himself this weekend in Belleville and Whitby, so if his players fail to produce Kitch won't blame it on poor management. Another proof of nice guy qualities in Emile Dagenais was his decision to stick with the club as a player. He thinks he can help the Magedomas and we think he will."

Mulligan in another story slated than Stanford did not attribute the lack-lustre finish of the Maggies in that Kingston game to the players. He placed the blame squarely on the shoulders of coach Emile Dagenais and his stubborn refusal to replace his brother Leo on the defence. This problem has confronted the Maggies' executive for the past three defeats, says Mulligan, but is considered ended now with Emile reverting to a strictly player capacity and Leo dropped outright from the roster.

Fifth Egg for Hapless 'Haps' In Fifteen Seasonal Starts; Hawks Flutter to Third Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs are about ready to turn in their train tickets.

It just isn't worth the fare for Leafs to travel to the other five National Hockey League cities. In eight road games this season, Toronto has picked up one point and scored only seven goals while opponents have counted 28 times.

Black Hawks are the latest to dump Toronto. They shut out Leafs 2-0 at Chicago in the only game Friday night.

It was the Hawks' second win in as many home games against Toronto this season. They won 3-1 the first time the teams met.

The victory sent Chicago into third place in the league standings, one point behind New York Rangers, who have 16 points. Montreal Canadiens lead the league with 19 points. Boston Bruins are in fourth place, a half-dozen behind Black Hawks, and Leafs and Detroit Red Wings share the cellar with 12 points.

ROLLINS SECOND

Hawk goaltender Al Rollins performed well for his second shutout of the season and was aided by one of the stoutest defensive exhibitions seen by a Chicago crowd in years.

Rollins, who didn't register one shutout all last season, turned aside 28 shots. Harry Lumley in the Toronto goal made 34 saves. It was the fifth time in the 15 games Leafs have been shut out.

Johnny Wilson, picked up in a trade with Detroit last summer, scored his eighth goal of the campaign to provide Hawks with their winner. Defenceman Al Dewsbury counted the other goal.

Wilson opened the scoring at 4:14 of the first period when he fired a shot from close range that beat Lumley. Rookies Hec Lalande and Hank Ciesla were given assists on the play.

Dewsbury, recently recalled from Buffalo Bisons to replace injured captain Gus Mortson, scored on a screened shot from the Leaf blueline at 2:38 of the middle frame. Assists went to Wilson and Lalande.

Harry Cullen, recalled from Winnipeg Warriors of the Western League to replace injured Eric Nesterenko, was sitting out a hooking penalty at the time of Dewsbury's goal.

Eskys Clobber Blue Bombers In Western Finals Opener

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos are one game away from a berth in the 1955 Grey Cup clash after their one-sided 29-6 victory over Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the first game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

The defending Canadian champions now are favorites to win the best-of-three series in the second contest at Edmonton Wednesday night. If Bombers come back with a win, the third game also will be played in Edmonton's Clarke Stadium next Saturday night.

Despite a 12-day layoff, Eskimos looked as sharp as Friday's opener as at any time during their spectacular march to the league title with 14 wins in 16 games.

Johnny Bright, with two, Bob Heydenfeldt, and Normie Kwong recorded Edmonton touchdowns. Three were converted by Sig Bodnar. Dave also kicked a field goal and added a single when another field-goal attempt fell short but roiled behind the goal line where Cordie Rowland of Winnipeg was rouged. The other two points came on singles by Heydenfeldt.

Bombers' six points came on an 80-yard touchdown run by halfback Leo Lewis and a convert by quarterback Buddy Leske.

Eskimos led at the end of each quarter—7-6, 19-6 and 23-6.

A crowd of 15,553 braved the 22-degree weather—featuring a biting northwest wind — to watch the vaunted Big Bomber line wilt before the light but speedy Eskimo front wall and the hard slashes of Bright and Kwong, the daring runs of Rollie Miles and Earl Lindley and the smashing ball-handling of quarterback Jackie Parker.

Despite the slippery field, the Edmonton backfield rolled up 318 yards along the ground to Bombers' 122. Miscues were at a minimum, with Bombers erring twice and Esks once. All three were recovered by the opposition.

Parker, using golf gloves on his hands, left little to be desired as he sent his backs scampering all over the field, mixing up line plunges with pitchouts and reverses, then shooting out the occasional forward pass. Esks completed seven of 14 passes for 91 yards.

Bombers, who were behind 22-8 in first downs, topped only the pass department as Leske, sporting the gloves available at his bench, completed six of 11 passes for 85 yards. Winnipeg players started out with running shoes, switched for a time to cleats, then reverted to the sneakers.

Only other highlight in an otherwise dull performance by Bombers was a 75-yard touchdown by Gordie Rowland of a kickoff in the fourth quarter. The light backfielder was struck by the Eskimos' 11-yard line by Steve Bendiak. Bombers failed to score on the play as they gave away the ball on a fumble on first down.

PAY RECORD TOTAL

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The largest horse sale in harness racing history was completed here Friday with a record $2,132,485 paid for 935 head during the five-day auction.

The average price per horse reached $2,281, also a record, surpassing the $2,005 average paid in 1951.

Baby Blues Whip Queen's

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto Friday assured itself of a tie for the Intercollegiate Intermediate Football League title with a 26-7 trouncing over Queen's University Gaels.

The win left Toronto and Ontario Agricultural College Aggies deadlocked for first place in the league standings. There will be no playoff and the teams are declared coholders of the championship.

Aggies and Toronto battled to a 12-11 tie in their only meeting of the schedule. The Baby Blues led 15-5 at half time and held a 15-7 lead after three quarters. They scored 11 points in the final 15 minutes.

Don Comish paced Toronto with a fine running display which netted him two touchdowns. Carry Joint, Tim Reid and Bob Smart scored the other Toronto touchdowns.

Queen's lone touchdown was scored midway over Jerry Secord quarterback Ron Belfoi threw a 10-yard pass to Jim Campbell in the second zone.

Carmen Costa Verdicts Lopes

NEW YORK (AP)—If Carmelo Costa wants to box champion Sandy Saddler for the featherweight title, Sandy will be glad to accommodate him.

Charlie Johnston, the champ's manager, saw Costa win a unanimous decision over Jose Lopez of Sacramento, Calif., Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Then he offered to let Saddler box the loser but three leading challengers—one a month — until the division is cleaned up.

"We'll take all three and then we'll take on Rud Smith, the lightweight champion," said Johnston. The three? "Costa, Lopez and Chico Vejar, a 21-year-old Brooklyn boxer. Spain's Jose Galiana and Manila's Flash Elorde, who beat Saddler in a non-title go last summer.

"Saddler will get 6-3-1 cards by all three officials, wasn't impressed by the slick Costa, who had outpointed him March 18.

"Saddler will murder him," said Lopez. "He'd cut Costa down to size in the same ring with the champ. He's a lot better than the last time. I thought I beat him—shudda got a draw at least. He ran like a deer. What could you do?"

Costa weighed 129½, to Lopez' 133½.

SPONSORS DINNER

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Beaches Rowing Club announced Friday it is sponsoring a $10-a-plate football dinner here Dec. 2, eve of the first east-west all-star professional game.

Guest speakers will include Annis Stukus, ex-coach of British Columbia Lions. Proceeds of the affair will be used to help wipe out the $19,000 loss the Beaches suffered this year in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The Wheel Spins

Riders to Start New Machine Fire Coach Dan Caldwell

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders' wheel of fortune has gone full circle and the Big Four football club is in the same spot it was this time last year: Looking for a new coach and making plans to rebuild.

The club Friday night fired coach Dan Caldwell, voluble 35-year-old mushmouth who probably made as many speeches around Ottawa drumming up support for the club as he gave pep talks to his players.

Club president Dave Gill announced the club's decision to fire Caldwell 14 months before the end of his two-year contract at $10,000 a year with this statement:

"Chan's done a tremendous public relations job for us but I'm not saying anything more. We're going to get a new coach for next year, that's all."

TOOK IN STRIDE

Caldwell, who came here from the University of Tennessee and immediately impressed the club's directors with his calm-in-the-minute delivery of football talk, took the development in stride.

"I didn't ask Mr. Gill for a reason and he didn't offer me one," said Caldwell. "They're not ready to use me next year and that's all there is to it."

Caldwell is due to meet Samuel Berger, the Riders' legal adviser, to discuss a settlement of his contract.

Gill said the club has no successor in mind but that the club will start looking for a replacement immediately.

So ends a turbulent eight months in Ottawa for Caldwell. His reign as the Rough Riders helm was marked by strife in the dressing room that was reflected by poor play on the field. Riders won three of their 12 scheduled games and finished last in the standings.

FIRED COACH

Discord on the coaching staff reached a climax half-way in the season when the club fired backfield coach John Iddik, after Riders took a 40-0 drubbing from Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Iddik, also an assistant at Tennessee last year, said at the time he, in effect, had been head coach while Caldwell had the position in name only. Caldwell described the statement as "childish."

The following weekend, Riders lost twice to Montreal Alouettes by lop-sided scores and the club fined 20 players $200 each for poor play.

Then line coach Tom McHugh, former Philadelphia High School mentor, quit for health reasons. In the space of two days four players were fired and another quit.

Brockville Magedomas, TPTs Fail To Break 2-2 Deadlock In Overtime

Teams Flash to Life After Listless First Two Periods; Peter Jones Gets Tying Goal

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Two periods of listless hockey suddenly erupted into explosive action here last night and the Belleville TPT's and Brockville Magedomas went home satisfied with a two-all tie.

Two third period goals that gave the Magedomas a 2-1 lead after Vern Goyer scored the only counter of the game in the second frame provided the spark. Peter Jones sent the game into overtime when he blasted the puck home with three minutes to go in the final heat.

The win-hungry Maggies had an edge in the overtime period, but stout defensive work and a brilliant display by "Turk" Barclay, who replaced the injured Parig in the nets, held the score intact. At that the TPT's missed two glorious chances to grab the win by missing daring nets from short range.

Both teams appeared to be unable to untrack themselves in the first two frames that saw the puck doing crazy antics on what appeared to be heavy ice. It was hit-and-miss hockey with well-executed passing plays at a premium and both Bourada and Parisi provided highlights with standout performances in the nets.

There was nothing to write home about in the first period with both teams apparently unable to get untracked. Passing plays were not clicking only on occasions.

Brockville's Parisi drew a tripping penalty at 5:15 but the Maggedomas if anything had possession of the night. They swarmed around Bourada and did everything but score.

Sammy Mulholland sent Day and Pete Jones away on a neat passing play but Day missed the goalmouth pass. Gibson swept in close to Parisi but was outguessed. Presley drew an interference penalty with a minute to go.

The TPT's drove to the attack in the second period and Davy Jones bounced the puck off Bourada's pads from close in. Again the slim winger was outlucked with a close-in drive.

Brockville took over and tried their hand in listless hockey. The puck appeared difficult to control as though the ice was sticky.

Lomer missed an open net for Brockville and Goyer did likewise on a return drive.

Play speeded up as both sides started to open up. Checks were solid but legal.

Bourada made a sensational stop as Fryzia drove in. The TPTs driving forward peppered the diminutive Brockville goalie but could not dent the defence.

The Duncans drop-pass nearly clicked as the puck hit a Brockville player in the goalmouth. Ed. Duncan fired the rebound into Parisi's pads.

The TPT drive finally paid off when Goyer, spearheading a three-way drive with Keith MacDonald and Davy-Jones, finally drove the puck past Parisi for the first score of the game.

Peter Jones drew an interference penalty near the end of the period but fine penalty-killing kept the Magedomas off the scoring sheet.

Gord Barclay replaced Tony Parisi in the Belleville nets in the third period, after it was reported the TPT goalie had pulled a leg muscle.

Brockville put on the pressure opening the period and gave Barclay some anxious moments.

Hill curved back about and bounced the puck off the post The Magedomas regrouped back and tied the score when Lomer beat Barclay after a passing play with Gibson and Legrid.

Play speeded up and developed into the best hockey of the night. The Maggies inspired by their success put on the power and Peter Jones got his foot in front of a puck that had Barclay beaten. Lomer proved the hero for Brockville when he climaxed a pretty passing play with Gibson and Rockburn to give the Maggies a 2-1 lead.

The TPT's drove hard for the equalizer but the hard-hitting Brockville defence held them off until 17:17 when Peter Jones with Fryzia and Leonard, drove a four-high shot past Bourada to tie the score.

The overtime was fast and furious with the Maggies having the edge. Barclay came up with some brilliant saves, while Bourada at the other end kicked out labelled shots on occasions. Davy Jones drew a penalty as time ran out with the Maggies failing to capitalize.

The team:

Brockville — Goal, Bourada; defence, Rockburn, Thomson; Presley; forwards, Kuntz, Clarke, Lomer, Legris, Gibson, McManus, Ed Duncan, Ed Duncan.

Belleville—Goal, Parisi; defence, McMaster, Mulholland, Taylor; forwards, Fryzia, Leonard, Hill, Goyer, MacDonald, D. Jones, Gilmour, P. Jones, Day.

Indians Trounce Bulldogs 5-2; Tied for Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stratford Indians grabbed themselves a share of the lead in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League Friday night. Before the weekend is over they'll either have the top spot to themselves or be back in second place.

The Indians bounced into a deadlock with the idle Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen with a 5-2 trouncing of Windsor Bulldogs on Stratford ice. The two leaders will have it out in Kitchener Monday.

While Stratford and Kitchener are running well ahead of the pack, the race among the remaining three teams is so tight that Chatham Maroons were able to jump from last to third place Friday night by virtue of a 5-1 win over Owen Sound Mercurys.

THE STANDING

The night's action left Stratford and Kitchener with 14 points, Chatham with eight and Owen Sound and Windsor with seven. Mercurys visit the Bulldogs tonight and a win for either would enable them to displace Chatham in the standings.

Indians wrapped up the game in Stratford Friday night when they added two insurance markers in the third. Len Heads and George Aiken each shot a pair and Art Hurst counted the fifth. Ches Warneal scored for Windsor in the second period, Reg Abbott in the third.

Mercurys popped into an early lead on Jackie Hamilton's goal a minute and a half after the game started at Chatham, but Maroons tied it up at the five-minute mark, adding two more before the period ended and a pair in the second. Ernie Dick with two goals, Jim Connelly, Jimmy Campbell and Graham Joyce did the scoring.

Barrie Whips Teepees 7-5; Tie for Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's been a big week for Barrie Flyers. In winning all three of their games since last Sunday they've rocketed up from cellar position in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league standings to a top spot tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks.

Until they went on their three-game winning spree they hadn't won a game since their season opener when they defeated Guelph Biltmores.

Dick Cherry led Barrie to a 7-5 win over St. Catharines Teepees Friday night at Barrie with two goals and one assist.

In the other league game Canucks scored two goals in overtime to defeat Toronto Marlboros 5-4 at Kitchener.

THE SCORERS

Barrie scorers were Sid Wonoski, Obbye Hindi and Jackie Smith. Al McDonald, Gary Eatough and Eddie Hoskstra were St. Catharines scorers.

Elmer Vasko scored for Teepees and Bob Beckett for Barrie in the second and McDonald again broke the tie before the period ended. Cherry's two goals and one by Al Norrena of Barrie came in the third.

The largest crowd of the season, 1,000 fans, saw the game at Kitchener which was forced into overtime before a goal by Wayne O'Hee, former Barrie player of the Quebec Junior Hockey League, gave Canucks the victory. The insurance marker came off the stick of Stan Shiuk in the last minute of overtime.

Fate for Feet

Big Weekend of Decision For Eastern Gridiron Squads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bill Swiacki is faced with a happy problem—a surplus of players.

The Toronto Argonaut coach, whose choice has been restricted in recent weeks by injuries, was in the rare position f having 11 imports in shape to meet the Tiger-Cats in Hamilton this afternoon in the sudden-death Big Four semi-final.

He can play only 10 and up to Friday night, when the Argos motored from Toronto to Hamilton, Swiacki hadn't announced who the odd man would be.

"I may wait until just before game time," he said, "I think I know now who I'll play, but just in case, I'll wait until the morning at least."

A lot may rest on his decision. This winner of this game will meet Montreal Alouettes next week to decide the Big Four's representative in Canada's Grey Cup football classic at Toronto, Nov. 26.

The question of who will represent the West came a step closer to decision Friday when the league-leading Edmonton Eskimos smashed Winnipeg Blue Bombers 29-6 in the first game of the best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union final.

The second game will be played at Edmonton Wednesday.

One Eastern championship and possibly another will be settled today.

Queen's Golden Gaels, conference leaders, play visiting University of Toronto Blues in Kingston in the double-decker Ontario intercollegiate championship playoff. The Gaels will be looking for their first title in 18 years. Varsity are the defending champs.

Both squads are in good shape, although Queen's centre and linebacker Gary Lewis is not fully recovered from hip and back injuries. Blues will be using their passing ace, Harry Wilson, in the quarterback slot.

Coach Harvey Johnson of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen predicts early that the Ontario Rugby Football Union final will go to three games. The Dutchies defeated Sarnia Imperials 24-9 in the opener last week, making things look good for today's game in Sarnia.

But Harvey says his boys' mental set is all right.

"We haven't had a decent practice all week. What with the weather and a 'bags packed' attitude, we're going to get a shellacking."

If Harvey is right, the teams will meet again in Kitchener next Friday.

The Toronto-Hamilton game will find Ron Lancaster back again. Argos will be using quarterback Tom Dublinski in what shapes up as an all-out passing game.

Carl Voyles says he'll stick with Jack Gotner, Saturday Swirkowski, an Argo castoff who got the gate in Toronto, has the preference for passing rather than rushing.

One junior Hamilton intermediate title will also be decided in eastern Canada today.

Peterborough Orbans, ORFU intermediat champs, meet Montreal Lakeshore Flyers at Montreal. Verdun Shamcats meet Windsor AKO at Windsor for the eastern junior championship.

The weather outlook for all games is cloudy with scattered showers, temperatures around 50.

Solunar Notes

Shoot Where They Will Be

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

The dog was on point in one of our good grouse covers. I was on the left wing and my regular shooting partner in the center, behind the shot. Tommy, a novice with unbounded enthusiasm was on the right wing.

The guns in place, my partner went in for the flush. Out went the bird and, sure enough, it quartered Tommy. Obviously it was Tommy's bird, so I kept my gun down as did my partner.

Tommy set himself, mounted his gun to his shoulder and brought it to bear on the bird. Then came the shot, and with the shot, Tommy stopped his swing. The grouse vanished into the security of the hemlocks.

I suppose, if we have told Tommy once we have told him 50 times — "Don't stop your swing as you press the trigger. Keep on swinging." But we will, it does no good. Tommy simply will not or cannot learn. He is all right in he lives, will he be a good wing shot. (Tommy will see this and give me pleasure.) He is all right if it helps his shooting. We have tried everything else.)

Most upland gunners do not realize what happens when a charge of shot is released from a shotgun. the majority of them imagine that the shot pellets move to the target in a ball-shaped mass. Such is far from the case.

SHOT SPREAD

When the shot charge leaves the muzzle of the gun, the bulk of the pellets—possible 40 percent-move forward in a group. A few more active pellets lead the pack. The balance of the shot charge trails out in what is called "the shot string." Generally this shot string is somewhat the shape of an ice-cream cone, the large or cream end moving ahead. The entire string can be as long as 18 feet or as short as 8 feet, depending on the load and the construction of the gun.

Thus, you can see that you can lead a quartering bird fairly generously. Even if you over-lead the bird, so that the bulk of the charge passes ahead of it, the chances are good that the tail end of the string will bring your bird down in flight. If you don't lead him enough, you can depend on it that the bird is cleanly missed.

Down through the years there has been a great deal of verbiage expended upon the subject of lead. The mathematician will tell us that a bird, flying at 60 miles an hour, travels 88 feet through the air while a shot-charge travels 40 yards. That should make things real easy. All you have to do is to point at a spot eight feet ahead of the bird, have the target to maintain that lead, and press the trigger. Presto! Dead bird; just like that.

MANY INTANGIBLES

There are so many intangibles, however, that things begin to get complicated. No two people are coordinated exactly alike and some react very slowly while others respond instantly to any stimulus.

Then, too, no two birds fly at exactly the same speed or in the same pattern. Speed of the same species vary greatly in flight speed. Then allowance must be made for angle of flight. Obviously, a bird that is quartering only slightly requires less lead than one which flies at right angles to the line of aim. All these things must be taken into account. The wonder of it is that we hit any birds at all.

There are a few "automatic" leads that may be helpful—that is, if you can remember them when the time comes. Consider for instance, a bird that is flying directly at right angles to your line of sight and about 30 yards away from you, moving from right to left.

I imagine that you shoot a shotgun with both eyes open. Most upland shots do. All right—now you have your eye on the target, you know that you see before you not one but two birds. Between the aim, of course, goes along the left eye and the barrels.

For the automatic lead on that shot, move your gun forward until the muzzle of the gun and barrels bears exactly on the bird. Maintain that lead with smooth sledge. You will down your bird almost every time. It seldom fails.

FIXED SHOOTING

Again, suppose a bird is coming directly at you. First aim at the bird. Then leave the gun barrels until the bird is hidden and press the trigger. Do this all in one motion, remembering to follow-through, and your bird will come down.

Conversely, suppose a bird comes overhead, passing directly above you. Keep the bird well in view over the rib of your gun barrels at a point six inches to a foot under the bird, depending upon the speed you judge to be. The higher he is, the more daylight you leave between the bird and the gun barrels.

As I say, there has been a great deal written and said about shotgun leads. Because of the variables involved, it is a matter that every fellow must work out for himself. But if you don't check the step your swing and shoot when you hope the bird will be, your chances, plus a certain amount of luck, should be good for bringing home one more bird for dinner.

World Record Criticized By Track Coach

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—A stopwatch tempest boiled Friday as Northwestern's track coach criticized a National AAU move to credit his star sprinter, Jim Golliday, with a new world record time of 9.2 seconds for the 100-yard dash.

The performance in question happened in the Big Ten relays May 6 at Evanston and at the time, Golliday's clocking was announced as 9.3, matching the world mark set in 1948 by Southern California's Mel Patton and equalled by Australia's Herb Hogan in 1954.

The unique situation of a coach not grabbing all the spotlight possible for a protege was taken by Wildcat mentor Rut Walter because:

"If those people go fooling around asking for a 9.2 record, Golliday won't even get his honest 9.3."

CLAIM AT AAU

This was a claim at the AAU, Walter said Friday, Dan Ferris announced in New York that the central AAU (Chicago area) gummed up a record application unanimously for approval at the AAU convention in Cleveland, Dec. 3.

But Walter said he, himself, filed the application and that Ferris was "overjoyed" that two of the required three timers caught Golliday's time in the first at 9.2.

"It was the other way around," said Walter, "Jim clocked him at 9.3 and one at 0.2. True, there was a fourth timer, an alternate, who also caught Golliday at 9.2, but his time is unofficial."

Bears, Rams Play Important Game

NEW YORK (AP)—First place in the western division will be at stake Sunday when the National Football League swings into its eighth week of the 12-game schedule.

The big game of the day will be the clash between Los Angeles and the Bears in Chicago. The front-running Rams, with a 5-2 record, will attempt to extend their one-game lead against the onslaught of the high-flying Bears, currently the most ferocious club in the circuit.

After losing their first three games, the Bears suddenly got hot and won their next four in succession to vault into a second place tie with the Baltimore Colts.

Odds - makers, based on the Bears' 31-20 triumph over the Rams in Los Angeles two weeks ago, have made Chicago a four-point favorite. The Rams' only other defeat was by two points to Green Bay Packers, who thrashed the Bears 24-3.

"BACK SLIDERS," MAYBE?

FROSTBURG, Md. (AP) — The Western Maryland Ski Club was supposed to meet at nearby Gunterlown Thursday night. Only 12 of the 50 to 60 members showed up. A sudden 10-inch snowfall kept the others from coming. .

LONDON (AP)—Russia has initiated moves to participate in international tennis championships such as Wimbledon and Forest Hills.

Russia has applied for admission to the International Lawn Tennis Federation. This will be considered at a federation meeting in Copenhagen next July.

Britain's Barton Finally Loses

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP)—Italy's Alessandro d'Ottavio Friday night handed Britain's light heavyweight hope, Ron Barton, his first defeat with a 10-round decision.

Barton, 22, previously was unbeaten in 19 professional fights. Barton scaled 175 pounds and d'Ottavio 174¾.

In his dressing room after the fight, Barton disclosed he has withdrawn from his scheduled fight with Gordon Wallace of Brantford, Ont., at Nottingham, Nov. 28.

His manager said Barton was suffering from a back injury and damaged his left thumb during training for Friday night's bout.

Wallace was virtually unknown in Britain until he knocked out former world middleweight champion Randolph Turpin last month.

Over the east four heart bid, south made an overcall of opponent's suit; five hearts. This tells partner they will lose no heart tricks.

Having heard this, east intended to start out with an opening lead of a diamond. Being void in diamonds, west would have ruffed and the grand slam in spades would thus have been defeated.

West wanted to make sure that would lead a diamond. So, he came in with a double of seven spades. This is a lead-directing double; asking partner to lead the first suit bid by dummy.

This lead-directing slam double is an efficient signal known to all bridge experts. It is a helpful defensive weapon. But not without repercussions. As you will quickly see here.

Relishing the danger from a diamond lead, south decided to take the only possible safety play. He bid seven no-trump and thus put a spike into opponents that pinned them down.

Now whatever lead he got would not affect his contract. Because it turns out that he has 13 solid tricks. They are six spades, one heart, four diamonds, two clubs. All without losing a trick.

Experts with acumen make errors that are human.

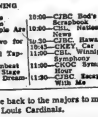
Sewell Will Manage Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Luke Sewell, manager of Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League last season, Friday accepted terms to manage Seattle of the Pacific Coast League next season.

The office of Dewey Soriano, general manager, announced approval of the 54-year-old baseball veteran. Soriano, at the Pacific Coast League directors' meeting at Vancouver, reached agreement with Sewell at his Akron, Ohio, home.



Sewell has been the Rainiers' top choice for several days but he first had to free himself from commitments with Toronto and a group at Richmond, Va., which wanted to buy out that franchise and install him as manager. Sewell led Toronto to the International League pennant in 1954 and his team finished second last summer.

TOP CHOICE

"I think we have one of the top managers in baseball," Soriano said. "I'm sure he's the kind of man we need."

Emil Sick, Rainiers' owner, was equally confident in the successor to Freddie Hutchinson, who returned home last season to Seattle to give the Rainiers their first pennant in several years and now has gone back to the majors to manage St. Louis Cardinals.

Hollywood Innocent in N.Y. Notes TV Shows, Stars, Snow

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Manhattan memos:

One thing that's hard for a Hollywood reporter to get used to: the ethereal nature of some New York television stars.

For instance, when this visiting innocent asked about an interview with Arthur Godfrey, the shocked reply was: "Oh, he never talks to anyone."

Except maybe the unemployment office!

MAY ENTER TV

Marilyn Monroe, girl producer, may get into the TV field. She dropped the hint that her Marilyn Monroe Productions might dip into that market, though it's doubtful if she would be in the productions.

New TV circles exhibit little concern about the move of many shows to California. Industry workers say the main reason for the westward trend is the lack of facilities here.

Show time: Best of the new plays is "Diary of Anne Frank." It's beautifully staged with humor and humpidity and ornamented by a gem of a performance by Susan Strasberg. . . . "Will success Spoil Rock Hunter" has a lot of good laughs, especially for Hollywood fans. Although brightened by Orson Bean and Jayne Mansfield, it's a modest slim effort.

PICK OF MUSICALS

"Damn Yankees" and "Fanny" are the pick of the musicals, together with the long-running "Pajama Game." Gwen Verdon of "Fanny" is the sexiest dancer since Salome. . . . Wonderment: Why a musical like "Silk Stockings" has lasted a year and still draws standees. . . .

You'd think there would be some notice outside the theatre when a star like Ezio Pinza is out of a show. The announcement was merely made from the stage before "Fanny" began. . . .

"No Time for Sergeants" is about as funny as a show ought to be. The latrine scene is the biggest laugh on the stage since Ensign Pulver walked onstage in a pillow of suds in "Mister Roberts". . . .

Oddest sight to a California Boy: Looking out the hotel window and seeing something flaky in the air during a rainstorm. Too big for smog. It must have been snow.

Mexico Wins Jumping Event

TORONTO (CP) — Mexico Friday claimed the first international Jumping event at the Royal Winter Fair after a hard-fighting American team forced two extra rounds before a winner was declared.

Mexico had 16 faults. The U.S. had 20.

Canada and the Republic of Ireland tied for third place with 24 faults.

In the first jump-off to decide a winner, Mexico and the U.S. tied on eight faults.

U.S. team captain Willam Steinkraus, on Saxon Wood, and Mexico Captain, Brig. Gen. Humberto Mariles, on Chihuahua II, both made perfect runs in the first extra round.

In the second extra round, however, the U.S. horses were tiring and Hugo Wiley aboard Cor de Guere and Charles Dennehy Jr. on Almeister made 20 faults.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Sunday Nov. 13, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Stirring, enlivening influences. This should be a wonderful period for aiding church, charity drives, hospitals, home for children and oldsters. Necessary tasks ignored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Planetary vibrations now especially favour and encourage good thoughts and deeds. We never know real inner contentment until we have served God well and helped others to happier times.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Use to the sort of day to show your creative ability and your innate friendliness and helpfulness to advantage. Almagiving is good but no are smiles and an encouraging word.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Sentality should be generally good now. Catching up with neglected correspondence, reading, music and, of course, religious devotions highly favored. Don't do necessary work but essentials favored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Personal accomplishment, at least a small measure, is always possible, and today should be no exception. Acts of sincere charity, such services, visiting with friends, enjoying your family favored.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Hired Teams and Commodates today. Household and wholesome social activities can almost helpful and are sponsor-

A fine day for authors, for which work generally, study,

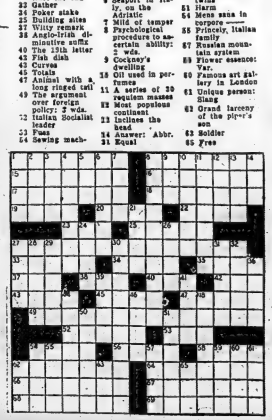
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Be tactful, co-operate with your family and those under your care and you will enjoy this Sunday. Avoid over-excitement.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—There are many more things to include in our thinking than the few that directly affect ourselves. Today calls for broader consideration of interests, more tolerance in dealings.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Don't minimize the achievements of others. Keep your eyes open to what is actually occurring, and you'll be better equipped to handle situations.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Neither be too trusting no roo xtentical. That "happy medium" does it. Note trends; check well for errors.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Observe where true benefits have come from; place affections and confidences thoughtfully; heed wise counsel and remember past mistakes. Protect health.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)— You can duplicate successes now and assist others to achieve as they have done. When disappointments come, remember that faith and optimism are sturdy pillars.

You born today are innately industrious. You are happiest when busy but may, at times, be inclined to overexertion. Abounding vitality and developing "nerves"? You are usually a sound investor; could become an accomplished scientist, and are equally adapted to art or business career. You are inclined to be outspoken, but don't be too abrupt. Birthdate of: Robert Louis Stevenson, famous writer; Edwin Booth, noted tragedian.

Little Benny's Notebook

Us fellows were talking and argewing around the lockup and Sid Hunt said, "Hey, did you hear about Dopey Shorty Judge's house being robbed last night?

Yeah, a detectives was there taking down notes and everything, I said, and Pods Simkins said, What about that dog of his that Dopey claims is such a grate watch dog, I wonder what he was doing all the time.

I bet he was holding the bereler's flashlite for him, Glasses Magee said.

Making us all yell laffing, and just then Shorty came up with Junior, being a long low dog with a black tale and one black ear, and I said, High, Dopey, do you still think you got a grate watch dog?

Sure I do, he's even smarter than I thought he was, Shorty said, and Pods said, Go on, then why didn't he bark and wake you all up when the bergler broke in?

He's too intelligent, that's why, Shorty said. He knew we would come running and the bergler would of shot us all. He saved our lives, that's what he did. He knew we could get more furs and things, but where could we get more lives? But don't worry, he can identify the bergler when he gets caught, because he took some good snifts of him, he said, and I said, Aw, how do you know he did?

Because I saw how thoughtful he looked this morning, Shorty said. He'll go to the police station and identify that bergler with one snift, and we'll all go back and the bergler will go to prison where he belongs. Dont try to tell me he's not a smart dog. Come on, Junior, he said.

And he kept on going as if he had won the argewment without giving us time to prove difrent.

Principal Sees 9,500 Students For McGill '65

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor of McGill University, has suggested an expansion program that would permit the university to accommodate "an optimum student enrolment of between 9,000 and 9,500" by 1965.

The university now accommodates some 6,000 students.

Dr. James, addressing the annual dinner of the McGill Associates held here, declared his plan would help meet an anticipated nation-wide surge of university applications in the next 10 years.

In the proposed expansion program, Dr. James advocated that Macdonald College's facilities at nearby Ste. Anne de Bellevue be enlarged ot provide for 1,500 first and second year arts, science and commerce students.

NO COST ESTIMATE

He also suggested establishment in the city of a postgraduate medical research centre to handle 600 students, and a postgraduate institute of technology capable of handling 2,000 engineering students.

Dr. James did not give any estimate of cost of such an expansion program. He stressed that he spoke as an individual and that his suggestions are not necessarily the views of the McGill board of governors.

4TH THURLOW

Bethany WMS W.A. Elect 1956 Officers

4th THURLOW — Mrs. Russell Bits was hostess to the Bethany ladies on Thursday evening for their November meeting, it being the election of officers. There were 20 present.

Mrs. Bert Martin, president of the W.M.S., opened the meeting. Mrs. Clare Sills and Mrs. Russell Bits were in charge of the Worship Service.

Mrs. Clare Sills took the Bible study period with Mrs. Bert Martin, Mrs. Horace Casey and Mrs. Gerald Eggleton reading the Scripture passages. This was followed by a discussion and silent prayers. The reading of "Trenchs' Sonnet" in unison followed.

Mrs. B. Martin was in charge of the business period.

Mrs. Douglas Martin gave the secretary's report and read a "thank you" note from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wannamaker.

Mrs. George Sills gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. John Bits received subscriptions to the "Missionary Monthly."

Mrs. Martin read a letter from Mrs. N. Brown of Trenton, stating the allocation for Overseas Relief. The Mite boxes are to be brought in December meeting. Other business was discussed.

Mrs. John Bits gave a Stewardship reading. The president reminded the members to remember the missionary for prayer, Miss Lillian Taylor, of Dondi, Africa.

The next meeting is to be held on December the 8th.

W.A.

Mrs. Grant Cole presided for the W.A., reporting that the parsonage board had met and told of their activities.

The W.A. is to cater to four sales in 1956 at the Belleville Livestock Sale, January 3, February 7th, July 24th, and September 11th, being the dates available.

Plans were also made for catering at Scotts' in November.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The election of officers for the W.M.S. for 1956 resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Clare Sills; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Russell Bits; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Horace Casey; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harold Pound; secretary, Mrs. Clayton Eggleton; press secretary, Mrs. Bert Martin; treasurer, Mrs. George Sills; supply secretary, Mrs. Ed. Treverton; Associate Helpers, Mrs. D. Tumson; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. Sills; Community Friendship; Mrs. Vernon Hamilton, Mrs. Harry McPherson, Mrs. Grant Cole and Mrs. Harry Walker; Christian Stewardship, Mrs. John Bits.

W.A. OFFICERS

The officers for the W.A. for 1956 are as follows: president, Mrs. Walter Easton; vice-president, Mrs. Charlie Hilmer; treasurer, Mrs. David Martin; flower committee, Mrs. Douglas Martin and Mrs. Vernon Hamilton.

CAMPBELLFORD

C of C Plans Santa Claus Parade

CAMPBELLFORD — A special meeting of the Campbellford Chamber of Commerce was held in the council chambers to appoint committees to look after the organization and planning of the Santa Claus parade, which the Chamber will sponsor again this year.

The parade date was set for December 10th, and F. G. DeCarol was appointed chairman of the committee in charge. Ron Hazell was elected vice-chairman of the committee, with Austin Putnam as treasurer. George Vice will be in charge of obtaining floats and anyone wishing to enter a float in the parade was asked to get in touch with him as soon as possible. Harold Peters will be parade marshal and will be responsible to see that the floats are in proper order when the parade starts.

Charlie Thompson was named to be in charge of obtaining and packaging the hundreds of bags of candy, which will be handed out by the children.

It is believed that several bands will be brought in for the event this year, and all indications point to the biggest and best parade yet.

The support of all the local merchants, service clubs and other organizations was solicited by the committee.

Another meeting is scheduled for Friday, November 11th, and all interested persons were requested to be on hand to lend whatever support they could to the committee.

Red George To The Rescue

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
Illustrated by David Ramsay

In October, 1813, Lower Canada which is now Quebec, was invaded by an army from the United States. Montreal, which had been captured earlier in the bloodless war for some 35 years before, was again in danger. Between the Canadian city and the invasion force stood a small band of French-Canadian militia, ready to give their lives for their homeland.

The United States army marching into Canada was 3,000 strong. Against this force the French-Canadians numbered only 300. They took up their station at Chateauguay, on the river near Montreal, and there they prepared to stop the invaders.

Hellp, but on a very limited scale was near at hand. About two hundred miles away, up the river at Kingston in Upper Canada, Col. George Macdonnell commanded a regiment of 600 militia. When came to him of the serious situation at Chateauguay. A brave soldier and a giant of a man with blazing red hair, Macdonnell was known throughout the Scottish settlements on the banks of the river as Red George. He waited only long enough to gather his men and then started off to the rescue, making one of the most thrilling and dangerous marches in military history.

THROUGH RAPIDS

Piling his men and equipment into canoes and bateaux, Red George led his waterborne army down the St. Lawrence. At Prescott, a pilot was supposed to be ready to guide the flotilla through the dangerous rapids, but he was not there and Red George would not wait. He himself would guide the tiny craft through the rapids. Standing in the stern of the leading bateau, grasping the heavy steering paddles, Macdonnell led his men safely through the turbulent waters, a trip that very few white men ever attempted.

Through one rapid after another, the flotilla swept. Overnight, they crossed Lake St. Francis and in the morning came to Coteau du Lac. Here again, the pilot was missing and Red George would not wait. A fiercer gale was raging. Old Pilots at the the Cedars refused to risk the waters. No one, they said, could live in such waters. Macdonnell, impatient and angry, wished to continue but was persuaded to wait one day. Then, the storm still raged but he would wait no longer and he crossed the river to Beauharnois.

Every man landed safely, some of them soaked through to the skin, and the 20 mile march through the woods to Chateauguay began. On the morning of October 25, 60 hours after they began their journey from Kingston, Red George and his men were on the banks of the Chateauguay. They had shot the rapids in clumsy bateaux without losing a boat or a man.

Their arrival was greeted with cheers by the French-Canadians. Bugles were sounded and drums rattled. The startled invaders, thinking a large defending force had arrived, attacked half-hearted ly and were severely repulsed. With a loss of only 31 men, French and English Canadian troops together routed an enemy more than three times as strong. Montreal was saved and was never threatened again.

WELLINGTON

W.I. Holds Season's First Euchre Party

WELLINGTON — The first euchre party of the season was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening and was sponsored by the Women's Institute. Seventeen tables were in play. Prizes were won by the following: ladies' high, Mrs. Bill Thompson; ladies' low, Mrs. C. Greer; men's high, Ida McPeal; men's low, F. Welbanks; ladies' lone hand, three ladies tied for this; Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. A. Allison and Mrs. Teskey with Mrs. Teskey winning by plating high card. Mrs's lone hands went to William Adams.

The door prize, a basket of groceries, went to Mrs. Norman Foster, and a few articles left over from the basket went to Mrs. A. Graham, cake mix; Earl Lumley, tin of soup; Clifford Channel, tin of corn; and Frank Brimley, a bottle of Halo shampoo.

Tickets were sold on a wool blanket which had been donated to the W.I. by Mrs. Charles Greer, and Mr. W. Wagner held the lucky number for that.

The tables were then placed together and refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee were served by the ladies.

YOUR CAR

Crankcase Ventilation Cools Oil

By EUGENE MILME

Don't underestimate the importance of your crankcase ventilating system. It rids the crankcase of harmful contaminants such as combustion gases, water, and gasoline vapors—thus helping keep engine oil cooler and relieve pressures.

On a typical engine, a mesh type filter is located at the oil filler pipe opening and at the outlet vent pipe. If these become clogged it means trouble. Crankcase pressures will build up and may force oil past seals, gaskets or bearings. In some cases, too much pressure will cause oil to be blown out the breather pipe.

The main idea is to see that the ventilating system's filtering elements are kept clean and clear. As your mechanic will tell you, serving every 3,000 miles or so is good insurance.

J. P. writes: "I know how the six cylinder engine is numbered, but what is the cylinder numbering for my 1955 V8 engine? Please note I am interested in the numbering, not the timing."

(A) For your particular engine, cylinder numbering, front to rear is: as follows: Left bank, 1357; right bank, 2468.

J.C. asks: "What brand of high octane gas is good for a 1955 8-cylinder car?"

(A) Although all name brands are good, you may find one gives your engine better all-around performance than others. The usual thing is to give each leading brand a fair trial, and then stick with the one you like best.

From F. S.: "When my 1955 sedan idles for a minute or so, the temperature gauge reading becomes hot and before long it is nearly at the boiling point. I have been back to the dealer a dozen times and he has checked over the cooling system, changed the gauge in the dash twice and has put a new gauge unit in the engine. I still get a far above normal reading on the dash gauge after the car is running for just a few minutes—yet the water temperature in the cooling system is actually about 158 degrees."

(A) Has there been a new dash unit installed since the engine unit was replaced? I ask this because it is possible for a defective unit in the cylinder head to damage the dash unit, causing the latter would not solve the problem unless you first changed the defective engine unit.

M. F. writes: "Here is a list of things I have invested in, without success, in order to cure my rough idling engine. New battery, distributor, coil, fuel pump, carburetor, automatic choke and plugs were installed. All wiring was checked, ignition was timed and valves tested with a vacuum gauge. Is there anything else that might be responsible?"

(A) Check for intake manifold leaks and make certain there are no kinks, loose connections or dirt in the fuel lines.

Say Denver Man Blew Up Airliner To Murder Mother

Arrest Made in Plane Crash In Which 44 People Died

DENVER (AP)—The arrest of a Denver man for sabotaging a United Airlines plane in which his mother died with 43 other persons was announced today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

John Gilbert Graham, 23, whose most recent job was helping his mother operate a rooming and restaurant here, would be arraigned later today, the FBI said.

The statement added that Graham would be charged with violation of a section of the federal code which forbids sabotage of a national defence facility or materials. The code defines commercial airliners as among such facilities.

The announcement said the young man had been helping to pay off the balance on $4,200 insurance he had forged against a Denver concern. Mrs. King had paid $2,500 of that in all the time young Graham received a five-year suspended sentence on conviction of the forgery in 1951.

TOOK BIG POLICY

The FBI said Graham took out $37,500 worth of insurance on his mother, Mrs. Daisy King, at the Denver airport while he was there to place her aboard the plane en route to Alaska.

Forty-four persons died in the Nov. 1 crash of the DC-4B in a field 32 miles north of here near Longmont, Colorado. Only child was one Canadian, Mrs. Alma Wilson of St. John, N.B.

Witnesses reported the airliner appeared to explode just before the crash, and official investigators subsequently confirmed that something "foreign" aboard the ship was responsible for a "bomb-like" blast.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, stated that Graham is presently in the custody of federal agents of the Denver office of the FBI and that U. S. Attorney General Kelly, Denver, has authorized the filing of a complaint as soon as the U. S. commissioner in Denver was available.

LIVED IN ORPHANAGE

Investigation by the FBI has disclosed that Graham was born in Denver in 1932. He was placed in an orphanage following the death of his father in 1935. He later lived with his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Earl King, until he was 15 years of age.

In November, 1951, Graham was convicted on forgery charges in Denver, growing out of the forgery of 42 cheques for $100 each drawn on a Denver concern. He received a five-year suspended sentence and a state court in Denver and was placed on probation. He subsequently made restitution of $2,500 and Graham has been making monthly payments on the unpaid balance which has now been reduced to $165.

The arrest recalled the sensational pre-bombing case in Quebec province in 1949, when a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane exploded in flight killing 23 persons. J. Albert Guay, husband of one of the victims, was charged with murder following an investigation which disclosed a bomb had been wrecked by a time bomb.

The investigation showed that Guay had purchased an insurance policy on his wife's life while seeking her aid in the plot.

Further investigation led to the arrest of Genereux Ruest and his sister, Mrs. Marcelle Pitre, also of Quebec City, and all three were convicted and hanged.

Four other similar cases are on record.

On May 7, 1949, a Philippines Airlines plane exploded over Albay Island, killing 13 persons. Investigators disclosed a time bomb had been planted to get rid of an unwanted husband. Three men were sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Bitter Cold, Dampness Claim Life of Boy

SHEET HARBOR, N.S. (CP) —A 12-year-old boy died during a 18-hour weekend ordeal in snow-laden woods near here despite a valiant rescue attempt by his father. Two brothers suffered from exposure.

The bitter cold and dampness claimed the life of Gerald Owen, Brothers Richard, 15, and Lawrence, 14, are under a doctor's care at home.

The father, pulp-mill worker Ralph Owen, father of ten children, tramped nearly 25 miles in an effort to save his three sons.

The boys had gone into the woods to look after their father's traps. Six hours later the father became alarmed and started to search for them.

Seven miles from the highway he found Richard and huddled under a lodge. Gerald—was in a state of extreme exhaustion.

The father and Alexander started out for help. But half way out the boy's woods dad found he could go no further. The father stripped off his own warm clothing and covered Alexander, leaving him beneath a tree.

Then, he tramped out and led volunteers back into the woods.

Gerald was beyond help, although a doctor was flown into the isolated area.

Mrs. Owen gave birth to a daughter within hours of her son's death.

A coroner's jury decided death was due to fatigue and exposure.

Explorers Board Canadian Vessel For Antarctica

LONDON (Reuters) — The advance guard of a United Commonwealth expedition to explore the vast, uncharted regions of Antarctica boarded their ship in the Canadian seal-catcher, here today.

The 17 explorers, led by Australia-old Dr. Vivian Fuchs, will sail on the 425-ton Theron for Montevideo, Uruguay, where they will be joined by Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Mount Everest, and leader of a New Zealand expedition.

On reaching the edge of the Antarctic, Fuchs will face the task of crossing 1,500 miles of ice and snow to Hillary's base on the Ross Sea.

The Commonwealth expedition is the most ambitious and costly of 29 ventures planned by 11 countries in the Antarctic during the more polar secrets. The continent, which is twice Australia's size, is combined, has never been fully charted even from the air.

First Man to Jump at Supersonic Speed Wants to Fly at 2,000 MPH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Faster than the speed of sound the fighter plane blasted downward at an 80-degree angle. Its wings were locked.

Test pilot George Smith, 31, turned off his fuel, opened the speed braker and pulled his helmet visor over his eyes. With his right hand he pulled up on the armrest of his seat, automatically ejecting the canopy. Two seconds more and it would have been too late.

On Feb. 26, 1955, Smith became the first pilot to bail out of a plane travelling supersonically and live. And there was considerable doubt he'd come to until five days later in a hospital, where he stayed six months.

It has been estimated that Smith was subjected to a decelerative force of 40 times the pull of gravity as his parachute snapped open. There was bleeding in all parts of the body as the pull increased George's weight from its 215 pounds to the equivalent force of 8,000 in a split second.

His arms flailed with such force after he left the plane that his wristwatch, gloves and zipper ring were shaken off. His knee joints were loosened. For several days there was blind because of bleeding in the eyeballs and damage to the retina. Shreds of his eye were bloodshot solid red.

Smith recalls very little of his flight, except that a friend, Scientific classification secret been removed from the plane and the air force told the story today. Smith was rescued by fishermen after parachuting into the Pacific off San California coast.

Today Smith was in so severe a shock that his pulse was barely flickering. His breathing was shallow and he has gained back to 175 pounds. his eyes remain a bit sensitive to light and he still has a blind spot in color perception. But his vision is again 20-20. His right knee is a little stiff. Damage to his liver means he can never touch anything containing alcohol.

On Aug. 22, he passed the Civil Aeronautics Administration physical examination regaining his commercial flying certificate. Now he wants to fly a plane at 2,000 m.p.h.

EXPECT 17 LANDS WILL BE ADMITTED AS UN MEMBERS

Canada Will Move 18 Nations Be Accepted

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The possibility that 17 countries seeking United Nations membership may be admitted grew out of the Geneva conference today.

Russia and the Western powers apparently are seeking ways to avoid a return to all-out cold war tactics in the wake of the present Big Four foreign ministers' conference to solve any other major east-west problems.

Signs of this trend appeared Sunday in a long private talk between State Secretary Dulles and Foreign Minister Molotov.

MEMBERSHIP DISCUSSED

One of the subjects they talked about was the possibility of UN membership for 18 Communist and non-Communist states. Indications are that an East-West understanding is at hand on admitting most of them.

In New York, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief United States delegate to the UN, announced that the U.S. has dropped its strong opposition to the admission of four of five Soviet satellites, and hopes in return Russia will back 13 Western-sponsored countries will be voted in.

Lodge said in New York Sunday night that Canada will table a resolution in the UN calling for admission of all 18 countries. The 18th applicant is Outer Mongolia, whose lodge said would have no possibility of gaining membership.

FEELS IMPORTANT

Canada's Paul Martin, health Minister and chief delegate to the UN, said his country feels that the admission of the new UN members "is an important matter which will bring to UN activities a number of nations, most of whom subscribe to what is the guiding purpose of the free nations."

Lodge said the U.S. would abstain on the application of Soviet-sponsored Albania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania.

In return, Lodge expected Austria, Italy, Finland, the Republic of Ireland, Portugal, Spain, Japan, Cambodia, Ceylon, Jordan, Laos, Nepal and Libya to be voted in before the end of the present UN General Assembly meeting Dec. 10.

Vicar Assails Eden's Right To Name Bishops

LONDON (AP) —An Anglican vicar Sunday described Prime Minister Eden as "a man who has declared war on the conservative doctrine of divorce."

Very Rev. G. A. Lewis Lloyd challenged the system which gives the Queen's ministers the right to appoint bishops and said the Anglican Church "must be free from the conditions of state control."

Dean Lloyd, who is Vicar of Chiswick and Dean of Hammersmith, preached in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Russell Tongay Escapes Officer At Restaurant

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police hunted today for Russell Tongay, the former swimming instructor who escaped from a Florida electric chair here Sunday night while serving a 10-year manslaughter sentence in the death of his "Aquatot" daughter.

Tongay was brought from the Florida state prison by transfer agent Jimmie Simmons to undergo treatment for a misgallment at the Marine Hospital here.

After checking in at the hospital, the agent and his prisoner went on route to the county jail when they were involved in a minor automobile accident.

STOPPED FOR MEAL

Tongay was taken to hospital for examination, and doctors said he apparently was not injured. Then he went back to the jail again, Simmons and Tongay stopped off at a downtown restaurant for supper.

As the agent was paying, police said, Tongay dug out his gun. Simmons said he pursued him in the restaurant but lost him in the dark.

Tongay was convicted in January, 1954, by a Miami jury who found him guilty of manslaughter in the death of his five-year-old daughter, Kathy, two years earlier.

Kathy died in a 33-foot dive into a Miami Beach hotel swimming pool. She and her brother, Bubba, 9, billed as "the Aquatots," received wide publicity when their father announced they would swim the English channel. French and British authorities refused to allow the channel crossing.

Bloodless Weekend Coup Puts Lonardi Out of Office

By BRUCE HENDERSON

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Post-Peron Argentina waltzed a dangerous new path today, with presidential President Eduoardo Lonardi overthrown and with his friends vowing revenge.

Lonardi, the army major-general who led the September revolution against the dictatorship of Juan Peron, was pushed out of office in a bloodless weekend coup.

Maj-Gen. Pedro Eugenio Aramburu, another general who took part in the anti-Peron movement seven weeks ago, was sworn in to succeed him.

The ringleaders of the successful coup said they did it to stamp out "totalitarian tendencies in the Lonardi government and to make sure "true democracy" would be built on the ruins of the Peron dictatorship.

But Lonardi's friends called it a "treason" which would be punished.

From his exile in Panama, Peron said the changes in the Argentine government "were expected and I will continue . . . there will be others shortly."

Crowds shouted "Nazis no, democracy yes" as the new president took over his office.

Aramburu, a 52-year-old professional soldier, commanded rebel army units in the uprising against Peron and was named army chief of staff when the revolutionary government took over in September. Aramburu took the oath of office late Sunday afternoon and immediately named a junta to help him rule the country. The first announcement said the junta would be made up of the ministers of the army, navy and air force, but later it was expanded to include the vice-president, Admiral Isaac Rojas, commander of naval operations.

Lonardi conferred at his home with some members of his ousted government. His only public comment was a statement to reporters he seemed to be resigned. It said:

"This has come about exclusively by the decision of certain members of the armed forces."

Maj. - Gen. Juan Jose Uranga, ousted minister in Lonardi's government, issued a fiery statement accusing "ambitious elements" of seizing control of the "destiny of the liberating revolution."

"The only chief of the revolution was and is General Lonardi," Uranga said, "and the treason to General Lonardi will not go unpunished."

Pinay, Adenauer Will Seek New Saar Solution

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany (AP) — France and West Germany have agreed to seek a new solution for the Saar problem.

Foreign Minister Pinay and Chancellor Adenauer announced the joint communique Sunday that they will take up the problem in co-operation with the new Saar government elected December 18.

The solution would be sought in the light of the referendum of Oct. 23 in which Saarlanders voted for a new statute "Europeanization" of their rich borderland. This vote now is accepted by the French as showing clearly that the Saarlanders very want eventually to return to their German fatherland.

FRICTION CAUSE

The French and German governments, in seeking a new solution, hope to eliminate the coal and steel basin as a cause of friction between them in their goal toward European unity.

Pinay had a three-hour talk with the 79-year-old Adenauer. It was the first major conference for the chancellor since he became ill Oct. 7 from a cold which developed into bronchial pneumonia.

No hint of the probable nature of the new solution was given.

The joint communique said both the French and German governments will "continue their endeavors for a united Europe that is necessary and has as its foundation close co-operation between France and West Germany."

GM SETTLEMENT OF MINOR ISSUES FINALLY REACHED

Wages, Holidays Will Now Be Resolved

By MEL MORRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NICOLET, Que. (CP) — A 156-year-old cathedral teetered perilously today on the brink of a giant crater where at least three persons were carried to their death in a landslide Saturday.

The landslide, striking with only a few seconds warning, sent six buildings, including the bishop's palace and a commercial academy, toppling down a 70 foot embankment bordering the narrow Nicolet River.

There, all but one of the buildings was crushed and buried in a seething mass of sand and clay that carried them as much as 300 yards away from their original moorings.

Two of the victims died in the commercial academy — l'Academie de la Salle. They were Mrs. Alphonse Boisvert, 60, cook for the Christian brothers, was recovered shortly after the slide.

BURIED IN RUBBLE

Brother Hermenegilde, 65, a leader in the 44 clubs movement in the province, was buried in the rubble but his body could not be found immediately. Another brother at the school said he saw him just before the slide began and heard him call out for help as it sank into the sliding ground.

Six-month-old Guy Lessard was the other victim, dying when his father's home was buried under the embankment. His body was found.

Six other persons were injured, one seriously. A year-old baby, Gilles Bissy, suffered serious head injuries and was taken to hospital in Montreal.

More than 30 other persons, among them Msgr. Alberic Sartin, Roman Catholic bishop of Nicolet — narrowly escaped being engulfed in the sliding sand and clay. Many heard a growling sound and looked out windows to see trees sliding by their dwellings. Some had to leap rewers in the ground to reach safety.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Maurice Boisvert, Liberal member of Parliament for Nicolet-Yamaska, estimated damage at $3,000,000. Msgr. Sartin said the palace would cost $2,000,000 to replace and damage to the cathedral could run $1,000,000. It will cost another $1,000,000 to replace the academy.

Police said there is a possibility more people may be buried in the ton of quicksand suspended in a dry section of the Nicolet river bed. Five or six cars were known to have been buried, along with two trucks and a bulldozer.

The ground was still shifting in the basin Sunday and police said they would wait for it to settle before trying to determine if anyone was trapped in one of the cars. No one has been reported missing in the area, they said.

Some 600 persons had to be evacuated from a convent, a hospital for the aged, and private homes in the danger area.

It was the second disaster for the community on the south shore of the St. Lawrence river opposite Three Rivers in eight months. In March part of the business section and some 30 homes were destroyed by fire.

The danger still persisted for several buildings near the river as well as the cathedral. The roof of the 150-year-old church was in swayed inward and walls were cracked under the strain of the unsettled ground.

Prince Charles, 7, Is 'Getting Tough' Says Queen, 'Thank Goodness'--Duke

LONDON (AP) — Flags flew from public buildings today to mark the seventh birthday of Prince Charles, heir-apparent to the throne.

He is a bubby-faced youngster awoke early at Windsor Castle, where he's been spending the week-end with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, and started unpacking parcels after breakfast.

Small crowds clustered at vantage points to catch a glimpse of the young prince as he drove from Windsor Castle back to Buckingham Palace for a birthday tea.

Twenty-five boys and girls who joined Prince Charles at Hyde Princess Anne at their palace dancing classes, and other friends from houses the royal children have visited, were invited to the palace festivities.

Prince Charles—whose titles include Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothesday, Earl of Carrick and Baron Renfrew, Lord of the Isles, and Great Steward of Scotland—is to blow out seven candles on a pink and white iced cake.

Charles is losing interest in the fairy tales and animal stories he used to love, and prefers the hair-raising adventure stories common to his age group—cowboys and Indians and spaceman sagas.

"He is really getting very tough," the Queen was heard to remark to a friend yesterday.

"Thank goodness," the Duke of Edinburgh added.

Victim of Blood Disease Nearly Bleeds to Death

As a result of biting his tongue, a three-year-old boy is in serious condition in hospital at Hamilton, Ont. Doctors are attempting to stop his bleeding to death. Victim of hemophilia, a disease which prevents clotting of the blood, Michael Bulbrook, seen with nurses Donna Worron and Rae Smart, was rushed to hospital after bleeding started for transfusions of "O" negative blood type, which usually stems bleeding in such cases. There was none available in the hospital or the city at the time, so the Red Cross appealed for donors. Three policemen responded for transfusions. In five separate visits to the hospital in the past, Michael has received 45 pints of blood. (Central Press Canadian).

Eisenhower Seen At White House, Going to Farm

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower put in a business-as-usual appearance at his White House office today.

But since Friday from Denver where he spent seven weeks recovering from his heart attack, he appeared at the office just before 9:30 a. m.—a few minutes later than his customary starting time.

He was to start some two hours later on a motor trip to his farm home at Gettysburg, Pa., for further recuperation.

Family of Five Shot to Death, Blame Father

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Police found a mother and four children early today found a family of five shot to death in their home, with four of the bodies afire.

The victims were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bucketthal and their three children.

Police said that earlier this morning they had discovered a fire at Bucketthal's plumbing shop in Milwaukee. When they went to his home to report the blaze they found smoke coming from the building. Officers broke into the house and found all five bodies. They said the wife and three children apparently had been shot and then covered with oil which was ignited. Bucketthal also had been shot to death.

Police chief Emil Bartels said it appeared that Bucketthal shot his family and then turned the gun on himself. The weapon was found beneath his body.

Hunt Two Men

SUDBURY (CP)—In high winds and heavy breakers, surface craft today searched for two Killarney men missing since midnight Wednesday. Last seen heading out from a Collin's Bay dock, they were in a 16-foot outboard boat were Leon Brassard, 30, and Lawrence Lee, 25, and Arthur Noble, guide and fisherman.

Their boat was found late Thursday on the north shore of Manitou Island of Killarney. The community is 45 miles southwest of Sudbury, on Georgian bay.

Amateur Radio History Made Over Weekend

Amateur radio history was made in Belleville Sunday night when a short wave transistor powered transmitter was used for the first time in the city. William Barrett, local ham radio operator and electronics engineer at Northern Electric, pressed the key that put Belleville's first short wave transistor powered transmitter on the air.

The little transmitter with an output of only one twentieth of a watt and using the new germanium crystal transistor is the brainchild of William Barrie. Since the development of the transistor it has been a challenge to amateur radio operators to employ one of them in a transmitter.

Don Stanton Buys Business Of Ben Yanover

Ben Yanover, proprietor of Ben Yanover's Radio Shop, announced today that he has sold his business to Don Stanton.

The change of ownership becomes effective January 14, 1956.

Mr. Yanover, in the men's wear business in Belleville for 17 years, plans to move to Toronto in the new year, where he will be associated with the Tip Top Baby Wear Company, manufacturers of children's clothing.

He said today that he will close his store for two or three days to prepare for a selling out sale.

Mr. Stanton, formerly associated with the Truck and Farm Supply in Belleville, and a member of the Belleville Parks Board, had charge of the men's wear business in Western Canada prior to coming to Belleville several years ago.

Mr. Stanton acquired the store and fixtures. Mr. Yanover will dispose of the stock prior to the New Year.

John Luxbombe, of Belleville, was speaker of the evening, and described his experiences as delegate to the Y.M.C.A. Centennial, held in Paris, France, in August.

Mr. Luxcombe told of meeting together with more than 10,000 delegates from the Y.M.C.A.'s the world over at a monster rally in the Paris Pavilion des Sport.

TOUR SWITZERLAND, GERMANY

After attending the lectures, discussions and conferences, the delegates were treated to tours through Switzerland and Germany before returning home.

The color and inspiration of the Centennial were captured in a film made by [illegible] and added to be released.

Mr. Luxcombe was introduced by Scott Denton, and thanked by Robbie Clarke.

Cobourg members were entertained by games of bridge, volleyball, and discussions of club activities.

Those present as guests of the Belleville Club were: Paul Allen, Bert Brown, Bill Carruthers, Jack Finlayson, Hawley Hostetlon, Carl Hoselton, Lord Hostetlon, Bill Moran, Max Smith, Merv Varty, Jim Walter, Jim Watson, John Walton, Lionel Henderson, and Cobourg president, Herb Waters.

The Grand Master Sir Knight John N. Robertson was escorted to the altar and presented with a leather brief case, the presentation being made by Sir Knight W. Rose, for which he expressed his grateful thanks, and adding them many more years of success in the Lodge work.

Following a social half hour all assembled in the dining hall where refreshments were served by the ladies of Crystal Chapter, No. 34, Belleville.

Five Injured In Car Crash Near Tweed

Five persons, including an 18-months-old child, were admitted to the Belleville General Hospital Saturday evening following a highway accident south of Tweed which saw one car slam into a parked vehicle and knock it into the side of a house.

In hospital are Mrs. Catherine Bennett, 49, of Tweed, with back and possible internal injury; her 18-months-old daughter, Mary, who suffered concussion, and a second daughter, Grace, age 11, lacerations; Mrs. Ena Bell, 38, of Shannonville, and Mrs. Mary Marsh, 70, facial lacerations and bruised arm.

Police said the accident occurred at the foot of the Dead Hill on Highway 37 opposite the Marsh residence.

A southbound auto driven by William Bennett of Tweed had parked on the left side of the highway at the Marsh residence and Mrs. Marsh was speaking with the Bennett family at the side of the road.

The northbound car driven by George Gregg, 35 of Shannonville, struck the Bennett car almost head-on, knocking Mrs. Marsh away and driving the Bennett car against the Marsh house. The wall of the Marsh house was damaged by the impact.

In the Gregg auto were Pat McClary, of Belleville, Mrs. Iona Loft, 29, of Shannonville, and two children.

SHARETT SEEKS ARMS FOR ISRAEL IN U.S.

Israel's ambassador to the U.S., Abba Eban, greets his country's Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett, in New York, on the latter's arrival for talks with U.S. government officials on the Middle East crisis. Sharett is seeking arms for Israel to counteract war material being supplied by Soviet Russia to the Arab states. The arms race is on between Egypt and Israel, the U.S. warned that it will take stern reprisal steps against either begin an offensive action. (Central Press Canadian).

Few Tickets Are Available

Only a few dozen tickets for tonight's National Ballet Company's performance in the Belleville Collegiate still remained unsold at noon today.

Ticket manager Don Thomas said that unsold tickets would be available at the box office at the 8.30 curtain. Mail orders not picked up at the box office at 110 Bridge St., East, by 6.00 p.m. may be picked up at the door by purchasers.

It was announced today that no one will be seated during the performance. Those arriving after 8.30 will have to stand at the rear of the auditorium until the first intermission.

The National Ballet Company, headed by former Sadler's Wells star Celia France, will dance "Les Sylphides", "Lilac Garden" and "Offenbach in the Underworld."

Money Found Believed Part Of $11,000 Stolen

TORONTO. (CP) — Police said today $500 found by a seven-year old girl here last Friday may be part of $11,000 stolen from a Bank of Montreal bank ten-months ago.

When apprehended Mary Mahon, 28, of Toronto, who engineered the holdup, told police he left another remaining $7,500 to either the Hospital for Sick Children or the Variety Village Orphanage. He said he had been crippled once and wanted to help other cripples.

Police said neither institution has received the money sent in an unstamped envelope, but they believed Mason had mailed it.

Evelyn Leigh, seven, and her cousin, Robbie Collins, eight, found the money in a brown paper bag in a junk pile behind the Crippled Civilians Hospital. The police are unable to identify the money's owner, it will be turned over to Evelyn's parents.

Three Are Killed By Fire Aboard Radar Vessel

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire exploded a fuel tank aboard a United States navy radar picket ship at dawn Sunday, killing three men and injuring two others. The fire was brought under control six hours later.

The stricken ship, the Searcher, was on station at sea 125 miles southeast of here. Navy and coast guard vessels rushed to her aid.

An amphibious plane took three of the most severely injured men to New York City. One of them died on the way to hospital.

The Searcher had recently started a new tour of patrol duty off the Atlantic coast east of Cape May, N. J.

A converted Liberty ship, she is crammed with expensive radar equipment—one of a number of such ships designed to provide offshore warning of any unidentified plane approaching the coast. It cost $4,00,000 to fit her out for this job.

Boy Fractures Leg in Accident, Father Charged

An eleven-year-old boy suffered lacerations to his head and a broken right leg early Saturday evening when the car in which he was riding ran into one of the spans of the bay bridge.

Provincial police said that John Lloyd, of Bloomfield, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital as result of the accident, while his father, Ernest Lloyd, Bloomfield, was charged with drunk driving.

Lloyd was southbound on his way to Prince Edward County when his car ran into the side of one of the spans. The impact extensively damaged the right side of the car and swung the vehicle around to partially block traffic over the bridge. The boy was taken to hospital in a passing car. Damage to the car amounted to about $800.

Provincial Constable J. Fullerton of Belleville, initiated the investigation, which was later turned over to Const. Hutton detachment in which territory the accident occurred.

Fear Seven Dead As Wreckage Of Ship Found

HALIFAX (CP) — The sea is believed to have claimed the captain and the crew members of the Newfoundland motor vessel Mabel Dorothy.

Wreckage from the 140-ton vessel was found Sunday by the motor vessel Lillian Richards about five miles southeast of Hooping harbor on Newfoundland's north shore.

The Mabel Dorothy, owned by Forward and Tibbo, Ltd., Grand Banks, Nfld., was commanded by Capt. John Ralph of Grand Banks, left the settlement of Roddickton, Nov. 2 on a 30-day voyage to North Sydney that was expected to take five or six days.

Crew members were all Newfoundlanders.

Plan to Turn Toronto Marsh Into Wonderland

TORONTO (CP) — A $1,500,000 development plan to transform the Humber river mouth from a marsh to a recreational wonderland is to be unveiled here Tuesday, it was disclosed today.

It will be presented to political, cultural, sport and conservation representatives at a luncheon meeting.

The project, to be called Humber Valley Park, includes more than a mile of beach, lake-water swimming, woodland trails, picnic grounds, a regatta course, wildlife sanctuary and a 50,000-seat natural amphitheatre.

The project, drawn up by suburban Etobicoke's Planning Board and council, has been under preparation six months.

If endorsed, Etobicoke is to present it to the Metro Parks and Planning Board and to Metro Council.

An Etobicoke spokesman said the scheme could be completed within less than five years.

PLOT FAILED

A year later, in California, a similar plot failed. J. H. Grant of Los Angeles was convicted of attempted murder Aug. 3, 1935, for placing a bomb aboard a United Air Lines plane in an effort to kill his wife and two children. The gasoline bomb was discovered and removed before the plane took off. Grant was sentenced to from one to 20 years in jail.

On Sept. 24, 1932, an explosion wrecked an airliner just after takeoff from Mexico City. Investigation showed a bomb had been placed in the baggage compartment by a person who had taken out a large insurance policy on one of the 17 passengers aboard. There were no fatalities in the wreck.

An incident with a political motive was the wrecking of an Indian airliner April 21 carrying Chinese Communist delegates to the Bandung conference. Nineteen persons were killed. It was later charged a bomb had been placed aboard the plane by a Chinese Nationalist during a stopover at Hong Kong.

Thousand Catholic Women Start 'Crusade of Decency'

TORONTO (CP) — One thousand Roman Catholic women in central Ontario set out this morning on a "crusade of decency" aimed at ridding every bookstore and newsstand of indecent literature.

Working in teams of two, the women, members of the Ontario Catholic Women's League, will check the dealers' book racks against a list of more than 300 books blacklisted by a Chicago organization for decent literature. The initial campaign lasts until Nov. 26.

Mrs. George Davis of Toronto, the league's director of education, said the women have been specially trained for the campaign.

"They have been instructed to be friendly and courteous and to stress that the campaign is being carried out solely to create high moral standards for children."

LIST KEPT SECRET

The list has been made up by the National Organization of Decent Literature of Chicago. Books on the list have been disapproved by five women reviewers, each a mother.

The list is kept secret, because the league doesn't want it to get into the hands of youth groups, said Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Davis said that at one of the first stores visited in the Toronto area, eight books on the list were found on a stand of pocket books. Mrs. Davis said the women suggested that the dealer, a druggist, return the books, but the dealer replied: "I do not approve of censorship."

League officials said they believe there is a strong connection between indecent literature and the rising crime rate among juveniles.

ENDORSED BY CARDINAL

James Cardinal McGuigan, in whose archdiocese the campaign is being conducted, endorsed the campaign.

"There is perhaps no single cause which has more greatly contributed to the decline of morals and of respect for law than the flood of indecent literature which is so readily available to citizens in every age group," he said.

The archdiocese extends from Oshawa to Orangeville and from Collingwood and Owen Sound to Fort Erie.

17-Year-Old Killed in Car On Q.E. Way

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — James W. (Duke) Foran, 17, of Toronto was killed today when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a tree.

It was the first fatal accident on the Queen Elizabeth Way since Ontario Provincial Police cracked down on speeders two weeks ago. Lucien Beauchamp, 19, and Ronald Petrie, 16, were injured in the crash. Beauchamp was reported in critical condition.

Police said the car, driven by Beauchamp, left the road and crashed into a tree six feet from the pavement. They were unable when they broke into the Toronto to explain the cause of the accident. Flailing Company plant.

Waterproof, self-winding and the date on the dial

If you want something more than a watch that is good looking and accurate, you should see the Tudor Prince Oysterdate or its sister, the Princess Oysterdate. The movements are permanently protected from water, dust, dirt and oil. They are self-wound by the Rolex patented "shockproof "rotor" mechanism which keeps them accurate to the minutest second for even greater accuracy, and never the trouble of winding. And both watches show the date clearly and conveniently on the dial, changing at midnight or noon(if).

THEY'RE MADE BY ROLEX

Tudor watches reflect half-a-century of Rolex experience in the making of high precision watches. May we show you our full range of Tudor watches? If you are unable to call, let us send you an illustrated booklet.

U.S. New "Invention" is 50 Cent Phonograph

Brig.-Gen. David Sarnoff, chairman of Radio Corporation of America, holds U.S.'s newest weapon—a 50-cent, hand-operated plastic phonograph—which he demonstrated for the first time at an overseas press club luncheon in New York. Consisting of three parts, the machine can be dropped behind the Iron Curtain for propaganda purposes. A seven-inch unbreakable record, costing only five cents to make, will bear appropriate messages from the American people to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain. Examining the tiny weapon, which Gen. Sarnoff said answered the need for a device which could bring a message without being subject either to radio jamming or a source of electricity, is Louis F. Lochner, president of the overseas press club.

Officials Warned Not to Supply Drinking Persons

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of liquor, wine and brewers' retail stores in Ontario have been warned of the need for vigilance in refusing to supply intoxicating beverages to persons who have been drinking, the attorney-general's department said today.

Chief commissioner William Collings of the liquor control board of Ontario, in line with the province's highway s afety campaign, has written to managers of the three types of outlets asking that they also caution their staffs.

The letters instruct managers to scrutinize sales when a person, apparently under the influence of an intoxicating beverage, is present in the store although he himself does not try to make a purchase.

Mr. Collings said his advice to managers does not represent a change in board policy but is a reminder of the board's intention to support the government's crackdown on violations of the Highway Traffic Act.

Highways Minister Allan, meanwhile, has sent a memorandum to all examiners of applicants for operators' and chauffeurs' licences, stating that special responsibility they have in their work.

He reminded the 275 examiners in the province that four of five highway accidents are caused entirely or in part by drivers' improper actions or behavior.

Mr. Allan said examiners are to adhere strictly to the procedure outlined in manuals.

If examiners did not conduct proper tests their appointments would be cancelled.

De Havilland Strike Ended

TORONTO (CP) — A four months' strike at the suburban Downsview plant of de Havilland Aircraft Company officially ended Sunday.

A membership meeting of the United Auto Workers CIO-CCL Sunday endorsed a company-union agreement reached two days earlier giving wage increases ranging from eight to 15 cents an hour over the next nine months.

Union officials said the vote was 85 per cent in favor of the settlement.

Colder Weather Soon to Follow Thunderstorms

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Colder weather is in store for Western Ontario Tuesday following Sunday night's thunderstorms that drenched most areas and caused minor communications and power trouble.

Mainline telegraph communications from London were not affected but a couple of minor Canadian Pacific Telegraph circuits in the Woodstock area were knocked out of service briefly by lightning.

At Toronto, the storm was blamed for a power failure that blacked out about half the city for more than two hours. All customers served by 25-cycle power were cut off by the failure. Service to areas which have been converted to 60-cycle was about half the city — was not interrupted.

In the Detroit area, hailstones said to be three inches in diameter pelted many districts.

Women and children were frightened by the combination of loud thunderclaps and big chunks of ice pounding on roofs. Cars were dented.

Motor Vessel With 8 Aboard Said Sinking

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The 100-foot motor vessel Paul Eley, with a crew of eight aboard, flashed an SOS today saying she was sinking 120 miles west-southwest of Key West.

Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters at Miami dispatched a plane with rescue gear which could be dropped to the crew if the vessel sank, and another plane from the St. Petersburg base with pumps.

The steamship Wisconsin turned from her course and raced toward the distressed craft.

The Paul Eley was reported en route from central American ports to Tampa with a cargo of fruit.

MISSISSIPPI JUSTICE

Well, that's that!

Now we know exactly what passes for justice in the State of Mississippi.

On September 23, when two half-brothers were acquitted on charges of murdering Emmett Till, a 14-year-old Negro boy, some bitter things were said—and written. Negro boy, some bitter things were said—and written. But the wise kept quiet. It was just possible that they were innocent.

Some confusing testimony had been introduced at the trial. Three men, including a sheriff and an undertaker, had testified that a body fished from a river on August 31, and later identified by Till's mother as that of her son, was so bloated and decomposed that it could not have been that of a person who was alive on August 28. And Emmett Till was alive on August 28. It was that night that the two accused men had gone to the home of his uncle and taken him away with them. The uncle said they took the boy. The accused men told a sheriff they took the boy—but released him later.

On September 23, we still had hopes for justice in the State of Mississippi. But not on November 9. For on November 9 a grand jury refused to indict the two half-brothers on a charge of kidnapping. They are not kidnappers in Mississippi, apparently, to call at a Negro's shanty in the middle of the night and to force a frightened 14-year-old boy to accompany you—not if you are white. 14-year-old boy to accompany you—not if you are white. Not if you release the boy unharmed in an hour or two later, as you tell the sheriff you did, then it is not your fault if he never shows up again in the land of the living.

On September 23 it appeared possible that the body recovered from the river might not be that of Till. After all three men, including a sheriff and an undertaker, had said it could not be his.

On November 9 a later jeaning about the various views which Mississippi jurors hold about kidnapping, one may be pardoned for wondering whether other Mississippi men may not hold strange views about other things, oaths for example.

The two Mississippi half-brothers who kidnapped Emmett Till are free, for a little while. But perhaps they might give thanks to white Sheriff H. C. Strider, a loyal man we are told, said-to Mrs. Mamie Bradley, of Chicago, mother of Emmett Till, when she entered the court room as the murder trial got underway:

"You are now in the State of Mississippi," he told her. "You will come under all rules of the State of Mississippi."

Some time, a few short years hence, we are hopeful but unjustified kidnappers, the acquitted murderers, will be some place else outside the State of Mississippi. And others from Mississippi will be there too. And they, and we, and all will come under all the rules of this other realm, outside the State of Mississippi. And the rules may not be the same as they are in the State of Mississippi. The rules may just happen to provide that murder is murder, kidnapping is kidnapping, perjury is perjury and disregard of a juror's oath is a sin, regardless of the color of the skin of the person who commits these acts. And there will be no white jury, no smart lawyers and no appeal from the judgment rendered.

Emmett Till will be able to explain all this to them. He is there now.

A HAPPY FAMILY TRAIT

The prophets of doom are always with us, but it is not always that so prompt a rebuttal is provided as that which swatted editorial gloomings from Le Soleil of Quebec last week. Hardly had we finished reading how the Quebec paper's fears that family ties were being loosened than a happy little story from Paris, Texas, dispersed the atmosphere of gloom.

The family is the principal cell of society and it needs to be protected against the dangers which threaten it from every side," said Le Soleil. "The rhythm of life today, the numerous facilities for recreation outside, quietly loosen all the ties that were formerly the strength of the family."

What, no family unity any longer, no common interests, no—

"Hubbie Franklin Farris' son, Hubbie, Jr., 21, is to die but now lead what he hopes will be a long life.

In two weeks in Oklahoma's electric chair on a charge of killing an Oklahoma detective. Others in the family: Father faces trial here on burglary charges; his first wife, mother of the convicted Oklahoma killer, is in a Texas prison on a charge of killing her third husband; their other son, Bethel Raymond Farris, is serving a 10-year sentence for burglary at Houston; the father's only brother is serving a life sentence in Texas for robbery."

As La Soleil so wisely says: "The family is the mould in which is kneaded the generation of tomorrow."

But are some such moulds needed?

Prize for the neatest pun of the month ought to be awarded to the Toronto Telegram headline writer who had a story about the buying habits of French-Canadian women. The story said that they preferred their cheap dress or dresses to one very expensive one. His brain-child: "French 'Chics' Love Variety."

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright 1955, Edgar A. Guest)
By EDGAR A. GUEST

CHILDREN'S BOOKS

Out of their books they dance about,
Wonderful friends in their glad array.
Oh, what a troop comes marching out!
Soldiers and princes and monarchs gay,
Fairies and giants and funny elves,
Pixies dwelling in little nooks.
These are the people of friendly shelves,
The kindly folky of the children's books.

Never too tired are these gentle friends
To raze the meadow or climb the hill.
Never too cross when the long day ends
To head their bidding and do their will.

Never the soldiers drive them off
Or the fairies plead to be left alone;
Even the monarchs their crowns will doff
When the children clamber about the throne.

Oh, that I could be half so kind
As the quiet folk of the printed page;
Or mean so much to the youthful mind
And never grow old or show my age.
Oh, that I could be worthy of
The comradeship of the cozy nooks
And know I were loved as the children love
The friends who dwell in the story books.

Miss Helen Lee, John Street, spent the weekend with friends in Cobourg.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Andrews spent the weekend in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coppin of Oshawa, spent the weekend here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holton of Hamilton, formerly of this city, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John D. O'Flynn, Bridge Street east.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Scott of Lindsay spent the weekend here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Scott, Tremaans Street.

Belleville Hydro Electric System is entirely free of its debenture debt, the Commission having repaid the last of the outstanding debentures, amounting to $14,000. The ringing out of the old year will mean a large saving in interest. The local distributing system was purchased in 1929 from the Ontario Hydro Commission and taken over by the first commissioners at the beginning of the year 1930. The system totalled $178,000. Not only have these been retired within the past five years but there have been redeemed in taxes and renewals and improvements to the system. The early wiping out of the indebtedness is hailed to be set a municipal record for Ontario.

30 YEARS AGO

Mr. Byron Hudson, late of the staff of the Corby Company's offices, has purchased the hardware business formerly conducted by the John Lewis Company. The Lewis Company will continue to operate the store and plumbing departments in the adjoining store where these departments are now located.

Messrs. A. F. Wood, M.P.P. and Mr. F. W. Allen, ex. M.P.P. of Madoc were visitors in town today.

Mr. Walter Fanning shipped a carload of general purpose horses from here yesterday, among the lot was a fine team of roadsters which he purchased from Mr. D. Denyes of Sidney township.

Ald. Knox has returned home after spending more than a fortnight in the northern part of the county.

Gentlemen And Ladies

(Edmonton Journal)

"I sometimes begin to wonder," a British judge complained the other day, "what sort of gentlemen and women left in this country." He was referring to the habit of witnesses in his court describing everybody as a "gentleman" or a "lady" instead of plain "man" or "woman." This custom, which is as widespread in Canada as in Britain, is an example of how words change their meaning over the centuries, and sometimes lose all precise significance.

In the dark centuries England of four or five centuries ago, a "gentleman" meant a member of the "gentry" — the sharply defined class of country squires, army officers and churchmen who were intermediate between the great nobles and the common people. The mark of gentility was the family coat-of-arms: as late as 1858, Lord Macaulay's Britannica defined a "gentleman" as "one who bears a coat of arms." Woe betide anyone who applied that name to a member of the "lower orders"! With the passage of time, however, the rise of the middle and professional groups began to appropriate the coveted distinction and it became the mark of one of wealth and position provided they had a coat of arms, or even, as Lord Macaulay's definition implied, were not engaged in "trade." By 1858, the Encyclopedia Britannica reports that "this title is generally accorded to all persons above the rank of common tradesmen when their manners are indicative of a certain amount of refinement and intelligence." Later still, the idea of refinement and intelligence began to predominate; a "gentleman" was one who was known for "gentlemanly" manner regardless of his birth or occupation.

It is to be hoped that, by the last stage has been reached when gentleman" has become merely a courtesy word, which must be applied to everyone, no matter how considered unpopular. What speakers would dare address a general meeting as "ladies and gentlemen" and Gentlemen"?

"Lady" is, of course, has run through an exactly similar evolution. Originally it meant the wife of a lord, and then, more widely, the wife of a wealthy man; then a woman of refinement, a definition now, any reasonably well-behaved woman.

In protesting against the modern use of "lady" and "gentleman," the English judge was apparently behind the times. Nevertheless, one can feel a certain sympathy for him. It must be a bit disconcerting to sit on the bench and hear a witness inform the court solemnly there minding my own business when a drunken man came out and hit me over the head with a whisky bottle."

Little Things Matter Important

(Hamilton Spectator)

In the first century A. D. the Greek Stoic philosopher Epictetus advised his followers: "Practise yourself, for heaven's sake, in the little things;" and nineteen centuries later Jim Galsworthy had one of the characters in his play The Eldest Son say bitterly, of an unsatisfactory marriage: "Day after day, year after year, . . . it's the little things." Now, we could just as well have been speaking, respectively, to and of a teenaged son or daughter.

"Practise yourself in the little things," Epictetus urged. The tendency of youth is to put the cart before the horse, to dream of success without thinking first of the steps along the road to it — to imagine, for instance, a university degree and a professional career without considering all the tedious detail of English, algebra and what-have-you that must be absorbed diligently first. Every time there are thousands of young Canadians who enter high school with such high ambitions — and who will fail for lack of attention to the little things.

"Day after day, . . . it's the little things. . . ." There are precious few parents who, at some time, contemplating a pair of socks left on the floor or an unbuttoned neck or some other petty infidant of family life, have not come close to wishing that their youngsters were downright wicked instead of just plain careless in trivial ways.

Ignoring the little things, in fact, can work both ways — negatively and positively. It can waste an opportunity, it can create quite unnecessary tension and unhappiness.

Widow Aided Car's Driver

(Windsor Star)

In Detroit the other day a bereaved woman went to court to ask clemency for the young driver whose car had killed her husband. Apparently she acted under the often misguided notion that by feeling that this was the right thing to do.

"He is a nice boy," she said of the 20-year-old driver, "and didn't mean to kill my husband."

Her plea was largely successful, for it impressed the judge. Instead of the prison term he might have received, the driver was placed on probation for five years, and fined $500. Medical and funeral expenses, not properly enough, also were charged to him.

This case would not be especially remarkable if the facility were purely accidental. On the contrary, it is more than likely the driver ran a red light, crashed into another car whose occupant he killed, then fled in evident panic.

The intercession in his behalf was a generous act. Under similar circumstances, how many others would have been capable of it?

Santa Claus Parade Committee Praised

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer:

I notice that the local Santa Claus parade committee is making ambitious plans so that a Santa Claus parade can be held in Belleville on December 3rd.

I think the committee is to be commended for its work which will insure much pleasure to children, and a while also in this community.

So many of our children are not allow old enough to have seen parade in other cities, that it is commendable that the local committee is planning to have one here.

Why Does Fancy Precede Fact?

(New York Herald Tribune)

The Air Force has maintained toward the flying saucers a kind of respectful agnosticism. Despite its marvels itself, it could not quite bring itself to rule out even the most preposterous marvels seen, or allegedly seen, by others. Its investigation into the report of strange aerial objects has been patient and thorough, and its attitude now is now gives is negative. But it admits that some 3 per cent of the sightings remain unexplained.

In reporting down the idea that circular aircraft exist, the Air Force is ready to suggest that the reports are based on under contract in Canada may result in the development of a craft basically similar from that which the popular imagination has already discovered in the air. A photograph released with its report shows an artist's conception of what is quite possibly one of the research carried on at Avro. Now, it is not difficult enough to satisfy the most confirmed believer. The air Force is manned by terestrial personnel.

The mystery of the flying saucers has been discounted; but a mystery hardly less tantalizing remains. Why is it that men and women began thinking they saw them just when they were about to be launched the golden age of practical engineering? True the history of science is filled with examples of thing s e e n as visions which later were to become accomplished as realities. Magic has again and again prophesied what proved to be the work of the alchemists profigured the discoveries and combinations of substance which were to be wrought in the atomic age.

Something of the same kind seems to work upon the detached researcher of today. The first faint gloamings of science manage to escape from the laboratory to color the world imagination. How this process works is unknown. What is clear is that the flying saucer has summed up badly in the Air Force's estimation. We are now entering a period of aviation techniques" It says, "in which aircraft with spectacular performance and characteristics will begin to appear." The latter is what has appeared already, despite the Air Force's contrary assertion, cannot be entirely dismissed.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NOVEMBER

October's last songs in color, and as accompanied by her parade of golden leaves are now passed and November has the stage. But, after all, November's greatest celebration is a going-away party. In October, garbed in wedding array, but only as a compliment to June!

Everywhere I look I see the handiwork of the Creator, and the ground is strewn with Autumn's most colorful confetti. Indeed this season has its beauty and character, but Autumn has always had its special-appeal for me.

November is the month of thanksgiving, looked forward to by millions. It's the "Thank You" month to Almighty God, and the month in which we meditate and give thanks for the endless blessings He has given us. We are indeed people on this side of the Atlantic. Let us not forget the opportunities all about us for service.

It is an inspiring thing to travel and see the grain ripened, and many of the produce of the farm. One put away for the colder days. It is helpful, and think of all that those farmers have gone through to bring about their harvest—and with a profit all too small for the heart and energy expended. I have the farm reading the boy born there, then a farmer myself, and the farm, need to pay tribute to the long months of work by farmer workers.

The birds are now gone by the thousands to their warmer homes. How we will miss them! A few stay behind, however, where they are loved and fed. Under the roof over my home, a few feet from where I shave each morning. Starlings have built a home and now they have a family there, perch with "day" in the tree near by, and I listen to a noisy chatter upon my awakening in the morning.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

A Thousand Generations

Characteristic of the reactionary attitude of too many members of the medical profession was the prophecy made by the late Dr. Joseph De Lee in the 7th edition of his famous textbook on obstetrics, published in 1938:

"It will require several thousand (sic) generations before we can train women back to the point which Grantly Dick Read speaks of as Natural Childbirth."

Alas, Dr. De Lee kidding! Hitler's prophecy was for only a thousand years.

Today thousands of women who were born before 1938 have been trained, not "back to a state" but, as Dr. Read says, "to a means of liberating them from the burden of medieval misunderstanding, and thereby enabling them to make use of the great gifts of Nature which early civilization has buried beneath the pompous cloak of ignorance."

Dr. De Lee was one of the great obstetricians of his era — early twentieth century — and undoubtedly he took the same reactionary view of radically new developments that the leading obstetricians of the early 19th century took of Oliver Wendell Holmes' efforts to teach the big shots of the day the principles of antiseptic, aseptic, "blood-poisoning" following childbirth is an infection of the patient by unclean hands, unclean instruments, unclean bedsheets. The foremost obstetricians rejected against Holmes all the ridicule, satire and invective they could offer or print, but as the world knows now Holmes was right and the old "authorities" were grievously wrong about it.

Now I'm sure hundreds of women who have borne a baby the Read way will testify that Dr. De Lee was wrong when he uttered that stupid prophecy.

Mind you, I hold Dr. De Lee in the highest esteem, notwithstanding his ridiculous prophecy. He was the name of Dr. Osler in the highest esteem, notwithstanding Osler's prophecy, nothing about washerwomen and rheumatism.

I mention Dr. De Lee's amazing blunder lest to detract from the splendor or favor that belongs to him, but just as a warning to you poor souls who are exposed to all sorts of big and small obstetricians or general practitioners who will continue to lay back their long ears and tell you that natural childbirth is not for civilized, refined, intelligent women.

The truth is that it takes more than ordinary intelligence and character for young prospective parents to find a doctor who believes in letting the natural way, preferably at home but if necessary in an institution, and often unexpectedly parents who set out to find such a doctor give up when the doctor they find, the family physician they ask tells them the routine lies:—(1) that natural childbirth is wonderful in theory but hell in practice! (2) it's too dangerous and (3) he knows of no reputable physician who will attend.

Frankly, I tell you which doctor in your vicinity grafties natural childbirth. I learned long ago that conducting a medical directory service for North America costs more than I can afford.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE GLOW THAT COUNTS

I once saw a man who could hold a light bulb in his hand in a dark room and make it glow. I don't know how he did it, and I don't know why he could do it, except to impress his friends.

But for most of us, light bulbs don't glow unless they are connected to a live circuit. This is not an isolated phenomenon. Stained glass windows have no beauty whatsoever unless there is some light from within to shine through them. And it takes the sunlight to produce a real rainbow; it won't happen in the dark.

These physical facts are also a demonstration of what is a spiritual law. Men's lives shine by their own light—they need God's light shining through them. The world needs a tremendous amount of illumination, and so do we. We can do much at a glow on his own power alone.

A lot of good, self-satisfied people fail to realize this. They go to church, they even give and they contribute to the community chest, and more or less obey the Ten Commandments, but they don't let God must be very much pleased with them. They just don't really glow.

Cold righteousness never warms the soul until it is first warmed by love. Our goodness becomes truly good only when it becomes Christ-ness—when God's goodness shines through.

THE PACKSACK

By Sir Charles Sackpack

One of the prettiest little fourteen year old girls in the world works each afternoon after school and all day every Saturday in her parent's Italian fruit store not far from where I live. She is a Canadian as any of her school chums, for she was born of parents who no longer speak with any trace of Italian accent. Pretty as a picture, Rosa, even at that age, has all her teeny-weeny contemporaries beat by appearing in their blue jeans and other non-conformist apparel on their way to the movies. I like to see her in a smock over her non-conformist jeans every day but all day Saturday. And it is a pleasure to be waited on by so gay and enthusiastic a salesgirl.

Maybe the other youngsters of her age, to be seconds behind wrestling matters' along the street after school and being very careless all day Saturday, have chores to do at home. Maybe they have to do supper dishes. But do you know I doubt it. Maybe they have to rid up their rooms, or do the upstairs with the vacuum. No, somehow I doubt it. Could it be they have to wash out their stocking and underwear? Well, they wear socks, not stockings; and who would trust a teeny-weeny to wash socks?

The father of the little fruit store girl is an old acquaintance of mine. I've had him in my office and she ever rebelled against working in the store then?

"Why should she" he laughed "Her grandma, who started this store—you remember her?—has given her a fifth interest in the business, provided she works at it."

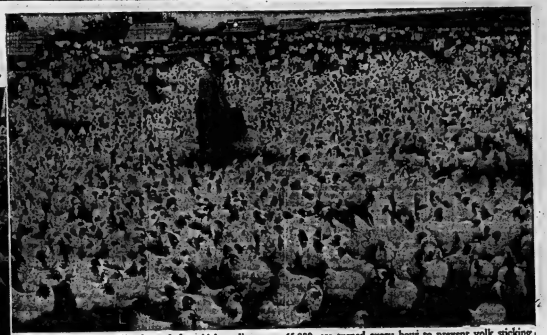
"Oho," said I. "Grandma is still alive, eh?"

"Sure. She's quite the old lady. She lives in a little bungalow. She's got three chauffeurs!"

"Holy smoke!"

"Yes, her three sons," chuckled the fruit store man." And I think she here is the spitting image of her grandma."

I returned myself and went over and bought two pounds of grapes, a dozen oranges, five Spanish Onions and a pair of tangerine-mums from the spitting image. She rang the money up and slapped the cash register drawer home with a possessive click.



Perhaps the trouble with the teeny-weenies going chattery by, out on the street, is that we haven't got a fifth interest to offer them in anything. Incidentally, like grapes, oranges, onions.

Port Williams, Nova Scotia
Chicken Farm Goes Modern

Up-to-the-minute equipment—from a feed conveyor belt to electronically controlled 'sunlight'—plus production line efficiency have revolutionized the age-old business of poultry raising on the Cyrus and Manning Ells ranch at Port Williams, Nova Scotia. One of the largest enterprises of its kind in Canada, it includes nine farms; employs fifty workers. Shown feeding from a grain conveyor belt in the modern glassed 'Roundhouse' are a few of the 14,000 leghorns. Grain is poured from a central hopper; moves down horseshoe-shaped trough.

Greatly increased public demand for chicken dinners in the last few years has made production of 'broiler chicks' an important phase of the Ells' activities. Farm sells about 72,000 baby chicks every week to local farmers. Eggs take 18 days to hatch in large incubators holding 65,000; are turned every hour to prevent yolk sticking to shell. Chicks must be shipped within two or three days of hatching. Here, a flock of Light Sussex chicks gather for dinner. Water is piped across the range for them, while grain is fed either manually or from a truck.

System of electronic lighting in Roundhouse helps increase egg production by giving hens impression of sunlight 14 hours a day. Activated by electronic eye, light goes on when day is dull; switches off at 9 p.m. Here, Rawleigh Huntley adjusts controls for time of year.

In grading and packing room, Mrs. George Hines candles eggs while Mrs. Madeleine Dominey, in foreground, packs them in boxes. Eggs move on weighing conveyor trays; heaviest, Grade A large, dropping off at first. Together girls pack 40 cases a day—30 dozen in a case.

Prime concern of the Ell's farm is the production of their 'Mic-Mac' brand eggs. Firm does a monthly business of $125,000; handles sale of eggs for 75 local farmers. Eggs are sold locally but bulk of the output goes to markets in Newfoundland and Bermuda. Rawleigh Huntley, above, collects eggs from one of the Roundhouse shelters. Each of the seven pens houses 2,000 chickens; daily production averages 11,000 eggs a day. Most of the laying hens live in the Roundhouse but about 60,000 chicks stay in little shelters around the range.

FRANKFORD

United Church W.A. Installs 1956 Officers

FRANKFORD — The Frankford United Church W.A. met in Rose Lowery Hall on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Rabel presided and opened the meeting.

Mrs. D. Mallory read the Scripture from John 14: 1-3. Mrs. Rabel chose as the theme for worship, "The Way," with comments.

The business portion of the meeting took place. Roll call showed 20 members and nine visitors present. The various committees gave their reports. The correspondence was read, which included several invitations to attend bazaars at Wooler, Tabernacle, Stirling and Carmel. Final plans were made for the annual tea and bazaar which will be held on Wednesday afternoon, November 16 in Rose Lowery Hall.

Several members celebrated birthdays in the month of November and Mrs. Mallory was the recipient of the birthday gift.

The Rev. C. E. Clarke was asked to take the chair and he took charge of the nomination and election of officers. The following is the slate of officers for 1956:

Hon. president, Mrs. C. E. Clarke; president, Mrs. Frank Rabel; first vice-president, Mrs. Harold Terry; second vice-president, Mrs. Ada Bush; treasurer, Mrs. George Montgomery; secretary, Mrs. Arnold Stickle; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. H. J. Madill; pianist, Mrs. W. Morrow; assistant pianist, Mrs. Fred Charlesworth; representative to official board, Mrs. F. E. Bonisteel; parsonage board committee, (2 year term) Mrs. R. Moran; (1 year term) Mrs. F. Charlesworth; flower fund convener, Mrs. H. Terry.

The various sick card committees remained the same.

Mr. Clarke was then thanked by Mrs. Rabel for his part in the election of officers.

The program was as follow: reading by Mrs. J. A. Lott, "Get Somebody Else"; choruses by five members of the choir girls; reading by Mrs. H. Terry, "Remembrance and Sacrifice"; piano solo by Jeanie Caldwell.

Mr. Clarke closed the meeting after which grace was sung and the hostesses, Mrs. S. Martin, Mrs. Acton and Mrs. Ada Patrick served refreshments.

TWEED

Canadian Legion, Ladies' Aux. Pay Remembrance Tribute

TWEED— The Canadian Legion and the Ladies' Auxiliary Branch 428, headed by Tweed High school drum and bugle band, paraded from the Legion Hall, Municipal Building, south on Victoria Street to Memorial Park, where a large gathering from the village and surrounding district had gathered to pay tribute to the memory of those who gave their lives for freedom in two World Wars, and for Remembrance Day Service at 11 a.m., on Friday.

The Canadian Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary took their places in front of the cenotaph. The Salvation Army Band played the hymn accompaniments and the National Anthem. The colors were lowered slowly and two trumpeters sounded "Last Post" and "Reveille."

"Let us in silence remember those who in the service of their King, Queen and Country, laid down their lives."

Two minutes of silence were observed.

"They shall not grow old

As we that are left grow old,
Age shall not weary them,
Nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun,
And in the morning
We will remember them."

The hymn "O God Our Help In Ages Past", was sung after which the Rev. George Ewald...of the Pentecostal church read the Scripture lesson. The Rev. W. K. Pace, St. John's United church, offered prayer and the re-dedicatory prayer.

WREATHS PLACED

Wreaths were then placed at the cenotaph from the following: The province of Ontario, Canadian Legion Branch 429, Tweed; Ladies' Auxiliary Branch 428, Tweed; the village of Tweed; township of Hungerford; township of Elzevir, Kinsmen club of Tweed, Kiwanis club of Tweed; Knights of Columbus, IOOF No 286, Tweed lodge A.F. & A.M., The Price family, Mrs. Arthur Beach, S. J. Anderson, St. Carthagh's school, Tweed Consolidated school and Tweed high school.

R. O. Woolfrey, Legion president, read the names of those contributing wreaths. An outstanding address was given by the Rt. Rev. H. G. Watts, Bishop of Caledonia. The hymn "Rise Up O Men of God" was sung, after which the Rev. L. Hawkes, rector of St. James' Anglican church, and master of ceremonies, pronounced the benediction.

O. V. Thurston, Sgt.-at-Arms, re-formed the parade and marched back to the Legion hall.

BABY SHOWER

Twenty women gathered at the Wesleyan church parsonage, before motoring to the home of Mrs. Oliver Trotter, nee Vivian Bell of Madoc, where they held a baby shower for her new daughter.

The evening was spent in visiting and making a baby book, after which Miss Linda Shier and Mrs. Ira Spearman served refreshments.

Weddings

CALLAGHAN—MORGAN

The Rev. W. T. Phelan officiated at the ceremony in St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, Woodstock, Ontario, decorated with white lupins, ferns and palms when marriage vows were repeated by Mary Catherine Morgan and John Leo Callaghan. The bride is the daughter of Raymond A. Morgan and the late Mrs. Morgan and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Cora Callaghan, Belleville and the late J. Leo Callaghan.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length princess style gown of embossed nylon organza over taffeta. The bodice had tiny buttons down the front from the wing collar and long tapered sleeves. The full skirt fell in a ballet train and a coronet of pearls and beads held her illusion veil of silk illusion. She carried a crescent bouquet of gardenias.

Mrs. Clarence Brocklage, Woodstock, matron of honor, in coco brown; Mrs. J. Schwaga, Timmins, in bronze and Miss Jean McKerral, Woodstock, in toast, as bridesmaids. All wore identical sheath gowns with full ballerina length skirts, three quarter length sleeves and wing collars forming deep points at the back accented with large bows. They wore matching headdresses and carried cascades of yellow, gold and bronze 'mums.

Miss Barbara Wilson, junior bridesmaid, wore an old gold taffeta gown fashioned as a floor length model with Peter Pan collar, puff sleeves and accented with a back bow. She wore a bruised headdress and carried a mixed bouquet of autumn 'mums.

Mr. Joe Chapelle, Belleville, was best man, with Mr. Alan Morgan, Woodstock, and Mr. James Canty, Belleville, as ushers.

Miss Delia Scalisi presided at the organ with Mrs. J. Page as soloist.

For receiving at Nash's banquet hall, Mrs. N. P. Nash, Toronto, aunt of the bride, wore a taupe wool dress featuring large shawl collar, pearl and blue accessories, and a corsage of Pinnochio roses. She was assisted by the bride's groom's mother in midnight blue with navy accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

For a wedding trip to New York City, the bride wore a navy suit, topped by a grey silk tweed coat with red accessories and a corsage of white orchids. Mr. and Mrs. Callaghan will reside in Toronto.

Guests were present from Gananoque, Belleville, London, Oshawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Mount Forest, Winnipeg, Detroit, Brussels, Norwich and Michigan.

Christ Church P.G. Views Hospital Film

The regular meeting of the Christ church Parish Guild was held last Tuesday in the parish hall with Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott, president, presiding.

The devotional was read by Mrs. Everett Smith.

HOSPITAL FILM

Following the various reports, Mrs. Wonnacott introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Spence Wonnacott, who gave a most interesting address on the making of the film showing the great work carried on in the hospital.

Mrs. Fry gracefully thanked the speaker on behalf of the guild.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by Mrs. E. Hinney and Mrs. E. Wright.

CHARGE EMBEZZLEMENT

HAMILTON (CP)—An official of the Ontario Securities Commission testified Thursday that Joseph Sirsky sold more than $136 000 in worthless stock to fellow Hungarian immigrants from his office here. Sirsky, 55, is charged with embezzlement of funds he allegedly received of the theft of $2 400 from a plastics company of which he was president.

Musical Season Opened By Hart House Orchestra

By EUGENE LANG

Saturday evening, the Hart House Orchestra, under the direction of Boyd Neel opened the 1955-56 musical season of this city when it played in the Collegiate auditorium before a capacity audience, made up of members, old and new, of the Belleville Community Concert Association.

Boyd Neel is no new name to the musical world, as the famous Chamber Orchestra that bore his name has performed for over twenty years and has waxed many records of outstanding merit since its inception. This ensemble toured this continent in 1952-53 with outstanding success, after which Mr. Neel accepted the position of Dean of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto. It was in this new post that he organized a group of first class' string players into the present Hart House Orchestra, which, although only a year old, has made an envyable reputation for itself both in Canada and the U.S.A. The orchestra comprises six first violins, four second violins, three violas, three 'cellos and two double basses and starts with the complement of eighteen stringed instruments can fill a long neglected need in Canada—a permanent full time professional group so many works that can be performed, a group to encompass in their repertoires.

PLAY BACH, MOZART

The opening composition was a work by Bach consisting of four movements from the Third Orchestral Suite in D major. The melodies among the movements played were the Gavotte, Bourree, Air and Gigue. Although the pomposity of trumpets and drums were missing, the Hart House Orchestra performed the lively movements with well considered finesse and close cut continuity. The familiar "Air on the G String" was given a most interpretation of warmth in which the long stemmed phrases of the melody line were caressed with extreme care (but, thank heaven, not coddled, as many conductors are wont to do). Brilliant passage work was clearly articulated in the Bach Gigue that gave it added bounce and gaiety.

The String Quartet is the purest form of all music and Mozart wrote the purest type of chamber music. Put these two together and the result is the "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik", (A Little Night Serenade") which, more than any other composition of the time can be rightly called the complete embodiment of all that can be classified as 18th century grace and elegance. Originally composed as a string quartet with an added bass, this Serenade is usually heard today as a vehicle for full string band. The Hart House Orchestra gave an overall finely chiselled conception of the work that enhanced the detail of even the daintiest of turn or evenness of trill.

The two Elegiac Melodies of Edvard Grieg were transported into a feeling of nostalgic sensuality as Mr. Neel drew from his string a wealth of gossamer lightness and full throated body of tone.

IN MODERN VEIN

In a more modern vein, the St. Paul's Suite of Gustav Holst proved a delightful listening experience. The orchestra here showed its rhythmic unity, contrapuntal coordination and tonal splendors as each movement was musically put to the test, passing said test with honors.

Following intermission the ensemble treated the listeners to a set of varied selections from the pens of Saint-Saens, Tschaikowsky, Britten, Fauve and Lotter. Naturally, the two works that gained most favor with the audience were the Waltz from the Serenade for Strings, and the Andante Cantabile from the String Quartet, Op. 11, both by Tschaikowsky. The scintillating phrases of the waltz were as delightfully received as were the plaintive harmonies of the Andante Cantabile. Mr. Neel again infusing into his players his fine sense of balance and sensitivity. One of the encores was the Pizzicato from the Simple Symphony of Britten, a short scherzo-like work in which the strings were plucked throughout and once again predominated here in the rendition. The Motto Perpetuo of Lotter not only gave the violinists plenty to do, but also demanded the most from the double bass players, who seemed to be not only enjoying it but fully immersed in getting full value from this cumbersome bass.

ADDS OWN COMMENTS

To the continued applause from the audience Mr. Neel led the group through an "Ale" by Thomas Arne as their only encore. Even though printed programmes were supplied, Mr. Neel added his own comments on the music performed, in a pleasing and enlightening manner. The National Anthem was played at the conclusion of the performance—a great improvement over the opposite method of opening a concert with it. In this way an audience knows that it should remain in its seats until the final measure of the Queen, not straggling out in twos and threes after scheduled items have been given, but instead waiting for the encore which most artistic wait solicitously give.

One final postscript—it was no small feat to get an orchestra to find so many dozing off from time to time. The music was good, the orchestra was good—what more can one want? We have heard enough of the Blue Danube and Brahms Lullaby in the past (yes, they were omitted from the program—ed.) but after scheduled items have been given, but instead waiting for the encore which most artistic wait solicitously give.

Don Henshaw To Speak Here

Mr. Don Henshaw, who visits Belleville, Thursday, and who will speak at the dinner meeting of the Women's Canadian Club is considered one of the three top speakers in Canada. He is one of the senior executives of MacLaren Advertising Co. Ltd., and was born and raised in the United States where he was a pioneer in the field of radio broadcasting as an announcer, sportscaster, writer and commentator. In 1939 he was invited to Canada to aid in the broadcasting of the Royal Centennial celebration and remained to marry a Canadian girl.

His travels in Canada and the United States average over 40,000 miles every year, and he has been heard as a speaker in practically every state and province. For many years he was the writer of one of Canada's largest Bible classes for men, and is a part-time in work for crippled and handicapped children.

Mr. Henshaw's topic will be "The Terror and Power of Public Relations."

Lady Applies Powder, Paint To TV Men

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—When U. S. politicians "face the nation" every Sunday afternoon on CBS-TV, you know that the nation will case the face on the television screen.

So it happens that an attractive Manhattan newspaper woman has the job of applying make-up to the faces of notables on the show. She is Beryl Pfizenmayer Washington, associate producer of "Face the Nation," who wouldn't be caught using pancake make-up to her own face.

It's a fact of life that politicians, being men, have such common shortcomings as unrealistic or bald heads, dark beards, bags under the eyes, long faces, round faces, receding hairlines, wild eyebrows and faint eyebrow. With this raw material Miss Pfizenmayer does the best she can—and her best is pretty good, her subjects agree.

"I didn't know him," one noted man's wife told Miss Denzer, "He looked positively handsome." This man's name is withheld to keep peace in his family.

The most common characteristics of the noted men who've appeared on the Sunday news and radio program is baldness, says Miss Denzer. "They all need shine like bulbs when seen through the camera," she reports. "That is make-up and powder and they look fine. No, I've never known a guest on the program to wear a toupee."

Its a commonplary on something or other than one can name baldheaded men without offending them, but no one likes to confess to large under eye eyes—even if he can barely see over them. It's amazing what a little of special cream can do to obliterate baggy eyes, "Anti-carousing cream," one official calls it.

Nearly all guests at first adopt an "I'm above that" attitude to the make-up. But then they willingly submit to Miss Denzer in the few minutes before they all down with moderator Stewart Novins.

United Mine Workers president John L. Lewis is the man who needed the least make-up. "Just a touch of powder on nose and temples," says Miss Denzer, "His brows are magnificent on television."

Albert College Guild Enjoys Book Review

The regular meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild was held in the Manor on Thursday, with the president, Mrs. W. H. Pinkle presiding.

After the reading of the minutes and the financial report were received from the treasurer, Mrs. S. Hibbard and from the convener of the social committee, Mrs. T. Franklin.

Mrs. Archie May, Mrs. W. S. Northcott and Miss M. Young were appointed to act as a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers for the year 1956-57.

The program for the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. M. Young.

Mrs. R. Morden conducted the devotional service, and opened her remarks by quoting St. Paul's words "Ye are bought with a price" Mrs. Morden spoke of the many sacrifices which have been made to give the freedom and democracy we enjoyed. Christ died to give everlasting life; many soldiers gave the sake of their religion and many soldiers died in the first and second World Wars to give freedom and security from oppression.

Miss Helen Sulman recited a poem entitled "The Young Dead Soldiers," by Archibald Mc-Leish.

Mrs. W. Burgoyne, accompanied by Mrs. Houston sang cleverlightfully "If Winter Comes."

GUEST SPEAKER

Miss Young introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. J. McArthur, who gave a review of two books one of which was entitled, "Steep Harvest" written by an officer in the British Navy, whose pen name is "Bartimeus". In his book he drew character sketches of the men in the navy, showing their fortitude and devotion to duty during World War 2.

The other book was "Gift from the Sea" by Mrs. Charles Lindbergh. Mrs. McArthur's reviews of both these books were most interesting and much enjoyed by her hearers.

Mrs. Wolfe thanked all those who had taken part in the program.

After the meeting tea was served.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United church was held at the home of Mrs. Howard Clarke, Thursday, with 18 ladies in attendance. The president, Mrs. K. R. Vivian, graciously welcomed all.

Mrs. Sam Elliott, group leader, took charge and read the Scripture lesson from John 14. The theme for the month is "Jesus said, "I Am the Way". Mrs. Elliott also gave the lesson thoughts from the devotional leaflet and offered prayer.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey gave a "Remembrance Day" reading and a Remembrance Day prayer.

Mrs. Charles Wood gave a reading, explaining the four symbols of the United church crests. Mrs. George Dowson sang "Our Heavenly Father".

Mrs. Vivian thanked the group and took charge of the business.

A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Frank Decatur for card from the W.A. and all members who sent cards during her recent illness.

Mrs. Claude Clarke gave an interesting account of their trip to the east coast and passed around pictures of some of the places they visited. The president thanked Mrs. Clarke for giving such a fine travelogue.

Plans were discussed for the bazaar.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey, Mrs. Claude Clarke and Mrs. Elmer Wood were appointed a catering committee to present a list of helpers for 1956.

The hostess and the group in charge, served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Next meeting is to be held at home of Mrs. K. R. Vivian on December 8.

The Bible' Topic At St. Joseph's PTA Meeting

The November meeting of St. Joseph's Parent-Teacher Association was held Thursday with the president, Mrs. W. Meagher, presiding.

The Rev. Father J. J. Buckley, spiritual adviser opened the meeting. The treasurer reported the record player for Miss Cannon's class had been purchased. By an unanimous vote, a typewriter table will be bought for the typing class and funds for the placing of the school photographer.

Father Buckley as guest speaker, chose as his topic "The Bible", encouraging each individual to read the Bible. This was most inspirational and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered by the president.

Mrs. McLaren's class won the attendance award, the mothers of which, served the refreshments at the conclusion of the meeting.

White Shrine Of Jerusalem Marks Birthday

At the IOOF hall on Wednesday evening over 100 sojourners of the White Shrine of Jerusalem No. 11, gathered to celebrate its 29th anniversary.

During the evening, the six charter members were presented with corsages then escorted to the east. Following the meeting all proceeded to the upper hall, where a delicious supper was awaiting.

In front of the head table was a beautiful birthday cake decorated with a yellow cross and the figures 1926-1955, while the head table was attractively appointed with a large gold fruit-filled cornucopia on a bed of yellow 'mums as centrepiece; yellow and white candles and silver services added a festive touch and at each place a poppy and novelty filled with candies, in front of the window with its background of red, white and blue a large spotlight-ed cross, covered with poppies gave forth its silent message: "Lest we forget".

Mrs. Thomas Lloyd W.O.S., acted as chairman and proposed a toast to the Queen.

Mrs. M. Shaw, accompanied by Mrs. Hinchey, sang two beautiful solos.

Mrs. Bram Humphreys paid tribute to the fallen in the two wars. After two minutes silence, he conducted the service.

A toast to the Supreme Shrine was proposed by J. Pinch, PWSO, to which Mrs. D. Elvidge, PWIP, responded. The toast to the Visiting Shrines was proposed by Mrs. Stewart, PWHP, to which Mrs. Emily Brown, WIP, Kingston Shrine, responded; a toast to the Charter Members was proposed by Mrs. Violet Slavin, MP, and responded to by Mrs. Mary Johnstone.

A rousing sing-song was enjoyed by all after which Mrs. Emily Stevens WHP, extended a vote of thanks to the convener, Mrs. K. Hinchey, and committee members Messrs. Cathcart, Niblock and Chapman on the good work in decorating the banquet hall, bringing to a close another milestone in the history of the White Shrine of Jerusalem.

List-makers Make Much Money On Other Peoples' Good Names

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — A young housewife, shyly concealing an event several months in the future, was startled recently when her mail contained a circular advertising bassinets, cribs and perambulators.

The following day she received a telephone call from a local diaper service soliciting her future business.

"How in the world," she asked, "did they ever find out?"

Elementary, my dear Mrs. Watson. There is a little list, and you're on it. Maybe you got on it when your doctor reserved a room at the local hospital. Maybe it was when you bought your first maternity dress.

And while it's probably the first list that junior is on, it certainly will not be the last. His name will be handled about commercially from womb to tomb.

BIG BUSINESS

List-making is big business. No matter who you are, where you live, the chances are that you're on somebody's list, and probably on many.

"A good name," says Proverbs, "is rather to be chosen than great riches."

The cynical truth is that there is a buck to be made with other people's good names. Depending upon your reputation, your name can be worth anywhere from a penny to $20 in the marketplace. Access to a list of names, by purchase or rental, can cost anywhere from $10 per thousand upwards. The average price is around $15 per thousand.

There are relatively few human activities, particularly those involving money, which do not or cannot result in your name being on one or more lists.

Even if Mrs. Watson had not inadvertently revealed her secret to the junior's arrival, it would have been heralded ultimately by hospital records, the birth certificate. And as junior progresses through life, list makers will acquire dozens of additional clues to travel on.

HUGE ORGANIZATIONS

Scattered around the United States there are some 1,300 list compilers. Some are huge organizations, like New York's W. S. Ponton, Inc., which classifies names with electronic sorting machines and complex card indices. Some are specialists, dealing in such things as doctors' lists, for example. Others are individuals, feeding several compilers.

Ponton, which specializes in manufacturers, has a catalogue of 12,000 different lists on hand. They range from abattoir equipment manufacturers (SIC 3161) to zoological gardens (34 for $5). The company also whips up lists on order. Recent ones include bicycle toe clip manufacturers, marry-go-round manufacturers and worm growers. It also offers a list of 7,000,000 selected top opinion leaders.

One New York City compiler does a brisk business with a list of men and women known to enjoy attending banquets.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IF YOU BROUGHT YOUR DAUGHTER UP RIGHT, YOU CAN TRUST HER

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am the mother of an 18-year-old daughter who has been going steady with a boy her age for many months. I like this boy, and do not object to her going steadily. My daughter dates only on weekends, and I always make a point of being present when she leaves on a date, and always wait up for her. She is expected to be home by 12 o'clock, but each week, on one of her nights out, she is almost always about an hour late. When I refuse to listen to her excuses, she gets extremely upset, but I do not think a girl so young should be out late at night.

Then, several times when her boy friend was coming to the house, she would ask me if I was going out, and if I said No, she would suggest I go visit someone. This troubled me very much, and finally one evening I asked her why.

She told me that she would like to receive her date by herself occasionally, with neither of her parents present. She said when one of us was always there, she felt we didn't trust her. She also said that she and this boy were very fond of each other, and that our presence made them very reserved. She added that a lot of her girl friends think as she does, and do not know how to solve the problem with their parents.

This talk with my daughter gave me a distinct viewpoint, and I began to see her side of the matter. After that, my husband and I would occasionally go out early, so that we would not always be there when her date arrived. Also, if she happens to be late I do not demand an explanation any more and tell her she will have to stay home next time. I realize now, that a parent should trust her children, and respect their feelings as they "think the children should respect hers.

Would like to have this letter published, in the hope that it might help some other mothers to understand their children better. Will you add your views on the subject? — Mrs. B.C.

Dear Mrs. B.C.:

There isn't very much for me to add to what you have written except to say that I am delighted you were so open-minded and understanding as to be willing not only to listen to your daughter's viewpoint, but to give it such fair and honest consideration as to change your own. This is a lot more than many parents are willing to do, who believe that a son or daughter should do exactly as they are told, without argument or discussion.

I hope, with you, that your letter may influence any mothers of this type who read it.

There are, though two points I would like to make in regard to this particular teenage problem you have brought up.

One is, that when a mother feels she must watch every move her daughter makes, it isn't really her daughter she doesn't trust, but rather the early training she has given that daughter. For if a child is taught, from the very beginning, to live according to the principles of right and wrong, and to hold the proper ideals and standards of behavior, there should be no need to keep watch of the teenager that child becomes. On the contrary, the parent who knows that the child has been given these moral and ethical yardsticks by which to measure his behavior will feel sure the teenager will not let her down.

Admittedly, there are exceptions. But in the average case, parents who have been wise with their children will find their children know how to make wise choices in the situations that confront them.

And one last word: If you let your children know that you trust them, they are far more apt to take the responsibility for their own conduct than if you are constantly checking them.

Skill Versus Steak

By Mary Moore

Being temporarily snowbound in Sault Ste. Marie has its advantages. The linotype operators on the newspapers will be glad I'm not typing this on a swaying train, for with that consideration travelling at about 70 miles per hour or more the train may indulge in typing into a cross letter puzzle.

Another advantage is that my friend Mrs. Vivier loaned me her copy of "Wolves Don't Bite" by James Curran, famous late publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Star, and it is actually too a condensed history of the Algoma district. It was a delightful surprise to find that the introduction had been written by Arthur Xcenedy of the Peterborough Examiner, whom I knew.

From my hotel window I can see huge freighters passing on the St. Mary's river, and smoke belching from the stacks of the Algoma Steel Corporation.

As you know I am on my return trip from Edmonton and Calgary (where of course I visited my daughter, Marianne and her husband Herbie). I found Westerners as always hospitality personified, but to date they do not beat my Sault Ste. Marie friends. Pete's friend Thorey was standing on the station platform to meet me when the train pulled in, in the temperature of full-scale snow storm. We hadn't any more than settled in his car when he announced that I was having dinner that night with his family and fiancee at Pentil Lundi's Steak House. A heart-warming reception for a lone traveller.

Since I have been visiting Marionne I have been reminded of the problem of budgeting and cooking for two and the tendency to slip easily into extravagant buying. It is so simple to buy steak, or chops or chicken for two. But that is not good food management.

When a bride learns to buy ground beef and other cuts not in the steak or roast category, and serve them with confidence to guests, then she's a cook and she'll be a good manager. Let's start simply with

BROILED BEEF PATTIES

To serve 4 buy 1 lb. ground beef chuck and add 1-2 teaspoon each salt and monosodium glutamate, 1-8 teaspoon each pepper and garlic salt, and 1-4 cup water. Mix well, shape into patties 1 inch thick and 3 inches in diameter. Place on broiler rack with top of patties 2 inches below burner heat. Broil, allowing 15 minutes for "rare", 25 minutes for "medium". Any similarity to steak is lost if these are "well done"—so don't. Serve on bed of fluffy rice or mashed potatoes or buttered noodles, generously garnished with parsley. Tomorrow: Beef Stroganoff.

WARDROBE GEM

By VERA WINSTON

Brown, that color that is doing so well, it is the one chosen for this dress, specifically a delicate toast shade. The fabric is silk barathea and it has been made up into a frock that is easy to wear for all its luxurious feel. And it is a style that fits almost any type and into practically any wardrobe. There is a wide, open V neck above the front closing. The sleeves are below-elbow length with tab bow finish. A deeper tone of brown velvet makes a flange treatment on either side of the neckline to give a softening touch. The skirt is gored and lined for stiffness.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

HOSTESS, AS WELL AS HOST, SHAKES HANDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband has a son by a former marriage, and recently the son and his wife came to see us. My husband and I met them at the door and my husband shook hands with both his son and daughter-in-law. I did not shake hands with them because I thought it was proper for a woman to do as she prefers about shaking hands, and that a smile and a nice greeting would be appropriate. But my not shaking hands with his son and daughter-in-law has created a real problem between us, for my husband insists that I should have shaken hands with them when we went to the door to greet them. Which of us is right? (I had met the son and his wife before, if that makes any difference in your answer, but this was the first time they had come to our home.) — M.H.

Always a hostess should shake hands with guests . . . a woman, a man, a child . . . as she greets them and always as she bids them good-by. This is an extremely important rule for you to know. Your husband is indeed right, and he must have been embarrassed and perplexed and disappointed that you did not graciously and hospitably shake hands with your guests when they arrived . . . particularly with such important guests as your husband's son and daughter-in-law.

It is true that on some other occasions, such as introductions, a woman may not shake hands, according to her preference and inclination. But this extending of the hand, by hostess and host, to their guests is the fine and traditional evidence of welcome and hospitality . . . a must in the world of courtesy.

SMOKING ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I maintain that it is correct for a fellow to light the girl's cigarette first and then his own. But my boy friend insists that it is proper for him to light his own cigarette first. Which of us is right? — H.S.

You are right.

THE BAD TASTE OF THE "GREENBACK" SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is your opinion of a Greenback Shower? Personally I think it is very (and I do mean very) improper. — Reader.

I agree with you, completely. This kind of shower takes the emphasis away from the giving of delightfully-chosen little gifts at a festive gathering of intimate friends, and, tastelessly, points up the "gimme money" angle.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

A TEEN-AGE BEAUTY PROGRAM

Soap and water plus a good complexion brush is the teen-ager's best bet.

What have you teenagers got that no one else has? A supple young skin that can glow with freshness. Lots of energy. A world full of possibilities. A pocketful of hopes.

The very skin, first, is your big asset and can stay that way with care. Don't go worrying right now about "safeguarding" it. Just keep it clean and adjusted way. Do you take a good, soapy scrubbing in the bathtub every day? Get clear all over. You want your face to sparkle. Showers are fine, too, but a daily bath is the real foundation of a healthy skin.

Do you wash your hair as soon as it looks dirty? Grease and oil-dulled vary according to the type of hair. Blond, fine hair needs washing oftener than the dark, thick kind. But all really need to be kept clean by regular washings and brushings. Facial skin blemishes can complete from a hidden infection on your scalp. Help prevent such conditions by absolute hair cleanliness.

Make-up will certainly enhance your natural beauty points once you're fragrantly clean. You'll have to experiment to find the kind of lipstick you like. Remember to blot your lips with a tissue after the application, to avoid that overdone look. When you want to renew your make-up, you'll get much better and cleaner results if you'll remove what's left on your lips before starting a new "mouth".

Put mascara on with a small brush. There's medium green mascara that darkens young eyebrows just right and avoids the heavy look you get with black or brown. Have your face powder a little darker than your skin, instead of the other way around. You don't want to look interestingly pale, but glowingly healthy.

By all means use a light perfume or cologne, it's the finest way to top off a bathing. For any essence reacts best on a clean skin. Slip on freshly laundered lingerie every day. Keep your washable dresses, sweaters, and blouses washed and your other outfits brushed and spotless. Really exquisite grooming begins with soap-and-water care in all departments of your life. Enjoy your teenage years to the fullest by always appearing at your best.

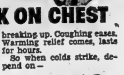
CONSECON — Group No. 3 of Consecon W.A. met at the home of Mrs. Earl Snider on Monday with W.A. president, Mrs. Lela Weeks; group leader, Mrs. Ruth Clarke, and secretary Mrs. V. Elmer, all present.

The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Addie Philips, with Mrs. (Rev.) E. V. Cook at the piano. Business was conducted by the business meeting, making plans for the W. A. bazaar.

The group members lunched in their yearly money bags (it a day) collection and the sum of $30.00 was realized to date, beside the regular collections and donations of the day.

Program consisted of a reading, "Higher Education," by Nellie McClung, and read by Mrs. K. Irvin; and a "Green" contest conducted by Mrs. Lela Clark, with Mrs. Norma Jenks winning the prize.



Delectable refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ilo Kenny. A social half hour was followed by a hearty vote of thanks to the hostess, Mrs. Keitha Snider.

You don't argue with a locomotive. So a manufacturer of rail equipment has developed a lightweight rail inspection car that carries four people yet can be lifted off the track by one man.

Since men who design rail cars, aircraft and other transportation equipment regularly use aluminum to cut down dead weight and increase pay load, it is no surprise that aluminum was used to replace heavier materials in many parts of this inspection car. The person who will be surprised is the locomotive engineer who first sees a rail inspector nonchalantly—and single-handedly—hoisting his scooter from the track.

Dallas Tycoon Gambles $31 Million There Is Ocean of Oil in Pakistan

DALLAS -(AP)-Time was when a wildcatter's dream was to strike oil and make millions. But here's a wildcatter who's staking $31,500,000 on a venture in distant Pakistan.

To the man-in-the-street it may seem incredible to gamble that many millions to make what—billions?

But this wildcatter is in a different category from the romantic, chance-taking individual who risks his all to open up a new oil field, and either winds up a millionaire or a relief client.

This is Nelson Bunker Hunt, 29, son of H. L. Hunt, the Dallas oil tycoon who is sometimes called the world's richest man. If Bunker—as he is called—succeeds in this wildcat scheme he could become as wealthy as his father.

Bunker is pretty sure he has—as usual—taken most of the risk out of this enterprise. He sees no reason why he should even go to Pakistan for the search for oil over 20,000 square miles in the western part of that country.

He is sending $2,000,000 worth of equipment and some high-priced experts. He feels they can do the job.

"It's risky in this respect—there's no guarantee of production within a thousand miles," Bunker says. "But our geologists and engineers say there's every indication of an oil province—that's what our longhairs say."

"You know, you can spend a lot of money without finding oil if you don't get good information. I remember one outfit, they made a lot of money on munitions during the war. After the war they had $20,000,000 turned to hunting oil, and went through it all. All they had to show for the $30,000,000 was a 50-barrel-a-day well.

"Even with good information, you can go wrong. You can drill a lot of wells that should produce and don't—we call them scientific successes but financial failures."

THREE CARRIED

Although engineers were unable to make a complete investigation to determine the cause of the slide, Mr. Boisvert said he felt seeping water had washed out the clay from under a 20-to-60-foot layer of sand and allowed the building to sink.

IT ESCAPED...

Mgr. Martin was in a room in the second floor of the palace when the ground started sliding.

"I thought it was an earthquake at first," he said. "The building started shaking and I ran downstairs and called a warning."

Seventeen priests and nuns were in the building with the bishop and all escaped.

Despite the loss of life and heavy property damage, municipal officials said it could have been much worse. The academy is attended by some 225 students on week days. All were at their homes Saturday.

The slide occurred shortly before noon, just a little more than an hour before children of the community were to go there to attend a movie.

"If it had been a week day, I'm sure there would have been 200 people killed," one councillor said.

Thousands of curious spectators flocked to the community despite police efforts to keep them away. A rigid ban on approaching the danger area was imposed Sunday afternoon, applying even to newspaper men and photographers.

Mgr. Martin issued a dispensation to parishioners, allowing them to miss Sunday mass, after the cathedral was condemned by police and municipal officials. Beside it, a small section of the bishop's palace leaned further each hour into the basin. Below were strewn irreplacable church records dating back to the 18th century, furniture, overturned cars and sections of the crushed homes.

Mr. Boisvert said he would appeal immediately for federal government aid to rebuild the destroyed buildings and to guard against further slides.

Year of Great Treks Ends For 200 Touring Politicians

By WILLIAM ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The "tour-legest" year in history is drawing to a close for United States senators and members of the U. S. House of Representatives—and for some wives, children and at least one mother-in-law.

Since Congress adjourned in mid-summer, some 200 members have journeyed abroad—to Europe, to the Far East, just about everywhere.

What all this costs is perhaps the most carefully guarded secret in Washington. Most of this year's travellers financed their trips with congressional funds and counterpart money—that is, foreign currency funds set up countries which receive U. S. aid.

The law says congressmen using the counterpart money, which they get from U. S. embassies, must make a complete report on its use to the House administration committee or the Senate appropriations committee.

BOODLE BOYS POPULAR

So far the House group hasn't received any such reports. The Senate committee says the financial accountings, if and when received, are confidential.

Returning travellers speak freely about counterpart funds being dished out lavishly.

"You can always tell who is carrying the money when your train, auto or plane arrives," one House member said. "It will be the fellow carrying a satchel. He's from the embassy and he has an envelope of foreign currency for everyone in the official party. He is known as the bootle-boy. You can get more if you need it. You must agree to return what you don't spend, but that's as far as the accounting goes."

A House returnee told of a colleague who, he said, "bought $2,000 worth of rugs, and I know he didn't use his own money."

PURCHASES NOT TAXED

Such purchases, whether paid for with a traveller's own funds or counterpart money, customarily are not taxed when brought back to the United States. Congressmen generally are accorded "the courtesy of the port"—which means they haven't got to go through customs.

Many congressional travellers work hard while abroad and operate on frugal budgets. But some still travel just for the fun of it and never file reports telling what they accomplished.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mrs. R. B. Duffin entertained Mrs. Isobel Carr, Toronto, Past Assembly President of the Rebekah Lodge of Ontario, for a few days this week.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Duffin entertained "The Past Grands' Club," and all enjoyed afternoon tea.

Mrs. Carr visited Mrs. Eva Turvey, Trenton, early in the week and attended the 35th birthday party of Laurel Lodge, No. 211, Stirling.

STIRLING

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Roy Irven, Stirling R.R. 4, were tendered a delightful party last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McCullough, Carrying Place.

The rooms were decorated in a color scheme of silver with seasonal flowers. The immediate family were supper guests.

Later that evening a large number of friends and relatives gathered as a special surprise and during the evening Roy and Flossie were the recipients of a practical gift of silver dollars in a unique parcel.

The guests in attendance from the River Valley community were: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Irven, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bush and Mr. John Chard.

The hostess served refreshments and anniversary cake.

Deepest sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Gary Macdonald and family in the death of their little daughter, Linda Darline, who passed away in Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, on Friday.

Several of the men have gone deer hunting back north.

Congratulations to Miss Lera Bradshaw on winning her diploma from the Secondary school graduation class; also the $50 donated from the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada Unit (201) for highest standing in Grade XII; also to Miss Luella Sere, $15 donated by the Belleville Kiwanis Club for grade IX.

CONFIRMATION SERVICE

On Sunday morning in St. John's Anglican church, a combined service of confirmation was held of Shannonville and Point Anne. The Rev. L. Arthur Page and the Right Rev. K. C. Evans, bishop of Ontario, confirmed a class of seven: Alvin MacKinnis, Verna Rump, of Shannonville; Lee Bradshaw, Elda Casselman, Jean Luffman, John Insley and Leonard Maracle Jr. There was a large gathering for the service.

The L.O.L. 2599 held its regular meeting on Monday evening, with a good attendance and visitors present. The W.M. Bro. Dancourt Thompson, presided. The initiation was exemplified on candidates by Bro. Thompson, Bro. P. Akey, Bro. Earl Brown, W. Polmateer. The County Master J. H. Bentley, who was present, spoke briefly to the members. After a social time spent, lodge closed in due form.

Mrs. William Insley, Belleville, spent Tuesday afternoon with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Insley.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Brown nee Hazel Lloyd, who were married on Saturday at her home in Point Anne.

Dr. T. O. Lazaridis (left) Toronto consulting engineer, examines a master tape which contains information for the calculation of specifications for a type of bridge. The perforated tape, 50 yards long and which took nine years to perfect, is fed into an electronic computer by Dr. Joseph Kates, Toronto, and scanned by an electric eye. A second, smaller type, containing information on the specific bridge wanted is then put through the computer. The computer and the tape perform the calculations it would take engineers 55 man-weeks to do. Thomas Solomon, 58, found dead on railway tracks near St. Catharines.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was doing my homework, and I said to pop, I'm taking my time with my homework, pop, I'm not rushing through it just for speed.

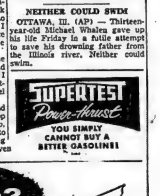
That's good news, pop said, and I said, Miss Kitty told the class the important thing about homework is not how quick you can do it, it's how well you know it.

Nobody ever spoke a truer word, even Miss Kitty, pop said, and I said, The trubble is, I look at the clock every once in a while to make sure I'm putting enough time on my homework, and every time I do that it really takes time off of it instead.

That's a problem, pop said. You can solve it by adding up the number of times you look at the clock and adding that many minutes to your homework, he said, and I said, But gosh, pop, it dont take me a whole minute to look at the clock, so I'd be cheating myself.

Not at all, I'm allowing for the time it takes you to get your mind back on your work, pop said, and I said, Anyways, pop, all that counting and everything would be libel to give me a head ake.

Suppose I term the clock around so you cant see the time? pop said, and I said, Then heck, pop. I'd keep looking at the back of it to remind myself it was termed wrong and there was really no use even looking.



Yee gods, you need 2 sylv an saints and a fire department, pop said. For Peet sake, do your homework and get it over with he said.

Which I did, feeling agenst it.

Self-Determination Question Causes Long UN Deadlock

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Disagreement over the applicability of one simple word has caused the most prolonged deadlock of the 1955 UN assembly.

The word is "right." For nearly six weeks the assembly's social and humanitarian committee debated whether it belonged in an article on self-determination forming part of the proposed human rights covenants.

Then it gave up and decided to pass on to another agenda item while a sub-committee wrestles with the problem. The sub-committee is scheduled to report back Nov. 28.

MANY ARTICLES

There are 81 articles in the two draft covenants framed by the UN human rights commission, 54 of which deal with political rights and 29 with economic and social rights. Self-determination is Article 1 of the political covenant, which says:

"All peoples and all nations shall have the right of self-determination namely the right fully to determine their political, economic, social and cultural status."

There is an almost even distribution of strength between the countries who support inscription of this "right" and those who oppose it.

On the one hand are the five Soviet-bloc countries — Russia, Ukraine, Byelorussia, Czechoslovakia, Poland—plus the extreme "anti-colonial" powers — Syria, Saudi Arabia, Afghanistan, Greece and Indonesia.

These nations appear determined to use Article 1 as a vehicle for winning the independence of non-self-governing territories.

On the other side are the "administering powers"—Britain, Belgium, The Netherlands, France, when it is in the assembly—plus Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Brazil and Turkey.

The other 38 UN members are more or less neutral—with the exception of South Africa, which before its walkout last week over the decision to continue probing race conflict within its borders was even more extreme than Britain in its opposition to the article.

Opponents of the clause argue that the concept of self-determination is as yet too vague for inclusion in the covenants and requires further study. They are inclined to regard self-determination as a goal or principle rather than a right.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules.

1. Never use a brush as these! Your dentplates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down biting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath".

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter. D-13

Going Home to What?

Alexander V. Vlasov, visiting Soviet architect who unexpectedly was fired from his government post, is seen boarding ship in New York for home. Vlasov, one of the ten Russian housing experts who came to the United States for an inspection tour, was dismissed as chief architect of Moscow and president of the Soviet academy of architecture, and stripped of his decorations. Questioned by a reporter about his dismissal, Vlasov made following comment through an interpreter: "I am quite ready to comment on any question connected with our visit, but I cannot comment on the report (of his dismissal) as I am not acquainted with it." Federal Election May Be Possible Next Year--Drew SYDNEY (CP)—A federal election may come next year, Progressive Conservative leader Drew told his party's Cape Breton workers Saturday as he wound up his two-week Maritimes tour.

"While many people assume there might not be a federal election for two years," he said at a party meeting, "that could be a false assumption." He urged supporters to get candidates nominated as soon as possible.

Mr. Drew charged federal party workers were telling old age pensioners they would lose their pensions if the Liberals were turned out.

THREW SELF ON PYRE

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — A young woman of Matundah village in Bombay state, has committed the banned Indian ritual suicide called "sutlee" by throwing herself into the flames of her husband's funeral pyre, The Times of India reports. The paper says she announced her intention to a crowd of mourners gathered around the pyre, then, clad in a yellow sari and with a garland around her neck, she threw herself into the flames to the clash of cymbals, recitations by priests, and rolling of drums.

SUB TRIALS SUCCESSFUL

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The performance of the atomic submarine Nautilus has "been little short of amazing" and "has more than exceeded our most optimistic expectations," Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas said Friday night. He told a group of naval reservists that atomic submarines "are proving to be very potent naval weapons."

Singer Released On $5,000 Bail

QUEBEC (CP)—Josephine Baker internationally - known nightclub singer, will appear for preliminary hearing here Tuesday on a charge of "conveying her belongings with the intention of defrauding her creditors."

She pleaded not guilty when arraigned Friday and was released on $5,000 cash bail pending preliminary hearing.

In its story of Friday's arraignment The Canadian Press said "the charge said she defrauded her creditors by attempting to conceal assets such as furs, money, jewelry and other personal belongings." Actual wording of the charge refers to "intention of defrauding."

The charge was laid by Don Brown, a Los Angeles impresario, and it named Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa as the cities in which the alleged offence was committed. The period mentioned in the charge is from Oct. 19 to Nov. 11.

BELIEVE DRUG CACHE FOUND IN CANADA WAS BOUND FOR U.S.

The biggest drug seizure ever made in North America took place on a French Line cargo vessel, the St. Laurence, in the St. Lawrence to Montreal. A tip-off led crack narcotic experts of two nations to board the ... St. Malo, seen at left docked in Montreal, when she reached Father Point, Que., inbound from Marseilles. After two days of searching a cache in the deck head of the tiny cabin disgorged 31 pounds of pure heroin, some of which is seen at right, worth from $3,000,000 to $10,000,000 on the illicit drug market. Five men were taken from the ship but only one was identified. He is a 30-year-old fireman, Robert Blanchi-Malliverno of Plaintaing, Vosges, France. The heroin was believed bound for the U.S. and would not have been sold in Canada. (Central Press Canadian).

Sunbury Farmer Found Not Guilty On Murder Count

KINGSTON (CP) — An all-male supreme court jury Saturday acquitted Hilton Campbell, 25-year-old bachelor farmer, of murder in the death of Mrs. Bernice Anslay. The jury brought in its verdict after 62 minutes deliberation to end the 12-day trial.

Mr. Justice J. L. Wilson made no comment on the decision but merely told Campbell he was free to go. The youth from Sunbury, 10 miles north of Kingston, left the courthouse with his father and brother.

Charged with the July 21 rifle slaying of Mrs. Anslay, Campbell showed no emotion when the jury announced its decision. He stood staring straight ahead until his lawyer, Malcolm Robb, went over and talked to him. The youth's mother and sister-in-law fought back tears as they walked unhurriedly toward the prisoner's box to greet Campbell.

ON CHILD'S TESTIMONY

Robb, in his address to the jury, said the crown's case was based on the testimony of a seven-year-old neighbor, Frank Harkness. The boy, he contended, had given four different versions on the shooting on four different occasions.

Without this evidence, he continued, the crown had nothing that would incriminate Campbell.

Mr. Justice Wilson left it up to the jury to decide the credibility of the boy's testimony. He said if the panel thought the boy's story did not stand up, they would have to acquit the accused.

He pointed out also that if the jury chose to believe the boy's version, they must have other evidence to corroborate his story. There must be no gaps in the circumstantial evidence, or the jury would have to find the accused not guilty.

Mr. Justice Wilson gave the panel two choices: Guilty of murder or not guilty.

DOMESTIC PISTOL DUEL

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — An estranged husband and wife shot each other down in a sidewalk pistol duel outside a cafe Sunday night. John C. Cooper, 33, a salesman, died with several .38-calibre bullets near his heart. Mrs. Sara Brown Cooper, 33, was taken to hospital with .22 calibre bullet wounds in the head and side.

Appliance Firm Is Accused Of Breaking Parliament's Ban On Resale Price Maintenance

OTTAWA (CP)—The restrictive trade practices commission says it believes manufacturers who attempt to control the advertised retail price of their products are guilty of breaking federal anti-combines laws.

The three-man body expressed that opinion in accusing Moffats Ltd. of Weston, Ont., widely-known producer of household appliances, with breaking Parliament's ban on resale price maintenance. The controversial 1951 law barred manufacturers from attempting to set the price of their products in wholesale or retail trade.

The commission's evidence, outlined in a report today to Justice Minister Garson, was that Moffats maintained a plan whereby it paid a portion of a dealer's advertising costs if, in advertisings on Moffat products, the dealer inserted prices approved by the manufacturer.

The commission charged the company withdrew financial assistance to dealers who advertised Moffat products at prices below those approved by the company. Mr. Garson said he will decide later whether to initiate court prosecution.

Moffats, a subsidiary of a United States firm, argued that it did not contravene the law because any move to have a product advertised at a particular price must be distinguished from any endeavor to have the product actually sold at such a price. There had been cases where the products were sold below the advertised price.

REJECTS ARGUMENT

But the commission maintained that made little difference. It took the view that advertising is part of the selling process and said:

"In the opinion of the commission, the advertising of a price is an offer to sell at that price and consequently an attempt to control the price at which a retailer advertises an article is an attempt by indirect means to control the resale price of the article.

"... The public would thus be detrimentally affected by being deprived of the competition which Parliament has sought in enacting the legislation forbidding the practice of resale price maintenance.

"To disregard attempts by a manufacturer to control the prices advertised by his dealers would be to make a simple means available to any manufacturer who desired to circumvent the legislation and control resale prices of goods in the hands of retailers.

"By the simple device of offering an attractive advertising allowance to retailers who were prepared to advertise at prices specified by the manufacturer, control for all practical purposes could be secured over selling prices and the door would be opened wide for the defeat of the legislation with consequent disadvantage to the public.

The commission agreed that, at first sight, this view might appear to place in an "unexpected quandary" those manufacturers who want to promote their products through co-operative advertising with their dealers. Moffats maintained that advertisements featuring prices it was not prepared to approve were disturbing its dealer organization.

The commission said it did not question the company's sincerity, but it had to find means other than those which will have the effect of defeating Parliament's will.

Car's Failure To Stop Cause Of Accident

HAMILTON (CP)—A coroner's jury investigating a highway accident which caused two deaths in nearby Saltfleet township Oct. 26 ruled Saturday the accident was caused by failure of one of the three cars involved to come to a stop.

The jury's verdict said: "We believe the accident was caused due to the failure of the black car owned by George Green, to come to a full stop at Highway 20."

Donald Larose, 25, of Crowland and B. F. Winder of Niagara Falls, Ont., drivers of the other two cars, were killed. Mrs. Larose is still in hospital here.

'Nouveau Riche' Take Over Baltic Resort

ZOPPOT, Poland (AP) — The "nouveau riche" have taken over this Baltic resort, once the playground of Europe's nobility. These new rich are Polish Communists and certain workers.

Party men from Warsaw spend weekends here all year 'round The luxurious Grand Hotel and its wide beach has been turned into a prize for those the party decides are deserving.

By nights, the place jumps with lusty workers off on a spree.

A weekend here includes a trip to the cathedral in nearby Oliva. It's an odd sight to watch Communist grease up-loe through the 600-year-old church and stand in amazement when the organ is played. As the notes peal out, horns held by angels slowly swing up and down. Other mechanized angels thrust harps. One of the organ's pipes sounds like a human voice—a soprano—and another is a perfect bass call.

Zoppot is just halfway between Danzig and Gdynia, at the end of a highway known as Hindenburg Allee when the Germans held possession. It was renamed Grunwald boulevard in 1945 after the 15th-century battle at Grunwald in which the Poles routed the Germans.

Eleven Persons Are Wounded As Cypriot Students Battle British Soldiers and Police

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Eleven persons were wounded here today during clashes which culminated in a 20-minute battle between troops and police and anti-British rioters.

Furious mobs of Greek-Cypriot students — including high school girls in blue middie blouses — hurled stones and bottles at British soldiers and policemen in Nicosia. Other demonstrators marched in Famagusta, Limassol and across the sea in Greece.

The British forces fired tear-gas shells repeatedly and slashed through the mobs with clubs in the Nicosia clashes. One 16-year-old girl was operated on this morning for removal of a shell fragment from her neck.

At the height of the 20-minute battle, students rang the bells of a Greek Orthodox cathedral in a signal for help.

The demonstrators were protesting against the confirmation of a death sentence on Michael Kasoulis, 22, for murdering a policeman here during an earlier demonstration by Cypriots seeking union of this strategic British colony with Greece. The colony's appeals court rejected the appeal on Saturday.

POLICE OPEN FIRE

In Greece itself, students shouting "Down with Britain," stoned a British cable and wireless company station 14 miles outside of Athens and tried, in vain, to haul down a Union Jack.

Police fired over the students' heads, and the rioters fled after wrecking a British car and smashing windows in the station.

Demonstrations in the Cypriot city of Famagusta also were brought on in protest against the arrest Friday night of three Cypriots suspected of shooting and wounding two British soldiers who were window-shopping in one of the port city's main streets.

Better days are here for Phil Fraser!

In all his years of railroading, Engineer Phillip Fraser has seen some big changes.

"Rolling along in this smooth diesel locomotive," says Mr. Fraser, "is a real thrill — a far cry from driving the old steam jobs. Its extra power gives it quicker pick-up and more speed on the grades. Besides, it can run from coast to coast without a change. That's what I call progress!"

Phil has seen progress in the life insurance business too. As a family man, he knows that this business offers better service today than ever before.

Take life underwriters, for instance. Modern training makes these men better qualified to guide people through the complex problems of planning for future security.

Today, too, life insurance is more flexible. There's a wider range of plans — allowing people to meet their own individual needs.

Moreover, people with certain physical handicaps, can now enjoy the protection of life insurance.

In these and other ways, the life insurance companies in Canada have progressed with the times to meet the changing needs of people in all walks of life!

Dressed Poultry Award Goes To Community Farm

TORONTO (CP) — Two elderly bearded men and two boys dressed in coarse black-denim clothing drew many curious looks as they wandered among exhibits at the Royal Winter Fair.

The group represented a religious community at Bright, Ont., 15 miles west of Galt, which Saturday won the Canadian grand championship for dressed poultry.

They visited the fair during the weekend to claim the community's prizes.

This community farm of Brethren is made up of a number of families working together and adhering to a strict religion that dictates "all things are common."

WON GREESE AWARDS

Since first entering the royal four years ago, the community has won every prize for dressed geese. This year, for the first time, it won the grand championship over all other types of dressed poultry including chicken, turkey, ducks and capons.

"How large is your farm?" one of the bearded men was asked.

"Oh, about 900 acres," he replied.

"How many geese do you have?"

"About 10,000 I guess—it's the biggest geese farm in the United States or Canada, but I think there is one as big in Mexico."

He went on to explain the community farm has a large dairy section and does other general farming.

ASSEMBLE HUTTERITES

Their religion is the Brethren of early Christians. Although they are independent as a religious group, their beliefs closely resemble those of the Hutterites, or Mennonites. Members of the community at Bright are sometimes called "Dunkers," and a variation of their formal name is Brethren in Christ.

Basically, their beliefs are: Nothing is owned by the individual but by the community; all should lead a Puritan-like life as a form of constant devotion to God.

Metropolitan Opera's Season Opens With 'Tales of Hoffman'

NEW YORK (CP)—The Metropolitan Opera begins its 71st season Monday with a new production of Offenbach's "Les Contes d'Hoffman." The New York season will last 22 weeks, ending in mid-April. After that the company goes on tour, with short seasons planned for Toronto and Montreal.

"Les Contes d'Hoffman" (Tales of Hoffman) has been absent from the Met's repertoire for a decade. Tenor Richard Tucker will sing the title role. Others in the performance, to be sung in French, are Roberta Peters and Rise Stevens. Pierre Monteux will conduct.

Unlike last year, when the opening program was broadcast by closed-circuit television to audiences in 32 theatres in various cities, there will be no telecast. This is because of technical problems created by the set of the new production.

Some highlights of the 1955-56 season will be:

A gala performance Jan. 3 to celebrate the 25th anniversary of Lily Pons' debut with the Met.

A revised production of Puccini's "Tosca" Dec. 8, with Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting. An innovation will be the actual appearance of the angel in the scene of the Castel Sant' Angelo.

A possible memorial performance on the 25th anniversary of the death of Anna Pavlova. The celebrated ballerina died Jan. 23, 1931.

A new ballet by Zachary Solov called "Soiree" in which Mary Ellen Moylan will make her first appearance as premiere danseuse Dec. 23.

Dog, 4 Horses Burned to Death In $5,000 Fire

WINDSOR (CP) — Police today were seeking two maniacal horsemen who they said apparently were responsible for slugging two dogs and burning one of them to death with four horses and a goat in a $5,000 barn fire.

They said the pair apparently broke into the barn, on a suburban Sandwich west farm, shortly before dawn Saturday, released two horses and went for a ride.

The men later returned the horses to the building, struck two dogs they found there, and lit a fire, officers said. The building was swiftly burned to the ground, but one of the two dogs escaped.

The barn and contents were owned by George Hewitt, 20, John Magee, 27, and Gordon Ashley, 30, of Windsor, and Ken Burnett, 26, of nearby Lasalle. Burnett said he left the building about 3 a.m.

Magee said one of the horses was a prize-winning mare which last year won 36 ribbons at shows.

ARREST TWO

ORILLIA (CP) — Two youths were arrested Saturday night during a disturbance in which police said a group of youths attempted to overturn a police cruiser. Robert Mainer, 16, and Ronald Green, 20, were charged with obstructing police, causing a disturbance and drinking while under age.

WOUNDS SON

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Three-year-old Richard Allan Talmadge was wounded by an accidental revolver blast during an argument between his parents Sunday night. Police said a quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Richard Talmadge occurred Sunday in their home and a bullet struck the tot in the chest. The mother was charged with assault.

APPROVED FARM LOANS

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian farmers turned to the Canadian farm loan board for $2,225,500 in long-term borrowing during the year ended last March 31. The five-member board, a federal agency, said Sunday in its annual report that it approved 2,540 first and second mortgage loans on farms for that amount during the year.

Towing highly sensitive instruments from an aeroplane, Inco's air prospectors have been able to locate promising mineral deposits hidden beneath the earth's surface. Then by referring to a continuous strip of photographs taken from the plane, they can point out likely areas to be worked by ground prospectors.

INCO TROLLS FOR MINERALS FROM AN AEROPLANE

Present-day prospectors have new and valuable partners in the air. Equipped with special instruments, an aeroplane can troll for minerals over vast areas in the course of a few hours. A prospector, travelling by canoe or on foot, would have taken months—perhaps years—to cover the same territory.

In the past twenty-five years, science has developed new methods for probing the earth for minerals. The magnetometer, a device which measures local variations in the earth's magnetic field, is useful in many ways. In addition, several other devices in general use are employed by Inco in the search for sulphide ores—the ores which are most likely to contain nickel and copper deposits worth developing.

At Inco, airborne prospectors, assisted by a special research organization, have already covered more than 40,000 square miles in air surveys of Canada's potential ore resources.

Inco's findings have helped maintain Canada's position of leadership in the production of nickel.

Through continuing research and utilization of the latest developments of science, Inco helps bring new wealth to Canada.

Write for your free copy of the 72-page illustrated booklet, "The Romance of Nickel". Bulk copies will be supplied to secondary school teachers on request.

Oklahoma Sooners, Maryland 'Terps' Only Unbeaten US College Teams

NEW YORK (AP)—Out of the welter of confusion that made up the college football picture today there emerged one solid fact—the Orange Bowl is going to present its four-star, slit-edged attraction on Jan. 2, Oklahoma vs Maryland.

The picture still is clouded in the other three major bowls with perhaps a dozen assorted teams still in the running for berths. If they all demanded undefeated teams, they wouldn't operate because Oklahoma and Maryland are the only major clubs in the country that haven't been whipped.

OTHER BOWLS

Here's the picture in the other bowls in brief:

Rose—UCLA has the inside track, but Oregon State also has a chance as the Pacific Coast Conference representative. Michigan can get the Big 10 nod if it defeats Ohio State Saturday. If Ohio State wins, then Michigan State will make the trip to Pasadena.

Sugar—All is confusion, following Pitt's 26-7 victory over a West Virginia team that had won 11 games in a row over a two-year span. The Southeastern Conference winner usually is the host team, but any of five schools still can take the league title.

Cotton—Texas Christian, which by the form chart, should wind up operations as runner-up to Texas A and M in the Southwest Conference, should be nominated host. Officials say Navy, Auburn, Georgia Tech and Mississippi all are in the running for the visiting bid. Saturday's scores included:

Kitchener Tops in Junior Circuit After 5-3 Victory Over St. Michaels

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks didn't like the unpredictable cellar of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League last season. Now they've moved to a more prosperous place—the top storey.

Canucks, who missed the chance to pick up some playoff money last spring by finishing a dismal last in the OHA Junior A league, took over first place in the young 1955-56 season during the weekend.

Canucks defeated St. Michael's College Majors 5-3 Sunday at Toronto. The win was their fifth in six games. Last season, Kitchener-Waterloo finished the 49 - game schedule with only eight victories.

In the second game of the Sunday doubleheader at Toronto, before 5,016 fans, Marlboros handed Guelph Biltmores their second weekend loss by beating the Biltmores 4-2.

Hamilton Cubs took a 3-1 win at Guelph Saturday while the Majors were pinning a 6-5 loss on the Teepees at St. Catharines.

Canucks hold down first place with 10 points, one better than Hamilton and St. Michael's, who tied for second. In fourth place, it's Barrie with eight points, one more than Marlboros. Guelph is in sixth place two points behind Marlboros. Last-place Teepees have four points.

Willie O'Ree, Bob Duncan, Stan Baluik, Whitey Youngberg and Ted McCaskill scored the Canucks' goals Sunday. Centre Frank Howarth bagged a pair for St. Michael's with Pat Cushing the other marksman.

The Gary Collins-Walt Boyer-Bob Nevins line led Marlboros to their 4-2 win over Guelph. Boyer and Nevins each scored a goal and an assist with Joe Fraser and Ken Girard getting the others.

Ralph Cleary and Gerry Goyer were the Guelph goal-getters.

Jack Sziurm clinched Hamilton Cubs' win over the Biltmores at Guelph when he fired the puck into an empty net with one minute left in the game.

Eddie Bush, coach of Guelph, removed goaltender Ron Boomer when his team was behind 2-1 with more than 60 seconds remaining but the move backfired.

Bill Robinson and Jerry Sullivan were the other Hamilton marksmen. Goyer gave Biltmores a brief 1-0 lead with his second-period goal. Robinson tied the score less than 10 minutes later, Sullivan provided the winning margin at 15:01 of the last stanza.

St. Michael's Majors spoiled the Teepees' home-coming with their 6-5 win. Teepees went on a two-week exhibition tour of western Canada junior leagues and arrived back home Saturday after suffering a loss at Barrie Friday.

Pat Hanigan paced the winners with three goals. Pat Cushing added two and Joey Foster added the other. Major Ed McDonald scored twice for St. Catharines with Pat Kelly, Ed Hoekstra and Bob Butler scoring the other goals.

EDMONTON TAKES FIRST GAME

ESSO EXTRA GASOLINE

STOPS COLD WEATHER STALLING

Ice in the carburetor is a major reason why cars stall. Is your car stalling these days? Before you blame it on a cold engine or badly adjusted carburetor, try Esso Extra—improved to give you even greater protection against cold weather stalling. It combats the formation of ice anywhere in your car's fuel system.

As gasoline vaporizes in the carburetor it has a refrigerating effect. Condensation from the smoke or freezes, ice crystals stop the fuel supply—and your car stalls! Avoid this with Esso Extra Gasoline.

Plante Registers Twin Blanks In Habs Weekend Wins; Leafs Drop Pair

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

SETTLING AWAY!

The first splashes appear to be over and the teams in the Senior "B" group are settling down for the season's grind. Big news of the weekend was the Brockville defeat of Whitby and the Cornwall Colts 3-2 decision over our side for their first victory of the season.

The Magedomas, despite their game here Friday, the stay-over and trek to Whitby, came up with a fine display to prove that the Blairmen are not as invincible as some would have you believe. It was the first defeat for the Dunnies, something that should do them, as well as the rest of the group, a world of good.

The Colts of Cornwall, apparently tired of the role of football for the rest of the pack, girded their loins, strengthened their forces and fired home an 8-3 victory over the TPT's to wipe out the egg in the pelnats column.

ST. CATHARINES HER E WEDNESDAY

The St. Catharines Teepees, one of the starriest aggregations of junior puckchasers to show their wares to Belleville fandom will be here Wednesday night in an exhibition tilt against the TPT's. The Teeps will have finished a short down Gretzboe way where they have been playing Habitant junior squads in the St. Laurent Trophy series—and on Wednesday night they drop off at Brockville to cross rapiers with the junior "B" squad of the riverside city.

The Teeps fally glisten with junior stars, most of whom are headed for the big time and that time being in the not too distant future. The beardless buckaroos from the Garden City, as St. Kitts is fondly dubbed by an admiring populace, are the property, or practically so, of the Chicago Blackhawk NHL set-up.

Elmer Vasko, the Teeps' captain, is a homebrew product of St. Kitts and the glamor boy of the club. Six-foot three and 205 pounds the blonde bomber is practically signed by the Hawks. Dick Irvin labels him the "second Bobby Kinnear." After Lach by that name and he is a tossback to the original rushing defencemen of Shore-Stanowshi.

Art Stratton, who holds down a centre position, is from Winnipeg Regents, is six-foot two and weighs 190. He led the Manitoba boys scorers in 1954-55 and wears contact lenses while on the ice. He is systick wizard, a dead-eye-dick shot as well as being an outstanding playmaker and penalty-killer.

Ab MacDonald, who stands six-foot four (wonder where these guys play basketball?) is a lefthinger and playing his second year with the Teeps. He came from Winnipeg Monarchs and led the scorers there last term. He also is targeted for the Hawks.

Then there is Bobby Hull, who rates with the rest of the Teeps stars. Bobby has caught the eyes of the St. Kitts rallbirds as well as the Hawks scouts. He is tabbed as a sure-fire Hawk of the future and his performances with the Teeps to date seem to bear out that prediction.

HODGE PODGE

Cornwall Colts have suspended their ex-Canadiens' goalie, Andre Binette for failure to show up for a game and have added Norm Carpenter, a left-winger, to the roster . . . . Tinkess scored the winning goal in that Colts-Goodyear thriller Friday night in the overtime period . . . . Hub Macy apparently has his release from the TPT's for he played with the Goodyears and helped himself to an assist . . . . Emile Dagenais, ousted coach of the Brockville Magedomas, did not show up for action against the TPT's here Friday night. Dagenais read an account of his ousting in the Brockville sports column, didn't like it, said it was bad publicity for him, and refused to show up for the game. Manager Ditch Stanford has Al Kuntz in the coaching role and the rumor is Kuntz will fill the Dagenais shoes . . . . The rosters of most of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's clubs will b published herein tomorrow or Wednesday. That should stop a flock of moppet phone calls being received by this department. Schedules will me published later in the week . . . . Reports from various senior "B" centres reveal attendance is up all around. Cornwall played to 1435 against Whitby. Brockville is averaging 1,000 as is Whitby. Kingston is hovering around the 2400 mark, while our side has been catering to an average of 1200 . . . . Kingston senior players dominate the Big Ten scorers in the senior "B" loop. . . . . Vern Goyer and Chum Fryia head the TPT's with Vern having four goals and three assists and Chum two goals and five helpers . . . . Whitby, Brockville played to 1,000 fans Saturday night in a thriller . . . . Proudest guy in town yesterday was Ed Schreiber, Toronto, who paused to say hello en route home from the Gaels-Blues game. Said Ed: "It was the greatest display of team play and spirit I ever saw. They wanted to win, they played to win—and they did win. Every Gael on the team was a star."

The aforesaid Blair of Whitby, lashes out in a bitter tirade against Joe Corky of the Kingston Goodyears. We have no intentions of intruding on a Whitby-Kingston feud, but Blair has Joe over a barrel since he has no chance of publicly defending himself. And he probably never heard of the Whitby weekly. Here is Blair's blast:

"We note that Joe Corky, president of the Kingston Goodyears, has asked the OHA for a count of the imports on the Brockville Magedomas. While it is true that teams are allowed only four imports, we can't help but feel that Brockville is working harder to supply the fans with top hockey entertainment than the Goodyears are. Manager Kitch Stanford has been chasing top talent all summer, and has lined up an interesting team. All the while other teams have been trying to better the hockey entertainment, those in Kingston have done nothing but lament it. Not only have they failed to attract nothing but one new hockey player, they have lost several of those that made them a good hockey club. It would seem to us that Corky would do well to concentrate on bettering the Kingston Hockey Club, without worrying about others. A party once a member of the Kingston set-up told us last Sunday that the current arrangement in Kingston will only last about two more weeks before another group may move in, and take over the club. Are you listening Joe?"

Shuts Out Red Wings, Hawks As Canadiens Stretch Margin; Bruins, Blues Sink Toronto

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shutouts in pairs are becoming a habit to Jacques Plante.

The Montreal Canadiens' goaltender racked up two more during the weekened—the second time he has had two in a row—to bring his National Hockey League total this season to five.

Saturday at Montreal, Plante blanked Detroit Red Wings 3-0 and then shut out the Black Hawks 2-0 Sunday at Chicago.

Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings continued their scoreless duel at Boston Sunday as they battled to a scoreless tie for the second time this season. They had faced each other twice.

Toronto Maple Leafs took a double loss as Bruins defeated them 3-2 Saturday at Toronto. Rangers won 4-1 at New York Sunday.

INCREASE LEAD

Canadiens increased their league lead to five points over the second-place Rangers, who have 18 points, one more than Boston. Chicago is in fourth with 15 points. Red Wings are two points behind the Leafs Saturday's games left with 12 points.

A Montreal Forum crowd of 12,- 813 saw Plante make only 18 saves Saturday but he came up with key stops throughout the game. Glenn Hall, in the nets for Detroit, made 32 shots.

Jean Beliveau, Bernie Geoffrion and Henri Richard provided the scoring for the Habs as Wings lost their seventh game in 17 starts.

BUSIER NIGHT

The 26-year-old Plante had a busier night Sunday as the Hawks peppered him with 36 shots. Al Rollins made 28 saves for Chicago.

Maurice Richard scored the winner at 19:15 of the second period when he completed a passplay with Henri Richard and Dickie Moore.

Beliveau picked up Montreal's insurance tally when he counted his 10th goal of the season with a 30-foot shot.

The tie at Boston Sunday, before 11,338 fans, was Red Wings' second-th of the season. Terry Sawchuk of Boston gained his fourth shutout, while Hall got his third.

LINDSAY BOUNCED

Midway through the final period, Hall was penalized for holding the puck for more than three seconds. After referee Frank Udvari had given Hall the penalty, Detroit captain Ted Lindsay charged Udvari and was given a 10-minute misconduct and a game-misconduct.

Left winger Vic Stasiuk, obtained from Detroit during the off-season, sparked Bruins to their 3-2 win before 12,902 fans at Toronto. The 26-year-old forward scored the second and third Bruins goals to break a 1-1 tie.

Defenceman Leo Boivin scored the first Boston marker and Tod Sloan picked up his 10th goal for Leafs and Ron Stewart scored the other as Sawchuk stopped 45 Leaf shots.

A crowd of 13,165 at Madison Square Garden saw the Rangers' Andy Bathgate figure in all four goals Sunday as New York handed Leafs their fifth straight loss.

The right winger scored one goal and assisted on the other three, as he and linemates Larry Popein and Dean Prentice exploded for three goals within seven minutes in the second period.

Defenceman Bill Gadsby added the fourth Ranger goal in the third period.

Rookie Dick Duff scored Toronto's goal in the first period.

The next games are scheduled for Wednesday night when Canadiens visit Toronto and Detroit visit Rangers at New York.

Sarnia Defeats Dutchies 29-24; Square Series

SARNIA (CP)—The best-of-three senior Ontario Rugby Football Union final has developed into a sudden - death game following Sarnia Imperials' 29-24 victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen here Saturday.

The Dutchmen, defending champions, took the opener 24-0 on Nov. 4 and were favored to wrap up the series Saturday but the determined Imps fought back to force the third and deciding game. It will be played at Kitchener next Saturday afternoon.

A crowd of about 2,000 saw the Dutchmen go into an early 6-0 lead when quarter Bob Celeri fired a touchdown pass to Bobby Kuntz from the Kitchener 33. Bill Tonnesusso kicked the convert. That ended the first-quarter scoring.

AHEAD AT HALF

Sarnia went ahead 16-13 at the half and 23-13 going into the fourth quarter.

Sarnia went over for five touchdowns—to Archie McAffer, Larry Cardenick, Gino Cappelletti, Eric Graham and John Jacobs. Cappelletti made good on four converts. Kitchener touchdowns were scored by Celeri, Kuntz, Tonnesusso and Andy Gilmour. Graham kicked the four conversions.

The Imperials turned in a tremendous second-quarter effort to take the lead twice. Cappelletti passed to McAffer for the Imperials' first touchdown and converted to tie the score. The Imperials then went into the lead on a brilliant runback of a punt. Celeri punted to the 10 to Jack McKelvie. He went two yards, lateralled to Eric McKeown. He dashed into the Kitchener end and pitched out to Cardenick for a touchdown.

CAME RIGHT BACK

The Dutchmen came right back and Gilchrist scored from three yards out.

The Imps went back into the lead late in the second frame when Cappelletti ran over from 10 yards out after a march from the Kitchener 43 with Dick Dixon picking up 36 yards on a pass play.

In the third quarter Graham took a touchdown pass from Cappelletti in the end-zone and Jacobs scored from the one after a march from the Kitchener 49. The Dutchmen came back late in the third quarter. Celeri faked a kick on the Sarnia 26 and ran for a touchdown.

The Imperials made 15 first downs. They completed nine of 17 passes. Kitchener made 25 first downs and Celeri passed 26 times, completed 15 and had one intercepted.

Braves May Use Franchise

Argos Sheathe Tiger Claws; Golden Gaels Win Intercollegiate Crown

Score Stunning Upset Victory In Sudden-Death Semi-Final; Meet Larks for Eastern Title

By WILF GRUBON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON (CP) — Toronto Argonauts, who barely squeaked into the Big Four playoffs after the biggest build-up ever given a football team in this country, still have a chance to make Harry Sonkhine look good.

The chance comes next Saturday in Montreal when the Argos meet Montreal Alouettes in the sudden-death final for the Big Four championship and the honor of carrying the East's hopes into the Grey Cup final the following week in Vancouver.

The Argos, the club Sonkhine built in his controversial role of manager-coach, got the chance Saturday by coming through with a stunning 33-32 upset win over Hamilton Tiger-Cats in their Big Four sudden-death semi-final. They made it on a sensational passing display by quarterback Tom Dublinski who at $17,500 a season is the highest paid football player in Canada.

WITHIN A GAME

The Toronto club now stands with a game of getting a crack at the Grey Cup. That goal has Sonkhine set in his pre-season Argonaut ballyhoo. The Argos never came within shouting distance of manager's expectations of being the class team in the league during the regular campaign.

Until their upset victory over Hamilton they were perilously near becoming the flop of the year. They won only three of 13 big four regular schedule games and only one of those was Hamilton.

An Argo victory over Montreal would be the upset of the year. The Alouettes defeated the Argos six times during the regular schedule and three of the victories were by big scores.

The Argos defeated Tiger-Cats in a spectacular struggle. They came out on top only after opening from behind with two fourth-quarter touchdowns./A Civic Stadium crowd of around 19,000 saw the lead in the thrilling, tensely-fought game change hands five times before it was all over.

Dublinski, who came to the Argos from Detroit Lions of the National Football League with a big reputation, lived up to it with another superb performance. He tossed three touchdown passes and scored two touchdowns himself after setting them up with aerial strikes.

CONVERTED ALL FIVE

Al Pfeifer, Bucky Curtis and Corky Tharp caught Dublinski's passes that went for touchdowns.

Pfeifer scored the first Argo touchdown and in addition got a single when a field attempted field goal went wide. Gerry Doucette kicked a single for the other Argo point.

Ron Howell, 19-year-old Hamilton halfback and the league's top rookie of the 1954 season, nearly matched Dublinski for the outstanding individual laurels. Howell, in a sensational display of pass catching that nearly caught two of the three touchdown passes that quarterback Jim Wirkowski threw and in addition got a third touchdown on a brilliant, unerving 98-yard kickoff return run.

Frank McDonald was the receiver on the other Hamilton touchdown pass. Ray Truant converted three of the four Hamilton touchdowns. The TiCats' other points came on a 21-yard field goal by Steve Consolati and two singles by Cam Fraser.

The College of Hamilton's stunted defence against the long pass opened the gate for the Toronto victory. The Argos' winging on offence and defence held their own, with the offence line giving Dublinski great protection on his pass attempts.

Dublinski tried 31 passes and completed 16 for 438 yards. Wirkowski's eight completions in 25 attempts gained 222 yards. On the ground the Wiggs-Cats had 209-80 edge in yardage. The Argos piled up 21 first downs, one more than the TiCats.

The defeat was Hamilton's first at home in nine games this season including three exhibitions. They previously had won nine and lost two against Argos in their four regular schedule games.

Browns Beaten By Eagles; Redskins Win

NEW YORK (AP)—The topsy-turvy National Football League race continued its bewildering pattern Sunday as Cleveland Browns, who have never lost a divisional title, took a 35-17 pasting from Philadelphia Eagles and Washington Redskins turned back San Francisco 'Forty-Niners 7-0.

As a result, the Browns, with a 9-2 record, have only a one-game margin over the rampaging Red Skins (8-3) in the eastern division while the team has four games to play —two apiece against Pittsburgh and Chicago Cards (4-4) and one each against New York Giants (3-5) and Chicago Cardinals (2-6-1).

Pittsburgh, who could conceivably slip in if the leaders falter, fell back Sunday, dropping a 31-20 decision to the last-place Detroit Lions, who picked up their second win against six defeats.

In other games, Chicago Bears moved into a tie for Coastal division tie with Los Angeles by whipping the Rams 24-3, New York Giants defeated Baltimore Colts 17-7 and Green Bay Packers conscored Chicago Cardinals 31-14.

Bombers to Play In Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP) — President Jack Matheson of the Edmonton Eskimos said Saturday that Wednesday's game with Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the Western Interprovincial Union final will be played in Edmonton as originally scheduled.

Mr. Lieberman said: "We never seriously considered moving the game elsewhere, and we expect our fans to give it the same wonderful support they've given us all season."

Mr. Lieberman said that the fans were the main consideration in the club's decision to turn down a move offer to have the game played in Winnipeg.

B.C. Lions president, Don MacKenzie, said he and the offer to Edmonton officials because of below zero weather in Edmonton and a forecast of worse weather to come.

Cataracts Edge Chicoutimi 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A goal after just 30 seconds of overtime Sunday gave Shawinigan Falls Cataracts a 2-1 win over Chicoutimi Saguenens and a three-point edge in the first meet of the Quebec Hockey League.

The only other game also went into overtime before Trois-Rivieres Lions edged Quebec Aces 4-3.

Shawinigan leads the league with 33 points but the second-place Montreal Royals, who were idle Sunday, have three games in hand over the Cataracts. Chicoutimi holds down third place in the five-team loop with 16 points while the Aces have eight points and the Lions seven.

Windsor Takes Eastern Junior Football Crown

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor A.K.O. will look home with a new opponent next Saturday when it goes west to meet Winnipeg Rods in a sudden-death game for the 1955 Canadian junior football championship.

A. K. O. and the Rods meet here in the Dominion title tilt a year ago and the Veterans were barely pressed to score a 13 9 victory. At that time observers called the game the most thrilling Canadian junior final ever played.

The encore engagement will find A.K.O. making an unprecedented double straight trip to the east. East-West "Little Grey Cup" classic, for the last season, the Fred gridmen scored a 15-12 victory over Edmonton Wildcats in the 1952 final here but the following year they dropped a lopsided 34-6 trimmin to Saskatoon Hilltops at Saskatoon.

BEAT YERXDUN

A.K.O. advanced into this year's finals by tar outing an impressive 30-6 win Saturday over Verdun Shamrocks in their sudden-death game. Canada final drew 3,400 fans.

The Fredmen, who have yet to taste defeat in 10 starts, flashed too much ground and air power for the Verdun champions. They capitalized on a couple of Verdun fumbles in the first quarter and soared into an early 13-0 lead. They added single sorjors in the second third and fourth stanzas, two of them converted, to complete their tally.

The Shamcats ruined A.K.O.'s bid for a second straight playoff shutout by clicking for a TD late in the third quarter. Alf Sliwinski, the "Cats leading ground gainer this the season, struck for pay dirt on the most spectacular scoring play of the afternoon.

Will Sell Club For Back Taxes

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The government made ready today to sell the Richmond baseball club to the highest bidder in default of payment of back taxes.

In keeping with the uncertainty that has surrounded Virginia baseball since the Piedmont League, A International League in 1954, nobody knew whether the city auction would come off.

The tax lien was $79,218.68 and included a forecast of worse weather to come.

Cornwall Scores First Win In Senior Hockey League With 8-3 Victory Over TPTs

CORNWALL (Special) — Cornwall Colts scored their first victory here Sunday afternoon in a wild and wooly fixture against Belleville TPTs.

Winners 8-3 Colts outhustled the visitors all the way scoring three goals in the opening period, two more in the second and four more in the third to take the win.

Penalties marred the game. A total of 15 were called with a five-by second period accounting for 11 of the inglorious total. Annand and McMasters received game misconducts for their part in the uprising for fighting in the penalty box. Annand had served time in the period on roughing, fighting charges and was sitting out a misconduct when he and McMasters started punching. McMasters was serving time for roughing.

Scorers for Cornwall were Donny Batten two, Norm Carpentier two, Bellemore two, Moe Savard one, Walt Wells one.

Scorers for TPTs were Fryia, Mulholland and MacDonald.

Cornwall went into a three-goal lead in the first period on a pair of goals by Don Batten and a single marker by rookie centre Dalton Wells.

Colts carried the play practically throughout the period, and Don Barclay in the Belleville cordage was a busy fellow, indeed.

In the period Colts outshot the visitors 14-8.

TPT left winger Bert Hill was close on a shot on goalie Devaney at the four-minute mark but the Ottawa-born netminder was too good.

Play was wide open, and Colts' left laner Mort Belmore was in all alone but missed the right corner. Batten connected at 9.37 on a pass from centre Guy Henri and Belmore.

Batten returned on a dangerous rush but was turned back by Marshall set up Belmore, but the left winger was in too far for a shot. Desilets was in, and Barclay made the stop.

Colts went two up when Wells poked in Bingley's rebound from nine feet out at 15.06.

Marshall got the game's first penalty a minor for tripping at 17:20, and it was while he was off Batten sent the Cornwall team into a three-goal lead. His shot from the left side at 18:34 on a pass from Bingley was labelled all the way.

Leonard was in but couldn't dent Devaney, and the period closed.

Fryia got Belleville on the score sheet with a goal early in the second on a pass from Leonard. Time 1:49. Batten was in for a try, as well as Henri and Bingley. Colts stormed all around the TPT goal. Annand bit Gilmore a solid check at centre. McMasters broke and tested the alert Devaney with a hard drive from just inside the Colt blue line. Fryia pelted at Devaney and the shot was blocked. Belmore then made it 4-1 midway through the period with a scoring shot on passes from Annand and Henri to round out the scoring and set the stage for the penalty box parade.

Mulholland's breakaway score at 11:4 for TPTs closed the gap, rounded out the period's scoring, and set the stage for the penalty parade.

Macdonald's goal at 4:18 for Belleville was their last while colts' reply of four, two by Carpentier, and singles by Savard and Belmore made up the winners. complement.

Dutchies Regain Top Spot In Senior Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It took only two weekend games in the tight Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League to shuffle the standings like a deck of cards.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen had first place to themselves again after shaking off their only close pursuers, Stratford Indians, 4-1 at Kitchener Saturday night.

Owen Sound Mercurys' 4-3 win at home over Windsor Bulldogs was enough to jump them into third place, a point ahead of the idle Chatham Maroons. Windsor is in the cellar, a point back of Chatham.

HAVE CHANCE TO TIE

There are no games tonight but the Indians have a chance to tie up the leadership again Tuesday when they visit Owen Sound. Chatham meets Windsor in the other encounter.

In the Kitchener game Paul Knox cancelled out Herve Jejorty's marker at five minutes of the second period and Bobby Solinger put it 2-1 late in the period before Jim Logan's breakaway goal clinched it in the third. The insurance goal was fired by Ernie Kemp on a slap shot.

Mercury had to come from behind a 2-1 lead to earn their victory at Windsor, Ted O'Connor had netted it for Bulldogs, but Lackey put Owen Sound in the scoring column with his 15th goal of the mark with the first of his two goals.

Playing coach Jim Peters lengthened Windsor's lead with seconds remaining in the first, but Knox put there on it was all Owen Sound. Lumley scored again in the second and Pat Loutit and Elmer Shore wound it up in the third.

Roll to Brilliant 18-0 Win Over Ancient Varsity Foemen In Sparkling Grid Display

KINGSTON (Staff) — The intercollegiate's "prohibition playoff" had more than liquid dynamite for an estimated 13,000 fans Saturday as Queen's golden Gaels smothered their ancient rivals from Varsity 18-0 in Kingston's Richardson Stadium for their first championship in 18 years.

Gaels, unveiling devastating ground power, showed no sign of the second half shakes as they built a 3-0 half time lead into their most lopsided victory of the season with 15 points in the final 30 minutes.

A spectacular 77-yard dash by fullback Bill Surphlis for the Gaels' second touchdown in the first six minutes of the third quarter was the play-of-the-day. Surphlis, who sank Western Mustangs in the mud with a 65-yard smash earlier in the season, cut Varsity's spirit trailing as he outran three tacklers to 1-2-cross the goal line standing up.

The battered Blues, held outside the Tricolor 25-yard line for the entire game, witted after Surphlis' surge to paydirt, never never again got inside the Gael 50.

Ron Stewart, Gary Schreiber and Al Keenan shouldered the spotlight with Surphlis as the hardriving Gael backfield turned in one of its best days this season rolling over the Varsity line for 333 yards.

BRACCIA STARS

Gus Braccia, a 7-5 loser to McGill's Dick Carr as the intercollegiate's all-star quarterback, made the selection look terrible by spotting a touchdown, holding the ball for two field goals and two converts and directing the offence in flawless fashion.

Jacko Thompson, with two field goals and two singles, not only picked up eight points but outduelled Varsity's Ed Skrzypek by almost 10 yards per kick in one of the finest punting exhibitions seen in the east this year.

Pre-game predictions of a close game looked good at half time with the Gaels leading 3-0 on Thompson's field goal. The two quick Gael touchdowns in the third quarter, and the surprisingly solid performance of the Gael wingline, completely routed the experts in the second half as the Tricolor offence failed to score for every year since their last title.

On the first play of the second half Cruickshank intercepted Wilson's pass on the Queen's 35. He lugged it back to the Varsity 32 and the Gaels moved down to the 37 on a rough play penalty.

Schreiber moved the ball to the Varsity 23 on two plunges, Surphlis crashed for the 14, Stewart went wide to the three and Braccia slithered over right guard for the major. Thompson missed the convert.

Varsity took the kickoff and moved from their own 38-yard line to the Tricolor 43 before losing possession when a third down pass went incomplete.

On the first play from scrimmage Surphlis charged over centre for 77 yards and a touchdown in one of the most spectacular plays of the season. Thompson converted to put the Gaels in front 14-0.

With four minutes remaining in the game Thompson booted a second field goal from the Varsity 25-yard line and with only two and a half minutes remaining Jack Rogers conceded a point when Thompson's punt went out of the Varsity 10 leaving Varsity trapped in the end zone.

Gael supporters spent the final five minutes of the game cheering coach Frank Tindall, the linemen, the backfielders and the Varsity shutout.

When the final gun sounded thousands of spectators swarmed onto the field to mob the Gael team.

Blues, not as bad as the score would indicate, racked up most of their 18 first downs trying to get out of their own end. Blues had 18 first downs, Queen's 32; Varsity picked up 138 yards passing to 123 for the Gaels. The big story was on the ground where the Gaels stormed for 333 yards while holding Varsity to 138.

Wilson and Skrzypek threw 98 passes for Varsity, completed 46 and had four intercepted. Braccia took to the air 16 times, completed five and had one intercepted.

Best for the Blues were all-star Phil Mundy, Jack Rogers, Wally Bulchak and quarterback Harry Wilson. Walt Radzick and Bob Waugh were best aside the line.

In addition to the entire backfield corps, the Gael line, headed by Jim Hughes, Gary Lewis and Lou Bruce shone.

The crowd, unlike the limethrowing, beer-drinking, bottle-tossing melee that marred the Queen's-Varsity game in Kingston two weeks ago, was orderly. Double squads of police at each gate obviously reduced the volume of the spectator violence. The spirits were never missed as "the Gaels" and Kingston boys buoyed up the capacity throng.

Dodgers Lone Team to Place Two On Writers' Annual All-Star Squad

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Brooklyn is the only club with more than one representative on the 1955 Associated Press major league all-star baseball team.

Nine of the 16 big league clubs are represented in The AP's 10th annual all-star squad, selected by 29 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Seven National League players are honored along with three from the American.

Duke Snider in the outfield and Roy Campanella behind the plate are the repeat selections from the world champion Dodgers. Oddly enough, the American League champion New York Yankees have only one member on the team—southpaw pitcher Whitey Ford.

PACKED WITH POWER

The all-star team: batting and pitching records for the regular season:

First base—Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati Red Legs (.314).

Second base—Nelson Fox, Chicago White Sox (.311).

Third base—Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves (.289).

Shortstop—Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs (.295).

Left field—Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox (.356).

Centre field—Willie Mays, New York Giants (.319).

Right field—Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodgers (.309).

Catcher—Roy Campanella, Dodgers (.318).

Right-handed pitcher—Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies (23-14 and 2.30 E.R.A.).

Lefthanded pitcher—Ed (Whitey) Ford, Yankees (18-7 2.62 E.R.A.).

Only three all-stars are holdovers from the 1954 selections. Stan Musial, whose batting average "slumped" to .310 for the second lowest mark of his brilliant career, failed to make the team for only the second time since the selections were inaugurated in 1946.

The power-packed squad, led by Williams' .356 batting average, shows six .300 hitters, five sluggers with more than 40 home runs, each and every with more than 100 runs, batted in. Surprisingly, it doesn't list the two 1955 batting champs—Al Kaline of Detroit and Richie Ashburn of Philadelphia. Neither does it have the American League homerun king, Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, but Mays, with his 51 homers and Snider with his 136 RBIS (both major league highs) are included.

Biggest vote getter was Roberts, named on 92 ballots.

Only Campanella and Williams received stiff competition. Campanella was hard pressed by Berra, the Yankees' sturdy backstop, finally winning by six votes, 52 to 46.

Williams also had a six-vote margin over Kaline, the Tigers' brilliant outfielder.

Northern Electric Hockey League

The Northern Electric interdepartment hockey league opened over the week-end with the Insulators clipping the Hornets 4-3, and the Flyers shading the Barons 3-2.

In the opening game all the scoring took place in the third period as Ashley of the Insulators and Carr of Hornets turned in fine game in goal. J. Semark scored two for the victors, Tatton assisting the odd one and Soule assisting on two. Bedard netted the Hornet marker with Little assisting.

Barrett fired a pair of goals in the Flyers victory with Salter also scoring once and helping on another. Kirkeenmild and Detloe were the Baron goal-getters with assists for Stephens and Kobeuka.

Ted Hurst and George Graham handled the referee's duties.

knew. As happened in this deal:

NORTH
♠ J 7 5 4
♥ A Q 6 4 3
♦ A K
♣ 6 3 2
WEST	EAST
♠ J 10	♠ A 10 6 3 2
♥ 10 9 8	♥ —
♦ 7 5 2	♦ 9 8 7 6 5 4
♣ K 10 5	♣ J 9
SOUTH
♠ K Q
♥ K
♦ A K J 3
♣ A K Q 8 7 5 4

This bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥	2 ♠
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
4 N-T	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♣	Pass	Pass	Double
6 N-T	Pass	Pass	Pass

In answer to four no-trump, five diamonds by north is convention signal for showing one ace and no kings. Six clubs by south was the natural result from his early desire to reach slam.

At six clubs by south, the opening lead from west was going to be the heart jack. East would have ruffed this first trick and a cash of his spade ace was enough to defeat the club small slam.

But east was not the one west would start with a heart lead. So, he doubled. This was a lead-direction slam double; a signal that asked partner to lead the first-suit bid by dummy.

South also knew what this signal meant and could see the small slam in clubs go down with a heart lead. So, he took what seemed the best course open to him at the moment and bid six no-trump.

Thus, instead of having what would have been a cinch defeat of a small slam in clubs, east let south get off the hook. Because it happens that south can make six no-trump against any west lead.

It is nice to know the many efficient signals of bridge bidding. They come in handy and are advantages in most cases. But here is a case where too much knowledge was a dangerous thing.

Signs to Write

VANCOUVER (CP)—Al Pollard, 195-pound fullback with British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, has signed to write about the game for the Vancouver Province.

Sports editor Alf Cottrell said Saturday the former Philadelphia Eagles and West Point star would write football "for the rest of the season at least—including he Grey Cup game."

Aaron Rosenberg Is Planning Movie About Kemal Ataturk

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Flush with success in films with real-life heroes, producer Aaron Rosenberg is heading for Turkey and his most ambitious biography yet.

If Rosenberg's scalp line wasn't so skimpy he would be the fair-haired boy of Universal-International. In the last year he has turned out the two biggest money-makers in the company's 43-year history.

The first was "The Glenn Miller Story," which U-I expects to draw $10,000,000 throughout the world. The No. 1 film in the United States now is "To Hell and Back," which the studio says will exceed that figure by a million. And Rosenberg has "The Benny Goodman Story" warming up in the bullpen.

Now Rosenberg plans to film the life story of Kemal Ataturk, the founder of Modern Turkey.

NO ODD PROJECT

At first glance this seems like an odd project for a man who has dealt with band leaders, war heroes and western adventurers.

"But this is the greatest story of all," Rosenberg enthused. "I think a good picture should be the story of a man with a purpose. Here is a man who had a great, tremendous challenge. He had to fight the traditions of thousands of years, plus the sultan and the church in order to modernize his country.

"The story has great significance today. Turkey is a strategic nation, being next to Russia. Its friendliness to the West is due to Ataturk."

Rosenberg admitted that he was also attracted to the story because Ataturk was a very attractive man and loved women. He said that Turkish officials are anxious to have him portray their leader in a human manner and not a God.

RESEARCH FIRST

The producer is going to Turkey this June largely for research. Next summer he hopes to make the picture in Ankara, Istanbul and other locales. He said the Turkish government has promised full cooperation with the project.

What about a star?

"Any strong leading man would be good," he replied. "Marlon Brando would be ideal, so would Kirk Douglas. It could be a great role for John Wayne."

Petes Orfuns Win Second Football Title

MONTREAL (CP) — Peterborough Orfuns won their second straight eastern Canada intermediate title Saturday, walloping Lakeshore Flyers 37-7 at Westmount Athletic Grounds before a crowd of 2,500.

The Orfuns now meet Fort William Redskins, who walloped Victoria Oak Bay Drakes 39-0 Sunday to win the western title.

Fullback Bill Huntley led the Orfun attack with four touchdowns, two of them in the third quarter. Huntley consistently outran the Lakeshore defence and was responsible for a major portion of the 239 yards the Orfuns rolled up along the ground. The Flyers, from west end Valois, gained 158 yards on the ground.

It was the second consecutive victory for Peterborough over Lakeshore and the fourth consecutive time the two teams have met in the eastern Canada final. The Orfuns defeated Lakeshore 2-0 in 1952, lost 11-0 the following year and squeezed out a 9-7 victory last fall.

BEATS NZ

BRADFORD, Eng. (AP)—Britain defeated New Zealand 27-12 in a Rugby League test match at Odsal Stadium Saturday before a crowd of 24,500. Britain led 13-2 at half time.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, Nov. 15, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Most encouraging planetary rays. A fine period for research, making improvements, inventory expansion; also for personal, family and artistic affairs. Be insistent in effort.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your Venus, the Moon and other favorable planetary aspects are stimulating and helpful to your special interests. A good period for venturing into new fields in order to increase assets, promote security.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury, among the well aspected planets, now encourages all mental work. Study, teaching, advertising, authoring stories and books, bookkeeping, mental matters among the many activities sponsored. Care stressed in investments.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A pleasant mood and a productive tempo urged now. Much good can be achieved; new and unusual activities can be undertaken. Fresh starts in business, manufacturing encouraged.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You should find plenty of opportunities during this generous period. Take advantage of them. Your general know-how and specific talents are needed. As you learn, spend wisely; save, too.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Day stimulates, favors judgment and ingenuity. Be your inventive, intuitive self. Personal interests can also advance.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — No matter your age or occupation you should gain fresh benefits now, perhaps achieve beyond anticipation. Mental keenness, physical well-being under heartening rays. Good going!

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Promptness will help you reach your goals now. You are clever but may put off doing until the last hours of the day. Get as early a start as possible.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Financial gains, quick returns from investments may not be possible but the day can be a constructive, beneficial one for personal advancement, gaining fresh credits, making business headway.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Public issues, manufacturing, promoting, dealing in lumber, paper, tools, machinery under helpful aspects. Mental work and artistic matters also sponsored.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Your planet Uranus finely positioned now. Much can be achieved. Don't dally over unimportant tasks, pointless details, small talk. Put your best self to work.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Strictly confidential matters may need extra checking. Nevertheless this day can be a good one — much better in many ways. New ventures, if sound, can be undertaken with faith.

You born today are endowed with a strong character; are highly talented, clever and efficient. But you can also be domineering and self-opinionated unless you recognize that these traits are harmful to your happiness, career and everyday life. Humility is a great aid to high achievement, lasting contentment. Keep improving your education and knowledge, and cultivate your entertaining talents, too. Birthday: Wm. Herschel, famed astronomer.

USE VICTIM'S TRUCK

SEEKONK, Mass. (AP)—Thieves used their victim's own truck and hydraulic lifting equipment in stealing a 1,000-pound safe, containing $2,000 from a garage Sunday. Police said the thieves used a crane and two hydraulic jacks from the garage to lift the heavy safe onto a truck, also stolen from the garage.

Ottawa Offers To Pay More Highway Costs province.

The provinces would decide on which gaps they wished to have the 90-per-cent formula applied.

To get this new federal provision, the provinces would have to undertake that a good standard of highway would be completed by March, 1960, across the province concerned.

During the period up to March, 1960, the provinces would have to maintain outlays on the highway, excluding the 10-per-cent on selected sections, at least equal to the average for the two years 1954-55.

Mr. Winters said that for other portions of the highway, the new federal 50-50 split cost of construction will remain.

Winters said the new formula means that the federal government is prepared to pay 90 per cent of the construction cost on a total of 449 miles of the highway, broken by provinces as follows:

Newfoundland, 61 miles; Prince Edward Island, seven; Nova Scotia, 31; New Brunswick, 39; Quebec, 141; Manitoba, 31; Saskatchewan, 41; Alberta, 29; British Columbia, 69.

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government today offered to shoulder up to 90 per cent of the construction costs of certain remaining gaps in the 4,000-mile trans-Canada highway.

The offer, which compared with the government's present 50-50 split with the provinces on the highway's construction costs, was made by Works Minister Winters at the opening of a two-day conference with provincial gelegates.

Under the new formula, the federal government would agree to pay 90 per cent of the construction costs of gaps which constitute up to 10 per cent of the total trans-Canada highway mileage within a

M. P. Durkin Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Martin P. Durkin, 61, former U.S. secretary of labor and an AFL union leader, died today.

Durkin had been president of the AFL's United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry since 1941. He was picked by President Eisenhower shortly after the 1952 election to become secretary of labor. The appointment came as a surprise because Durkin was a lifelong Democrat. He has Senator Taft described the choice as "incredible."

Durkin quit the cabinet Sept. 10, 1953 declaring Eisenhower ran out on promises to change the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Albertan Wins Agricultural Scholarship

Mrs. John David Eaton has the pleasant task of presenting the Eaton Agricultural Scholarship to a young Alberta farmer which will take him to the agricultural college of his choice. He is Park Smiley Letts, of Westlock, who was chosen from among representatives of nine Canadian provinces. His scholarship, which was presented at Royal Winter Fair, now under way in Toronto, covers four years' tuition, lodging and board. At 19, the native of Edmonton is president of the Westlock Beef Club and past-president of the Westlock Beef Breeding club, a member of the Westlock Agricultural Society and the Canadian 4-H Council. (Central Press Canadian).

Something New for Brazil . . . A Silent Coup

A bloodless, almost silent, army coup in Rio de Janeiro ousted acting president of Brazil Nereu Ramos da Luz, causing him to flee aboard a warship to "an unknown destination." The lightning coup was led by Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott, who had just resigned as war minister over Luz upholding a colonel who had publicly advocated an uprising to prevent the installation in the new year of the president-elect Juscelino Kubitschek, victor in last month's elections. In the evening of the morning coup, the Brazilian government declared Luz ineligible to continue as president and approved Nereu Ramos for the post. As president of the Senate, Ramos was constitutional successor. Flanked by Col. Canavarro Ureeira, left, chief of military cabinet and Monteiro de Castro, right, chief of the civil cabinet, Ramos is seen as he was sworn in on 8th of November as acting president following heart attack of President Joao Cafe Filho. Scientists Surprised, New Drug Effective

NEW YORK (AP)—Scientists of the New York Medical College said Sunday that a new antibiotic, oxytetracycline, has proved effective against a wide variety of diseases in humans, particularly tuberculosis.

The scientists said the new antibiotic — called "C" — proved effective in man after showing "disappointing anti-microbial activity in animals." This experience, they said, should serve as a recheck of the "tens of thousands of antibiotics discarded without clinical testing on man, because tests only on animals were unsatisfactory."

Russian Woman Wins $50,000 On TV Program

NEW YORK (AP)—A York, Pa., housewife, who once battled the Germans at Leningrad as a second lieutenant in the Soviet infantry, Saturday night won $50,000 on a television quiz program by identifying correctly four American rifles.

Mrs. Kyra Petrovskaya Shirk answered all questions about the rifles' history, She then selected the right kind of ammunition, loaded it into a Springfield rifle and fired a blank cartridge above the heads of the studio audience.

Next Saturday she may try for the $100,000 jackpot of the program, NBC's "Big Surprise."

Mrs. Shirk, 36, a blonde, attractive woman, first learned about rifles in the Red army. She later studied the history of various weapons as a hobby in the United States.

Manitoba Thinks Rapid Growth Is Its Future

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba predicted today its population and labor earnings will rise sharply in the next quarter-century, with economic expansion sweeping virtually throughout its dual industrial and farm economy.

But the provincial government tempered its optimism with a gloomy view on provincial debt, suggesting the provinces must be given a greater share of federal tax revenue if they are not to plunge deeper into the red.

The government, in a 152-page submission to the Gordon economic commission, also proposed a further reduction in Canadian tariffs and an overhaul of rail and transportation policies to encourage a spread of industry away from the central provinces.

The submission, by Premier Campbell and two of his cabinet ministers, marked the opening of a three-week western tour by the commission set up by the federal government to forecast the shape of the Canadian economy in the next 25 years.

BRIGHT FUTURE

The Manitoba government predicted that the future for the province is "exceedingly bright" if "certain artificial barriers to free development" are eliminated.

It estimated that the province's hinterland provided a vast potential of economic resources. The report estimated that in one northern area along—Mystery lake—there was an ore deposit exceeding 500,002,000 tons, averaging .5 per cent nickel. This represents about 5,000,000,000 pounds of nickel.

Partial drillings showed the province had perhaps North America's largest reserves of chromite, with deposits estimated conservatively at 25,000,000 tons. But aside from her great mining potential, the province also believe it had an encouraging future for other industrial development. Even farming, currently undergoing some marketing hardship in the west, was expected to expand.

Black Eye Key To Arrest Of Caledonia Man

BRANTFORD (CP)—A motorist with a black eye was picked up at nearby Paris Sunday and charged in connection with an accident Saturday night in which a youth was killed and his girl companion injured.

Lawrence Vipond, 16, was killed and Crystal Pither, 17, suffered a broken leg when they were struck by a car as they were about to enter their own car. The driver failed to stop.

Roman Belcerczyk, 27, of Caledonia, was picked up by Waterloo township police investigating another accident at Preston when they noticed his car was damaged. They kept his car and Belcerczyk returned home by taxi.

Later, when provincial police broadcast a report in connection with the Paris accident, Waterloo police notified Paris police who picked up Belcerczyk's car and took it to Paris. They were told by Waterloo police that the driver had a black eye.

Belcerczyk returned to Preston Sunday for his car and was told it had been taken to Paris. He was walking down a Paris street when police, noting the black eye, took him to headquarters for questioning and later laid the charge.

Motor Vehicle Licence Fees May Be Boosted

TORONTO (CP)—The Star says the cost of Ontario's motor vehicle licences "will likely" be increased in 1956.

The story says car licence fees will probably be increased $5. The present fee for a four-cylinder car is $4; for a six-cylinder car $10; and for eight-cylinder cars $10 and $15, depending on the horsepower.

Increases in the cost of truck licences were also being considered. Now two-ton gross weight two-axled trucks pay $20; three-ton $25; six-ton $61; and 14-ton gross weight two-axled trucks $220.50.

The cabinet will be considering motor vehicle fees soon, the story says.

Revenue collected from the sale of motor licences this year was estimated at $28,000,000.

EISENHOWER GETS WELCOME

From inside their glass-topped limousine, President and Mrs. Eisenhower wave at the crowds that welcomed them to Washington, his first appearance in the capital since his heart attack. Mr. Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower are due to stay at their farm in Gettysburg for another month or more until he is able to resume his work at the White House. His remarks so far have indicated reluctance to be a presidential candidate in 1956. (Central Press Canadian).

Two Hunters Back to Back Hold Off Wolves Ten Hours

TIMMINS (CP)—Overtaken by darkness Sunday as they chased a deer in the Grassy river district, southwest of here, two Timmins hunters spent a fear-filled night standing back-to-back as a marauding howling wolf pack circled them for several hours.

Jerry Morin, 31, and Donat Larocche, 24, both of Timmins, emerged from the bush Monday as police were about to search for them.

Morin, his fiancee, Garnet McLeod, 31, Mr. and Mrs. Donat Larroche, 24, and their two-year-old son, Lucien, went Saturday to Larroche's camp in the Jamieson area of the Mattagami and Grassy rivers, southwest of here. They were to have returned Sunday night, but relatives notified police when they did not.

Morin and Lcroche said they left camp early Sunday and found what appeared to be a deer.

They followed the trail and by the time darkness overtook them, they realized they had travelled too far from camp to make it back in safety. They decided to make a fire in the bush and spend the night beside it rather than chance missing the trail in the darkness. The women and the child had been installed at the camp.

Soon after dark, they said, they heard wolves howling in the distance. Soon the animals seemed close.

Morin said they decided to make a larger fire and to remain awake beside it. The wolves then were closer and circling the camp. Larroche said he loaded a rifle and Morin loaded a shot gun. The two stood back-to-back near the fire watching for the animals.

Both men said they stayed on their feet all night.

At daylight the men made their way back to the camp, where the women and child were. Except for being afraid and cold, the men said, they were none the worse for their ordeal.

Big Four Fail To Reach Accord Raising Curtain

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four foreign ministers failed completely today to agree on any steps for breaking down East-West barriers, and Western spokesmen blamed the breakdown on the Soviet government's determination to keep its people insulated from the free world.

Foreign Minister Molotov made a last-ditch effort to work Red China into some international organization by trying to get the Big Four to agree that all states ought to belong to such organizations as the International Labor Office. Then and all other Molotov proposals in this field were turned down.

For his part, Molotov rejected Western efforts to open Soviet borders to the freer flow of information and freer movement of people. He brushed down a French proposition by Foreign Minister Pinay which Pinay said would further post-Geneva negotiations on improving East-West relations.

Soviet Secretary Dulles and Foreign Secretary Macmillan joined Pinay in the assault on Iron Curtain barriers.

DISCUSS ARMS SALES

It appears highly unlikely that Molotov and the Western ministers will be able to reach any kind of agreement on East-West contacts.

Meanwhile, Western officials are making a play, without much hope of success, for the abandonment by Russia of her sales of discarded war equipment to trouble spots of the world.

Dulles Monday resurged public attention on the subject after twice being brushed off by Molotov.

Moose and Mate Delay Traffic At Port Arthur

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A bull moose and its mate held up traffic for 20 minutes on the main highway Monday and then trotted off into the woods.

Alec McBride said he was motoring east on Highway 17, 75 miles west of here, when another motorist flagged him down.

The moose were surveying the road from a low embankment on one side. Motorists stopped rather than risk heavier windshields smashed by the bull's antlers.

Mr. McBride said four cars were held up before the bull snorted and disappeared. The cow followed five minutes later.

JEHOVAH WITNESS WINS DAMAGES AGAINST POLICE

Supreme Court Upsets Quebec Courts' Ruling

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today ordered provincial police in Quebec province to pay $2,000 damages for breaking up a Jehovah's Witnesses meeting in the home of Jeremie Chapol.

The court did not rule on the constitutional validity of the Quebec law under which the officers claimed immunity in the Quebec courts.

The constitutional issue was not considered by the court because counsel for the three officers declined to argue in the Supreme Court that the Quebec Magistrate's Act gave his clients a defence for their action.

The decision held three police officers—Edmond Romain, Linden Young and Mr. Charest—liable jointly and severally responsible for the damages.

The case throughout the lower courts in Quebec and in the Supreme Court were charged to Hilaire Barrette, Superior Court and Court of Appeals had ruled against Mr. Chapol, awarding him only $5,005 damages from the three policemen.

They broke up a Sunday afternoon meeting of about 35 Jehovah's Witnesses in Mr. Chapol's home, Cap-pesau, Que., home Sept. 4, 1949. He alleged violation of his religious freedom and rights as a citizen and illegally seized a Bible and other religious literature at his home.

MEETING DISPERSED

Evidence introduced in Quebec Superior Court was that the gathering was listening to readings from the Bible by Rev. Alvin Gottschold, of Ottawa, when the three officers entered the dwelling and dispersed the gathering and escorted Mr. Gott-schold to an officer at his home.

They brought him in charge against Mr. Chapol or others at the meeting.

Mr. Chapol sought to have the Quebec Magistrate's Act declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. His counsel, Glen How of Toronto, argued that the Quebec Act illegally limited the writ valid by rejecting his client's action for damages.

The Supreme Court declined to hear argument on the validity of the Act. Justice Rand, J. Hull, Que., said he was not depending on the provisions of the Act in his defence of the three policemen.

PLEAD GOOD FAITH

Mr. Leduc argued that his clients acted in good faith and on orders from superiors when they broke up the meeting.

The Quebec Magistrate's Act gives a police officer the right to make his actions on the ground that he acted in good faith.

In this connection, the attorney-general for Canada intervened in the case on behalf of Mr. Chapol but the federal argument was not heard because the Supreme Court decided not to rule on the constitutional issue.

Mr. Justice Said after the court's judgement today that the case could be argued at the special committee of the Privy Council in London but that he will not do so.

Material for Plane Bombing Took Nearly Two Weeks To Assemble Accused Tells FBI

DENVER (AP)—In dispassionate tones, John Gilbert (Jack) Graham related to a reporter Monday night how he rigged a dynamite time bomb to explode aboard an airliner carrying his mother and 43 other persons.

All 44 were killed Nov. 1 when the United Airlines DC-6B exploded in flight near Longmont, Colo., and crashed 11 minutes after it had left Denver.

Graham did not reply when asked whether he felt remorse over the deaths. He said he used 25 sticks of dynamite in the lethal weapon.

The 23-year-old convicted forger said he had plotted construction of the bomb and the resultant blast for nearly two weeks. It was set to explode in 10 minutes.

Prosecutor Donald E. Kaller said the young Denver construction worker "left no room for doubt" in his confession." Kaller said he titled his mother, Daisy Dalzell King, 54, to collect her $37,500 flight insurance.

Ironically, the insurance was invalid because his mother had failed to sign a slip in front of Denver's Stapleton airfield for Alaska on a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Helen Ruth Hablutzel. The policies were taken out at the airport by Graham.

Details of Graham's bomb-making and his manoeuvering of relatives as he could hide the device in one of his mother's suitcases were reported by David Stolberg of the Denver Rocky Mountain News.

Construction of the bomb was started Oct. 18 or 19, Graham said. It included the dynamite—40 per cent—and 60 per cent packing, a timing device, a six-month-old "hotshot" battery and two dynamite caps. Each of the caps was connected to about eight feet of wire.

Graham said he unpacked part of the contents of a large suitcase belonging to his mother and replaced them with the bomb.

He placed this suitcase in the trunk of my car with another smaller suitcase and a briefcase which my mother had packed to take with her on the trip."

He picked up his mother, his wife, Gloria, and 20-month-old son, Allen, at a Denver garage where he had left his car, and drove them to the airport. He let them out at the terminal and parked his car.

Graham, also the father of a nine-month-old daughter, Susan, said he then bound the large suitcase with wax-soaked cord in the parking s1e. He carried all the luggage to his mother in the terminal and walked about ' feet from the plane. He waited until about 60 feet flight.

Argentina Strike Is Called By Peronista Labor Bosses

By BRUCE HENDERSON

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The defiant General Confederation of Labor and Argentina's new government locked horns today over a general strike call which could either smash Peronista labor bosses or shake the government.

Early indications were that the strike had failed to reach its goal of paralyzing the country.

Maj.-Gen. Pedro Aramburu, who only 48 hours earlier had ousted Maj.-Gen. Eduardo Lonardi as provisional president, met the strike challenge head on.

Army tanks and truckloads of troops patrolled the streets. Top Peronist streets of Argentina's major cities threatened arrest at any day. They concentrated on such strong labor districts as Avellaneda in suburban Buenos Aires and such industrial cities as Rosario and La Plata.

The government declared the strike illegal and warned that any body who took part in or tried to restrict the freedom to work" would be punished and prosecuted.

Andres Farmini and Luis Natalini, two secretaries-general of the confederation, were reported arrested this morning.

The strike went into effect at midnight. Early reports showed that factories in the Buenos Aires area, built by total or near-total walkouts included four meat-packing plants, a tire factory, and key metal-working companies. Police toting sub-machine-guns guarded the factories.

At dawn, four planes, apparently navy fighters, roared low over Buenos Aires. They flew low and apparently reconnoitered the capital, as if looking for any trouble spots and giving the impression that the government means business.

Observers said effectiveness of the strike varied widely in Buenos Aires province outside the capital. Only a skeleton crew of the Juan Peron dictatorship on Sept. 19 resulted in near anti-Peronista leaders taking control of unions. The confederation leadership has been reshuffled, with the government displace the "usurpers."

The C.G.T. is interpreted mainly as a test of power between old-line Peronista labor leaders and the new government. If the Peronistas lose this test, their resurgence as a force in the labor confederation, which claimed 6,000,000 members during the Peron regime, probably will smother them.

If C.G.T. can bend the government to its will, it could be a grave blow to Aramburu's prestige.

Stevenson to Be Candidate For Democratic Nomination

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson announced today that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president next year.

The former governor of Illinois announced his candidacy at a news nine months before the Democratic national convention, which will pick the nominee, is scheduled to open Aug. 13 in Chicago.

Stevenson said in a statement:

"I shall do all I can to persuade my party to entrust that responsibility to me again because:

"First, I believe it important for the Democratic party to resume the executive direction of our national affairs;

"Second, I am assured that my candidacy would be welcomed by many Democrats in every part of my party throughout the country;

"Third, I believe my citizen's should make whatever contribution he can to the search for a safer, saner world."

In 1952, Stevenson shied away from the party's earlier announcement time and, in fact, paraphrased the scriptural prophecy: "Yet that cup pass from my lips" even when the nominating sessions were under way.

But he accepted the nomination when delegates chose Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican winner. Stevenson carried nine states with 89 votes, to 442 for Eisenhower, 27,000,000 votes to 33,000,000 for Eisenhower.

Whitney Woman Accidentally Hit By Rifle Bullet

WHITNEY (CP) — A housewife was shot and wounded as she lay in her kitchen Monday when her husband's rifle accidentally discharged.

Mrs. Victor Rumley was brought to hospital here, 75 miles south of Peterborough. Her condition was described as critical.

Police said Mr. Rumley told them he was target-shooting with a .22 calibre rifle when he fell on the ground. It discharged and bullet ricocheted off the wall of the house and struck Mrs. Rumley in the head as she sat talking with a friend.

Falls to Death

SUDBURY (CP)—A 36-year-old father of four was killed Monday when he fell some 100 feet down a chute at nearby Garson mine. International Nickel Company officials identified him as Caribou Mason, of Sudbury, a driller on the 1500-foot level.

Investigators said Mason is believed to have stepped onto a steel bar grid which gave way, sending him to his death. The mishap followed blasting which had been done while Mason was eating his lunch.

'CLOSE-THE-GAP' HIGHWAY OFFER GIVEN PROVINCES

Federal Govt. to Pay 90 P.C. on Some Gaps

OTTAWA (CP) — A "close-the-gap" proposal to link up the trans-Canada highway as a complete coast-to-coast ribbon of pavement within the next four years has been put to the provinces by the federal government.

Most of the provinces lauded the idea. But the majority, particularly western representatives, said the central government should be bearing more than the 50 per cent it has been paying on such a national project as a paved, 4,600-mile highway from St. John's, Nfld., to Victoria.

However, federal Works Minister Winters said Monday at the opening of a two-day federal-provincial highway conference that the extra money would have to be retroactive and retroactive legislation "is full of difficulties."

HOLDS DOUBTS

.He also told the meeting, attended by all provinces except Quebec, he doubted whether "this approach would achieve the desired end."

Mr. Winters then put forward the new federal proposal that it pay 90 per cent on specified highway gaps under certain conditions.

The Ottawa financial contribution—with the provinces paying the other 10 per cent—would be limited to federally - approved highway routes where there now is no road or where the road is so poor it could not be incorporated as a part of the trans-Canada highway.

The new formula would apply to a maximum of 10 per cent of the trans-Canada highway mileage within a province. Those who had less than 10 per cent of allotted mileage yet to complete could get the bonus federal contribution on equivalent mileage to be mutually agreed upon.

SOME BELOW STANDARDS

Mr. Winters told the conference that after five years of work on the proposed trans-Canada highway, about 14,000 miles is paved but only 1,323 miles to trans-Canada highway standards. Some 2,000 miles is a 24-foot hard surface.

The Ottawa proposed renewal until 1960 of the trans-Canada highways agreement providing for federal contributions to projects done between the federal government and all provincial governments except Quebec. The dollar-for-dollar split he proposed to continue to be on the agreement on work other than that to which the 90 per cent formula would apply.

Most provincial delegates—all spoke in their turn following the federal minister—said aside from the new 90 per cent formula the federal government should pay more. New Brunswick said the provinces should receive not only four per cent; Ontario disagreed for 65 per cent, while Manitoba and Saskatchewan thought the federal share ought to be at least two-thirds and Alberta said it is time for a 75-25 split.

Ontario Highways Minister Allan indicated that he welcomed the 90-10 per-cent assistance—as far as it goes—but said the federal contribution for the rest of the mileage should be 50 per cent.

The offered increase in federal aid, he said, amounted to only four per cent of the total project.

Mr. Winters, replying later, said the formula in effect would work out to an average 60-per-cent contribution toward the 1,700 miles still unbuilt.

U.S. Government Says Salk Shots Cut Polio In Half

Even Single Shots Reduced Paralytic Polio Up to 80 Per Cent.

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Even a single shot of Salk polio vaccine sliced paralytic polio in the United States this year 30 to 80 per cent, an official preliminary government report declared today.

The report was called "awfully good news—the vaccine works."

It comes from a national public health service surveillance unit set up to learn what actually happened to children who had one or more polio shots, compared with those who had none.

Children taking the prescribed second and third shots should get even better protection, said Dr. Alexander D. Langmuir of the health service's communicable disease centre, reporting the study.

Since the middle of May there has been no evidence that any vaccine in use was not safe, the report said.

BIGGER SPREAD

Some polio experts say the results are so good that all available vaccine might best be used to give single shots immediately to as many children as possible, rather than giving a series of three shots to a smaller number of children. Roughly 25,000,000 doses of vaccine have been approved and released by the U.S. public health service for use.

They argue that single shots, spread as quickly as possible among the estimated 40,000,000 American children, would be the fastest way of building up immunity to curb or prevent polio epidemics.

In a short time, they foresee eradication of polio.

Other polio experts disagree that widespread single shots first would be the best method, or that quick eradication is possible.

A few sections of the vaccine itself, or urge a go-slow policy. The polio surveillance unit was set up last April 28 after reports of polio cases started with one batch of lots of vaccine from the Cutter Laboratories, Berkeley, Calif.

GREATER RATE

"Tentative results, subject to modification and revision, reveal that the attack rates for paralytic polio are from two to five times greater in the children vaccinated than the vaccinated children," the report said. "Similar results and favorable differences are reported for non-paralytic cases."

The basis for the investigation was how many children reported to have polio had been vaccinated, actually did have this disease, or were actually paralyzed, whether vaccinated or not.

In some states, vaccinated children appeared to have a 5-to-1 better chance of escaping paralytic polio, than unvaccinated.

In others making less-intensive checks, the vaccinated children seemed to be a 2-to-1 better chance of not having paralytic polio.

As for safety, the report says that since July 1 more than three-fourths of all reported cases of polio among vaccinated children have been non-paralytic. Most occurred more than 30 days after inoculation—about the time when the last itself did not produce the infection—with only "a few" cases reported up to 14 days after an inoculation.

Canadian Vessel on Way to Polar Seas Heading an Antarctic Expedition

By ROBERT RICE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian sealing vessel, skippered by a Newfoundland veteran master, is on its way on a 14,000-mile voyage into the bleak Antarctic.

The 136-ton, white-painted Theron, a 128-foot, 849-ton motor vessel out of Halifax, left London Sunday night with 200 tons of equipment and stores and the expedition's leader, Dr. John Rymill, Commonwealth Antarctic expedition.

The Theron will burrow deep within the blue polar ice to Vestel bay, an ice-free harbor usually surrounded reached by ship. Her skipper, Capt. Harold L. Mare of Chester, N.S., 39-year-old son of a Norwegian sealing master, hopes to find a pathway into the bay and get out again late in January before winter's onslaught.

"A lot of sealers in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland will be disappointed if we don't turn up in time for the March 5 sealing season," he said.

Six of the Theron's crew are veteran Canadian sailors. The other 13 are Norwegian-born, but all of them are naturalized Canadians.

Also aboard are 18 members of the United Kingdom, New Zealand, African, New Zealand and Australian expedition, including Sir Vivian Fuchs, the British leader. Sir Edmund Hillary, conqueror of Everest and leader of the New Zealand party, will join the Theron in Australia for the return.

For its first Antarctic mission, the ship is carrying a year's supply of stores, including two tractors, a snow-tractor, 24 Greenland dogs and two years' supply of food. As an added safeguard, the Theron has two ski-equipped planes.

When the Theron arrives at Vestel bay, a pre - fabricated wooden hut will be erected as the winter home of eight men who will stay in the Antarctic until the main party arrives late next year.

Girl in Church Shot, Police Hunt Weapon

HESPELER (CP)—Police said today a house-to-house search will be made for .22-calibre firearms in an effort to trace the person who shot and wounded Joy Goebel, 13-year-old daughter of Mayor E. W. Goebel.

Miss Goebel was shot in the right leg Monday night while attending a meeting in the basement of St. James' Lutheran church.

Doctors removed the bullet imbedded in the bone slightly above the right knee of the blond girl. They reported her condition today as satisfactory although she was suffering from shock.

Police said ballistics tests will be made to match the bullet with the pistol or rifle from which it was fired. They said the shot was fired by someone standing or kneeling outside a basement window and through one of the holes of a group of youngsters seated ca s bench below.

Miss Goebel's mother said: "It is utterly fantastic tent something like this should happen here. There seems to be no reason for it."

Ship and Plane Hunt Lost Crew

HALIFAX (CP)—The CNR motor vessel Codroy will search the area off northern Newfoundland today for some sign of seven crew members of the oil-fuel freighter Mabel Dorothy.

RCAF search and rescue officials, meanwhile, report that a Lancaster from Torbay, Nfld., will rejoin the hunt, now in its second day.

The Lancaster flew through snow squalls Monday that made visibility poor as she scanned the area some miles southeast of Hooping Harbor, Nfld., where the stern of the 1,000-ton vessel was found Sunday. No trace was seen of the men.

Bits and pieces of wreckage drifted ashore in fishing coves along the west coast as far as Fogo island, roughly 150 miles away from the spot where the stern was found.

STARTING FUND TO AID FAMILY

Residents of Bancroft have started a fund to aid the Crew-ford family visited by a disastrous fire recently. Their home was completely destroyed and two young lives lost. The fund will help re-establish the family and pay doctors and hospital expenses. Dr. D. M. Rouse, Bancroft, is the fund chairman.

DARTS LEAGUE

The Hasty Pees, RCAF, Northern Electric and Brewers were two-point winners in the Belleville District Service Darts League last night, defeating Houston's Legion, Army and Navy with Corbin's drawing the weekly bye.

TRAFFIC SLOWED BY BIG MACHINES

Giant earth moving machines of the type used in highway grading operations and other large excavation projects slowed city traffic earlier today as they passed through the business section. The big tractor hauled trailer machines mounted on six-foot pneumatic tires passed down Front St. and swung east along the No. 2 highway route.

OIL IS SPILLED FROM FALLING TANKS

City firemen, the public works department and the police were called to the foot of Bridge Street hill this morning as a couple of 200-gallon fuel storage tanks rolled from a passing truck and caused a small amount of oil along the curb.

Firemen were called as a precaution in case a passerby tossed a lighted cigarette and started a fire, while a crew from the works department spread sand to soak up the oil.

105-YEAR-OLD MAN WINNER OF PRIZE

A story in the Renfrew Mercury is closely connected with this city. A short time ago the CNRAA ran a contest and in it was a prize for the winner of the oldest person holding a ticket. Mr. Spencer Church, of Calabogie who will be 106 years old in June of next year was the lucky holder and recently received his prize of a hundred dollar bill. To make the contestants of the money, Mr. Church had to be interviewed from splitting wood, a task that he handles quite capably despite his age. He pointed out that exercise was the main secret of his longevity. The 105-year-old man walks about the yard without the aid of cane, with bare notice of a stoop in his very short frame. He does not, and has never, worn glasses but he reads his newspaper every day.

CENTRAL BRIDGE GIVEN CONTRACT TO SUPPLY STEEL

The Ontario Department of Highways officially announced today that Central Bridge Co. Ltd. of Peterborough has been awarded the contract for the Trent River bridge over highway #2 at Trenton. Contract price was $702,856.

Last week it was learned that Central Bridge had submitted the lowest tender for construction of the bridge at Trenton and the official announcement of the contract award to the Trenton firm was expected.

The annual Shrine Club Christmas Kiddies' Party has been scheduled for December 15. The crippled children of the city and district will be special guests and enjoy outstanding entertainment, besides receiving gifts from a well laden Christmas tree.

MISS N. P. MERRY TO ADDRESS GUILD

Miss N. P. Merry, former head of the English department at the Belleville collegiate, will be among the regular meeting of the Belleville Theatre Guild on Wednesday night, on "costume design".

Miss Merry directed the BCI dramas for many seasons.

Guild members will also hear a preliminary report on the sponsoring of the National Ballet Guild of Canada's performance here.

Well It Happened ...And Too Soon

Well, it finally happened.

After weeks of unseasonable and mild bewilderment at the delay in the normal arrival of the cold air mass this way, it started shortly after 9.30 a.m. this morning.

It returned us all to normal and everyone relaxed.

It gave everyone a refreshing topic of conversation.

It even set some people dreaming of a White Christmas.

It finally happened.

It snowed.

Ald. Jane Forrester Resigns Council Seat to Run for Mayor

Alderman Jane Forrester resigned from city council Monday afternoon and announced that she would be a candidate for mayor in the municipal election on December 5th.

To date she is the only announced candidate for the mayoralty.

Mrs. Forrester, elected for a two-year term last December, handed her resignation to acting city clerk-comptroller Mrs. Anne Haggerty at 2.15 p.m.

Her statement of resignation read: "Pursuant to Section 56, subsection 3 of the Municipal Act, I hereby resign my seat on the council of the city of Belleville for the purpose of standing for election as mayor in the forthcoming municipal election. (Signed) Jane Forrester."

Her resignation to run for mayor means that a by-election will be elected this year. The eighth-place finisher will hold Mrs. Forrester's seat for the duration of her term.

Regulations in the Municipal Act governing the situation are contained in Chap. 243, sect. 173, sub-sect. 2 and 3.

"Where the seat of a member of council becomes vacant by reason of the filing of the registration mentioned in sub-section 5 of section 56 the vacancy shall not be filled in the manner provided in that sub-section but the seat shall remain vacant until the next ensuing regular election when it shall be filled in the manner provided by this act or any special act relating to the municipality except that the person elected shall hold office only for the remainder of the term for which the person whose seat or office was elected to such office."

ISSUES STATEMENT

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Forrester issued the following statement to The Ontario Intelligencer:

"Having had the privilege of residing in Belleville for most of my life I do not only a duty but an added privilege of citizenship to take one's turn in sharing in the problems of our city. Concentrated experience and effort are an added requirement so that there is an added responsibility—that of attempting to provide the type of leadership that will bring order out of chaos and a sense of dignity to the administration of our city affairs. Therefore, I am offering my services as a candidate for mayor."

While no other candidates have announced their intentions, the names of several men have been mentioned as possible candidates, including His Worship Mayor Jack Both, Aldermen William Argue, Arthur Keegan, Claude Tice and ex-mayor A. McLean Hall.

Mayor Both, who is expected to seek a third term, was not available for comment at press time.

Ex-mayor A. McLean Hall told The Ontario Intelligencer early today afternoon that he would not be seeking the mayoralty.

Alderman Claude Tice, a ten-year veteran of council, who had told friends he intended that he would seek the mayoralty this year, announced that he would be a candidate for re-election as alderman in any case.

NOT BE CONTESTED—COMMENT

Alderman William Argue, on council for six years, could not be reached for comment. It is believed he is holidaying in the north.

Alderman Arthur Keegan, who has been on council for three-and-one-half years, could also be expected to be nominated for mayor and alderman but that his decision to seek either office would depend on certain circumstances, which will not be revealed until nomination day.

Councillors whose 2-year terms end this year, are: Wm. Argue, Bram Humphreys, Arthur Keegan, Douglas Mozam, Ben Sale, Bruce Smith and Claude Tice.

Aldermen Humphreys, Mozam, Sale and Tice have announced that they will seek re-election to council. Alderman Bruce Smith said that he "doubted very much" whether he would be a candidate.

Mrs. Forrester's resignation leaves her seat on council vacant for a one-year term.

The Ontario Intelligencer yesterday polled last year's aldermanic candidates and possible aspirants for council concerning their intentions about this year's race.

Ex-alderman Robert Temple, a candidate for mayor last year, announced that he would seek re-election to council as an alderman.

Donald Thomas, an ex-alderman who was defeated in the municipality last year, said that he was undecided about seeking an aldermanic seat.

Charles J. Hyde, an ex-alderman, said that he will seek an aldermanic seat. It had been rumored that Mr. Hyde might be a candidate for mayor.

SOME ARE UNDECIDED

Unsuccessful aldermanic candidates in last year's election who say they will not seek election this year include Robert Hodges, Robertson Colling, Fred Mumford and Eric Whitfield.

Still undecided are Edward De Leeuw, George De Vuyst, Robert Gardiner, Frank Mason, William Lynch, William McCormick, Allen Meagher.

Unable to be reached were James C. Allen, Leo Digby, Byron Reid and Wm. Robinson.

Mrs. Forrester and Mrs. Herbert McCabe were the first two women aldermen in Belleville. Mrs. Forrester, in her first try for public office, polled a field of 23 aldermanic candidates with a record-breaking 3,252 votes.

Mrs. Forrester is the first woman in the city's history to seek the mayoralty.

Nomination day is Friday, Nov. 25th. Nominations will be received at City Hall from 11.00 to 12.00 a.m. for mayor, aldermen, public school separate school trustees and for public utilities commissioner.

The advance polls will be held Dec. 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, at 200 Station Street and voting will take place for the public on voting day, Dec. 5th, from 9.00 a.m .to 7.00 p.m.

Pre-election adjustments in the voters' list were the minimum this year. His Honor Judge J. A. Anderson sat in the court of revision in the City Hall last Saturday from 10.00 a.m. to noon and only a half-dozen names were presented for addition to the voters' list.

Graham Pigeons Sweep Honors At Winter Fair

George K. Graham, Trent Rd. pigeon fancier and breeder, has added another feather to his well-plumed cap of championship achievement.

Mr. Graham made a clean sweep of major honors at the Canadian Fantail Association combination fall fair at the Dept. Motor Fair.

He entered 26 birds and each brought home a first prize in its class.

Climaxing this fine exhibition Mr. Graham's pigeons and pigeons also won the grand champion class, champion bird of show prize and champion young bird of the show.

The Graham birds were entered in every class at the Winter Fair. These included white, blue, silver, powdered, silver and black. The grand champion of the show was a white cock bird.

Mr. Graham's honor-winning feat is all the more noteworthy since his pigeons competed against 300 birds entered by other exhibitors.

The Graham pigeons are well-known in fantail club circles both in Canada and the United States. On not a few occasions they have come home with major honors from competitions in New York and Boston apart from major Canadian exhibitions.

Greek Cypriot Students Protest Death Sentence

NICOSIA, Cyprus, (Reuters) — Greek Cypriot students today went on strike in three Cyprus towns during the latest wave of anti-British violence in protest against a death sentence imposed on a 22-year-old terrorist.

Throughout the Mediterranean Island parents kept a close watch on their children following rumors that terrorists intended to kidnap British youngsters to hold as hostages for the Greek Cypriots imprisoned for terrorism.

For the second successive day striking Greek high school students in Nicosia streamed into the streets shouting slogans in favour of this strategic British colony with Greece. Younger student's who turned up at schools were forced back by older students who urged them to join the strike.

POLICE STONED

The ostensible reason for the demonstrations was the rejection Saturday of an appeal against the death sentence on terrorist Michael Karaolis for the murder of a Nicosia policeman.

About 500 out of the striking Nicosia students, some of them girls, thronged in a procession in the centre of town and rang the bells. They stoned arriving police and shouted "long live Eoka" the underground terrorist organization seeking union of Cyprus with Greece.

British troops joined the police and dispersed the demonstrators with tear gas. They then sealed off the area with barbed wire.

BAN HUNTING

COOKSVILLE (CP) —Hunting has been banned in Toronto township following a resident's complaint he was threatened when he ordered a hunter off his property three weeks ago. A council spokesman said other parts of the township, west of Toronto, claim hunters have used mailboxes, barns and livestock as targets.

Highway 'Crackdown' by OPP Brings Number of Summonses

The recent Highway "crackdown" of Ontario Provincial Police in an effort to reduce the number of motor vehicle accidents has resulted in a considerable increase in the number of summonses issued for speeding and the automobilists found driving vehicles which fail to come up to the required mechanical standard.

O.P.P. Sgt. R. H. Devereaux, in charge of the stepped-up highway patrol for the Belleville district headquarters, said today that the number of summonses had "increased considerably."

The officer noted that the majority of the summonses going were for speeding, but failure to have vehicles up to the required mechanical standard was also drawing a share of fines.

"But we are not out to collect fines," Sgt. Devereaux pointed out. "The main idea of the crackdown is to reduce speed and to make certain that all vehicles are in the proper mechanical condition.

"And back of the whole drive is the determination to reduce accidents."

The officer noted that the concerted check-up on all vehicles would continue.

CHECK FOR LIGHTS

Check points for passenger cars were lights, hand and foot brakes, windshield wipers and horns and drivers' licences for the operators.

For commercial vehicles check emphasis was on brakes, lights, reflectors, stop lights, mudflaps, ownership cards and clearance lights where required.

"If motorists and commercial vehicle operators comply with all the requirements they will save themselves money."

And here the officer had a kindly warning and a plea for cooperation on the part of the motoring public.

"With the first snowfall in the offing, extra caution on the part of the motorist is required," he said. Statistics show that the first snowfall of the season brings a rash of accidents which cause heavy property damage and injuries."

Winnipeg Art Critic 'Just Dead' Artist Declares

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Canadian-born artist flew in from New York today to Winnipeg's current art controversy during the weekend.

Roloff Beny, 31-year-old painter who is active in Medicine Hat, Alta., said Mrs. W. J. Waines, one of the sponsors of an all-Canada show at the Winnipeg Art Gallery, who sparked the controversy was "just dead."

Mrs. Waines threatened to withdraw her support of the gallery after viewing the selection of the judges for the current jury show, the decoration of buildings as "nauseating blobs."

Mr. Beny said the kind of art Mrs. Waines "would adore—a sort of nationalist romanticism—was supported by the Facists."

"She probably succumbs to Liberace, the most appalling phenomenon in America today," he said in an interview.

Mr. Beny said he was impressed by the show.

"This is one of the most stimulating I have seen in Canada," he said.

CNR President Says Railways Unfairly Fettered

NEW YORK (CP) — Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, said Monday night railways are unfairly fettered in areas of transportation.

In an address to the Economic Club of New York, the CNR chief issued a plea for a more realistic approach to the problem of railway freight regulations. Such regulations should apply only where railways have a "functional monopoly," he told his audience of industrialists, professional and business men.

The railways should have freedom of action in setting rates in the "free competitive market's areas" where shippers can choose the mode of transport best suited to their needs, he said.

The railways thus would be permitted merely to provide "realistic competition." Competition would dictate rate-making and would of itself provide "self-evident regulatory force."

But Mr. Gordon said he concedes the need for continued regulations where the character of traffic gives the railways a "functional monopoly"—where distance from markets, inaccessibility to bulk or other circumstances require a transport service that only railways can provide.

"Freedom of action by the rails always may not yet be in the public interest" in such cases, he said.

He said regulations of the railways freedom of action in free competitive market areas would produce a sufficient measure of "profitable and appropriate rail traffic" to counter unprofitable areas.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady with offerings light for a cautious demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 54; A medium 51-52; A small 43; B 43; C 36. Wholesale to retail: A large 61; A medium 56-57; A small 43; B 43; C 41.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade 57-58, western 56; one cent small lot of third grade butter at 48.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Meagre numbers of good and choice slaughter steers and heifers met active demand at steady prices at the Ontario stockyards today. Most receipts made up of low-medium and common killers, selling slowly.

Buyers are carrying unfilled orders for 1,000-1,100 pounds strictly good and choice slaughter steers. Cows were steady to week's decline of 50 cents a hundredweight. Dry-fed yearlings easier.

Receipts: cattle 815; calves 320; hogs 695; sheep and lambs 233, carryover from Monday 3,400 common killers, selling slowly.

Prices: choice steers 20-21; good steers 19-20; mediums 16-19; commons 12-16; good heifers 17-18, a few choice 18.50; mediums 14-17; commons 12-14; boner steers and heifers 8-12; choice fed yearlings 20.50-22.50, good fed yearlings 20.50-21.50; medium 17-20; good cows 10, a few sales 10.50; canners and cutters 6; good heavy bologna bulls 9.

Replacement cattle: slow with some medium stockers and dairy calves 16-17.50.

Calves active and 1 higher at 25-27 for good and choice vealers, some 28; mediums 18-24; commons 12-17; grass calves sold for slaughter 9-12.

Hog prices not established.

Lambs steady at 1950 for good handyweight lots; ewes and wethers bucks discounted 1 a hundredweight, heavy lambs 2; common and medium lambs 13-17; good light sheep 8, common and heavy 2.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials and base metals moved ahead again today in first-hour stock exchange trading after a strong session Monday.

Selective industrial demand appeared chiefly in foods, utilities manufactures, papers and constructions. A 32 advance by Loblaw B at 86¼ was the biggest change. International Paper was down $1.50 and Ford A 2¼.

Steep Rock and Consolidated Smelting each gained to lead senior base metals ahead. Juniors were more mixed with a few of the lower-priced issues pushed won in profit-taking.

Golds had McIntyre up ⅝ and Thompson-Lundmark ⅝ ahead at $1.90.

Uraniums traded quietly. Gunnar lost a small fraction.

Merrill led improved issues in a mixed western oils section, up 35 to $10.10.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at par with Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Monday's noon rate par. Pound sterling, $2.80, up 3-16.

Hepburn Arrested

TORONTO (CP)—Doug Hepburn, former world's champion weightlifter and now a professional wrestler, was arrested here this morning on a drunk driving charge.

Police said Hepburn drove off the Queen Elizabeth Way and broke two wooden guardrails.

Police to Use Two Interceptor Cars for Speeders

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario took tighter control of highway speeding and liquor vending Monday in an intensified crackdown to cut highway deaths.

Eric Silk, the province's senior solicitor, said that in addition to removing courtesy signs warning motorists of the presence of a radar speed trap, police now will use two interceptor cars.

Meanwhile, managers and employees of liquor, wine and brewers' retail stores were warned to be vigilant in refusing sales to persons who have been drinking.

The attorney-general's department said William Collings, chief commissioner of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, has written to officials of the 598 outlets and asked them to extend the warning to employees.

PLAN GETS SUPPORT

Mr. Silk said letters in answer to recent directives to motorists, crown attorneys and police chiefs indicates law officials support the crackdown.

The directive to liquor, beer and wine retail outlets asks managers to keep a close eye on sales when a person who has been drinking is present in a store, whether or not he tries to make a purchase.

The province's 275 examiners of applicants for drivers' licences have been asked by Transport Minister Allan that their appointments may be cancelled unless they are found not to have conducted proper tests of applicants.

Mr. Allan, in a memorandum to examiners said there must be no short-cuts and no routine in road tests.

He said four out of five accidents are caused entirely or in part by drivers' improper actions or behaviour.

It was reported that the province is considering adding the 10-cent fares for cars and trucks 45 across the board, Part of the extra money would go toward the cost of the highway-safety campaign.

Man Confesses Kidnap-Murder

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Arthur Ross Brown, arrested here after a series of crimes reaching from the Mississippi to the Pacific ocean, was held under $100,000 bail today after the FBI said he confessed the kidnap-murder of wealthy Mrs. Wilma Allen of Kansas City Aug. 4.

Yesterday, Brown, held on a federal charge of transporting a stolen automobile across state lines. The FBI had been hunting him since Aug. 31 for the shooting death of William Marshall at Sheridan, Wyo. The sheriff had been questioning Brown about a burglary there.

The FBI said Brown while being questioned about that shooting Monday, suddenly burst out "Where I'm really wanted is in Kansas City," and then described the kidnaping and slaying of Mrs. Allen, 34, wife of an automobile dealer.

Mrs. Allen was kidnapped while shopping. Her nude body, with the hands tied behind the back, was found three days later in a cow pasture south of Kansas City.

Brown, 30, a native of San Francisco, was convicted of burglary in 1946. He was sentenced for arson in 1947, and was paroled in 1952. Since then he has been sought for rape and burglary in San Jose, Calif., and was wanted in Kansas City for the kidnapping of his own wife.

U.S., Russia Plan Talks on Seating 18 Lands in UN

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States and Russia scheduled private talks today aimed at reviving a deadlock over admitting 18 new countries to the United Nations.

Western sources said hurried arrangements for the talks were being made as attempts to solve the long-standing problem bogged down over U.S. opposition to giving Soviet-sponsored Outer Mongolia a seat.

Meanwhile, two plans were reported afoot to speed UN action on membership.

1. The special political committee, in an unusual move, offered special priority to a plan drawn up by Canada and supported by Britain to admit all 18 applicants. The committee is discussing the Palestine refugee question, but its chairman, Indian Sen. Vaithayanan of Thailand, indicated that he would interrupt debate to send with in the membership item if conditions "appeared ripe."

PLAN MEETING

Informed sources said plans were on way to call an early session of council meeting on the membership.

The council could consider the question tonight if comes up in the special political committee and really its report to the general assembly for action. But the consensus is that most delegates would prefer to avoid a general debate to form the council acts.

Settlement of the membership question appeared near last week-end when chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said the U.S. had dropped its active opposition to four of the five Soviet entries—Albania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania.

The U.S. has questioned the qualifications of Outer Mongolia, which has been trying to get into the UN barely a year after it severed its ties with China and proclaimed itself a state in 1924.

An applicant must get seven affirmative votes in the council—without a veto—to win recommendation to the general assembly, in turn, two-thirds assembly must accord the applicant a two-thirds majority.

Uranium Strike In New Zealand Causes Dispute

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) Two derby prospectors, last day delayed filing a claim to New Zealand's first uranium strike because they thought they were in for something better," are preparing for a battle next month with a local businessman's claim to their strike.

The row will have to decide whether the prospectors have forfeited their claim to the strike they made last week as a result of the delay.

They filed their claim Monday to the area, which is on the west coast of New Zealand's South Island, just 3 minutes after businessman J. W. Fair filed his claim to the same area.

Three other uranium finds have been reported in the last 24 hours in the area where the prospectors made their strike. As hundreds of amateur prospectors flocked to the scene, claims were being staked out along the side of traffic-jammed roads.

Large Audience Enthralled By Masterful Ballet Performance

By BOYD UPTER

The National Ballet Company of Canada opened its 1955-56 North American tour in the Belleville Collegiate Monday night by completely capturing a capacity audience.

A thunder of applause that brought nine curtain calls at the conclusion of the evening was testimony to the enthusiasm with which the audience greeted the first visit of a full-sized ballet company to this city.

The performance, a delicate blending of classical and modern ballet, not only was an artistic success but a thumping entertainment triumph as well.

"Offenbach in the Underworld", Antony Tudor's gay masterwork of ladies of breeding out of bounds in Paris after dark, was the show stopper although it was surpassed for sheer artistry by the beautifully performed "Lilac Garden". "Les Sylphides" completed the program.

ROWDY ROMP

"Offenbach in the Underworld" was a magnificently rowdy romp which the cast seemed to enjoy almost as much as the audience. A colorful set that was transported to Paris in the saloon tradition set the scene for as fascinating a collection of ladies as ever prowled the Parisian nights.

Lois Smith, as an operetta star pursued by Ray Moller, as a grand duke, displayed brilliance and flirted outrageously. Mr. Moller as a grand duke, should have been an arch duke. His dress was arched much improperly among the pretty girls who wandered wistfully through the cafe.

Lillian Jarvis, as a debutante who is out of bounds without her family's knowledge, was as glamorous as any debutante has a right to be and as coquettish as most of them are. Joseph Popp, at 14 the youngest dancer in the company was touching as she danced her way through the absolute human debris on the cafe floor.

The "local ladies," high-kicking, skirt-tossing, bumptious cancan dancers, were too good to be true. Paris could never have been like this but the thought that it might have been is enough.

That such lovely young ladies could be so terribly, terribly wicked was a triumph of training.

SUPERB ENSEMBLE WORK

Ensemble work in "Offenbach" was superb. The can-can and the frantic fight scene was a fabulous frenzy that involved everyone, but without becoming disorganized.

George Crum, musical director of the company and conductor of the ballet orchestra, produced an exciting rendition of Offenbach's score that stirred and stimulated the action and the audience.

"Lilac Garden," the story of Carolina's marriage of convenience that inconvenients, her romance with a dashing young man and her prospective husband's affair with the lady in his past, was masterly done.

Lois Smith, as Caroline, gave a moving performance as the girl whose emotions are torn between romance and reality. She danced superbly and acted with conviction.

David Adams, as her lover, was a suitably distraught young man. James Ronaldson, the man Caroline married, was a proper pill. He was very convincing as the 10 last reasons why marriage brokers became extinct with the emergence of the modern matchmaker.

Celia Franca, as the woman in Mr. Ronaldson's past, was present on stage for all too short a time. She gave a powerful and sustained performance as the woman scorned who could, and would, raise hell.

"LES SYLPHIDES" PLEASES

"Les Sylphides", a classic ballet of pattern and form without a story, was exhibited against a backdrop of a garden. "Les Sylphides" completed the program.

Angela Leigh, Lillian Jarvis, Karl Kraul, Colleen Kenney and ensemble of beautiful young girls.

The discipline and grace of the ballet company showed to perfection in this studied work. Mood was paramount and the finery quality and ethereal beauty of the dance was enhanced by pale blue lighting.

The entire performance was a delight. Standards of grace and precision of the corps, always evident, conveyed emotional exhilaration and nuances of expression that embellished the entire evening's enjoyment. The warm and intelligent regard of the dancers and musicians for the work they were doing was clearly evident and obviously appreciated by the audience.

The ballet orchestra responded to Mr. Crum's sensitive direction with some of the most listenable and most tender music heard locally in many years.

Costumes were good. Sets for "Les Sylphides" and "Lilac Garden," were sufficiently vague so as not to distract from the dancers but the set for "Lilac Garden" seemed too dark, too drab and too flat to be the romantic setting for the bittersweet story.

Flatness may have been caused by the shallowness of the stage but there was nothing in the set itself, except some too prominent spikes, to relieve the eye.

The enthusiasm created by last night's performance was such that the Belleville Theatre Guild, sponsors of the Ballet Company's visit to Belleville, immediately began preliminary talks with the company's business manager, for a two-day visit next season.

Need 3 Billion Spent on Ontario Roads Every Year

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says Ontario must spend $3,000,000,000 on highways during the next 10 years to keep up with the demand for new roads and reconstruction of existing highways.

The newspaper says it was learned at Queen's Park Monday night "that the province is running behind at the rate of about $100,000,000 annually in highway construction."

Ontario's highway budget for this year was $175,000,000 but of that only about $85,000,000 could be devoted to new construction, the story says.

"From the $175,000,000, $35,000,000 is being spent in municipal road subsidies, $20,000,000 for administration and $35,000,000 for maintenance."

The newspaper adds that the question of whether the government should adopt the method of toll roads for financing new construction is being investigated by a select committee.

Parley on Wheat Nears Its End

GENEVA (CP) — The United Nations wheat conference is expected to adjourn Friday, it was learned today. Delegates have been in session since Oct. 24.

The conference is still "round wraps" from a news standpoint but surface indications are that prospects for an international accord on wheat are much more active than they seemed a month ago.

One interested Canadian official who is not a member of the Canadian delegation, told a reporter he has been "reassured" by what has heard about the atmosphere of the talks. Other observers have drawn encouragement from the business-like nature of the discussions.

CORONER'S JURY LOOKS FOR BUSINESS

A coroner's jury in Toronto investigating the fatal shooting of a bank teller has recommended that all senior bank employees in Toronto be armed and trained in the use of firearms.

What is this coroner's jury trying to do, create jobs for more coroner's juries?

Or maybe it hopes that improved marksmanship will increase the life expectancy of bank tellers and reduce the number of bank robbers.

The jury made its recommendation after finding that the slain bank teller had been felled accidentally by a bullet from the bank manager's gun. The manager, who had been in the bank vault when the armed robbery was attempted, started shooting at the robbers from the vault. It is not known whether one of his shots went astray or whether the bank teller inadvertently walked into the line of fire.

There is no good reason why bank personnel should be armed and several excellent reasons why they should not.

Armed bank robbery is not a crime punishable by death. Arming bank employees and training them to use pistols would be a waste of time if the employees were not prepared to shoot to kill armed robbers. It is inconsistent that a judge and jury, incapable of imposing a death penalty for a crime that does not warrant it, should be so lightly by-passed by a coroner's jury which would give the power of life and death to bank employees.

If bank employees were unarmed there would be no provocation of armed robbers into a shooting affray in which not only robbers and bank employees, but innocent bystanders, might lose their lives.

Bank employees, especially senior employees, should be thoroughly indoctrinated in a policy of non-resistance to armed robbery in any situation in which human lives are threatened for nothing more important than dollar bills, the best policy is to hand over the assets as courteously as possible and insist on insurance as gunplay to the police who are equipped, trained and empowered for the job.

Training a bank employee to be judge, jury and executioner of armed robbers should be completely and totally discouraged. It is only money the robbers want and compared to a life of what value is money?

"OLD BOLSHEVIK" REVIVAL?

American sources at Geneva are reported to believe that the Soviet Union "has made the most radical shift in its foreign policy tactics since the death of Stalin." Blunt talk by Foreign Minister Molotov last week led U.S. observers to conclude that the USSR was returning to much harder tactics than those adopted during the Malenkov era and the present Bulganan-Khrushchev regime, up to the present.

Molotov's uncompromising stand last week amazed Western observers. They had hoped for concessions, since Molotov, after visiting Moscow over the previous weekend, had said he was returning to Geneva with "better bargaining." When he did not produce any concessions, his statement about "better baggage" was regarded as a fraud. Perhaps mature consideration will suggest that it was nothing of the kind. Molotov probably meant exactly what he said. The trouble was that the diplomats of the West interpreted the statement from their own viewpoint, which was that Russian concessions were desirable. Molotov, however, may well view the situation from the opposite angle. The "baggage" which he carried was "better" in his opinion because it had been given permission—or had been the instructor—to be tough again.

Is this another victory for the "Old Bolshevik" school, of which Molotov is one of the few survivors? Does this mean that the pendulum is again swinging from Khrushchev's lesser, in the determination of Russian foreign policy?

SOME INFATUATION!

Wallace Reyburn, writing in the Toronto Telegram, says that in the romance between Princess Margaret and Group Captain Peter Townsend "the Royal Family was confronted with a deeply human situation, such as many another family throughout the world—the infatuation of a teenager for a married man much older than herself. That was how the Margaret-Peter association got under way."

Princess Margaret first met Townsend when she was 13.

She is now 25.

Twelve years have elapsed.

If this is infatuation, some Hollywood movie stars ought to try it for a change. Instead of failing passionately in love with a new-pre-destined soul-mate every ten or twelve months.

YOUR BEST

When you beat somebody
Who's down
Or some careless toiler tries to show an easier way to you,
Pay no heed unto his counsel;
spurn his gifts; stop and rest.
Nothing's good enough,
remember, if you haven't done your best.

If a little more of effort and a little extra care
Would improve the task you're doing, give it promptly then and there;
Take the longer route to splendor; take the harder
road to fame,
For a duty that is slighted is a
blotch upon your name.

Never leave a thing you've started till you know you've done it well.
Put your brain and your courage that your finished work will tell.
There are times when toil is irksome, and perfection seems afar,
But remember by your labor men shall know you as you are.

Heed no man who counsels shirking! Here the course of duty's plain,
By the pathway of indifference
one shall never worth attain.
Face the world erect in honor, fit to meet the sternest test.
Good enough will lead to failure.
To succeed requires your best!

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 15, 1935

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clark have returned from a honeymoon, Kansas, N.Y., where they were the attendants at the Latta-Wickson wedding.

Miss Hattie Mastin, Reg. N., attended the Overseas Nurses' Dance at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Moher spent the weekend in Ottawa.

Miss Mary Sutherland was home from Toronto to spend the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril McBride spent the weekend in Ottawa.

Miss Eileen Cannon and Miss Katherine McDonnell spent the weekend in Toronto.

Dr. Jack Marshall is spending a few days in New York City.

Miss Edna Wheeler has returned home after spending the past month visiting friends in Toronto, Detroit and Peterborough.

Sheriff John D. Flynn, Mrs. O'Flynn and Mrs. Stanley Hagerman went to Toronto this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Stokes, Victoria Avenue, are spending a short time in Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 15, 1925

Mrs. F. Corrigan, Victoria Avenue, was the hostess to a number of young people last evening. The evening was passed pleasantly with music and dancing.

Miss Grace Phillips, Dundas Street, is visiting her brother in Prescott.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Snare of Oshawa are the guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Jordan, Catherine Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Thompson have returned home after spending a few days with friends in Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Reid of this city were present guests at the Home of Mr. H. Rose at Carmel.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: "The residents of West Belleville would like some of the aldermen to tell them when the houses on that side of the river are to be numbered".

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 15, 1915

In the assembly room of the Street Methodist Church last evening a mock trial was put on under the auspices of the Epworth League. The affair was most enjoyable and those who took part displayed considerable talent. Harold Holton, president of the league acted as judge; Wendell Osborne was the prosecution attorney, and Charles L. Ellis was counsel for the defendant, Miss Van Luven, who was charged with failing to give one tenth of her income to religious work. Some clever witnesses were examined and they kept the attorneys "on their toes" and afforded much amusement. The jury accepted the whole burden of evidence as pointing to guilt of the accused and the judge imposed the sentence of one year's labor on the unfortunate prosecuted the sentence.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian church anniversary services will be held next Sunday. The Rev. Dr. Morgan will be the guest preacher.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: "The many friends in this city of the Rev. J. M. Hodson, who was pastor of Bridge Street Methodist Church from 1892 to 1895, will be pleased to learn that he has received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from the Conquistadors College at Denver, Colorado, in recognition of his theological and literary talents and services. The Rev. Dr. Hodson is now pastor of the Reformed Church at Fordham, N.Y.

3,000-Mile Trek in 1568

(National Geographic)

Few tales of epic journeys in early America are less known or more incredible than that of the 3,000-mile walk of David Ingram.

Ingram was an English sailor in 1568, with some 100 others, he was put ashore on Mexico's Gulf Coast. Thereupon, by his own telling, he and two companions made their way on foot to a point near present-day Saint John, New Brunswick, 3,000 miles away.

The account of this amazing and improbable feat, told to examiners in 1582, was published in 1589 by the great English geographer Richard Hakluyt. Later it was dismissed as sheer fabrication. Yet today many historians tend to accept Ingram's story as based on a certain degree of fact.

History knows that about the beginning of October, 1568, more than 100 English seamen of the adventurer Sir John Hawkins went ashore near what is now Tampico, either for a drink, a dance, or a dalliance with the Spanish had left Hawkins' ship overloaded and short of food.

Only five of these men ever returned to England. Two groups of 75 who chose to head south, Hakluyt says, were almost immediately escaped from Spanish servitude, after 14 and 23 years respectively.

Three others — David Ingram of Barking, Essex, Richard Browne and Richard Twide — were among a third number who set out to "northward."

Most were killed by Indians or hardship. But 11 months later, Ingram related, they "came and reached a river mouth 60 leagues west of 'Cape Britton' [Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia. There they found a ship, the French Gargarisher named Cap. Francis Alagne" (not Samuel Champlain, who founded Quebec in the year of 1568), they were back in England.

Then Queen Elizabeth's police chief, Sir Francis Walsingham, questioned Ingram about his fantastic tale, the illiterate old sailor had had 13 years to add fancy and embellishment. Yet, the geography about North America was what Hakluyt called "very strange," and by it was a wide range of information, long before it was known.

His narrative, later dictated under careful examination, is filled with wild imaginings and contradictions. He tells of elephants "greater than oxen," of "great teeth or horses of a foot long growing straight fourth by their mouthes." He described Indian kings wearing "rubies yt yaches long, and 3 fingers broad," gold silver, pearls, and people using iron tools in great villages all up and down the continent.

Yet beneath much outright fiction, plus much that Ingram must have picked up from stories of Spanish America, lay a believable and possible truth. There was little doubt that he had been in America, that he did walk from Mexico to somewhere on the east coast.

Ingram's description of hundreds of large bays and rivers that had "fresh water in them," of grapes and "greate and huge woodes" are just what anyone would have seen walking across eastern North America in 1568.

The three men most probably wandered along the Gulf coast, then north from Florida. They saw a "birde called a flamingo, who's feathers were very red" and later what was probably a great auk, now extinct. Ingram tells, most accurately, of "deere, beathe redde, white, and speckled.

How much of what Ingram told Walsingham, Sir Humphrey Gilbert, Sir George Peckham, and the younger Richard Hakluyt constituted sheer embroidery, will never be completely known.

But Ingram was in America was at high pitch. Gilbert was to sailing. Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

You Had Better Learn To Breathe

One of the benefits ascribed to natural breathing in a volumette of Dr. Dew Brady's undoctorbook-ish pocket encyclopedia of health, is equalization of the circulation. This and other benefits, I quote from the portable encyclopedia, are "due to the booster pump action of the diaphragm which prevents blood from stagnating in the veins."

And that's the trouble with a lot of you poor geeks—your blood stagnates in your veins, particularly the vast network of veins and venules in the abdomen, the splanchnic pool, which is capable of holding a quarter of all the blood in the body.

Don't take my word for anything. After all, I'm just a retiring old one-horse-and-buggy man, as any trick specialist or "clinic" racketeer will readily tell you ask the humbug embarrassing questions about his "system." A physiologist, or consult a standard textbook of physiology.

Mrs. A. H. H. says:

". . . my husband's high blood pressure and you prescribed a breathing exercise which brought down the blood pressure faster than any medicines ever did . . ."

The late great Dr. S. Adolphus Knopf recommended what I call belly breathing exercise (belly is derived from the Anglo - Saxon balg, meaning bag, bellows) for, of all things, what he called chronic arthritis, and he quoted the opinion of another physician that "it helps to relax, it quiets the heart, it lessens fatigue and increases endurance. It improves the portal circulation" (which carries blood from digestive tract to the liver) "and thus prevents the distress of gas accumulation."

Please don't assume that natural breathing is done with the chest.

A seance of natural, belly, bellows, (no, not a word about the diaphragm now) breathing after each your prayers every night helps to relax your feet warm and brine restful sleep. That's why you should say your prayers first, for many persons get out of kilter before the finish the breathing exercise.

Never raise your chest or chest expansion. Never mind your blood pressure. Life depends on natural breathing regularly, to counteract in a degree the bad consequences of the nasty habit of throwing out your chest and holding in your bellows.

City Manager Plan Assailed

(Ottawa Journal)

The city of Windsor enjoys (if that is the word) exactly the same municipal government as Ottawa—a mayor, board of control and 'aldermen' and makes the same mess of it. Windsor, not too well satisfied with the produce of this civic machine, is considering an experiment with the city-manager system. What is proposed is the appointment of a city manager on what Windsor Star calls "a temporary basis", this to be followed by a plebiscite a year hence on making this type of administration permanent—a step that would involve abolition of the board of control.

The Star rightly points out that not much can be expected of a temporary city manager superimposed on the present structure of government and heads reporting to the board of control. The Journal would go farther than that and doubt that anything in the way of improvement could be expected of a city manager in a system Ontario city no matter with what authority he should be furnished.

The city-manager system achieved success in 400 cities of the United States where corrupt boss rule had created a situation in which any change was bound to be an improvement. Ontario does not exist in any Ontario city, we are sure, and so there is little room for more than a change in the administrative machinery, especially economies and striking advances in efficiency.

If it be the considered opinion of The Journal, after watching our neighbors experiment with city-manager government in one of these many years, that there is no form of local government superior to the "old" system, we would be inclined to discard. Competent departmental managers reporting to the city's elected representatives and through council to the people at large constitute a thoroughly democratic form of local government, sound and dependable.

The idea of the superman independent of council and even of the board of the departments is the idea of the dictator on the municipal level.

British Thugs Break Code

(New York Times)

Three ill-behaved Britons the other day perpetrated a daylight hold-up in the heart of historic London. The day in question was one of the loveliest days London has ever had. The fog had cleared, the sun shone brightly through the pigeons strutted their stuff in Trafalgar Square, decorations were up for the state opening of Parliament, and soldiers dressed their immediate purpose and sped down such well-known thoroughfares as Whitehall and Downing Street. The police were immediately activated on a massive scale, but fortunately in no vital portion of the town hall.

This wanton burst of illegality occurred in the very midst of the royal pomp-centre: the House of Parliament, Westminister Abbey, the Inner Temple, Buckingham Palace and the Marble Arch. The attempted crime was a snatch at Commonwealth, at Magna Charta, at the Petition of Rights at the common law itself.

But there was one omission in the episode, as viewed from this side of the ocean. In all our great cities the rank and file of the police are armed with guns. Constables in London they are not so armed. In Toronto, in cities the police, in their admirable attempt to halt the flight of a wicked man, quite frequently shoot to kill. And the list of casualties in this wild chase through the historic streets of London.

One wonders about the difference in the system that prevails in other parts of England the opposition in general seems to work out fairly well. Is an understanding between the police and the criminal that the police shall not try to kill the other. Crimes of violence are certainly a little less frequently in British than here. Would there be fewer in this country if we substituted for the police revolver a somewhat impotent detective system?

Strength for The Day

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DO YOU POSSESS OR OWN?

A wealthy woman building a palatial home asked her interior decorator to select a number of rare books she should have in her library. She wanted to have finely bound volumes, the color of which would match rugs, curtains, and wall finish. It made no difference to her what was in the books. The color of the binding alone was significant.

One sometimes goes into the homes of people who own only a few books but who have mastered the contents of those few books. A few books, but the few he has read were excellent quality and greatly influenced his life.

There are some people who own rare books and others who possess them. The woman who wanted the books mentioned above was a fool. She with the color scheme, simply owned books; Abraham Lincoln who died a long, long before even coffee was invented, possessed these books. Some people own beautiful gardens but others possess them. Some people own these gardens over to someone else. Legally these people own the gardens, but actually some illiterate chap who pulls weeds and cuts grass and loves them deeply, really possesses the garden.

Who owns the landscape over which we look as we drive out through the country? Only the owner of property could be discovered by the surveyor and recorded records; but we possess the landscape if we have the capacity for nature and see in these beauties the handwriting of an all-wise and beneficent Creator.

Housewives Poke Thru Stores In Drive Against Bad Books

TORONTO (CP)—Housewives by the hundreds poked through magazine racks again today in a crusade to rid Ontario newsstands of obscene books.

The housewives, trained observers from the Catholic Women's League, a Roman Catholic lay organization, checked books and periodicals against a list of 300 "objectionable" publications.

The books have been blacklisted by the National Organization of Decent Literature of Chicago.

More than 1,000 members in the archdiocese of Toronto extending from Oshawa to Orangeville, 30 miles northeast of here, and from Owen Sound to Fort Erie are taking part in the crusade.

The drive brought misgivings from some sources and approval from others. Chief among the critics were authors and distributors.

League officials said the crusade is aimed at keeping the books out of the hands of grammar-school children and teen-agers.

Observers hope by asking dealers to return objectionable books they will cut down on children's chances of obtaining them. Mrs. W. J. McDonald, league publicity convenor, said most observers were treated with courtesy.

"Most dealers agreed with our campaign and asked for a list."

One of the authors to criticize the drive was Morley Callaghan of Toronto.

"They're terribly misguided," he said.

"I don't think that having women on white horses coming into book stores and reasoning with the gentleman in charge is going to be very effective.

"This crusade is a dangerous type of censorship by a pressure group. Not one woman in 10,000 will have any personal awareness of the thing she is damning. Any book could be put on her secret list and she would know nothing about it."

Ralph Allen, editor of Maclean's Magazine, said:

"I am sure these people mean very well. But they forget one thing: Today's heresy may be tomorrow's revelation; today's garbage has often turned out to be tomorrow's art.

"Make it impossible for a child to read anything that might conceivably be bad for him and you must, by definition, also be making it difficult to read some of the things that may be good for him."

Attorney-General Kelso Roberts said:

"They are to be commended for their efforts . . . I think that if any agency can be persuaded to return these books the league's job will be praiseworthy."

American News Company said: "We don't recognize any self-constituted censorship committee in any way shape or form."

Sinnott News Company commented: "There are laws set up to control these matters in this country. Censorship should be left entirely to the government . . . it's a dangerous precedent. . . ; ; ;

Grain Exchange Hits Compulsory Marketing Pools

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Winnipeg grain exchange predicted today that farmers will still have trouble selling wheat 25 years from now and called on Canada to make the law of supply and demand an ally rather than an enemy in meeting the marketing challenges.

In a brief before the Gordon economic commission, the exchange maintained that compulsory marketing of grain under Prairie pools protect inefficiency.

The grain exchange said it agreed governments must aid farmers in times of stress, but this said "must be tendered on the basis of need and should be flexible enough to be withdrawn when not required by the economics of the situation then prevailing."

The exchange's views contrasted with those of W. J. Parker, president of Manitoba Pool Elevators, who argued before the commission Monday that centralized marketing, commodity agreements and similar undertakings are "the children of necessity."

ACTION NECESSARY

It wasn't the fact that governments participated in marketing that caused surpluses but that surpluses caused governments to get into the marketing business, Mr. Parker maintained.

"Every time the federal government participated in grain marketing, it was because the nation's interest was at stake."

The commission has been charged by the federal government with the job of forecasting the shape of Canada's economy in the next 25 years.

Forecasting a rise in Canada's population stops to 25,000,000 by 1980, the grain exchange estimated there will be a continual rise in eastern Canadian markets for Prairie coarse grains.

But though total Prairie land planted to wheat may drop by 1980, it was difficult to anticipate significant reductions in total wheat production. Even 25 years from now Canada will still need big export markets for her wheat surpluses, the grain exchange said.

"It appears, therefore, that the production and successful exportation of substantial quantities of wheat will be a continuing economic fact with which western Canadian agriculture must grapple during the next quarter-century, and probably longer."

Executive Tells Soo to Improve Harbor Facilities

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) A shipping company executive said Monday night this city should improve its harbor facilities if it is to gain by the St. Lawrence seaway.

Captain F. Mazzuti, president of the Yankcanuck Steamship Company, said at a city council meeting that a program of marine expansion could give the city's economy a major shot in the arm.

He said the port can become the major marine terminal in the Great Lakes system when the seaway is opened in 1958.

Captain Mazzuti is chairman of a seaway committee recently formed by the city's Chamber of Commerce.

He recommended construction of two 600-foot berths in order that lake and deep sea freighters may use port facilities to discharge their cargoes for reshipment to the Lakehead.

Capt. Mazzuti said if harbor facilities are not improved the city runs the risk of becoming only a through point for freighters bound to and from the Lakehead.

AWARDED $40,000

GODERICH (CP)—A settlement of $40,000 and costs was awarded Charles Jones of Wingham, in a supreme court session Monday.

The action was awarded against J. Wilson Bowen of St. Mary's, who, it was learned by the court, was driving a car on Highway 8 near Schringville Feb. 25, 1954, when it was in a head-on collision with a car driven by Jones.

Liquor Permits May Be Valid Two or 3 Years

TORONTO (CP) — The Liquor Control Board of Ontario may recommend that liquor permits be valid for two or three years and not for only one year as they are now, it was announced Monday.

Chief commissioner William Collings said the board is considering making such a recommendation to Provincial Secretary Dunbar.

He said the board's probable recommendation will be that permits be valid for more than one year and that the record of purchases now required on permits be eliminated.

The board is not considering recommending that the permit be done away with, Mr. Collings said. Such a move would require amendments to the Liquor Control Act.

By setting out the records of purchase, the permits could be made much simpler and compact, he said.

A POLICY REVIEW

The board is continuing a review of its policy on liquor and beer advertising and is considering briefs from newspapers, radio and television officials, liquor and beer interests and temperance groups.

The board's report on its findings is expected next month.

Mr. Collings said it is reviewing regulations covering advertising in newspapers, streetcars, buses, periodicals, radio and television.

Regulations now allow institutional advertising by beer and liquor firms in newspapers, magazines, streetcars and buses on public-interest causes. Advertising by brand names is prohibited.

Advertising of any kind, however is prohibited on radio and television.

Beer and liquor advertising can be seen or heard by Ontario residents in magazines printed outside the province or on radio and TV programs originating in the United States.

Largest Draft Of Canadians Returning Home

OTTAWA (CP) — The largest draft of soldiers and dependents—more than 1,000—in the return from Germany of the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade will arrive aboard the liner Queen Frederica at Quebec City Friday, army headquarters said Monday.

About half the draft comprises members of the 2nd Battalion Royal Canadian Regiment.

With arrival of the Queen Frederica, only four more westbound sailings will be needed to complete return of the 1st Brigade. These ships will bring some 3,000 soldiers and their dependents home to Canada in time for Christmas.

Only two sailings, both for dependents, remain to complete the move of the 2nd Brigade to Germany.

CHURCHILL RETURNS

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill Monday flew back to the London mists from his two-month Mediterranean holiday looking happy to be home. He arrived as an ordinary passenger aboard a regular British European Airways plane from Nice. A blaze of newsreel floodlights greeted the 80-year-old statesman as he stepped from the plane. Churchill spent his vacation painting and writing at Lord Beaverbrook's villa at Cap d'Ail, France.

Weddings

WANNAMAKER—HOLMES

Queenboro United church was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on Saturday, when vows were at high noon, when the Rev. J. F. Lane of Madoc, united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony, Joan Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Golden H. Holmes, Queensboro, and John Earl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wannamaker, Madoc. The church was tastefully decorated with potted ferns, and baskets of bronze and white 'mums and the guest pews were marked with white tulle bows.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Fred Bailey of Cooper, and Miss Margaret Loslin, Madoc, soloist, sang, "I'll Walk Beside You", before the ceremony, and "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a floor-length gown of white net, and chrysanthemum lace, over white satin. The fitted, sculptor bodice, and jacket of lace with long sleeves and Peter Pan collar was trimmed with iridescent sequins and clusters of baby seed pearls. Her fingertip veil was of rayon net, caught to a headdress of net and tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade of deep red roses and fern.

Mrs. Donald Wannamaker of Madoc, as matron of honor, wore a floor-length gown of shrimp net over satin, with matching jacket and gloves.

Miss Thornton Holmes, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Douglas Wannamaker, were bridesmaids, attired in floor-length gowns of yellow and green net over satin with jackets of flowered lace. All attendants wore matching feather headdresses and carried nosegays of yellow and white 'mums with white satin streamers.

Mr. Donald Wannamaker, Madoc, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman and Mr. Robert Lynn, Queensboro, cousin of the bride and Mr. Douglas Wannamaker, Madoc, cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a dress of dusky rose with brown accessories, and corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother in dress of grey and pink, with blue accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Dinner was served in the Sunday school room, which was decorated with streamers of pink and white, and white bells with vases of pink and white flowers on the tables.

Mrs. George Glover invited the guests to the table where the Misses Margaret Gaydon, Claire Holmes, Marlene O'Rourke and Isabella Sager served dinner to 80 guests.

The bridegroom's grandmother, who was unable to attend, was presented with the bride's bouquet and a tape recording of the ceremony.

For travelling to Watertown and Syracuse, the bride chose a blue wool suit, flecked with pink, pink feather hat, scarf and gloves, navy shoes and purse and corsage of pink roses. On their return they will reside at 88 Morrow Street, Peterborough, Ontario.

Guests were present from Perth, Belleville, Cobourg, Frenchman's Falls, Marmora, Madoc, Tweed and Queensboro.

BRENNAN—SILLS

On Saturday, October 22, a pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, at 9.00 a.m., when the Rev. William McGee united in marriage Barbara Ann Sills, of Belleville R.R. 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Sills, to Robert Patrick Brennan, also of Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Brennan. White chrysanthemums and ferns adorned the altar.

Miss Dorothy Grant, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Mc. Burley, who sang during the ceremony, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," and "Panis Angelicus."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely floor-length bridal gown of net over satin, with fitted bodice at Chantilly lace and net having a Mandarin collar, and long, sheath-like sleeves of Chantilly lace at the wrists. The full skirt featured a hoop with front and back panels of lace. Her matching fingertip veil was held by a net sequin coronet headdress trimmed with seed pearls, and she carried an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums and pink roses. Her sandals completed her ensemble.

Mrs. E. A. Derrington of Belleville, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, was attired in a floor-length gown of shrimp colored nylon crystalette over taffeta The long sleeved bodice featured a portrait neckline with back bow. She wore a half halo of bronze 'mums, and carried a nosegay of bronze and yellow 'mums. Gold sandals completed her costume.

The bridesmaids, Misses Rosemary Hickey of Chicago, cousin of the bride, and Gail Bowers of Belleville, were gowned alike in floor-length, peacock nylon crystalette fashioned similarly to that of the matron of honor, with gold sandals. They wore matching floral headdresses and carried nosegays of yellow 'mums.

Little Mary Ann Sills, two-year-old niece of the bride, made a sweet flower girl in her short embroidered nylon organdy of pink, with matching bonnet brim, white sandals, pink sockees and white gloves. She carried a tiny basket of mixed fall flowers.

Mr. Clare Brennan of Read, attended his brother, while Messrs. Gerald Brennan, also of Read, cousin of the bridegroom, and Albert Sills, brother of the bride were ushers.

The reception was held at the bride's home, R.R. 2, Belleville, where Mrs. Sills, in a blue crimplene, wearing gold rose French crepe with lace panels, black accessories, and corsage of pale pink Sweetheart roses, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Michael Durkin, of Read, who was gowned in royal blue crepe trimmed with rhinestones, black accessories, and pale pink Sweetheart rose corsage.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, and Watertown, New York, the bride travelled in a light blue suit, with grey kiddskin jacket, black accessories and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Brennan are residing in Belleville, R.R. 2.

Guests were present from Detroit, Chicago, Watertown, Loslin, Sarnia, and Read.

Recent Bride Feted With Showers

Miss Barbara Ann Sills, recent bride, was the honoree guest at a miscellaneous shower given by the girls of the staff of the Corbin Lock Company, held at the home of Miss Helen Lee.

Games and a social time were enjoyed, after which Barbara opened many gifts, thanking each donor for her kind wishes, and for the lovely remembrance which accompanied them. Refreshments were served.

A pantry shower was also held for her at the home of Mrs. J. B. Hamilton, when a simulated bride of cardboard, containing numerous kitchen and pantry articles were shown after the "cutting" of the cake by the bride-to-be.

During the evening a bride's book was compiled, and games and refreshments enjoyed.

Following her marriage, she was again honored by another miscellaneous shower held at the home of the bride's mother with Mrs. A. McGowan as hostess. A pretty blue baby carriage holding the gifts was wheeled in by the bride's little nephews, Tommy and Bobby Sills, who were preceded by a tiny bride, little Mary Ann Sills, wearing a lovely bridal dress in white, made by Mrs. McGowan for the occasion, and a natty bridegroom, Master John Derrington, complete with white boutonniere.

After the gifts were admired, and the givers thanked, cards, and a social get-together, with refreshments concluded a happy evening.

Advisory Blind Board Names Yule Committee

At the fall meeting of the Hastings County Advisory board for the Blind held at the home of the chairman Mr. T. J. Fluery, a committee comprised of Mrs. J. D. Archibald, M. E. Fairman, Mr. G. Wishart, and Miss M. Peck, was appointed to arrange for the distribution of Christmas gifts to the blind in this locality.

Plans were made for the pre-Christmas sale of blindcraft products on December first and second. The goods will be displayed in the window of the Public Utilities Front Street, and a committee of Mrs. R. Rollins, Mrs. Ward and Mrs. O. Wishart was appointed to look after the details of the sale.

CASES REPORT

Mr. P. I. Timmins, field secretary, gave an extensive report on the various cases in the district. An especially close check on the children in the eye-service division is being kept. Needy cases were discussed with provision made for extras in the way of clothing, fuel, extra cash allowances, and specific needs of drugs, eye care and medicine.

Mr. Charles Greer of Deseronto Electronics, was appointed to the Board to replace the Rev. Mr. Blatchford who has moved.

Mrs. H. Rollins read the report for the Belleville committee in the Quinte-St. Lawrence Hall in Kingston. There are four members from this county each paying $32 a month, leaving $20 to be paid by the Board. Mr. Timmins commented that the present rate of $53 a month will be lowered on the residence is filled to capacity.

A total of a general rise in receipts was noted by Mr. H. J. Fuke when he gave the financial report for the 1955 campaign. However new fields of financial support are needed due to the operating expenses of the residence.

Mr. Bob Padden, assistant to the field secretary, reported on visits which had been made.

Kiwanis Ladies Present New 1956 Directors

The Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary held its November meeting recently at the Kiwanis Centre. Ten members were welcomed at the door by president, Mrs. W. Cook, and Mrs. R. Cooper.

Mrs. T. Franklin presided at the piano. Mrs. Cook welcomed back Mrs. J. Ross, a former member.

The secretary and treasurer's reports were read.

Mrs. J. Pringle, convener of Welfare, requested that the members bring canned goods for the Christmas boxes to the next meeting which would be the annual Christmas party for children.

Mrs. W. Slade reminded members of the bridge party which will be held Saturday, at 8 p.m. at the Kiwanis Centre.

Mrs. R. Cooper, who collects used toys for Christmas Welfare Work, needs doll dresses for his unemployed dolls. Any member who could sew was asked to help in this worthwhile project.

1956 DIRECTORS

President, Mrs. W. Cook, presented the new directors for 1956: Mrs. H. Trepanier, Mrs. A. Duffy, Mrs. H. House, Mrs. B. Punchard, Mrs. K. Burkitt, Mrs. E. Logan, Mrs. E. Finkle and Mrs. C. Argue.

Letters of thanks for a rose and rose bowl were read from Mrs. D. Punchard, Mrs. G. Wishart and Mrs. E. Sendercock.

The past presidents took over the meeting. Games were played and costumes were judged. Mrs. C. Hyde, Mrs. J. Marsh and Mrs. H. Craig won the honors for the best hard-time costumes. Mrs. W. Slade, Mrs. T. Franklin and Mrs. H. House for the little girl costumes and Mrs. E. Logan for the baby costume.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Wilson's group bringing to a close a most enjoyable evening.

Film Council To Hold Panel Discussion

A panel discussion on the topic "Freedom to Learn" will be presented by the Belleville and District Film Council on November 24th at 8 p.m.

The panel, following the showing of a film on the subject, will discuss one of the great questions of the time—"Can freedom be controlled and restricted and still be freedom?"

Guest speakers will be, Rev. L. K. Daniel, minister of Victoria Avenue Baptist church; Harriet Stevens of CJBQ; Mr. Linton Read, teacher at BCVS, and Mrs. A. G. Tooth, former teacher.

The chairman will be Miss Olive Elson, teacher at Queen Elizabeth school.

The public is cordially invited to attend this panel discussion. In expressing your opinion on the subject and enjoy an evening of splendid entertainment.

Well Balanced Meals Topic At H-S Assoc.

The regular monthly meeting of the Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association was held in Prince Charles auditorium on Wednesday night with 123 members present.

The business part of the meeting was conducted by president, Mrs. A. Pugh, who welcomed the gathering and praised them on their fine attendance.

Mrs. E. A. Chappell and Mrs. E. D. Smith, two of the delegates who attended the Home and School Regional conference in Peterborough, gave an excellent report on the highlights from this meeting.

Mrs. Orr, program chairman, introduced Master Jack Ploeg, Grade 3 pupil of Prince Charles school, who played two fine music numbers at the piano.

Mrs. C. Miles introduced Miss Margaret McMullen, home economist, at Quinte Secondary school, who spoke to the members of the importance of well balanced meals. Canada is a land of plenty, but most Canadians do not eat what is good for them.

A film called "Food for Freddie", showed how Freddie's mother planned and shopped for her family's meals and how she made them both appetizing and nutritious.

This was followed with a "buzz session", the members were divided into five groups, each with a leader. These leaders were, Mrs. Blakely, Mrs. Doxsee, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Till. Each group discussed food values seen in the film, which proved to be both interesting and amusing. Mrs. K. Davis graciously thanked Miss McMullen.

Winners of the banner attendance were: Prince Charles, junior —Miss Hillis' room; Prince Charles, senior—Mr. Estcourt and Miss Masterson, a tie; Queen Mary, junior—Miss M. Peck; Queen Mary, senior—Miss Wilson.

Refreshments were enjoyed, bringing to a close a most entertaining evening.

Surprise Party Marks 25th Anniversary

On Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. John Woolley, R.R. 4, Herschimer Avenue, had a double surprise when after a pleasant motor ride, they were escorted to Hotel Quinte where an anniversary party awaited them, sponsored by their immediate family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Neale of Oriole, Ontario; Mr. and Mrs. John Carlson and granddaughter, Miss Joan Carlson and grandson, John M. Carlson, Toronto, on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The table was centred by an anniversary cake in white, adorned in silver by "25th Anniversary". Pretty serviettes with silver bells added a delightful accent.

Twenty-five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Woolley were married in the United church parsonage, Wellesley Street, Toronto, by the Rev. Mr. Hillmer. The bride was Miss Ivy Neale, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Marsh, and Mr. Woolley the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Woolley of Birmingham, England.

Mr. Woolley, who expects to retire shortly, has been employed at the Bakelite, for over 25 years, and in commemoration of his faithful service here, was recently presented with a fine, luminous dial wrist-watch. When he has time, his favorite hobby is fishing, while Mrs. Woolley's is her love of animals, and her housework.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Woolley are enjoying good health, and keep abreast of the times through the medium of their daily news and radio.

There are six children by previous marriages, five of Mrs. Woolley's, two girls, Mrs. W. M. Tompkins (Cathy Neale), of Portsmouth, England; Mrs. F. Collins (Gladys Neale) also of Portsmouth, England and two sons, William Neale, of Oriole, Ontario; Ernie Neale of Brandon, and Joseph Neale of Kenya, South Africa. Mr. Woolley's one daughter, Mrs. John Carlson, (nee Woolley) of Toronto. There are also nine grandchildren, one great grandchildren and one great great grandson.

Other members of the family who were unable to be present at the anniversary party were, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Hosborn, of Holiburg, P.Q.; Mrs. Ernest Mrs. D. Carlson of Weston; Mr. and Mrs. H. Carlson and Dot and Albert, of Cornish.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolley were the happy recipients of several lovely gifts, including a silver brooch; silver cuff links and tie clip; and silver dollars sent by the absent members; as well as many lovely cards of congratulations, and bouquets of flowers among which was a beautiful bouquet of pink and white carnations, and a basket of white chrysanthemum.

As this was also Mrs. Woolley's natal anniversary, the day previous, she was the recipient of many cards and gifts and best wishes.

The community joins in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Woolley many more years of health and happiness and their golden anniversary together.

Travelling Clock Presented To Staff Member

Yesterday afternoon the staff of the Ontario Intelligencer honored one of its members, Mrs. Marjorie Foster, who is leaving Belleville in the near future for Fairbanks, Alaska, with the presentation of a gold, leather-bound travelling clock.

The address, which took the form of a poem, composed by the sports editor, Mr. George Carvery and read by Mr. Harry Mulhall, teemed with much worldly advice regarding her future life in the "Land of the Midnight Sun," with special emphasis being laid on the rigors of its six months' winter. In lieu of this, a gayly wrapped parcel, spiked with hilarious humor, was handed to Marjorie, revealing something of a long and woolly.

As soon as the merriment subsided another parcel, containing the "hour watcher" was presented and opened. Simply and graciously Marjorie thanked her grateful both for the lovely clock, something she had long desired, and, in a clever gift, for the kind, red and woolly something. She added that she will never part with it—nor with a nicer staff of people.

Mrs. Foster will become a member of the staff of the Daily News-Miner of Fairbanks, Alaska, which has a circulation of approximately 10,000. She will be head of the classified ad department.

The best wishes of the Ontario Intelligencer staff go with Marjorie in her adventure into the land of the Arctic.

Christ Church E.A. W.A. Holds Business Meet

Thirty members of the Evening Branch of the W.A. of Christ church, met in the parish hall, on Monday evening, for its monthly business meeting. The vice-president, Mrs. L. Mason, was in charge, as president is holidaying in California.

Mrs. J. Lang read the portion of Scripture and Mrs. W. Edwards gave the secretary's report, Mrs. H. Hill, the treasurer's and Mrs. J. Spencer, the Sunshine Fund report.

A note was received from Mrs. W. Ludlow, who has recently left to reside in Sudbury.

Thanks were expressed by Mrs. G. Cherry for the assistance given in the Junior Auxiliary mother and daughter banquet.

Mrs. A. Bongard presented the appreciation of Mrs. J. Cooke for the shower of cards on her birthday.

An invitation was accepted from the Contact Club to attend a travelogue film by Dr. Stewart next week.

It was decided to send the "Forward" booklet to two members who are not able to attend the meetings.

Corporate communion for all W.A. members will be held on November 27, at the 8 o'clock service.

Following the business, the Dorcas secretaries, Mrs. J. Ling and Mrs. Lang, provided work on a layette which is to be sent to Northern Ontario for Christmas.

Mrs. Ken Hutson showed some handwork of the Girls' Auxiliary which was readily bought up and refreshments were served by Mrs. I. Reid and Mrs. H. Ingram.

Most Travelled Family of Bell(e)s
WHEN IT COMES TO TRAVELING—by telephone wire that is—you'll go far to match the accumulated record of the five Martin sisters of Montreal. Reading from left to right, Marjorie, Raymonde, Lillian, Yolande, and Huguette, all work at the Bell Telephone Company of Canada. They have a mutual interest in providing fast, courteous Long Distance Service to thousands of telephone customers. Marguerite, an assistant chief operator, was the first to join the company, ten years ago. She must have said some nice things to her sisters about the Bell! Huguette, the youngest, completed the quintette just over a year ago.
We like having more than one member of a family sharing in telephone work. It says more good place to work." We think, too, that as long as we have employees like the Martin sisters, you'll have the kind of telephone service we want you to have always.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU STILL LOVE YOUR WIFE; DON'T THAT YOUR ANSWER?

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I have been married four years, have two wonderful children and am desperately in need of advice.

My wife and I were happy together, with no problems of any kind, until about six months ago, when I hired a man to act as gardener and handyman around our house. I never suspected anything was wrong until one day when I came home from the office and found a note from my wife saying that she was going away with this man, taking our younger child with her and leaving the oldest one with a neighbor.

Recently, after having been gone two months, she got in touch with me and wants to come back. She thinks she is pregnant by this man, and he is financially unable to take care of her. I still love my wife, but I cannot decide whether to take her back or not. Do you think I should let her back and try to forget what happened, or get a divorce and custody of our two children? — P.W.S

Dear P.W.S.:

My feeling is that the answer to your question lies right in the first five words of that last paragraph of your letter. You still love your wife, and if this is actually true, then you are never going to get over your heartsickness until you are reconciled with her. Moreover, if you loved her, you are going to want to help her out of her present tragic trouble, even though she brought it on herself, and even though she has hurt you so cruelly.

There are several things, of course, that are standing in your way and making you wonder if you really can bring yourself to take her back.

The first of these, I believe, is the fact that she broke your heart with her deception and faithlessness, and at this point, you doubt if you can ever forget it. The second is that you doubt if you can ever trust her again; you feel that, if you did take her back, you would live continuously in the fear that she might do the same thing again. And the third thing that holds you back is the problem of what should be done about the child your wife believes she is to have by this man who so treacherously took her from you.

Am I right?

So let me tell you my ideas on these three things in relation to the question of whether or not you should have your wife return to you.

In regard to the first, I believe you will be able to decide whether or not the wound your wife dealt you will ever heal only by seeing her again and thrashing out the whole sorry business. So the very first thing you should do is to arrange a meeting with her and find out clearly what her present attitude is. If she sincerely and bitterly regrets the wrong she did you and your children; if she truly intends to be a devoted and faithful wife to you from now on, and to show you she means to do everything in her power to make amends to you, then, I think, there is promise that, in time, and with her earnest efforts, your broken heart will gradually mend itself.

Then, second, there's the stumbling block of your broken faith. Can you ever really trust her again? And my feeling here is, that, if you find her repentant and remorsefully eager to prove she has learned her lesson, you will come to the point in your talk with her where you will be ready to say: "My faith in you has been badly hurt. But I believe you are truly sorry that you did this to me. And because I believe this, I am willing to go further and say that I believe you will want to do it to me again. In other words, I am going to trust you as I did before. On your side, do you guarantee that I will be making no mistake to do this?"

And, third, I think you should definitely decide, before resuming your life together, just what is to be done about the baby. Do not delay the decision until the baby is born. I realize there are special complications about this, which cannot be discussed here, but personally I believe the baby should be turned over to an adoption agency. If you would like to have me write you a personal letter, taking up this point in more detail, send me your name and address.

Finally, if you and your wife can arrive at a satisfactory understanding on all these matters, then it seems to me that you could well promise each other to put the past behind you and start anew. And who knows? It might even be that your relationship will grow to be a firmer and happier one than you ever had before.

COUNTRY CLASSIC

Heather tones, so good this season, and indeed lovely any Autumn, are used in this attractive suit, a semi-sports design extolent for general wear in town and delightful for suburban and country use. Muted purple is used for the tweed jacket which is bordered with the broken line plaid of the tweed skirt. Under collar and pocket trim are also of the plaid. A nicely handled classic country suit.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

ATTENTION, GIRLS . . . THE MAN HAS YOUR BETTER SAY "THANK YOU"

Dear 'Irs. Beecman:

For some time I've been meaning to write you a fan-letter to tell you my personal thanks for the mighty firm stand you took in your reply to the girl who asked you whether or not it is 'necessary' for her to thank her escort for the evening's entertainment. You even capitalized some of your vigorous words when you had her that of course she should always thank her escort for having taken her to the movies or to a dance or to dinner or whatever the date.

I'd like to add, Mrs. Beeckman, that if girls would only realize how we men growl against girls who take entertainments for granted, they wouldn't be so casual. Their lack of appreciation is maddening. Who do they think they are, anyway, not to think that a 'thank you' is only common politeness when someone has shown you a courtesy?

I try to be a thoughtful host when I have a date with a girl. But I certainly expect at least a thank-you when I spend my hard-earned bucks on a girl. Now I'm taking a definite stand. From here on out if a girl isn't polite enough or appreciative enough (or is too ritzy, as some of them are) to express her thanks, I'm the fellow who will not take her out again. And believe me, Mrs. Beeckman, I know a lot of other fellows (several of us were talking about this just last evening) who have made the same resolution. We're glad you're on our side! And thank you. — Dick H.

Girls . . . are you listening? And thank you, Dr. Dick, for your kind and cooperative letter. I'm glad you've joined the crusade for saying more and more thanks-you's. There is a shining grace in these words . . . Thank you!

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

BEAUTY'S BEST BET — A SOAP AND WATER FACIAL

Cold water splashed on the face after a "soap facial" gives a radiant glow to the complexion.

A pretty complexion can't be bought, but it can be made—and you can "do-it-yourself" without breaking your budget to buy all sorts of fancy concoctions. All you need is what you already have at home—soap and water.

Many media of beauty become daily facials, using soap and water as the best piece of complexion advice. Now if you're about to exclaim, "but I do wash my face with soap and water!"—ask yourself this: "How well do I wash it, and how often?"

To really count, your face-washing routine should be frequent and thorough, particularly if your complexion has been "acting up." Then, lots of lather is needed to remove the excessive oil from the surface of your skin. Work out a regular beauty routine and make a point of washing your face at least three times a day. Tuck your hair up on top of your head, and don't hesitate to really work that soap into all the oily and danger spots—such as round the nose and chin. Use fairly hot water and thoroughly wash your face with a clean thick washcloth or a very soft complexion brush, using gobs of thick soapsuds. Then rinse your face thoroughly and dry well with a towel.

If you use a make-up base or powder, apply it lightly after your face has been washed. A thick make-up base often makes skin eruptions appear even more conspicuous. And by all means, give your face an extra-good sudsing before bedtime to remove all traces of make-up.

If your complexion is healthy, keep it glowing by keeping it clean. In addition to regular washings, you might try treating yourself to a sudsy "facial" every now and then. Here's how to do it: In the bathroom basin, build up the temperature of the water—thick with soapsuds—from lukewarm to as hot as your face can stand it. Then dip in a washcloth, squeeze out excess water, and hold it against your face. Repeat this several times until you feel your skin tingle. Now close the pores by splashing on lots of cold water, and pat your face dry with a soft towel. Then see the glow!

Round out your skin care routine with a daily tubbing or sudsy shower, and frequent shampoos. Don't wait until your hair obviously needs washing—when it just starts to lose its luster and goes limp, that's the time to lather up. If your hair is exceptionally oily, two shampoos a week are not too many!

Beef Stroganoff for Two or Four

By Mary Moore

My sister press-clubber of London's radio station, Joan Pritchard, brought back from her trip to Russia some tape recordings that you may have heard over CBC three or four weeks ago.

Naturally I asked her questions about the Russian food she had eaten and she raved about the luscious caviar which seemed to turn up even for breakfast, and the thick rich borstsch, but said we could match their Beef Stroganoff if we'd take the trouble. It took the trouble.

The recipe for Beef Stroganoff fits ideally into my program to help you cook economically for two or for company. I'd like you to add this recipe to your beef recipe file or envelope or drawer or wherever you hide (or lose!) them.

Beef Stroganoff seems to be making its appearance oftener on restaurant menus that I have studied during this Western trip, so I expect to be getting requests for it. So in anticipation here it is:

BEEF STROGANOFF

As you will see this is the type of dish that may be reheated to advantage. If you are a family of two use it as is for a guest meal for four, or make it up and use half for just you two, serving it the second time, a couple of night's later, reheated in the double boiler, on buttered broad noodles.

Two and one-half cups ground, drained onions (save the juice), 2 1-2 to 3 tablespoons fat or salad oil, 1lb. round steak cut 1-8 inch thick (you will have to be insistent to persuade the butcher to do this thin slicing), 1-2 lb. mushrooms, 1-2 can condensed tomato soup, 1-3 cup canned tomato paste, 1-2 cup sour cream, 1-2 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 1-2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, hot fluffy cooked rice.

Use coarse blade to grind onions, drain and measure. Cook slowly 20 minutes in fat. Add the lightly dried steak and washed and sliced mushrooms to onions in pan and cook until both are golden. Mix together all remaining ingredients (except rice), cover, and simmer 1 hour. Arrange hot fluffy rice on hot platter as a bed, and pour the meat mixture into it. Garnish with green pepper ring, tomato wedges and parsley.

Up against it!

TOO MANY THINGS ON YOUR MIND, TOO LITTLE TIME ON YOUR HANDS — AND THERE YOU ARE: UP AGAINST IT. WE WISH HIGH FINANCE TO COPE WITH THE GARDEN OR DEAL WITH THE CORRESPONDENCE YOU SHOULD HAVE ANSWERED THREE WEEKS AGO, BUT WE CAN TAKE A LOT OF FINANCIAL WORRIES AND BUSINESS PROBLEMS OFF YOUR HANDS — AND THAT'S SOMETHING.

RAWDON

Mt. Pleasant, Rawdon W.M.S., W.A. Conduct Joint Meeting

RAWDON — Mrs. Carleton Potts was hostess for a joint meeting of Mount Pleasant-Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society and W.A. There were 30 ladies in attendance.

Mrs. Frank Jeffs, W.M.S. president, opened the meeting and read a poem on the keyword, "Peace." Miss Ruth Linn officiated at the piano and during the program contributed a vocal selection.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report and 19 W.M.S. members answered the roll call. The offering was dedicated by Mrs. Milford Wrightman. The treasurer reported $219 to date. A letter from the supply secretary of Belleville Presbyterial, was read and the articles will be purchased, and sent as requested.

The house and hospital calls were recorded for two months.

Mrs. Roy Thrasher brought in the report of the nominating committee and the pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, conducted the election.

THE OFFICERS

The new slate of officers is as follows for 1956:

President-elect, Mrs. Milford Wrightman; hon. presidents, Mrs. George Weaver and Mrs. John Holmes; first vice-president, Mrs. Herbert Smith; second vice-president, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver; recording secretary, Mrs. Percy MacMullen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Will Potts; treasurer, Mrs. Ross Jeffs; secretary of Christian Stewardship, Mrs. Frank Jeffs; secretary of Mission Bands, Mrs. Burton Sharpe; assistant, Mrs. Stanley Williams; secretary of Baby Band, Mrs. Robert Merrick; assistant, Mrs. James Hoard; supply secretary, Mrs. Gordon Linn; assistants, Mrs. Roy Thrasher and Mrs. Blake Sharp; community friendship secretary, Mrs. Roy Thrasher; literature secretary of "Missionary Monthly" and "World Friends" secretary, Mrs. Ross Hoard; secretary of Christian Citizenship, Mrs. John Holmes; press secretary, Mrs. Percy MacMullen; pianist, Mrs. John Holmes; assistant, Mrs. Will Jeffs; mite box secretary, Mrs. Kenneth Weaver; auditor, Mrs. Raymond McConnell; program committee, Mrs. Burton Sharpe, Mrs. Grant Hubble and Mrs. Blake Sharp; nominating committee for 1957, Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, Miss Ruth Linn, Mrs. Roy Thrasher and the president.

The mite boxes are to be brought to the December meeting, president voiced thanks for hospitality and program.

W. A.

The W.A. president then took charge with Miss Doris Sine giving her report. Letters of invitation to Hoards and Stirling were read and accepted.

Mrs. Weaver read a list of committees for duties at the bazaar. The date of the December W.A. meeting will be Thursday, 29th.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe then presided over her program and read a poem, followed by a hymn. Mrs. Will Jeffs read the Bible lesson. Mrs. Ira David read the W.A. devotional as prepared by Mrs. W. H. Acton, Alberta conference.

Mrs. Raymond McConnell gave a report of the afternoon session of the W.M.S. rally held at Trenton.

Mrs. John Holmes gave a message on "Christian Citizenship," and Miss Brenda Campbell sang "The Bible Tells Me So." Mrs. Herbert Smith read a selection "The Cross Is Christian Stewardship."

Mrs. Frank Jeffs conducted the study using "Home Missions Digest No. 3," with Mrs. Ross Jeffs assisting.

They discussed various important items of mission work all across Canada. There was a story of Isabel Fleming, Reg. N. telling of the safe arrival of a premature baby by RCAF plane to St. Paul's hospital in Vancouver, B.C.

SMOKY LAKE S.S.

Oliver Burd and Eva Empey wrote a stirring tale of their visitation in the rural communities near Smoky Lake, Alberta, where they conducted Sunday schools. Smoky Lake is in the heart of the district about 75 miles northeast Edmonton and this land was settled early in the century by Ukranian people.

Mrs. Jeffs named all the mission stations in each province and an interesting article was read about some particular phase of work in that province.

There are 765 mission fields, 223 student missionaries, 60 departments of Indian work besides Oriental missions, French Protestant missions, hospital and school homes, and a wealth of interesting material in connection with Home Missions.

The port worker meets ocean-going ships carrying their cargo of people seeking a new country. Meets boat trains loaded with passengers, having their first glimpse of a strange land. She interprets Canadian time-tables, helps the newcomers buy railway tickets and especially delights the children by gifts of books and toys, made possible by W.M.S. supply secretaries.

The port worker interprets on behalf of all missionary members, the words of Jesus: "I Was a Stranger and Ye Took Me In."

The Rev. W. G. Fletcher conducted a brief Remembrance service with a silence as tribute to the fallen, a prayer for peace and "The Queen", after which the hostess served light refreshments.

Gen. H. Mariles Captures Fair Jumping Trophy

TORONTO (CP) — With the best performance to date at the Royal Winter Fair horse show, Brig.-Gen. Humberto Mariles Monday night took permanent possession for Mexico of the International Individual Jumping Championship Trophy.

Gen. Mariles, captain of the Mexican team, made three perfect rides over the difficult 11-barrier course to break a tie with Charles Dennehy of the United States. Lieut. Patrick Kiernan of Ireland was third.

The win was the third for Mexico since the individual competition started. Mexico won the cup in 1949 and 1950. It was won last year by Spain.

Donated by the foreign minister of Chile, the cup was presented to Gen. Mariles by the Countess of Dalkeith.

Mariles, on Chihuahua II, Dennehy riding Pillbox and Kiernan on Ballymolly, all turned in perfect performances in the event.

The Irish rider was eliminated in the jump-off but Mariles and Dennehy again made perfect rounds. The barriers were raised and widened for the second jump off.

Mariles cleared the barriers again for a third faultless ride but Dennehy knocked the top bar off one obstacle for four faults.

Jim Elder on Bellar turned in the best performance for Canada with four faults.

"My wife and I went with her to the passengers' gate where we told my mother goodbye and watched her board the plane with the other passengers."

After watching the plane taxi down a runway he took his wife and son into the airport coffee shop.

"We were in the coffee shop for approximately one hour, and as we were leaving I heard the cashier (say) that there had been a wreck of an airplane about 40 miles out of Denver."

Continuing his account of how the bomb was assembled, Graham said he had put the materials in a long cardboard box and concealed it under a blanket in the trunk of his car earlier.

Later Graham transferred the dynamite sticks, caps and wire to a paper sack.

A PRECAUTION

"I then wrapped about three or four of 9-foling cord around the sack of dynamite to hold the dynamite sticks in place around the caps, leaving the wires which were attached to the dynamite caps extending out of the paper sack.

"The purpose of the two caps was in case one of the caps failed to function and ignite the dynamite."

When 90 minutes were up—the maximum time allowed him by the timing device. "I knew the circuit between the caps and the battery which was broken by the timer whould be closed by the timer mechanism and detonate the caps, which would detonate the dynamite."

Graham waived a hearing on a federal "peacetime sabotage" charge Monday and was jailed in lieu of $100,000 bond. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and $10,000 fine.

Kelley, who is federal prosecutor here, met with state attorneys to consider whether Graham should be turned over to them for prosecution on murder charges, punishable by death in Colorado.

MADOC

Trinity WMS Elects Officers For 1956

MADOC — The November meeting of Trinity United Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Burnside on Wednesday with a splendid attendance. Mrs. Carmen opened the meeting with a greeting to all.

The business period included reports of the Community Friendship; literature secretaries reading of a thank you letter from Mr. Fred Victor Mission in Toronto for a bale of clothing that had been received from Madoc W.M.S.. Plans were made for the special meeting to be held on the 21st November at which Mrs. Howse a missionary on furlough from Africa, will be the guest speaker. Mrs. Albert Empey reported on Stewardship and offered prayer for the missionary Miss Kilpatrick.

The worship service was in charge of Mrs. Charles Johnson, who gave a reading on, "Billy Sunday's Bible, and announced the theme "The call of the mission of the church through ones vocation". She was assisted by Mrs. Arbic and Mrs. Drinkwalter.

Mrs. E. Moore gave an interesting and informative synopsis on the study book, "The Vanishing Race," dealing with the Indian population in Canada. With the use of a map Mrs. Johnson pointed out the work at the different mission stations of the United Church in Canada, and also explained their habits and way of living.

Miss Annie Holmes gave a timely reading on Armistice Day, "Canada's Heritage".

Mrs. Burnside of the nominating committee presented the slate of officers for the coming year as follows: president, Mrs. D Carman; 1st vice-president, Mrs. A. Empey; 2nd, vice-president, Mrs. F. Lane; 3rd, vice-president, Mrs. Drinkwalter; treasurer, Mrs. P.H. Naylor; cor. sec., Mrs. C. Jackson; rec. sec., Mrs. Mullin; stewardship sec., Mrs. Empey; com., friendship, Mrs. P. Fleming; supply sec., Miss A. Holmes; literature, Mrs. C. R. Johnson; membership, Mrs. L. Bennet; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. R. Tanner; Baby Band, Mrs. Erickson; Associate Member, Mrs. W. McCoy; press sec., Mrs. C. Wyrick; auditors, Mrs. Burnside, and Mrs. Empey; pianist, Miss Keene. 1956 nominating com; Mrs. W. McCoy, and Mrs. P. Nayler.

The meeting was closed with a prayer for "Peace" by the president. An enjoyable social hour followed.

SENTENCED TO DIE

TROIS-RIVIERES (CP) — Ovila Boucher was found guilty Saturday of the axe-slaying of an elderly storekeeper in 1951 and sentenced to be hanged next Feb. 3. It is the third time Boucher has been convicted for the murder of Joseph Jabour-Jarjour at St. Henri de Levis, Que. Defence counsel Raymond Maher said he will appeal the verdict.

Mountain View

MOUNTAIN VIEW — The November meeting of Mountain View Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Jay Sprague with 27 members and visitors present. The president, Mrs. Stanely Barber presided.

Reports of the district annual convention were given by Mrs. Seymour Hamilton for Mrs. F. Motley. Mrs. A. Wallbridge, Mrs. R. Barber, and Mrs. S. Barber also gave reports.

Interesting "Current Events" were given by Mrs. G. Neal. The topic for the month was "Historical Research". This was under the convenership of Mrs. C. Sprung who read an interesting article on this subject: "Grandfather's Teaching Profession 100 Years Ago", and "The History of Madame St. Laurent in the reign of George III".

Mrs. W. Nightingale thanked the hostess for her hospitality.

The meeting was closed after which refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by several ladies.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Burkitt. Plans were also made for the annual family banquet to be held in the church basement the evening of November 18th, at 7:30 p.m.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

NIFTY, IF NOT NEAT!

They tell me they nearly called out the Cornwall Rifles, or whatever militia unit represents the down-east city, to quell one of the brawliest uprisings seen in some time in the hockey history of the textile town on Sunday afternoon.

"Never saw anything like it," quoth one James Driscoll who took over the managerial reins while the regular "Red" Doran is away absorbing recreational education up around Toronto way.

"Apparently the edict of Referee-in-chief Patterson has not reached Cornwall yet," quoted the usually unruffled Jim, "for in that violent second period everything went by the boards, into them, and over them."

Thirteen penalties were dished out by the alleged officials during a belligerent second period—and even the spectators took a hand in the fray. Bill Annand was the Rocky Marciano of the Colts, and drew a minor, major, misconduct, and finally a game misconduct for his punching-bag activities.

Annand and Keith MacDonald squared off to start the second act of the fisticuff drama and they were promptly tabbed with majors when they showed no inclination to sign an armistice. Finally Annand went into durance vile—but the spirit remained.

Two minutes later Bill McMaster and Marshall flicked each other and got the gate for roughing. Annand delivered a speech to the officials and was tabbed with a misconduct. That left him with two official minutes to play. But the Cornwall Colt thought the crowd wanted an encore so when Ken Savard and McMaster disagreed and decided to settle it with punches, Annand spotted the second verse of his recitation to officialdom and was handed a game misconduct.

Meanwhile "Smiler" McMaster, who backs up from none, not even rabid spectators, was in the midst of the penalty box altercation when a fan took a poke at him.

The "Smiler" figuring the customer is always right—and Christmas drawing closer, promptly handed the fan a dose of his own medicine—and that was all for Mac. He added a game misconduct to his total.

The TPT's were without the services of Vern Geyer, Tony Parisi and Bob Wilson. Sammy Mulholland played another of his disappearing games and cracked the scoring columns with a goal and an assist. Chum Fryia and Keith MacDonald were the other goal-getters for the TPT's. The Colts play their first return engagement here Friday night —and brethren, don't miss this one. It should be a barnburner, for the TPT's are smarting right merrily under the collars after that Sunday experience.

MEETING POSTPONED

Due to a large number of members being away on hunting safaris, the meeting of the Belleville Fish and Game Association scheduled for the YMCA tonight has been postponed until a future date.

TROPHY CLIMAX

Softball's first "championship" season in many a moon comes to a banquet climax at the Shrine Club Wednesday night when the Belleville and District League will pay honor to team and individual title-winners.

Three (count 'em), three Ontario champions, will receive trophies and crests—something of a record for the village and district in softball circles. Honored will be the Belleville Bobcats, intermediate "AA" champs; Point Anne Cementers, OASA industrial titleholders, and the Madoc juveniles, kings of their classification.

It is the first championship for all three squads, with the Ox Pointers having the honor of being the first winners of the new industrial classification. The Madoc youngsters, who were only organized last summer, have plenty to crow about, while Marse Temple's Bobcats attained their bauble after two tries at the kitty.

Featuring the banquet will be the presentation of the brand new Cement Cup. Cement Trophy to be awarded annually to the winners of the OASA Intermediate Industrial series. The trophy embodies long and honorable service to softball on the part of Point Anne and it is only fitting that the first winners should be a team from the Canada Cement village.

Mr. A. O. Drysdale, Canada Cement Company superintendent, will present the trophy in formal ceremony to the OASA, and it in turn will be presented to the winners. Jack Brady, Oshawa, popular president of the OASA, is the guest speaker and amiable John will do the honors with the major presentations besides contributing the speech of the evening.
